"Nonsense," said No. 12. "It was the girl. She made the bluff of dropping the ring, knowing what we'd do, and while we were all butting our heads against the furniture and she was reaching over us, pointing out likely places— Oh, oh, oh! What a set of easy marks!"

"But where's the man?" I demanded.

"There are his things," retorted No. 12. "He's still on the train. But where's the girl?"

"Miss Leigh was kind enough to permit a sort of introduction between herself and me," said I. "I may perhaps claim the right to defend her, since there is no one else here who knows her at all, and I would like it to be understood that nothing further must be said which touches her good name and that what has been said must be withdrawn."

No. 12 looked me in the eye. He was firm in his opinion and a man of nerve. I could see him hardening his heart for a reply that would create a very strained situation. Then suddenly his expression changed to one of astonishment. He was looking over my shoulder. I turned and saw Miss Leigh. Behind her was Belden, and behind him was Anderson. The conductor brought up the rear.

He Would Return.

"Fifty dollars is the price," said the magistrate, "and I hope, sir, never to see you here again."

"Never to see me here again? Why, you're not resigning, are you?"

And with a nonchalant laugh Tooring-Karr threw a crisp fifty dollar bill to the clerk, entered his waiting ninety horsepower racer and set out to break another speed law.—New York Press.

His Principal Occupation.

The art photographer had visited the farm. "I want to make an exhaustive study of this particular bit of landscape," he said, "and would like to have your hired man retain his present position on the fence there. Can he sit still?" "For days at a time," replied the farmer."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Not Paying For Holes.

"Yes, sir," said the druggist, "we have all sorts of porous plasters. What sort do you want?"

"Well—er—which kind has the fewest holes in it?" asked Stinjay. "I want to get my money's worth."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26, 1908.

The Tuberculosis Congress is now in session in Washington and the habitues of the streets and hotels notice a sprinkling of serious looking men evidently non-American and talking strange lingoes, or when they attempt to ask a direction or other question in English using an accent that betrays them as French, German, Italian, Russian, Spanish or Scandinavian as the case may be These are the physicians who have come across the seas by scores as delegates to the Congress now sitting in session in the New National museum. This great building is the setting for numerous exhibits such as are used in the United States and foreign countries in an effort to eradicate tuberculosis or to cure those affected with the scourage. Statistics show that until recently one death in every ten was caused by it; now it is said that not more than one in fifteen die from consumption and medical specialists are many of them so sanguine as to hold out the hope that in fifteen or twenty years the disease will be eradicated in the United States and Europe. It was in 1882 that the famous Dr. Koch who is present at this convention discovered the bacillus tuberculosis. There is no specific medicine that will cure those affected, but fresh air, good food and cheerful surroundings are the potent forces through which these gentlemen hope in time to triumph over the enemy.

Charles Wilson, a patient at the Tuberculosis hospital here has offered himself as a subject for the test to be made early next week by Dr. Detrie of Buda Pesth to demonstrate whether it is possible to determine the type, degree and stage of the infection. The test consists of the inoculation of the deadly tubercule bacilli and is of course attended by grave danger. It may not seem an important or a very courageous act on the part of the man but greater love and greater heroism hath no man than that he give his life for another, the thing that Wilson is offering to do with this difference that if he should die and the experiment succeed he would be a sacrifice for the good of many thousands of sufferers Only those associated with consumptives and knowing the tenacity with which they cling to life can fully appreciate the real heroism of a man who after having held out to him the hope of regained health is still willing to submit himself for the test for the advancement of the war against the deadly disease.

There is now in Washington another large convention called the Fisheries Congress. This one also largely composed of delegates from foreign countries. They are met here for the purpose of considering questions relating to the propagation and preservation of food fishes and it may be mentioned en passant that it is universally conceded that the United States has done more than any other country in this direction.

There are likely to be some lively times when Congress reassembles and the Congressman and Senators who are odorous of kerosene take their seats again in the Capitol. Nothing more terrifying to a Member of Congress now can be intimated of him that he has some connection with the Standard Oil transactions and there are no doubt some who are almost afraid to even burn the midnight oil for fear of endangering their reputations. "Light, more light" the innocent ones are crying but the body as a whole strongly prefers it to be electric or gas or sunlight,—anything, but the sort of illumination by Standard Oil in which Mr. Hearst is so unfeelingly showing them up.

A feature of peculiar interest in McClure's Magazine for October, following as it does Professor Hugo Munsterberg's article on Prohibition and Social Psychology," is a paper by Dr. Henry Smith Williams on "Alcohol and the Individual." Another interesting feature is a collection of letters of Augustus Saint-Gaudens, giving an intimate view of the period of the famous sculptor's greatest triumph.

An important article in the October Woman's Home Companion is entitled "Seeking Shelter in New York." "Five dollars in my purse, a few plain clothes in my bag, an ordinary school education behind me, and New York, with its boundless opportunities, ahead of me," that is the beginning of the adventures in New York of Lucy Green. They are real adventures of a real girl, who tells her story to readers of the Companion.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitters have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Too Particular.

"What does that mean?" he asked. "What is an anjovis?"

"Anjovis," answered the proprietor, "are little fishes. Didn't ye never hear of 'em?"

"You mean anchovies, don't you?"

"Not unless you want to buy some, sir," sternly spoke the proprietor. "If a man wants to buy my fish he can call 'em what he durn pleases. When I'm puttin' up signs on my fish I'll call 'em what I durn please, and anybody who don't like 'em don't have to look at 'em, sir."

The finical customer muttered an apology and escaped further trouble by purchasing a dime's worth of smoked herring, a harmless, unassuming fish about whose name there could be no possible dispute.—Chicago Tribune.

The Elephant at Bay.

Twenty years of experience tells me that a whole regiment of lions cannot produce the same moral effect as one twelve foot African tusker when he cocks his big, sail-like ears, draws himself up to his full height and looks at you, letting off at the same time a blood curdling scream, while in all probability others invisible to you are stampeding on all sides with the din and vibration of an earthquake. Surrounded in a dense jungle by a herd of elephants, they seem to block out the whole horizon. One I measured was actually sixteen feet from edge of ear to edge of ear. No wonder my insignificant self seemed to shrivel and my huge express rifle to dwindle into a mere pea shooter. Try as I will on such occasions, I can never overcome my sense of terror and always feel inclined to throw down my elephant gun and run for safety till I drop.—W. G. Fitz-Gerald in Success Magazine.

The Too Faithful Dog.

A party of young Australians wanting a fish dinner filled a bottle with dynamite, attached a waterproof fuse and flung it into a pool in a creek. One of them had a retriever who had been taught to retrieve anything flung into the water, and the bottle had hardly touched the surface before Watch was after it. They yelled at him to leave it alone, but he paid no attention and soon was swimming shoreward with the fizzing bomb in his mouth. The young men ran for their lives, and the poor beast, thinking it all a great joke, came galloping after. He was within twenty yards of the hindmost when there was a stunning crash. Two of the men were thrown down, though, fortunately, not badly hurt. But of the unfortunate dog hardly a trace was left.—Fry's Magazine.

The Strainer.

It was the first time she had ever used a telephone, and the drug clerk detected the fact by the nervous way in which she held the receiver.

"Dear me!" she exclaimed timidly. "Why are all those sievelike holes in the mouthpiece?"

"They are there for a purpose," replied the drug clerk solemnly.

"What purpose?"

"Why, so you can strain your voice."

And she was so embarrassed she forgot the number she was to call up.

How It Works Out.

"I never tell funny stories in my speeches," remarked Senator Sorghum.

"The audience always enjoys them."

"Yes. A man hears you tell a funny story, and he thinks it is so good he tries to remember it. He regards you as a first rate fellow and feels thankful to you for giving him a new one. Then he tells it to the first friend he meets, and as he isn't a good story teller the friend doesn't laugh. Then he tries it on the blase hotel clerk and the stolid drug store man and several others, and by the time he gets home he concludes you have passed him a gold brick. He not only refuses to vote for you, but tells all his friends he doesn't think it's dignified to keep in office a man who tells funny stories."—Washington Star.

Sec.—Dale Hodges.

The timely note of the October Century is struck by the Hon. Seih Low's article on "The Writ of Injunction as a Party Issue." A biographical feature of more than usual interest and importance is an appreciation of "Lombroso, Prophet and Criminologist," by Guglielmo Ferrero, who is soon coming to America to lecture and be a guest at the White House. Of special appeal to women is an account of "The White House Collection of Presidential Ware," by Mrs. Abby G. Baker, under whose direction this interesting historical collection is nearing completion. The number is beautiful with three pages in color from Jules Guerin's paintings of "The Spell of Egypt," showing the Island of Philae.

October marks the real beginning of the fall campaign in Magazinedom, and cal's forth the strongest efforts of publishers and editors. Lippincott's responds by bringing out an especially good number for October. The complete novel is of an unusual type, with Hawaii as a background. The writer, Miss Jessie Kaufman, lived for some time in this "Paradise of the Pacific," and she gives us a most realistic picture of life there. There is the usual array of clever short stories, the most noteworthy being "The School-mother," by Owen Oliver.

The October number of Everybody's contains a notable collection of stories and verse. Eleanor Hallowell Abbott contributes "Something that Happened in October," a strong story of the Maine woods—a story that has mystery and power and "creepiness" about it. "The Hiding of Black Bill," a Western tale of a real "hold-up man" who doesn't miss any tricks, is told by O. Henry in his most whimsical style.

Duty is what you have to do, but hate doing.

Had a Close Call.

Mrs. Ada L. Croom, the widely known proprietor of the Croom Hotel, Vaughn, Miss., says: "For several months I suffered with a severe cough, and consumption seemed to have its grip on me, when a friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery. I began taking it, and three bottles affected a complete cure." The fame of this life saving cough and cold remedy, and lung and throat healer is world wide. Sold at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store. 50c. and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

MONDAY CLUB

Toasts and Music After the Luncheon Made a Delightful Program.

IN THE INTEREST OF THE "WET" AND "DRY" THE LADIES START THE MOVEMENT.

One of the most successful club afternoons ever given in Tecumseh, was given at the home of Mrs. J. D. Shull, yesterday afternoon, when the members of the Monday club and guests were invited to assemble at 1:30 for luncheon.

The tables were beautifully lamined with salvia blossoms, its green foliage lending an additional charm. Sixty guests were seated at the tables and the four course luncheon was served by a committee of 13 ladies, with Mrs. Henry Wilson as chairman. At the conclusion of the luncheon, a program of toasts, interspersed with music, was given with Mrs. William Alberts, as toastmistress. Toasts were responded to by Mrs. C. A. Wright, "Our Clubs"; Mrs. J. F. Hicks, "Our Town"; Miss Frensdorf of Hudson, "The American Women"; Mrs. Dodge of Adrian, "Our Sister Club"; Mrs. Belcher, "Fraternal Feeling"; Mrs. Charles Clark of Clinton, "Our Latest Acquisition." The ladies trio, Mrs Mead, Mrs. Hodges, and Miss Magers sang twice, and Miss Magers very sweetly rendered a solo.

During the serving Miss Edith Shull played twice and Miss Hazel Zimmerman whistled. Mrs Alberts gave the following toast, "In acknowledgement of the gracious hospitality of our hostess Mrs. Shull, we wish to drink her health. In view of the recent temperance movement, which has spread over the country we drink it in clear sparkling water. May its rays brighten our friendship and never diminish its luster, and in the words of the immortal Rip VanWinkle may she live long and prosper," and the guests drank to their hostess health. Among the guests from out of town were Mrs. Carr and Mrs. Dodge of Adrian the latter now president of the county Federation of Women's clubs, Mrs. Charles Clark and Mrs. Alma Tate of Clinton, and Miss Florence Frensdorf of Hudson.

A. W. MILLS.

Raises Fourth Crop of Alfalfa from Same Ground in One Season.

A. W. Mills has just harvested his fourth crop of Alfalfa from the same ground this season. This cutting was much of it from twenty inches to two feet high. A sample can be seen at the store of Satterthwaite Bros. Although these roots are but one year old, a close estimate indicates that when this crop is gathered, very close to, if not quite, five tons per acre, of very choice, cured hay will have been secured.

We are glad to know that many of our farmers are getting started in raising this best number of the clover family.

HAWKING MACHINES

Catarrh Sufferers are Nothing But Hawking, Spitting and Blowing Machines, Says an Authority.

Is it possible that in these days when cleanliness and sanitary reform is being preached in the churches, schools and at public gatherings, that thousand of people will continue to suffer from catarrh, when there is an absolutely certain remedy always on hand.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is a pleasant, medicated and antiseptic air. Breathe it in and it will cure catarrh. It will stop foul breath, watery eyes, and crusts in the nose, in a few days.

It is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son's drug store to do it or money back, and such a guarantee ought to be strong enough for anybody.

Entirely Cured by Hyomei.

Having suffered from catarrh for about two years, and having tried numerous remedies without any satisfactory results, I finally tried Hyomei, and am glad to state that after using about one and one-half bottles I am entirely cured I have recommended it to others with satisfactory results —C. N. Lindsy, 407 East First Ave., Mitchell, S. D

A complete Hyomei outfit, consisting of a strong, hard rubber pocket inhaler and a bottle of Hyomei, costs only $1, and extra bottles if afterwards needed, cost only 50 cents each at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store or direct, by mail, charges prepaid, from Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Hyomei also cures Asthma, Bronchitis, Coughs and Colds, Croup of infants, and any inflammatory disease of the respiratory tract.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Do not let anyone tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good for weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, inflammation of the bladder, or any Kidney and Bladder disorder. A week's trial will convince you. Sold by all druggists.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

Married Man In Trouble

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

A JEWELER'S EXPERIENCE.

C. R. Kluger, The Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. Sold by all druggists.

OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The pale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Tecumseh who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. Sarah Austin, living on Pearl st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. For sometime I was bothered with kidney trouble. I had distressing pains in my hips and could not get my proper sleep at night on account of the frequent action of the kidneys. I passed a great deal of gravel in my secretions; and at times it was almost impossible to stand the pain. I doctored with different physicians, but only received temporary relief, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I began taking them. The results of their use were most satisfactory, in fact, they effected a complete cure. I am glad to endorse such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

The New Watch.

The young man drew forth a fine gold watch.

"Please regulate this," he said.

"A birthday present, eh?" said the watchmaker. "Now, listen, and I'll give you some pointers about how to keep th's watch in fine condition.

"Wind it in the morning instead of at night.

"At least once a year have it oiled. Remember that its balance swings 18,000 times a year, all on one little drop of oil. A wheelbarrow wouldn't stand such treatment. It would shriek for lubrication, but the small voice of the watch cannot be heard.

"After mending or cleaning examine your watch's screw heads and frames. If they are scratched the workman has been careless. He is a man to be avoided. Patronize him no more.

"Don't grumble if your mainspring breaks. This accident is due to some unknown condition of the weather. There are mainspring epidemics, like influenza ones. Just now such an epidemic is afoot. I have taken out sixty fractured mainsprings this week."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

He Got It.

He had the air of a man who was particularly well satisfied with himself.

"I tell you," he said, "there's nothing like having sickness in the family to convince a man that he can do a good many things that he never would have dared to attempt before. Now, today I am going to buy a gown for my little girl. Her mother can't get out, you know, and so I am going to do it myself."

On the day following he had the air of a man who was particularly dissatisfied with himself.

"What's the matter?" he was asked. "Couldn't you get that gown?"

"Couldn't I get it!" he repeated. "Couldn't I get it! Hang it all, the trouble is that I did get it!"

"Something wrong with it?"

"Something! If it was only 'something' I wouldn't mind. My taste is wrong, my judgment is wrong, the color is wrong, the size is wrong and the price is wrong."—Chicago Post.

Seeing Ourselves.

"The man who can pick out the best picture of himself is a rare bird," said a photographer. "Even an author, who is reputedly a poor judge of his own work, exercises vast wisdom in selecting his best book compared with the person who tries to choose his best photograph. Every famous man or woman who has been photographed repeatedly has his favorite picture. Usually it is the worst in the collection. It shows him with an unnatural expression sitting or standing in an unnatural attitude.

"The inability to judge of his best picture must be due to the average man's ignorance as to how he really looks, or perhaps it can be partly attributed to a desire to look other than he does. A stout man will swear that the photograph most nearly like him is one that makes him look thin, a thin man the one that makes him look stout. The solemn man selects the jolliest picture, the jovial man the most cadaverous.

Spelled In Full.

"We had an editor in chief on our paper years ago who was a stickler for no abbreviations," said a veteran newspaper man. "He didn't believe in abbreviating anything but the word mister. The names of states had to be spelled out. One time one of the boys wrote a news story which contained this clause: 'And Mozart's mass was played.' The proofreader who got the story had been under the exacting direction of that editor for years, too many years to allow any proper name to get by him without being spelled out, so when he came to this 'mass' he 'rung' the word, and it came out 'Mozart's Massachusetts.'"—Omaha Bee.

How to Cure Your Piles

Due Often To Carelessness or Neglect and Stubborn to Cure

"The knife is not always necessary to cure even desperate cases of piles," says a physician whose years and experience make him an authority. "Indeed," he says further: "I have known some very aggravated cases of long standing cured by a simple home remedy that restored to the bowels easy natural daily movements."

And the doctor is right, as many letters from cured people in various parts of the country prove. If sufferers from piles, rectal tumors and ulcers would try Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin they would often save themselves the terrible pain and danger and the heavy expense of a severe surgical operation.

Piles are often due to constipation and always aggravated by it. Easy natural movements of the bowels such as are invariably produced by this famous laxative without pain or gripe do much to restore a normal, healthy condition to the bowels and thus cure piles.

M. H. Miller, Moweaque, Ill., says: "I have been troubled all my life with piles brought on by constipation. I tried many doctors and numerous remedies, but found no relief until I used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. I have used it as a laxative and stomach remedy for the past nine years and have no more troubles with piles." E. N. John, Minneapolis, Kan., says he suffered for four years with piles which were so bad that he could not work. Four bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin cured him, and he says he has not been bothered since.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a safe sure remedy for constipation, restoring easy natural daily movements in the worst old chronic cases, yet so mild and pleasant to take mothers give it to their babies with splendid results. It is sold by all druggists at 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Pepsin Syrup Co., 302 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill., will send a free sample to anyone who has not used it and will give it a fair trial.

The Other Great Man.

Dr. Russell Cool of California happened to suppress an epidemic of measles while on a vacation trip to Tahiti, and Chief Oreaori gratefully invited him to a banquet in his primitive palace. The south sea potentate and his white guest sat amiably on the floor and dined off roast pig and other native delicacies served on broad leaves and eaten with the fingers. After dinner host and guest adjourned to seats outside the palace, lit long, fat, black cigars and gazed out over the moonlit Pacific. In the eyes of Chief Oreaori, Robert Louis Stevenson, who did so much to improve the condition of the south sea islanders, was the greatest white man that ever lived. The chief related to Dr. Cool many incidents to illustrate Stevenson's kindness, then asked a score of questions about the health of Stevenson's widow and of his stepchildren. When the last question had been answered there followed a long period of silence. The two friends puffed slowly at their cigars and luxuriously regarded the radiant tropic moonlight glowing upon rustling palm fronds and the silvery ocean. Then Oreaori turned to the doctor and demanded, "Now tell me about John L. Sullivan!"—Harper's Weekly.

Thought He Had Fled.

A prominent member of a German-American society told a story about a German friend of his who was taken ill. For many days the German was close to death, but after a time he showed improvement in condition. The doctor told the German's wife that her husband might have anything to eat that he liked.

The German expressed a desire for limburger cheese, and the wife, being a generous woman and pleased at the improvement and in order that her husband might have a nibble at any time he had a taste for it, put some cheese in every room in the house. It is easy to imagine the aroma.

The next morning the doctor called at the house, and as soon as he opened the door he asked:

"When did he die?"—Hartford Post.

A Hard Job.

"Didn't you say six months ago that if Miss Tipkins wouldn't marry you you would throw yourself into the deepest part of the sea? Now, Miss Tipkins married some one else three months ago and yet you haven't"—

"Oh, it's easy to talk, but let me tell you it is not such an easy matter to find the deepest part of the sea."

GRAND RECEPTION.

Fleet Will Receive It on Its Coming Visit to Japan.

Tokio, Oct. 5.—Japan is planning to give the American battleship fleet a welcome that shall eclipse in splendor and enthusiasm any of the previous receptions tendered the American vessels on their voyage around the world. The arrival of the fleet at Manila has given a stimulus to the interest in their forthcoming visit here, and the preparation for the constant entertainment of the American officers and men are now completed.

The vessels are due here Oct. 17 and will remain a week. When the sixteen warships steam into Yokohama harbor, the salutes of their guns will be answered in kind from sixteen battleships of the Japanese navy. These vessels already are at anchor off Yokohama.

The occasion is regarded in Tokio as inaugurating a new page in the history of the relations between the two countries. The entertainments and receptions will begin at Yokohama and continue there for two days before the scene of hospitality is removed to Tokio. At the special wish of the emperor, Admiral Sperry is to be entertained and will reside for four days at one of the imperial palaces at the capital. The program provides for the constant entertainment of officers and men, and everything will be free.

MEETS IN CHICAGO.

Deep Waterways Convention Will Be Addressed by Presidential Nominees.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—The national deep waterway convention, organized to promote the building of an inland ship waterway from Lake Michigan through the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico, will open in Chicago on Wednesday for a three days' session.

Delegates, including governors, members of congress, engineers and prominent men from all parts of the country are expected to be present. It is announced that 3,000 acceptances to invitations have been received. W. H. Taft and W. J. Bryan are to be among the speakers. Both of these candidates have expressed their sympathy with the project. Mr. Taft will speak at 11 o'clock on Wednesday morning, while Mr. Bryan will speak at the same hour on the following morning.

The slogan of the conference is "Fourteen feet through the valley," and the demand will be that a fourteen foot channel be provided by the government from Chicago to New Orleans via the Illinois and the Mississippi rivers.

Reported Roosevelt Will Campaign.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., Oct. 5.—That President Roosevelt fully intends to take the stump in favor of the candidacy of Mr. Taft is the information received at Fairview from the east. It was said that the advices came from persons on whom reliance could be placed and were to the effect that Mr. Roosevelt is planning to make at least six speeches in the course of a trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

TAFT AND BRYAN AT A BANQUET.

Nominees For Presidency Meet at Spread in Chicago.

HAVE CHAT DURING MEAL.

Crowd Which Attended Affair Given by Chicago Association of Commerce Cheered Wildly As They Saw Nominees Exchanging Pleasantries—Each Makes Speech.

Chicago, Oct. 8.—W. J. Bryan and W. H. Taft, rival candidates for the presidency of the United States, met last night at the fourth annual banquet of the Chicago Association of Commerce. The meeting is said to have been the first of its kind.

Mr. Bryan, having been in Chicago all day, was the first to arrive at the banquet hall in the Auditorium hotel. Mr. Taft, having delivered a speech at the opening of the deep waterways convention in the forenoon, went to Galesburg, Ill., to deliver another address during the afternoon and returned to Chicago after the banquet was well under way.

Intense interest in the meeting had been manifested since it first became known that the two candidates were to meet in public, and every seat in three banquet halls, thrown together for the occasion, was occupied when the first course was served, save only a commodious chair reserved for Mr. Taft.

Lafayette McWilliams, T. P. Shonts, H. N. Higginbotham, John V. Farwell, Walter H. Wilson (representing Mayor Busse), Dr. Emil G. Hirsch, David R. Forgan, Mr. Taft, President Richard C. Hall of the Chicago Association of Commerce, Mr. Bryan, A. C. Bartlett, Governor Deneen of Illinois, John G. Shedd, Charles Wacker, President Kavanaugh of the Deep Waterways association and Don Farnsworth.

As our splitting shout gave warning of the arrival of Mr. Taft, Mr. Bryan, in common with everyone else, arose and looked toward the entrance. A huge frame, moving like a ship amongst a swarm of tugs, was moving slowly up the narrow aisle between two tables. Those at a distance occasionally could catch a glimpse of a smiling face acknowledging greetings. A policeman in uniform and assistants in plain clothes aided in the progress of the distinguished guest. Mr. Bryan, who had ceased in the destruction of some sort of shop sugar masquerading under a French name, shook his head slowly as his political rival drew near, smiling slightly.

The dramatic moment which had been anticipated with such deep interest was soon over. Mr. Bryan's hand awaited that of Mr. Taft. A single lingering pressure, a word or so which none could overhear because of the tumult, and the Republican leader passed on to a chair at the right of Mr. Hall. The cheering continued for a minute or so after those at the speakers' table had taken their seats. At the first moment the noise subsided, Mr. Bryan, leaning to one side and smiling broadly, asked Mr. Taft if he had had a good day.

This display of friendliness on the part of the two candidates stirred the crowd to renewed cheering, and words were useless in the din. Mr. Taft stroked his throat for answer. Then Taft laughed, and the applause increased.

It took music by the orchestra and a song by the guests to restore a semblance of quiet. When talking in ordinary tones became possible the two candidates entered into an animated conversation, in which President Hall joined.

The speeches of both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan at the banquet were nonpartisan. This was in consonance with the wishes of the Chicago Association of Commerce, which is a nonpartisan organization.

When the last course of the dinner had been served, both of the distinguished guests were kept busy signing menu cards. Meantime the banquet hall remained in good natured disorder. The orchestra played incessantly, working the brasses and drums to the limit, but the music was almost drowned in the babel of shouts and songs. Through it all the two candidates labored with smiling fortitude signing their names.

The speeches of both nominees reflected their desires to see a deep waterway through the Chicago canal and Mississippi to the gulf, and each referred to the presence of the other before beginning his prearranged address.

Mr. Bryan, who spoke first, said:

"Mr. Chairman, Judge and Gentlemen: I appreciate the honor of being present on this occasion. I think that it is a good omen when we can lay aside partisan feeling on an occasion like this and, forgetting the things that separate us, remember the things that are more numerous and more important that unite us in the bonds of common citizenship. I think I can see signs of progress in places.

"When I first began to run for president there were no occasions of this kind. I think I note a larger charity, a broader liberality and a more kindly feeling than has some times prevailed in the past. Here the chairmen of the representative committees meet, willing even in the heat of campaign to pause for a moment in the giving out of estimates. Here the treasurers of the respective committees suspend for a moment the investigation of the business conditions of those who send in checks. And here 'two distinguished' citizens at large meet, both uncertain as to which will be confined.

"I am glad to meet at this board one who has been honored by his party with leadership in a great campaign. I am glad to testify to my appreciation of his abilities and his virtues. If I am successful the victory will be the greater to have won from such, and if I am defeated the sorrow will be less to have been defeated by such."

Mr. Taft spoke thus:

"Mr. Chairman, Mr. Bryan and Gentlemen of the Chicago Association of Commerce: I have only begun to run for the presidency, and I am glad to begin when the political amenities of the campaign are better understood.

"I am exceedingly glad to meet my distinguished opponent and fellow guests and to forget the rivalries and disputes of the campaign in this most inspiring hospitality. And I reciprocate in every way and to the full extent his kindly and courteous words of respect and good will."

Garfield's Son College President.

Williamstown, Mass., Oct. 8.—Harry Augustus Garfield of the class of '85, son of President James A. Garfield, was inducted Wednesday into the office of president of Williams college. Seventy-five college presidents had accepted invitations to be present, and the ceremony of induction was witnessed by men prominent in civil and professional life. The state was represented by Governor Guild. James Bryce, ambassador of Great Britain, was also present, as well as United States Senator Crane and President Garfield's three brothers, Secretary of the Interior Garfield, Irvin McDowell Garfield and Abram Garfield, all Williams college men. The only living former president of Williams college, Rev. Dr. Franklin Carter, was an interested spectator. The services in the chapel were conducted by the Rev. Francis E. Dewey of Minneapolis and President Woodrow Wilson of Princeton university and others delivered congratulatory addresses.

Buffalo, N. Y., Oct. 8.—One fireman was killed and eight were injured in the collapse of the burning walls of a small grain elevator on Broadway last night. The elevator and a flour and feed mill owned by A. Nowak & Son were destroyed.

CRETE UNITES WITH GREECE.

Mediterranean Island Forsakes Flag of Turkey.

RETURNS TO MOTHERLAND.

Wild Scenes in Streets of Canea. Thousands of Subjects Assemble and Adopt Resolutions Expressing Their Desires — Turkey Protests Against Bulgaria's Proclamation.

Canea, Island of Crete, Oct. 8.—A decree announcing the union of Crete with Greece was published here last evening. Events leading up to the climax followed each other throughout the day with dramatic rapidity. The town was bedecked, and early in the morning people began flocking in from all directions. There was much firing of guns and revolvers, with plenty of cheering, but perfect order prevailed. Mussulmans mingled with Christians freely and unmolested.

At 2 o'clock in the afternoon a great demonstration in favor of union with Greece occurred on the military review grounds. More than 100,000 people, one of the largest crowds ever seen here, gathered at this place.

Speeches were made by various representatives, who declared that the peaceful political revolution which they had assembled to consummate was not directed against the powers, which had been the island's benefactors, but solely at proclaiming the island's union with the motherland. They called upon the government to act henceforth in the name of the free kingdom of Greece.

Then thousand men, thereupon, marched, singing and shouting, to the various consulates, leaving at each of them a written copy of resolutions adopted. They then surged to the governor's palace and lowered the flag of Crete, raising the Greek flag in its place.

A special issue of the government journal was distributed at 5 o'clock last evening, containing the decree signed by five councilors

Constantinople, Oct. 8.—The Turkish government has sent to the powers a circular, protesting against the Bulgarian proclamation and asking the powers what steps they mean to take looking to the re-establishment of order in Bulgaria and the maintenance of Turkey's interests, which were guaranteed by the treaty of Berlin. Great Britain, in reply to the notification of Austria-Hungary's proposed annexation of Bosnia and Herzegovina, has refused its sanction to this action and has practically requested the Austro-Hungarian government to reconsider it.

The history of Crete since its conquest in 1669 by the Turks is a record of frequently recurring insurrections. In 1898 the powers set up there an autonomous government under the nominal suzerainty of Turkey, and Prince George of Greece was appointed high commissioner. The prince later was superceded by M. Zaimis, formerly prime minister of Greece. A large proportion of the island population of 300,000 is Christian.

The people of Crete have time and again voiced their desire for union with Greece. The last time was in 1905, when, through a provisional national assembly, the union of Crete with Greece was proclaimed, and the powers were implored not to support the existing autocratic regime. The powers would not acquiesce, and foreign troops were sent to the island to put down the movement. This was done successfully, and in May of that year the last Greek flags were removed from Crete by international troops.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

John W. Richardson, a young farmer near Norfolk, Va., shot and killed his sister-in-law, Miss Josephine Cromwell, his father-in-law, Beverley Cromwell, and ended his own life after he had killed his father-in-law's horse. A shotgun was the weapon used.

Twenty-five men were drowned as the result of the foundering of a French fishing schooner on the Grand Banks, off Miquelon, in a heavy gale. The sole survivor was the captain of the vessel, who managed to cling to some planks for several hours. He has lost his reason.

Fleeced of $20,000 by a ring of gamblers operating a fashionable apartment house in Los Angeles, Charles W. Clark, son of former Senator W. A. Clark of Montana, has appealed to the city authorities. Young Clark declares he had lost that sum in "markers" playing roulette, when he discovered that the wheel was being manipulated.

COURT TURNS DOWN BRADLEY.

He Cannot Now Bring Additional Precincts.

WARNER MEN ARE CONCERNED.

Court May Yet Hold That Pencil Initialed Ballots Cannot Be Counted. Lexington Township, Sanilac County, Ballots May Also Be Thrown Out—Canvassing Board Resumed Counting Today.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 8.—The supreme court Wednesday afternoon affirmed the position taken by the state board of canvassers in holding that Bradley's attorneys cannot have additional precincts brought before the board for a recount in the controversy over the Republican gubernatorial nomination.

This is a victory for the Warner faction, but despite it Warner men are somewhat concerned over the possibilities by reason of what may happen in case the court holds with the Bradley attorneys that ballots on which inspectors placed initials with lead pencils cannot be counted.

Deputy Secretary of State Mears has checked over the recount, and it shows that Warner lost 248 by reason of ballots thrown out by the board, and he stands to lose 940 more in case the court throws out the pencil marked ballots. Warner's plurality was 1,685.

In addition to the losses so far, it is expected that Lexington township, Sanilac county, will be thrown out because the ballots of two precincts were placed in one box and reduce it sixty-eight more. There is the vote of Spalding township, Menominee county, to be subtracted, the vote there having been taken on voting machines, which the court says was illegal. This adds 116 more to Warner losses, only leaving him a margin of 312 votes, with forty-seven precincts yet to count under the Bradley petition.

Warner men say they have information that ballots were initialed in ink in most of the townships yet to be canvassed and assert they are safely in the lead. The fact that the supreme court only decided one question leads some of the interested ones to infer that there is a difference of opinion among justices on the question of pencil marked ballots.

In memorandum filed the court states that an opinion will be filed later on this and other questions. The language of the statute relative to initialing ballots wih pen and ink is very direct and mandatory in view of some of the attorneys appearing in the case, but their opponents rely to quite an extent on the fact that if the section is held to be mandatory many voters will be disfranchised by reason of clerical error of inspectors in not obeying the law, and it is doubtful whether the section will be so construed by the court.

The recount was resumed this morning. It is deemed probable that the Warner attorneys will desire to have the board send for boxes from precincts covered by their petition in order to overcome the losses.

WILLIAM H. TAFT AND PACIFIC COMMERCE

The Constructive Genius of Our Oriental Trade-Empire.

Carried the Torch of Civilization to Antipodes—Made Secure Our Far Eastern Commercial Supremacy.

During the past ten years, under a constructive Republican policy, the United States has assumed a position in the Pacific Ocean which is destined to give her the bulk of the vast commerce of the countries situated on the greatest body of water on the globe.

Some of the things accomplished by the party of enlightened freedom and patriotism have been: The securing of the open door in China; the preservation of the integrity of the Chinese Empire; the acquisition of the Philippines; the establishment of coaling stations across the Pacific and finally the transfer of the American fleet of battleships from the Atlantic to the Pacific to modestly remind the Oriental nations that, having assumed the position of a world power in the Pacific, we are prepared to maintain it against all comers.

Two wars have caused the whole world to realize that the Pacific Ocean is to be the scene of the greatest human activities in the future. The war of the United States with Spain gave us possessions which bring us within speaking distance of Asia, and the Russo-Japanese war revealed Japan to the world as a powerful and progressive nation, whose future sphere of action would of necessity be within the boundaries of the ocean separating America from the Orient.

Taft a Constructive Statesman.

The Honorable William H. Taft has been one of the chief advisers and strongest advocates of the Republican administration policy during this formative and historic period. He has been a pioneer, not only along the lines of statecraft, which have had for their object the development of our western states, but he has given particular attention to the situation in the Orient with reference to the future commerce between those far away countries and the Pacific coast of America.

In his own inimitable way and uniting a unique personality with the highest authority as a diplomat, he poured oil on the troubled waters in Japan and changed the political storm there raging, into a placid sunshine of peace. In China he created such enthusiasm as the Orientals have never shown to any other visitor and left that empire with the belief on their part that the United States is not only ready to enter into commercial reciprocity, but to still stand as China's friend and lend its influence to see that she gets justice from those who would violate her territorial integrity.

Taft and Oriental Trade.

In his Shanghai speech, addressing a body of influential merchants, diplomats and Chinese government officials, Mr. Taft spoke in part as follows:

"We do not complain of loss of trade that results from the employment of great enterprise, ingenuity or attention to the demands of the Chinese market, or the greater business acumen shown by our competitors. We would have the right to protest at being secluded from the trade of China by reason of our insistence of the policy of the Open Door. The acquiescence in this policy of all the nations interested has been so unhesitating and emphatic that it is hardly worth while to speculate upon the probable action of the United States in case the interests of American merchants are placed in jeopardy, and how far the United States would go in the protection of its Chinese trade, I cannot say. It is clear, however, that our merchants are being roused to the importance of the Chinese trade and they would view with deep concern any and all political obstacles which menace that expansion.

"This feeling is likely to find expression in the action of the American government. The United States and the other powers favor the open door, and if they are wise they will encourage the Empire to take long steps in administrative and governmental reform, the development of the resources of China, and the improvement of the welfare of the people. To do this would add to China's strength and position as a self-respecting government and aid her in preparing to resist possible foreign aggression in the seeking of undue and exclusive proprietary privileges. Thus no foreign aid will be required to enforce the open door and the policy of equal opportunity for all."

History Making Happenings.

During recent Republican administrations we have built up an export trade with the Far East of something like $150,000,000 per year. We have landed an army on Chinese territory, and have been drawn willy-nilly into the vortex of the Far Eastern question. During the period policies have been formulated which have compelled us to take a hand in momentous negotiations. We have definitely enrolled the Far East among the objects of our commercial and diplomatic solicitude. Things have changed much during this ten years of Republican rule.

The United States has come into possession of the Philippines and all the political and strategical responsibilities entailed by this movement. The participation in, and suppression of, the Boxer rebellion, the expanding recognition of the supreme importance to the future of American trade, of the open door, the realization that, with the exception of Japan, no country is so well situated as the United States, industrially and geographically, to make the most and the best of the development of China. These and other events have transformed American indifference to the fortunes of the Far East into a real, live, tingling and vigilant concern.

Logical Commercial Events.

It did not need the Chinese boycott of American goods, or the outbreak of the trouble with Japan over the immigration question, to convince an impartial onlooker that America's relations with the powers of the Far East would, before long, be more immediate, of greater moment and possibly of greater hazard than our relations with the powers of Europe. The American fleet has foreshadowed the systematic assertion of American power in the Pacific. American interests in that ocean, commercial, political and territorial, have been neglected far too long.

Father of the Philippines.

Mr. Taft is in a sense the father of the Philippines. It has been his kindly, constructive statesman's hand that evolved order out of their original chaos. In his report submitted to Congress, as a result of his visit to the Philippines to be present at the opening of their first Assembly, he made four recommendations. First—action by Congress admitting to the United States Philippine products under such conditions that they would not interfere with American tobacco and sugar industries; second, the removal of restrictions as to acquiring mining claims and lands; third, further legislation authorizing the government to carry on an agricultural bank, which is now authorized only as a private enterprise; fourth, the repeal of the law applying to the Islands the coastwise laws of the United States.

Philosophy of Development.

Our nation has grown by obeying the instinct of development. We are to-day entitled to be called Greater America, but that greatness will be lost if we forget the political philosophy which has made us great—expansion of American thought, territory, mechanical skill, civilization and philosophy. This is an auspicious time for the creation and development of our export trade. The unexplored and undeveloped markets of Asia furnish the opportunity. All other fields have been occupied, and to attempt to wrest them from other nations would be of doubtful expediency. In the Orient the commercial possibilities exceed the dreams of the optimist.

Are the American people ready to abandon such a situation and leave it to the mercy of the Democratic party with its failure of fifty years looking at us from the past?

THE YOUNG REPUBLICAN.

In a business sense the young voters who have come forward since 1904 have more at stake than any other class in rendering a right decision. Their active lives are ahead. They have more years to live, and are now laying the foundations of their business careers. National policies and conditions are of the highest consequence to them. Perhaps they are farmers. If so, let them ask the older generation how farmers fared under the last Democratic administration. Let them take the market reports of to-day and compare them with the prices that prevailed when Mr. Bryan made his crusade for free silver and hurled defiance at President Cleveland because he stood by the gold standard. At the same time Bryan denounced the Republican party for its protectionist as well as sound money position. Perhaps the first voter is to engage in manufacturing or mining, as wage-earner or otherwise. Does he want his American rate of wages and the industry he chooses reasonably protected against foreign competition? If he does Mr. Bryan's leadership will take him in the opposite direction.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The Tide of Prosperity.

The tide of prosperity may ebb and flow, but the great waves of industrial wealth will continue to grow in volume with ever-increasing comfort and happiness to our contented people, who will soon number 100,000,000. And because of our intelligent and skillful labor, made so because of good wages and good living, we shall make better fabrics and build stronger structures—that in spite of their higher cost in the beginning will be cheaper in the end and will be wanted by the people in every corner of the earth. So that we shall capture the markets of the world in greater volume without ever sacrificing our home market, the foundation of our national wealth and progress.—Hon. James S. Sherman.

Henry Gassaway Davis, who was defeated with Parker four years ago, is wiser as well as older. He says he sees no hope for the Democracy, and thinks Parker is again wasting valuable time in making speeches.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

It is interesting to note to how great an extent Governor Hughes is commanding the support of Democrats in New York State.—Springfield Republican.

MRS. GRIDLEY

PAID HILLSDALE AND TECUMSEH, HER FORMER HOMES, A VISIT IN SEPTEMBER.

Over 80 Years of Age, But Holds a Position in the General Land Office in Washington.

The mother of a dead hero should always be interesting to the nation for which he died.

Washington can boast of the wives and daughters of heroes and immortal patriots, but Mrs Ann Eliza Gridley, mother of the brave man to whom Dewey gave his memorable command, occupies a particularly tender spot in the municipal affections. Mrs Gridley is one of the large brigade of Uncle Sam's grand old women who have passed the four score mark and are still doing useful work in his service. She relates that she has been only twenty-eight years in her present position in the general land office. But she is proud of her work there, and though there are many who think little of a nation which allows the mothers of its heroes to toil in extreme old age, Mrs. Gridley does not share this opinion.

Her work is to place the red seal on every document which goes out of the general land office, and then stamps it. She has done this work so long that she is able to do 4 or 500 documents in one day, and any one who is not used to the work, can not come near that record.

Mrs. Gridley has been attending the Grand Army of the Republic at Toledo, held there during September, and came up to Tecumseh her former home for a few days visit. At the time Judge Stacy lived in the house where Lucius Lilley now resides, Mrs. Gridley lived in the Morris Hyde house across the road north.

Mrs. Gridley is one of the few remaining army nurses, and is still active in the society and devoted to all patriotic projects. Her husband was an invalid and could not join the army to save the Union, but her two sons died.

Mrs. Gridley enlisted with the nurses from Hillsdale, her home town, and was sent at once to the front.

The Spanish-American war robbed her of her oldest son, Charles, and later his only son was killed on the Missouri. Charles was the commander of Dewey's flagship, the Olympias and Admiral Dewey has been particularly kind to the aged mother.

Mrs. Gridley resides with her only surviving son, L. E. Gridley in a comfortable home in Washington. She attended the encampment at Toledo with him, and went over to Hillsdale, her old home, to visit before coming to Tecumseh.

Mrs. Gridley is fragile and short with a gentle, refined demeanor. She is getting a little stooped and her movements are slower and she does not hear as well as she did a few years ago. But she scorns ear trumpets and her glasses have not particularly powerful lenses. She takes a keen interest in life, in politics, in people and affairs and her heart is many decades younger than the calendar of her career proclaims.

NEW I. O. O. F. LODGE AT BRITTON.

A new I. O. O. F. lodge was instituted at Britton Wednesday afternoon by Grand Master Kennedy of Mt. Pleasant, assisted by Past Grand Master Williamson of Tecumseh.

In the evening about forty from Tecumseh went down where the work of the three degrees of the order was exemplified by the Tecumseh team upon a class of thirty-four candidates. A banquet was held in the hotel at Britton at twelve o'clock.

The new lodge starts out with bright prospects, and it is expected that they will soon have one of the best working orders in the county.

TAFT'S SERVICE TO LABOR.

Destroyed the Old English Law Assumption that Union Labor Is a Conspiracy.

(From the Emporia (Kan.) Gazette.

The simple fact is that no man has done more to place union labor on a sound, square, law-abiding, respected footing than William H. Taft by his decisions in labor cases. Both employers and employed have acknowledged the justice of his decisions and learned to abide by them, and to-day there is not an intelligent worker or fair-minded employer who would seek to abrogate them.

Judge Taft lifted union labor from the doubt and uncertainty as to its rights which had before prevented and gave it a standing which it has ever since retained, and which has proved under his rulings, secure against all attack. The old assumption, derived from England, that union labor is a conspiracy, and that workers could be prevented from leaving railway or other employment at their will, was swept away forever by Judge Taft so far as the United States is concerned, and when an attempt was made, years later, to revive the principle, Judge Taft's decision was quoted successfully by the labor side to defeat the plea.

Mr. Taft was and is labor's friend, because he is absolutely just, and would no more permit wrong to be done to the poorest laborer in the land than he would to any one else. And the honest, law-abiding workers asks and expects no more than this.

Bryan, we learn from a Democratic contemporary, is giving the East a good scare. Bryan's scares, however, never hurt anybody but Bryan.—Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Taft says that he stands on his record. No particular credit to Taft in that. Anybody would be glad to stand on the kind of record he has.—Topeka Capital.

Nature teaches us to love our friends, but religion teaches us to love our enemies.—French Proverb.

GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. T. I. Ford Celebrate the 50th Anniversary of Their Marriage.

On Tuesday, October 6th, 1858, in the village of Blissfield occurred the marriage of Miss Mary Stone to Theodore Ford, and last Tuesday at their home in Tecumseh friends and relatives gathered to help them celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage.

Miss Mary Stone was born in Canada in 1841 but was raised in Williamston, Mass., where her parents moved shortly after her birth.

Mr. Ford was born in Towanda, Pa., in 1832, and moved to Blissfield when a young man. He learned the blacksmiths and wagon makers trade when about 19 years of age, but after his marriage to Miss Stone, they resided on a farm near Blissfield which they purchased in a few years, and only recently disposed of the property. Seven years ago they moved to Tecumseh, where they own a comfortable home on West Kilbuck St.

Four children have blessed this union, all of whom were here to spend the day at the parental home. They are W. I. Ford of Blissfield, Hal C. Ford of Adrian, Mesdames John Wells and William LaBounty of Tecumseh

The house decorations were gold and white. Dinner was served at noon, and the table fairly groaned with the good old fashioned meal. Ice cream and cake was served later in the day.

Among the guests who were present were: Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Goff of Blissfield, Mr. Goff being present at the marriage of Mr and Mrs. Ford. Mr. Goff was then 13 years of age and his father, Squire Goff performed the ceremony. He was present also, at the silver wedding. Mr. and Mrs. Gladd DeShetler and son LeRoy, Mrs. Dr. Cook, Leo DeShetler of Toledo, Mr. and Mrs. Peter DeShetler of Dundee, Mr. and Mrs. W. I. Ford and children of Blissfield, Hal C. Ford and wife of Adrian, George DeShetler and wife of Macon, Jasper Berry and wife, Mr. and Mrs. William LaBounty of East Tecumseh, Mrs. John Wells and Harry, Mr. and Mrs. Omar Everhart and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Mattis of Tecumseh.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford are enjoying good health, and their many friends wish they may live to celebrate many more as happy anniversaries. Mr. Ford is the only survivor of a family of nine children.

SEVENTY FIFTH ANNIVERSARY

ST. PETERS CHURCH WILL CELEBRATE ITS SEVENTY-FIFTH ANNIVERSARY NEXT SUNDAY.

Services Held at 4 O'clock, Original Sermon Preached and Original Clerical Vestment Worn.

Rev. Dr. Lester Founder of the Church of Tecumseh.

On Sunday, October 11, St. Peters church of Tecumseh will celebrate the 75th anniversary of the laying of the corner stone of the church.

Special services will be held at 4 o'clock in the afternoon.

The original sermon preached at that time will be read and the original clerical vestments worn by Dr. Lester, the founder of the church, will be worn by Rev C. C. Kemp of Clinton.

The gown worn by Dr. Lester at this time was of a beautiful Irish silk, and has been carefully preserved during all of these years.

Rev. Dr. Lester was one of the first missionaries in Michigan establishing churches in Adrian, Monroe, Cambridge, Clinton and Tecumseh.

He was a man of wealth as well as great religious zeal and he will be remembered by many of the older residents of Tecumseh, as a man of fine stature, pure white hair and long beard, large brown eyes, and possessing a soft and silvery voice. It has been said by members of his congregation that they would rather hear Dr. Lester read a hymn than to listen to their choir sing it.

You Can't Cure Constipation

by taking purgatives, salts, or other drugs that act harshly or violently upon the stomach or bowels.

Ask any doctor, and he will tell you that purgatives of any character distend the bowels and weaken the elastic tissue.

To cure constipation, remove the cause The cause of constipation is indigestion. If your food digested properly it would continue on from the stomach through the bowels, and would be eliminated without effort and with regularity.

Mi-o-na tablets cure constipation by curing your indigestion. It is not a purgative. It is a stomach tonic and more—it tones up, strengthens, invigorates, refreshes and injects new life into the worn out muscles of the stomach, and in a short time makes the stomach hardy enough to digest anything you eat. It is a powerful yet harmless stomach tonic, and its resistless influence on the stomach is astonishing.

Try Mi-o-na for constipation. One box will cure you of indigestion; two boxes will relieve you of constipation; and best of all, Mi-o-na is such an economical remedy. A large box only costs 50 cents, and then, if you are not satisfied with results, C. A. Wright & Son, the druggist will give you your money back.

Mi-o-na cures all stomach disorders whether acute or chronic, such as dyspepsia, vomiting, over indulgence of the night before, sea or car sickness, stomach sickness of prospective mothers, etc.

Read this from the president of a New York corporation:

"I have been a terrible sufferer from dyspepsia and gastritis for two years. The most eminent physicians prescribed for me with no effect. I have been absolutely cured by your Mi-o-na tablets The first one gave me a relief almost incredible. Very gratefully yours, Herbert H. Taylor, 501 West 143rd Street, New York City."

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalence of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease.

While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the original disease undermines the system

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Home of Swamp-Root

Do not let anyone tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good for weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, inflammation of the bladder, or any Kidney and Bladder disorder. A week's trial will convince you. Sold by all druggists.

They are raising melons in Alaska. Great! Now, perhaps, we'll be able to get them cold enough.

But "common sense" sounds so hopelessly middleaged!

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

One cook in the kitchen is worth two dozen who promised to "consider the situation."

Married Man in Trouble

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

Many ills come from impure blood. Can't have pure blood with faulty digestion, lazy liver and sluggish bowels. Burdock Blood Bitters strengthens stomach, bowels and liver, and purifies the blood.

We aren't even looking at the lovely scenery we're passing today in our impatience to get to tomorrow.

A JEWELER'S EXPERIENCE.

C. R. Kinger, The Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. Sold by all druggists

OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Tecumseh who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. Sarah Austin, living on Pearl st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. For sometime I was bothered with kidney trouble. I had distressing pains in my hips and could not get my proper sleep at night on account of the frequent action of the kidneys. I passed a great deal of gravel in my secretions, and at times it was almost impossible to stand the pain. I doctored with different physicians, but only received temporary relief, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I began taking them. The results of their use were most satisfactory, in fact, they effected a complete cure. I am glad to endorse such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

ELEVATOR EXPLODED.

Eight Persons Killed In Village of Richland, Vt.

Richford, Vt., Oct. 8.—With a concussion which shook the entire village, a large grain elevator, having a capacity of 500,000 bushels, exploded late Wednesday, causing the death of seven workmen and a woman. The explosion blew off the entire roof of the building, scattering timbers in all directions, and almost instantly flames burst out all over the structure. Twenty-one men were employed in the building, of whom seven are missing and undoubtedly perished All lived in Richford.

Mrs. John Jellfore, who was walking with a companion along the Canadian Pacific railroad tracks, close to the elevator, was burned to death, and an unknown woman, who was with her, was burned so seriously that her life is despaired of.

The elevator was owned jointly by the Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine railroads and was occupied by the Quaker Oats company of Chicago. The flames, which are supposed to have been started by spontaneous combustion in the dry dust of the grain, spread so quickly that the limited fire apparatus of the village was of no avail

The heat set fire to a flour shed near the elevator, and the shed, together with seventy-five freight cars standing near it, were burned.

Nothing Equals Pe-ru-na For Serious Kidney Trouble.

So Writes John N. Watkins, St. Louis, Mo.

Read What Mr. Clow, of Colorado, Says. A Man Over Seventy Years Old.

Kidney Affection, Asthma.

Mr. W. F. Clow, 423 E. St. Vrain St., Colorado Springs, Col., a retired real estate man, writes:

"I am a man of over seventy years and feel that I owe my present good health entirely to Peruna. I began using it about a year ago for asthma and kidney trouble, and took several bottles. I have not felt better for years.

"Different members of my family have used it also, and have only words of praise to speak for Peruna."

Attributes Health to Pe-ru-na.

William Dailey, 56 I St., N. E., Washington, D. C., Past Col. Encampment No. 60, Union Veteran Legion, and prominently identified with many of the great labor protective associations in Chicago and New York, and Secretary of one of the largest associations in the former city, had for nearly thirty years been afflicted with kidney troubles. Within a short period he has been persuaded to try Peruna and his present healthy condition is attributed to his judicious use of that great remedy. He considers himself now quite cured and in excellent physical condition.

Internal Catarrh.

Mr. John N. Watkins, 3133 Shenandoah Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"Among all the greatly advertised medicines for kidney and bladder trouble there is nothing which equals Peruna. I suffered for several years with this trouble, spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicine and all to no purpose, until I took Peruna.

"One bottle did me more good than all the others put together, as they only poisoned my system. Peruna cured me. I used it for four months before a complete cure was accomplished, but am truly grateful to you. The least I can do in return is to acknowledge the merits of Peruna."

People Who Object to Liquid Medicines Should Buy Peruna Tablets

GROWTH OF WEALTH PER CAPITA.

(From the Los Angeles Times.)

In 1820 the savings banks of the United States held $1,188,576. This was a poor country then compared with now. The amount was only an average of 12 cents for the population of that time. That amount of average economy was very small.

Now the people of this country have $3,000,878,945 in savings banks. This is an average for the whole population of this time of over $42. The actual depositors have an average of $420 to their credit. In 1820 only 8,000 persons in the country were rich enough to have a savings bank account. Now there are 8,093,311.

When James Buchanan, the last Democratic President in a long line, went into office, there was about $100,000,000 in the savings banks of the United States. By 1870, after fighting out the great war, the people, under Republican rule for twenty years, had $400,000,000 in the savings banks. When the next Democratic President took his seat in 1893, the savings of the people had passed the billion point. By 1898 the savings had doubled again.

So there it is. In 1820 there were only about 8,000 people rich enough to have a savings bank account. Now there are over 8,000,000. In 1820 the savings were 12 cents per capita; now they are over $42.

That the poor grow poorer and the richer richer in this country is as true as any other Populistic notion.

Bryan.

He talks in the morning, and talks in the night;
He talks when he's wrong and he talks when he's right;
He talks in the office and talks in the hall,
He talks in the church and he talks at the ball.
He talks to the Senate and talks to the House,
He talks to the people as poor common souse;
He talks to the press and he talks to the crowd,
He talks and he talks with a voice long and loud;
Like an old clapper will he'll sound to the end
And die disappointed for office and friend!

Roosevelt on Taft.

I hope and believe that all far sighted citizens who wish to see this country prosperous in material things will support Mr. Taft, but above all I ask for support for his because he stands for the moral uplift of the nation, because his deeds have made good his words, and because the policies to which he is committed are of immeasurable consequence alike to the honor and interest of the whole American people.

WILL NOT SPEAK,

Roosevelt Declines to Take to Stump in Taft's Behalf.

Washington, Oct. 8.—President Roosevelt has announced that he would make no speeches in support of the candidacy of William H. Taft for the presidency, as there was no necessity for such action. This declaration was made during a call of Senator Hemenway of Indiana, one of a series of conferences at the White House at which the general political situation was under review.

Mr. Hemenway asked the president regarding the report that he would take the stump. The president replied that he had received numerous requests to do so, but he thought it was unnecessary and made the unequivocal statement that he would not make any speeches.

Betting in the Nursery.

"Mamma," said her boy, "I just made a bet."

"What was it?" she asked.

"I bet Billy my cap against two shoe buttons that you'd give me a penny to get some apples with. You don't want me to lose my cap, do you?"

He got the penny.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect it.

Prevalency of Kidney Disease.

Most people do not realize the alarming increase and remarkable prevalency of kidney disease. While kidney disorders are the most common diseases that prevail, they are almost the last recognized by patient and physicians, who content themselves with doctoring the effects, while the origin of disease underminds the system.

What To Do.

There is comfort in the knowledge so often expressed, that Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, fulfills every wish in curing rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often during the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases. If you need a medicine you should have the best. Sold by druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar sizes.

You may have a sample bottle and a book that tells all about it, both sent free by mail. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention this paper and don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y.

Do not let anyone tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good for weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, inflammation of the bladder, or any Kidney and Bladder disorder. A week's trial will convince you. Sold by all druggists.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

Married Man in Trouble

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

A JEWELER'S EXPERIENCE.

C. R. Kluger, The Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Tecumseh who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. Sarah Austin, living on Pearl st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. For sometime I was bothered with kidney trouble. I had distressing pains in my hips and could not get my proper sleep at night on account of the frequent action of the kidneys. I passed a great deal of gravel in my secretions, and at times it was almost impossible to stand the pain. I doctored with different physicians, but only received temporary relief, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I began taking them. The results of their use were most satisfactory, in fact, they effected a complete cure. I am glad to endorse such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

The fact has leaked out that the ballot boxes at Saginaw containing the votes cast in the primary election to nominate a Republican candidate for governor were not sealed when returned to the city clerk. ELEVATOR EXPLODED.

Eight Persons Killed in Village of Richland, Vt.

Richford, Vt., Oct. 8.—With a concussion which shook the entire village, a large grain elevator, having a capacity of 500,000 bushels, exploded late Wednesday, causing the death of seven workmen and a woman. The explosion blew off the entire roof of the building, scattering timbers in all directions, and almost instantly flames burst out all over the structure. Twenty-one men were employed in the building, of whom seven are missing and undoubtedly perished. All lived in Richford.

Mrs. John Jellifore, who was walking with a companion along the Canadian Pacific railroad tracks, close to the elevator, was burned to death, and an unknown woman, who was with her, was burned so seriously that her life is despaired of.

The elevator was owned jointly by the Canadian Pacific and Boston & Maine railroads and was occupied by the Quaker Oats company of Chicago. The flames, which are supposed to have been started by spontaneous combustion in the dry dust of the grain, spread so quickly that the limited fire apparatus of the village was of no avail.

The heat set fire to a flour shed near the elevator, and the shed, together with seventy-five freight cars standing near it, were burned.

Nothing Equals Pe-ru-na For Serious Kidney Trouble.

Read What Mr. Clow, of Colorado, Says. A Man Over Seventy Years Old.

Kidney Affection, Asthma.

Mr. W. F. Clow, 628 E. St. Vrain St., Colorado Springs, Col., a retired real estate man, writes:

"I am a man of over seventy years and feel that I owe my present good health entirely to Peruna. I began using it about a year ago for asthma and kidney trouble, and took several bottles. I have not felt better for years.

"Different members of my family have used it also, and have only words of praise to speak for Peruna."

Attributes Health to Pe-ru-na.

William Bailey, 58 I St., N. E., Washington, D. C., Past Col. Encampment No. 6, Union Veteran Legion, and prominently identified with many of the great labor protective associations in Chicago and New York, and Secretary of one of the largest associations in the former city, had for nearly thirty years been afflicted with kidney troubles.

Within a short period he has been persuaded to try Peruna, and his present healthy condition is attributed to his judicious use of that great remedy. He considers himself now quite cured and in excellent physical condition.

Internal Catarrh.

Mr. John N. Watkins, 3133 Shenandoah Ave., St. Louis, Mo., writes:

"Among all the greatly advertised medicines for kidney and bladder trouble there is nothing which equals Peruna. I suffered for several years with this trouble, spent hundreds of dollars on doctors and medicine and all to no purpose, until I took Peruna.

"One bottle did me more good than all the others put together, as they only poisoned my system. Peruna cured me. I used it for four months before a complete cure was accomplished, but am truly grateful to you. The least I can do in return is to acknowledge the merits of Peruna."

People Who Object to Liquid Medicines Should Buy Peruna Tablets

GROWTH OF WEALTH PER CAPITA.

(From the Los Angeles Times.)

In 1820 the savings banks of the United States held $1,138,576. This was a poor country then compared with now. The amount was only an average of 12 cents for the population of that time. That amount of average economy was very small.

Now the people of this country have $3,690,878,945 in savings banks. This is an average for the whole population of this time of over $42. The actual depositors have an average of $429 to their credit. In 1820 only 3,695 persons in the country were rich enough to have a savings bank account. Now there are 8,588,811.

When James Buchanan, the last Democratic President in a long line, went into office, there was about $100,000,000 in the savings banks of the United States. By 1870, after fighting out the great war, the people, under Republican rule for twenty years, had $850,000,000 in the savings banks. When the next Democratic President took his seat in 1883, the savings of the people had passed the billion point. By 1893 the savings had doubled again.

So there it is. In 1820 there were only about 3,000 people rich enough to have a savings bank account. Now there are over 8,000,000. In 1820 the savings were 12 cents per capita; now they are over $42.

That the poor grow poorer and the rich richer in this country is as true as any other Populistic notion.

Bryan.

He talks in the morning and talks in the night;
He talks when he's wrong and he talks when he's right;
He talks in the office and talks in the hall,
He talks in the church and he talks at the ball.
He talks to the Senate and talks to the House,
He talks to the people as poor common souse;
He talks to the press and he talks to the crowd,
He talks and he talks with a voice loud and loud;
Like an old clapper mill he'll sound to the end,
And die disappointed for office and friend!

Roosevelt on Taft.

I hope and believe that all far sighted citizens who wish to see this country prosperous in material things will support Mr. Taft, but above all I ask for support for him because he stands for the moral uplift of the nation, because his deeds have made good his words, and because the policies to which he is committed are of immeasurable consequence alike to the honor and interest of the whole American people.

WILL NOT SPEAK,

Roosevelt Declines to Take to Stump in Taft's Behalf.

Washington, Oct. 8.—President Roosevelt has announced that he would make no speeches in support of the candidacy of William H. Taft for the presidency, as there was no necessity for such action. This declaration was made during a call of Senator Hemenway of Indiana, one of a series of conferences at the White House at which the general political situation was under review.

Mr. Hemenway asked the president regarding the report that he would take the stump. The president replied that he had received numerous requests to do so, but he thought it was unnecessary and made the unequivocal statement that he would not make any speeches.

Betting in the Nursery.

"Mamma," said her boy, "I just made a bet."

"What was it?" she asked.

"I bet Billy my cap against two shoe buttons that you'd give me a penny to get some apples with. You don't want me to lose my cap, do you?"

He got the penny.—Philadelphia Inquirer.

DETROIT LOST SECOND GAME.

Remarkable Contest Pulled Off In Chicago.

NOT SCORE UP TO EIGHTH.

Pitcher Donovan Weakened in Next to Last Inning, and Chicago Champs Tallied Up Six—Detroit Succeeds in Landing One Run Home in Ninth Inning.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—After eight innings of clockwork baseball Sunday, "Wild Bill" Donovan, premier pitcher of the champions of the American league, weakened under the prolonged strain, and the Chicago world's champions captured their second game of the present series, 6 to 1.

Detroit's hopes, which were high after seven innings, in which Chicago had made only one hit, were dashed in the eighth. In that sensational portion of the game, Donovan was hit for a home run, a triple, a double and three singles. Incidentally, he walked one man and allowed another to score on a wild pitch. Overall, on the contrary, was steady throughout the game, holding the Tigers to four hits and one run. That run marked Detroit's despairing effort in their half of the ninth.

Pitchers Did Good Work.

Nothing could have exceeded the excellence of Donovan's work up to that fatal eighth. He had speed, an assortment of curves which he mixed up in baffling style, and he cut the corners with the greatest precision and speed. He had the best of Chicago's batsmen swinging wild and twice struck out the redoubtable Kling. Not until the sixth did the world's champs connect with his wizard curves. Overall's pitching, too, was masterly. He was found for only four scattered hits, no two of which came in the same inning, and one of which had to be counted because Messrs. Overall and Kling both went after Schaefer's bunt, and, each stopping for the other to field it, it went for a hit. He issued passes twice.

Up to the eighth, the game was a pitchers' battle, with both sides for the most part going out one, two, three. There was comparatively little noise. The spectators were too highly keyed by the neck-and-neck struggle to indulge in much cheering.

Here is the manner in which the last two innings were played, which shows how Chicago scored her six.

Eight innings—Detroit: Downs struck out. Donovan, in attempting to bunt, sent a pop-up just in front of the plate, and Kling captured it. McIntyre went out, Evers to Chance. No runs.

Chicago: Steinfeldt struck out. Schaefer made a fine one-handed pick-up of Hofman's weak grounder, but threw low, and Hofman was safe, although Rossman made a phenomenal stop of the throw. Tinker hit into the right field bleachers for a clean home-run, sending Hofman in ahead of him. Kling doubled into the overflow crowd in short left. Overall went out, Donovan to Rossman, Kling taking third. Kling scored a moment later on Sheckard's single over second. Sheckard stole second. Evers beat out a cleanly handled bunt, and Sheckard went to third. Evers stole second. Schulte tripled to left center, scoring Sheckard and Evers, and come home himself on a wild pitch. Chance walked and stole second. Steinfeldt flew out to left. Six runs.

Ninth inning—Detroit: D. Jones, who batted for O'Leary, took first on balls. He went to second on Crawford's out, Evers to Chance. Cobb singled to center, and Jones scored. Rossman hit to Tinker, who retired Cobb at second and doubled Rossman at first. One run. The score:

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—The Tigers lost the first game of the world's series last Saturday to the Chicago Cubs, score 10 to 6. On a diamond more suitable for football, the Bennett field being made wet and soggy by a continual downpour of rain, the teams wallowed in the mud for nine long innings, at times both teams having a lead on the other.

With the score 6 to 5, the ninth inning opened, but, sad to relate, the game Detroiters were swooped down upon for a total of five runs, which lost the game. Reulbach, Overall and Brown pitched for the Cubs; Killian and Summers did the act for Detroit.

TAFT ON LONG TRIP.

Cincinnati, Oct. 12.—The Taft special train, bearing William H. Taft, left Cincinnati at 7 o'clock this morning for three days in Ohio, three days in the south, next Sunday in Washington, a day in New Jersey and Maryland, another in Ohio, three days in Indiana, a week in New York, with a closing meeting of the campaign in Youngstown on the night before election and then home to vote.

Preceding the start on this, his final effort of the campaign, the candidate expressed himself as not only fit for the duties which devolve upon him, but confident of the result of the campaign. Again he said, as he did during his western trip: "I shall be elected president of the United States."

United States Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan is accompanying and assisting the candidate in his work in Ohio, and Lesle M. Shaw, formerly secretary of the treasury, will travel with Mr. Taft in the south.

Falling Ax Struck Her.

York, Pa., Oct. 12.—Mrs. E. S. Sechrist of Yoe, this county, is in a serious condition from a deep gash in her head several inches long, inflicted in a most unusual manner. She was chopping wood in the yard, and as she swung the ax it caught in a washline. The elasticity of the line caused the ax to bound from her hands, and, whirling about, it descended like a tomahawk, the blade gashing her head.

Lads Started to Walk to Cleveland.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 12.—Having received word that her two sons, Fred and Herman Rosenau, aged twelve and nine years, were captured by the local police after they started on a long tramp to join her, their mother, Mrs. August Kleinsmith of Cleveland, hurried to Detroit to see what she could do for them. Fred and Herman were living with their stepmother at 554 Meldrum avenue. They stole a jar of jam from the larder and, fearing a whipping, began their hike to their mother in Cleveland. She was remarried to Kleinsmith only six weeks ago, but the youngsters were willing to face a stepfather. The police, however, intercepted them. In the juvenile court, Fred was sentenced to the state reformatory to remain until he reaches the age of seventeen, while Herman was allowed to return home with his own father.

Detroit Man Meets Terrible Death at Owosso.

TRIED TO CATCH MOVING TRAIN

Missed His Grip and Was Thrown Under Wheels—Arthur Nichols of Bay City Drowns While Returning From Duck Hunting Trip—Skiff Capsized While in Tow of Launch.

Owosso, Mich., Oct. 12.—William Marrah, aged thirty-six years, residing at 1392 Twelfth street, Detroit, received injuries at the Grand Trunk station here from which he died at the home of a friend.

Marrah, who was a varnisher in the employ of the Wolverine Table company of Detroit, came here to look after some property interests. He intended returning on a Grand Trunk excursion train and went to the station. While talking to some acquaintances, the train started to move, and Marrah ran to catch it. He reached for the iron grip on the side of the train, but missed it and was thrown beneath the wheels. Both legs were taken off at the knees.

He was unconscious when picked up, and, although it was at first thought he would recover, the shock proved too great, and he succumbed a few hours after the accident.

Marrah roomed and took his meals at the above Detroit address, and while here he told friends that he was married. He displayed a photograph of a young woman whom he said was his wife. No one knew of his having been married.

He was a member of the Modern Woodmen of America.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 12.—While duck hunting in the bay, Arthur J. Nichols, twenty years old, of this place, was drowned, and another, Chris Selker, narrowly escaped a like fate.

Nichols and Selker were returning in a skiff from a few hours' hunt, and in order to make the trip quicker they got a hitch onto a naptha launch. Nichols attempted to change his seat, and this overturned the frail craft. Both men were thrown into the water, but Selker came up near the boat and clung to it until the occupants of the launch reached him. Nichols went down almost immediately and was not seen again. The body has not been found.

Detroit Man Reported Killed.

Winnipeg, Man., Oct. 12.—It has been reported that Oliver Curwood, an author of Detroit, Mich., who recently went into the Hudson bay wilds for a Detroit publishing firm, was killed by Indian in the Lac La Ronge country. Details are lacking. The mounted police are investigating, and their report is expected within a few days.

National Committeeman Dies.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Word was received last night by Democratic National Chairman Norman E. Mack of the death, at Moberley, Mo., of Democratic National Committeeman W. E. Rothwell. Mr. Mack appointed a committee to attend the funeral at Moberley.

AERONAUTS HAD NARROW ESCAPE

Two Americans In Bennett Contest Fall 2,000 Feet.

THEIR BALLOON COLLAPSED.

Great Silk Bag Finally Formed Itself Into Parachute, and Men's Lives Were Saved.—Thousands of People in Suburbs of Berlin Witnessed Accident—Third International Balloon Cup Race is On.

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The international balloon race, which started Sunday from the suburb of Schmargendorf, was the occasion of a thrilling accident, two American aeronauts having a miraculous escape from death. The American balloon Conqueror, the only American built craft in the contest, having on board A. Holland Forbes and Augustus Post, less than two minutes after the start, burst at an altitude of 4,000 feet. For 2,000 feet it shot down like a bullet, and then the torn silk bag spread out like a parachute, and the rapidity of the descent was checked. Coming close to the earth, however, the basket smashed into the roof of a house, but the two men escaped with but slight injuries.

The race, in which twenty-three balloons participated, representing Great Britain, France, Germany, the United States, Switzerland, Italy, Belgium and Spain, started at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, in the presence of at least 30,000 spectators. The sunshine was brilliant, and the heat was that of summer. Amid the strains of "America" and volleys of cheers, the first balloon was sent away. It was the America II., under command of James C. McCoy, who was accompanied by Lieutenant Voghmann. The balloon was decorated with the stars and stripes, and it sailed away to the southeast at a rapid pace, the aeronauts waving their hats.

A representative of each of the other nations followed the American balloon in succession at intervals of two minutes, the national hymn of the respective country ringing forth as the ropes were cast loose.

Cry of Horror From Crowd.

The second batch of eight balloons was led by Forbes in the Conqueror, which was started with some difficulty owing to a gusty wind and too much ballast. But eventually it shot up and reached a high altitude in an incredibly short period, the basket swaying violently. Then, almost instantly, a cry of horror arose from the crowd, who saw the silk collapse and shouted, "The balloon is ripping up!"

The thousands who had gathered stood for a moment petrified. Some turned away, fainting, as they saw the balloon falling with lightning-like rapidity. At the same time, showers of sand and appurtenances of the balloon shot downward with equal rapidity, and then daylight was seen through the envelope, great ragged edges of the silk showing on either side.

"They are killed!" went in a hushed whisper through the crowd; but, shortly, the remainder of the envelope appeared to take first a triangular shape and then was transformed into a sort of prachute at the top of the net, and the progress of the wrecked balloon was considerably arrested.

It came down slower and slower, meanwhile being swept by the wind for to the southeast, and finally disappeared from view behind a block of houses. The suspense among the crowds was terrible. But a few minutes later a telephone message was received from Friedenau which announced that the men had landed and had not been seriously injured. A great sigh of relief went up among the people, who threw their hats in the air for joy. The other balloons were sent up, after a brief delay, without further accident.

All the competitors in the race are provided with rations for three days. This is the third international balloon cup race for the James Gordon Bennett trophy.

M'GURRIN DOESN'T KNOW.

Had Not Heard of Charges Against Brigadier General Bates.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 12.—Replying to a rumored investigation regarding charges alleged to have been made against Brigadier General Robert J. Bates of Sault Ste. Marie, Adjutant General McGurrin said:

"I know of no investigation into matters pertaining to Brigadier General Bates, and as far as my knowledge goes there is no feeling against him in the M. N. G. At Camp Harrison we were on friendly terms, and no movement to oust him from the militia was talked of. There were no political discussions that I was aware of, either."

TRUST RIDDEN PARTY

Republican Leaders Should Be in Courts for Acting Anti-Trust.

THE WEST COOL TO TAFT

Forgery of Ex-President Cleveland's Name by Republicans.

Mr. Taft Carries Three Press Agents on a Luxurious Train and Has to Send Out Postal Cards to Get People to Greet Him in the Cities.

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 1.—Special.—Congressman Ollie James, of Kentucky, who made the speech of the Denver convention in seconding the nomination of Mr. Bryan, has arranged speaking dates in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kansas and Nebraska. Mr. James is a popular speaker, and there are as many demands for his appearance on the stump as any other campaign orator. While a visitor at Democratic National headquarters this week, he said:

"Bryan will be elected president in November by the greatest land slide the country has ever known. The record breaking crowds that greeted Mr. Bryan in Judge Taft's home city and state bespoke the sentiment of voters throughout the nation."

Ex-President Cleveland's Name Forgery.

"The dishonest and corrupt method the Republican party is resorting to in its desperation to defeat Mr. Bryan should cause all honest men to rebuke it," continued Mr. James. "The circulation of the pretended article by Grover Cleveland against Mr. Bryan shows to what extent the Republican party is willing to go in order to entrench in power for four years longer the agents of monopoly and the servants of plutocracy. They were willing not only to desecrate the memory of Mr. Cleveland, but to forge his name to an assault upon Mr. Bryan as well as an arraignment of the Democratic party. A party that is willing to desecrate the dead and prostitute the memory of a great ex-president will hesitate at nothing that is necessary. We may expect them again to invade the trust funds of widows and orphans held by insurance companies; we may expect them again to write other letters to 'My dear Harriman,' who was a director in thirty railroad corporations, corporations that had created a trust upon transportation and monopolized the highways of commerce, telling Harriman we are practical men and asking him to gather up a quarter of a million dollars to be used to elect the Republican party. What difference can the people distinguish between the Standard Oil company sending $50,000 to Senator Foraker to buy up newspapers and further the cause of the Republican party, and Harriman, who at the behest of President Roosevelt, got the trusts and monopolies to contribute $250,000 to be used directly on the voters, except that in the first instance Senator Foraker returned the money to the Standard Oil when he found out he could not purchase the newspapers? But Roosevelt allowed the Republican party to use the money that Harriman contributed to aid in his election. If the President desires in some way to make amends he should at least see that his party returns the money which Harriman contributed, to the widows and orphans of the insurance companies whose funds were depleted by a conscienceless band of pirates in the interest of the Republican party.

Republican Treasurer Trust Magnate.

"The treasurer of the Republican campaign fund is a well known trust magnate, a director in many monopolies; he is a force and power in Wall street. Mr. Wm. Nelson Cromwell who, we are informed, contributed $50,000 to the Republican campaign fund, is also a director in many trusts that the Roosevelt party should have before the courts answering indictments for violating the anti-trust law rather than contributing to the Republican campaign fund.

"Mr. DuPont has resigned, the papers tell us, from the chairmanship of the Speakers Bureau. I presume he resigned from the Speakers Bureau so he could give more time to the preparation of his defense for the violation of the anti-trust law."

The fact that the alleged letter from Ex-President Cleveland, published originally in the New York Times, is a forgery, created no surprise at Democratic headquarters. From the very first the publication of this letter in one of the most partisan papers supporting Judge Taft was regarded as a campaign trick. After exploiting the forgery in Republican papers, campaign managers of that party had this misrepresentation of the dead president circulated as a campaign document. The New York Times has been forced to admit that it defamed Mr. Clevelands' memory when it published the fake interview. Very naturally, Mrs. Cleveland and the executor of the late Ex-Presidents' estate have come forward and exposed this most villainous misrepresentation of the memory of a dead president within the history of the nation.

Speaking of the exposure of the Times stery. Mr. Josephus Daniels, chairman of the Press Bureau, said:

"I was in New York when the Times printed the fraudulent Cleveland letter. To my mind, it bore upon its face the evidence that it was a crude forgery, doing violence to the known sentiments of Mr. Cleveland. I found that most of Mr. Cleveland's friends and nearly all the newspaper men believed it to be a fake. Mrs. Cleveland has protected the memory of her distinguished husband by her course in the matter, for the letter, as published, did violence to his utterances and to his public career. I was informed at the time that the forged letter was offered to the New York Herald and to the New York World, but they refused to touch it. The New York Times has a good motto—"All the news that's fit to print."—It would do well to add—"no fake stories printed that other journals refuse."—Those Republicans who have been spending money derived from trusts to circulate the fraudulent Cleveland letter must, if honest, spend as much money to circulate pamphlets saying that the letter they circulated was a clumsy fraud."

Post Card System.

When Mr. Taft learned that the mountain would not come to Mahomet, he decided that Mahomet must go to the mountain. When he found that the people would not come to him and listen to his speeches from the golf links at Hot Springs and from the front porch of Brother Charlie's palatial residence in Cincinnati, he determined to go out among the people.

Apparently, however, there is grave fear among the Republican leaders that their candidate will not be gladly received by the people. In order to overcome this difficulty and in an effort to bring out a crowd to greet Mr. Taft, the Chicago managers have found it necessary to send out postal card notices to the faithful, begging them to go to the railroad station and give the distinguished visitor "a cordial welcome." During the past few days prominent Republicans have received the following notice from Fred W. Upham, assistant treasurer of the Republican National Committee:

Chicago, September 21, 1908.

Hon. Wm. H. Taft, the Republican party's candidate for president and the people's choice, will arrive in Chicago, Wednesday (September 23) evening at 5 o'clock, at the La Salle Street station of the L. S. & M. S. Ry. Please be at the station with your friends and give him a cordial welcome. It will be Mr. Taft's first visit since the famous convention which nominated him for president. Very truly yours.

Fred. W. Upham.

Small Hall for Taft.

To give Mr. Taft an opportunity to explain his attitude toward labor and his injunction record, in a city where hundreds of thousands of laboring men are interested in what he has to say, the Republicans selected a hall with a capacity of less than 2,000 and provided for admission by card only, in order than none but those who agree with him might be allowed to enter. This hall was selected in the heart of the business section after an option on a hall with 15,000 capacity in the center of the working men's district had been refused. The inference is plain that the Republican managers feared to have their candidate appear in a distinctively laboring district where all who would might come and hear, lest the great welcome planned for might be turned into a demonstration for his political opponent, or that Mr. Taft might be asked embarrassing questions.

Stumping Fails Flat.

The fact of the matter is that Mr. Taft's stumping experiment has fallen flat; he has produced absolutely no enthusiasm among the voters, and he has said or done nothing which will improve his chances. Republicans are unable to conceal their feelings of disappointment over the poor showing which their candidate has made. Mr. Taft's progress thus far, and the manner in which he has been received is complete vindication of those Republican leaders who, from the first opposed the plan of having him take to the rear platform. They advocated a front porch campaign wherein the candidate should be kept in the background, and others allowed to make his canvass upon Roosevelt's record. The advocates of a stumping campaign prevailed, however, and now they are sorry it was ever begun.

Elegance vs. Simplicity.

The contrast between the Democratic simplicity with which Mr. Bryan has traveled and the elegance of the Taft accommodations on rail, is as marked as the contrast between the size and enthusiasm of the audiences which have greeted the Democratic candidate, and those which Mr. Taft has addressed. While one great New York newspaper which is supporting Mr. Taft and which maintains a press association service has refused to have a correspondent with Mr. Bryan, ample accommodations are afforded aboard the Taft special for the special correspondents of all the large papers. In addition, for the first time in the history of any campaign, Mr. Taft is carrying with him three press agents paid by the national committee for the purpose of influencing public opinion.

Hired Press Agents.

Notwithstanding all this, the reports come from all along the line that Mr. Taft's receptions have been remarkably chilly, and that the audience have been indifferent to his speeches and involved explanations of his attitude upon public questions. At George Ade's Indiana farm a large crowd was gathered because a harvest festival had been advertised. The people expected a free feast from the "full dinner pail," but were disappointed when they were charged 25 cents for dinner while they waited for the appearance of the candidate. When he did come before them he talked about a larger navy, a stronger army and coast defences, something in which they had little interest, while he ignored the live issues of tariff revision, injunctions, guarantee of bank deposits, publicity of campaign funds, and other questions about which they desired to hear his views. The result was that Mr. Taft's speech was received with inattention and a lack of anything which approached enthusiasm. Impartial newspaper correspondents report that the meeting was not a success. Mr. Bryan is outdrawing Judge Taft by 5 to 1.

Senator Crane Trust Ally.

The appearance of Senator W. Murray Crane, of Massachusetts, upon the Republican scene as chief "advisor" of Chairman Hitchcock in the management of Mr. Taft's campaign, is regarded as further unmistakable evidence of the alliance of the Republican party with the trust interests for the election of Taft. Senator Crane may not be very well known by the farmers and laboring men of the west, but he has a very extensive and intimate acquaintance in Wall street and with the trust protected interests of the east. He belongs to that little coterie of men who rule the United States senate. He is the principal advisor of Senator Nelson W. Aldrich, of Rhode Island, who stands at the head of the Standard Oil list of senators. Senator Crane is second in command.

The failure of Chairman Hitchcock's campaign for Taft made it necessary for the Republicans to form a closer relationship with the trusts in order to procure funds with which to carry on their propaganda. No man is better suited to do the cementing than is Senator Crane. He is a Republican of high standing and is a trust magnate. His interests lie with those who are monopolists and with the trusts.

"When a man wants an excuse," said Charles Kingsley, "the devil will soon fit him with a good one."

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Oct 8, 1908

While the Tuberculosis Congress is first and foremost a serious gathering of the most distinguished of the members of the medical profession throughout the world, it is also the occasion of some notable social affairs and entertainments given in Washington in honor of the delegates. It is rare indeed that September and early October see anything of the social whirl here, but as busy a day as society folk ever see in mid-winter was spent Wednesday and Thursday when at least three great receptions were in progress between four o'clock and midnight. The President and Mrs. Roosevelt will entertain at an evening reception for them also when there will be a general re-union of cabinet ministers, foreign diplomats and attaches and the smart set generally. Secretary Root gave a dinner Thursday night in honor of these delegates, at which his guests numbered 300. It was given at a hotel as there is no private house in the city which would accommodate such a number. Dr. Koch had the place of honor at Mr. Root's right, as the most distinguished guest, though there were other cabinet officers, ambassadors, millionaries, and a sprinkling of senators.

Among the well known participants in the social functions of the week was Mrs. Wm. H. Taft, wife of the presidential candidate. Mrs. Taft has just returned from Bryn Mawr where she entered her daughter in college. She has been visiting Miss Boardman, who is at the head of the National Red Cross Society, a young woman of much ability, the daughter of a multi-millionaire, and herself a social leader.

Miss Helen Taft who is entering Bryn Mawr this year, and who will be the next young lady of the White House if her father is elected, is the same age as Ethel Roosevelt who has done with unimportant and tedious matters like school and who will make her debut this year. Mrs. Taft is rather inclined toward the "high brows" however, and while she is devoted to society and bridge whist herself she is taking out her intellectual ambitions on her only daughter. Young Charles has also been shipped to boarding school to get him out of the political and social atmosphere. Charles is not an angel and the flattery and cajolery he received on a trip around the world and later as the son of the most promising candidate for President, came near effectively spoiling a naturally healthy and wholesome boy or as one of the newspaper attaches of the Taft suite espressed it "made him the rottenest kid outside of the reform school." Mr. and Mrs. Taft were both averse to his being pushed forward but neither was in a position, nor had the time, to keep him in the background, so a boarding school was sensibly decided upon as a means of reducing him to normal state.

The East Side of New York, with all its poverty and suffering, possesses a remarkable intellectual life, says Mabel Agnes Lorenz in the October Smart Set. In the cafes and tea-rooms of this section may be found the exiled brain and spirit of the whole Slav world, influencing silently but effectively tremendous changes in the political life of Southern Europe. In "Where Exiled Russia Eats" Miss Lorenz draws an attractive picture of a phase of life in the metropolis known to but few outside of its little purlieus.

The live wire of practical interest runs through the October Atlantic, vitalizing all its articles and illuminating its varied pictures of life. John Bates Clark continues the Atlantic's study of Socialism by an article on "Education and the Socialisto Movement." With pungent criticism and pertinent suggestion an able New York editor discusses optimistically the question which is the daily despair of the thouhtful—"Is an Honest Newspaper Possible?" William H. Allen explains convincingly the work of the Bureau of Municipal Research in "A National Fund for Efficient Democracy." "The Farmers' Union and the Tobacco Pool," by John L. Mathews, explains the tobacco crisis in Kentucky. This, and a clear discussion of the principle of "Competition," by Henry Holt, are articles which no student of political economy should fail to read.

PROTECTING DEPOSITS IN BANKS.

An Ohio Example of Taft's Position and Oklahoma's Proof of Bryan's Position.

One of the planks of the Denver platform favors guaranteed bank deposits. Mr. Bryan addressed the Ohio legislature in February favoring guaranteed deposits. Former Governor Herrick subsequently addressed the legislature in reply to Mr. Bryan, opposing any such protection for banks and bank depositors.

Mr. Taft, in his speech of acceptance, denounced the plank of the Denver platform, which declares for a national law for banks similar to the Oklahoma law for state banks, thereby coinciding in the views of Mr. Herrick and opposing the views of Mr. Bryan.

Below are two dispatches showing what Mr. Bryan stands for and what Mr. Taft stands for:

THE OHIO WAY.

Cleveland, O., Aug. 17.—The creditors' committee, charged with an investigation of the affairs of the defunct Farmers and Merchants' bank, the cashier of which, Henry W. Gazell, is under arrest charged with embezzlement, tonight reported that the depositors will be forced to shoulder a loss of $415,000.

The report, made in a meeting of 2,800 depositors, charged the deficit to Gazell, alleging his speculations proved disastrous to the institution.

TAFT STANDS FOR THIS.

THE OKLAHOMA WAY.

Guthrie, Okla., May 21.—Within one hour from the time H. H. Smock, Oklahoma banking commission, had taken charge of the International Bank of Colgate he had authority to pay the depositors in full, though the bank's cash and available funds in other banks fell $22,000 short of the total amount of deposits. The commissioner was able to do this under the operation of the new banking law, and this is the first time it has been called into use.

BRYAN STANDS FOR THIS.

On Again, Off Again.

A young New York artist who is almost as noted for his convivial tendencies as he is for his genius was recently asked by a friend:

"What does your wife think of these spells? I should think she would not submit to them."

"When I have a spree," confessed the intemperate one frankly, "she is just as good to me as any one possibly could be. She takes care of me and nurses me back to decency with a kindness that is superhuman—it is angelic and beyond belief.

"But once I am sober again she begins to nag me to promise her, and swear to her that I never, never, never again will drink a drop, and she keeps at me so determinedly and so persistently that—by Jove—she makes me so desperate that I have to go and fill up again so I can forget it."

Her Name.

One needs patience to succeed as a teacher of the young, as this brief dialogue in one of our elementary schools may show:

Scholar—I've left home now, ma'am. I'm living with my auntie.

Teacher—What's her name?

"She's called after me—Fanny."

"Yes, but what's her other name?"

"She has no other."

"But what does the woman next door call her?"

"She doesn't speak to the woman next door."

Well Tested.

"Do you consider your nerve is sufficiently steady to fit you for an airship navigator?"

Married Man's Progress.

The first year after marriage man holds his wife fondly, the second year he holds the baby awkwardly, and every year after that he holds his tongue sensibly.—Dallas News.

Stumping Competition.

That competition is at least the backbone if not the life of trade is illustrated by the big city department stores, especially those located in the same district, where rivalry runs high and the efforts to attract trade are studied with particular care in time of depression. That this same incentive for progress is not given to stores in the country may be one cause—or is it effect?—of the degeneration of some of our rural districts in the east. One of the heads of a prominent New York concern who spent a vacation in New England last summer went to the local "general store" to buy a few yards of a certain cloth.

"We don't keep it," said the storekeeper.

"Why not?" was the reply. "This is a staple. How can you get along without it?"

"Waal," was the indifferent explanation, "we jest can't keep it. I laid in some a short spell ago, but it was bought out, and every time I've got some it only gets sold. There's no use trying to keep it here!"—System.

REMINISCENCES

ANECDOTES TOLD BY MRS. E. B. WOOD.

How often it is that in some one little characterastic the key-note to a person's character is sounded, and in looking up, in the old records, to find something in regard to Dr. Patterson, all that could be found was a card printed in an old Tecumseh Directing of '68 which read "Dr. Patterson Physician and Surgeon."

He had a strong dislike to have a picture taken or to appear in print, but as he was one of the first settlers in Tecumseh, it was on account of this retiring nature, that we find no record of him.

He was born at Easton, Pa., 1804. He graduated and began practice in western New York but on account of the feeling against masons at that time in that state (the Morgan episode had just occurred) he started west and came to Monroe, Mich. and from thence overland to Tecumseh in 1826 where on account of the handsome country and beautiful flowers, he decided to locate—settling here shortly after the town was founded.

He was married in 1837 to Frances A. Wright and built the house now one door south of the Council Building, but at that time standing on the location now occupied by McCann's clothing store. To this house he took his bride and in it all his children were born.

Dr. Patterson was the grandson of Gen. Alexander Patterson who was quartermaster general on the staff of George Washington during the Revolution.

In 1875 he purchased a farm in Virginia at Westham Locks nine miles from Richmond where he intended to spend the winter months; and here he died two years later at the age of 73.

Dr. Patterson was for several years the only physician in Tecumseh and his keen sense of humor carried him over many a rough place.

During those hard days it needed health, strength and courage to face the dangers that were every day occurring, went hunger, Indians, bears, wolves, fever and ague, comprised the experience of that time. One year there was a very severe out break of malarial disorders, and there were not enough of those who were well to take care of the sick, Dr. Patterson rode day and night from log house, to log house, cooking their meals, and giving them medicine, and the people were so poor that it was a sore problem with them, how they could pay him for his services.

Mr. Benjamin VanCamp, who came here in 1830 and lived here for 25 years, says, that some of the settlers saved as much medicine as they could from his prescriptions, and when they grew better, asked the doctor, "if he would take back what they had saved, and allow them for it in their bills."

The doctor was kind hearted, and did so, and when he had accumulated a large amount, he said he put it in a jug poured in some whiskey to preserve it, and, whenever he had a case that he could not handle he gave doses from the jug, and took his chances on the result.

Col. McNair was to marry Miss Betsey Sobenson in May 1832. There was no minister nearer than Ypsilanti, so they invited six couples of their friends to accompany them, among them being Dr. Patterson and Miss Frances Wright but unfortunately they had been having a lover's quarrel, and the doctor would not invite Miss Frances, but could not be happy without her and persuaded Col. McNair to take her, knowing we suppose that she would have to ride home with him as the Col. would wish to be with his bride. Evidently things were smoothed out as they were married shortly afterwards.

Dr. Patterson thought it important to collect the data for history, while the actors and witnesses were still alive, his own mind being stored with interesting facts. He gave an address before the Raisin Valley Historical Society, and tells how the name of "Tecumseh" came to be applied to the village. He says:

"When Musgrove Evans, Austin E. Wing and others were partaking of a rural dinner, in quite a primitive way, under the branches of a spreading oak that grew near the center of our old village ground—then without a name or a permanent white inhabitant—the question arose: 'What shall we call this embryo village?' Evans remarked, after objecting to several other names as too romantic, far-fetched, or meaningless, 'Why not call it Tecumseh?' 'That will not answer', replied one of the party, 'Tecumseh fought for the British and was a British Indian.' 'Thee is mistaken,' quietly answered Friend Musgrove, 'Tecumseh fought on his own account and for his own people. Tecumseh was nature's Indian.' 'That's a fact,' exclaimed Wing, 'and one of nature's noblest specimens of a red man.' This emphatic remark decided the question, and before rising from their rural repast out village had a name."

Dr. Patterson practised his profession here nearly fifty years, one cannot but think of the many pictures that hung on memory's wall, as a physician's life is so inter woven with the lives of the people, but he is at rest.

"Rest, rest a perfect rest
Shed over the brow and breast.
His face is toward the west
The purple land."

The October Review of Reviews has three important illustrated articles dealing with the Presidential contest,—"Mr. Bryan's Third Campaign," by Josephus Daniels, chairman of the Democratic National Committee's press bureau; "The Management of the Taft Campaign," by Walter Wellman; and Chairman Frank Harris Hitchcock," by Snell Smith.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitters have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

WEDDING BELLS

RING IN FAR-OFF PORTLAND.

To Herald the Marriage of Two Well Known Tecumseh People, Mabel Hollister to Frederick Frost.

A pretty romance was consumated Saturday evening, at Portland, Oregon, when the marriage of Frederick Danforth Frost to Mabel Ethel Hollister took place.

The bride and groom were both graduates of the Tecumseh High School in the class of 1903. The same year, they both entered college, Miss Hollister entering the state Normal at Ypsilanti, where she graduated and then taught in the public schools in Bad Axe, which position she gave up to join Mr. Frost in Oregon.

Mr. Frost entered Alma college, spending his freshman year there and his sophomore year at the U. of M. His eyes failed him and he found it was necessary to give up his college course, and he spent the next year in Adrian as secretary of the Y. M. C. A. It was while thus employed that he became interested in the inducements the west held out for young men and left for Oregon in the fall of 1907, where he has since been. Miss Hollister left Tecumseh last Tuesday morning, Mr. Frost meeting her at Portland, where their marriage took place spending a few days in that city, they left for their future home in Butler.

Mrs. Frost was one of Tecumseh's most charming young ladies, possessing the qualities that makes the true and good woman. Both bride and groom were members of the Presbyterian church in this village, and were both popular in religious and social circles. The Herald joins their many friends in wishing them a long life of happiness.

Hyomei Cured Bronchial Catarrh After He had Given Up in Despair.

"For many years I have been a sufferer from bronchial catarrh, and had despair of anything like a cure. Judge of my pleasant surprise when I first used Hyomei, which brought complete relief Hyomei has been a veritable godsend" —Rev. Charles Hartley, Sardinia, Ohio.

There are many readers of the Herald, who are suffering from catarrh, either nasal or bronchial. Many of these despair of ever being cured. They have soaked their stomachs with nostrums until they are disgusted with all medicines, and are now traveling their miserable way, allowing the devilish germs of catarrh to sap them of their health, energy and vitality.

But let us reason together, C. A. Wright & Son, the druggist, has a guaranteed remedy for catarrh, colds, coughs, bronchitis, croup, and all inflammatory diseases of the nose, throat and bronchial tubes The name of this remarkable remedy is Hyomei, and if it doesn't cure C. A. Wright & Son will give you your money back.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is medicated air; you just breathe it through the inhaler over the inflamed and germ ridden membrane, and its soothing antiseptic properties will allay the inflammation, destroy the germs, and restore the entire respiratory tract to its normal conditions.

A complete Hyomei outfit, including a hard rubber inhaler, costs but $1 00, and an extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, costs but 50 cents. See C. A. Wright & Son about it today.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Healthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.

It used to be considered that only urinary and bladder troubles were to be traced to the kidneys but now modern science proves that nearly all diseases have their beginning in the disorder of these most important organs.

The kidneys filter and purify the blood—that is their work.

Therefore, when your kidneys are weak or out of order, you can understand how quickly your entire body is affected and how every organ seems to fail to do its duty.

If you are sick or "feel badly," begin taking the great kidney remedy, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, because as soon as your kidneys are well they will help all the other organs to health. A trial will convince any one.

If you are sick you can make no mistake by first doctoring your kidneys. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney remedy, is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases, and is sold on its merits by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a pamphlet telling you how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. Mention this paper when writing to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Do not let anyone tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good for weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, inflammation of the bladder, or any Kidney and Bladder disorder. A week's trial will convince you. Sold by all druggists.

They are raising melons in Alaska. Great! Now, perhaps, we'll be able to get them cold enough.

But "common sense" sounds so hopelessly middleaged!

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

One cook in the kitchen is worth two dozen who promised to "consider the situation."

Married Man in Trouble

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

Men can forgive a blue stocking if she hath a pretty foot.

A JEWELER'S EXPERIENCE.

C. R. Kluger, The Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Tecumseh who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. Sarah Austin, living on Pearl st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. For sometime I was bothered with kidney trouble. I had distressing pains in my hips and could not get my proper sleep at night on account of the frequent action of the kidneys. I passed a great deal of gravel in my secretions, and at times it was almost impossible to stand the pain. I doctored with different physicians, but only received temporary relief, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I began taking them. The results of their use were most satisfactory, in fact, they effected a complete cure. I am glad to endorse such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

COULDN'T STAND SHELDON.

Even Lt.-Gov. Woodruff, a Trust Character, Said the Present Treasurer of the National Committee, Would Jeopardize the State Ticket.

George R. Sheldon, treasurer of the Republican National committee, whose trust interests are well known, was compelled, under fire, to withdraw from the New York state ticket in the fall of 1902 when he was eager to accept the office of Lieutenant-Governor. His connections with the trusts and especially those owned and dominated by J. Pierpont Morgan and other favored trusts, became such an issue at that time that Governor B. B. Odell fought against his name being placed on the ticket. Odell even went so far as to wire Timothy Woodruff that he would not run on the same state ticket with Sheldon. United States Senator Thomas C. Platt was determined to have Sheldon on the ticket and informed the Republican leaders at the state convention at Saratoga that Sheldon's name would remain on the slate. The wires between the convention city and Albany were kept hot and, finally, Governor Odell was compelled to take a train for Saratoga in order to prevent Sheldon's name from appearing on the ticket. Governor Odell went direct to Senator Platt's home in Saratoga and, after a conference which lasted until 2 o'clock in the morning, Platt yielded and Sheldon's name was withdrawn and F. W. Higgins was nominated for the office sought by George R. Sheldon.

When it was announced that Sheldon would not be on the ticket three hundred delegates in front of Platt's house cheered the glad tidings.

Lieut.-Gov. Woodruff, when asked at that time why he objected so strongly to Sheldon, said:—

"I have no personal animosity toward Mr. Sheldon. I believe that the objections that have been raised to him are of the gravest sort and that they jeopardize the state ticket."

Gov. Odell had this to say a day before Sheldon's name was taken off the slate:

"I fought against George R. Sheldon because his business connections imperiled the whole ticket."

The New York World has cartoons showing a Standard Oil can taking the place of the dome in a picture of the Capitol at Washington. Good! It is another evidence that the people do not rule at Washington, but that the trusts rule through the agency of the Republican party. As to legislation, Mr. Sherman, candidate for vice-president, said "The Republican party is willing and ready to accept full responsibility." Exactly. And the Standard Oil and other trusts rule through that party. The only way to prevent such rule is to elect Bryan.

Sleep

Sleep is nature's rebuilding period, when the energy used by the brain, muscles and organs is renewed. If you lose sleep, your system is robbed of the strength sleep should give. Continued loss of sleep multiplies this loss until you become a physical wreck. Dr. Miles' Nervine quiets the irritated nerves and brings refreshing, invigorating sleep. Nervine contains no opiates, and therefor leaves no bad after-effects.

"For over two years I suffered untold agonies; my friends thought I was going crazy. I could not sleep nor rest at all. I tried different doctors, but failed to find relief. My head would ache all the time; I was like one drunk; could not concentrate my mind, and was so restless and worried that sleep was out of the question. After taking one bottle of Dr. Miles' Nervine I felt wonderfully changed. I am now on my third bottle and am gaining all the time. I can lie down and sleep like a child, and am able to do my work."

Women Inclined To Constipation

Great Care Should Be Taken Not to Use Violent Cathartics

Women, owing to their peculiar functions, are more or less liable to constipation and many of them owe their continued ill health to the pill habit. A well known physician says the majority of cases of foul breath, bad complexion, disordered stomach, sick headache and female weakness to constipation and the constant use of violent cathartics to overcome it.

We believe women will be glad to learn of a safe reliable bowel and stomach remedy that is pleasant to take and that the first few doses will certainly produce natural daily movements without pain or gripe and in a short time establish a permanent cure. It is so effective it has cured cases of 40 years' standing and yet so mild and safe thousands of mothers give it to their babies. Jennie Gresham, Nashville, Tenn., says: "I suffered almost death with torpid liver and indigestion and Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me quick relief." Sister M. Berchmans, of Mt. St. Mary's Academy, Oklahoma City, says: "We have found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin satisfactory as a gentle laxative and stomach tonic." Mrs. Myrtle Mather, Chicago, says: "My daughter was troubled since birth with constipation and sick headache. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin cured her." Mrs. W. M. Powers, New Philadelphia, Ohio, says: "It is the best remedy for constipation and stomach trouble I have ever used." Mrs. R. H. Brown, Addington, Okla., says it gave her prompt relief from constipation and torpid liver. Mrs. Isabella Wheeler, Freetown, Ind., says: "Twenty-three years ago I was taken with stomach trouble. Three years ago I had become so weak I could hardly walk. I took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and today am as well as ever." Druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

We are glad to send a free sample to any one who has not used it and will give it a fair trial. Address Pepsin Syrup Co., 308 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill.

DO THE PEOPLE RULE?

All the Recent Publications Convince the Voters that Trusts Control Legislation.

After all the excitement over the publication of the Standard Oil letters, showing that trusts control legislation, has reached the stage where the voters sift the wheat from the chaff of sensational publications, what will be the logical conclusion in the minds of the voters? It will be:—

1—That the people do not rule because the national law-makers legislate to suit the trusts. More trusts exist today than ever, the people suffer more from them, and they practice more extortion.

2—That the party in power is the party through which the trusts rule. The Republican party is now in power. It writes all the national laws. In a speech in the last Congress, Mr. Sherman (candidate for Vice-President), declared that the Republican party assumed all responsibility for everything that has been done and for what has not been done. That is right. The trusts write the tariff laws passed by Republican votes. If the magnates are not punished criminally, it is because Republican officials fail in their duties. For eleven years the Democrats have had no power to frame Federal laws or to execute a Federal statute. If everything in America is all right as to Federal laws for eleven years, the Republican party deserves the credit. If "evils have crept in" the Republicans are responsible. The only hope for a change lies in the election of Bryan.

Suppose some individual Democrat has been employed by a trust. He could not get a law passed, he could not get "an immunity bath," he could do nothing effectively for the trusts unless a majority of the Republican Congressmen favored the trust measures. The Republican orators can not escape responsibility by trying to pick out some Democrat who has been employed by a trust. Recent disclosures prove that the people do not rule, but that the trusts owe their existence and fatness to Republican laws and Republican officials.

SHAKING DOWN THE TRUSTS.

Chas. G. Dawes Visits Wall Street and Promises Republican Party Will Be Good.

Under New York date line of Sept. 19 the daily papers of the country publish a dispatch from which the following is taken:

"The visit of Charles G. Dawes, of Chicago (formerly Comptroller of the Currency), had more influence than anything else in arousing Wall street uneasiness. Mr. Dawes came to New York primarily to raise money for the Republican congressional campaign committee, and he gave the people he called upon very clearly to understand that the Republican majority in the house is in danger.

"Wall street has steeled itself against the importunities of political canvassers for funds, but Mr. Dawes' visit was unquestionably impressive. The people who saw and heard him were convinced that he really meant what he said when he announced that unless means were taken to arrest the current and change the situation the Democrats would swing into control of the popular branch of congress and probably elect a president. Mr. Dawes did not confine his visit alone to bankers and financiers. He devoted a good share of his attention to leading representatives of the manufacturing interests. He carried away some money, but not nearly as much as he had hoped for."

The Republican National committee says it gets no money from the Standard Oil company. Does that concern, then, give its money direct to Republican candidates?

Court Drops Penciled Ballot Question.

Lansing, Mich., Oct. 12.—The supreme court won't decide the question whether the use of lead pencils in marking the initials of inspectors on election ballots renders them void. Chief Justice Grant having so informed the clerk of the court. The point was raised on mandamus proceedings commenced by Dr. Bradley in contesting the nomination of Governor Warner, but, the recount having been abandoned, the court was pleased to take judicial notice of the fact and dismiss a proceedings that was giving the judges some concern. This leaves nothing for the canvassing board to do but issue a certificate of nomination to Governor Warner, placing his plurality at 1,415, a loss of about 400 votes from the original returns, as the result of the recount.

There was a loud report, and he fell to the floor. He died in St. Mary's hospital.

PUTS IT UP TO GOMPERS.

President Attacks Democratic Anti-Injunction Plank.

"MEANS ABSOLUTELY NOTHING"

Chief Executive Draws Comparison Between Democratic Plank and "Remedy" Bill Filed in House and Indorsed by Gombers and Federation of Labor—He Invites Bryan to Discuss Issue.

Washington, Oct. 22.—Campaign literature has been enriched by a letter from President Roosevelt addressed to United States Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, in which Mr. Roosevelt pays his respects to Samuel Gompers, president of the Federation of Labor. Speaking at Philadelphia on Tuesday, Senator Knox took issue with Mr. Gompers on the question of the attitude of organized labor in the present campaign, and the president's letter is in support of Mr. Knox's views.

Mr. Roosevelt said in part:

"White House, Oct. 21, 1908.

"My Dear Senator Knox:

"The daily papers of Oct. 13 contain an open letter from Mr. Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, appealing to workingmen to vote for Mr. Bryan.

"In that letter are certain definite statements which interest the wider American public quite as much as those to whom Mr. Gompers makes his appeal.

"Mr. Gompers asserts that the judiciary of this country is destroying Democratic government and substituting therefor an irresponsible and corrupt despotism in the interest of corporate power, and he further makes clear that the means by which he believes this alleged despotism has been set up in the place of democracy is by the process of injunction in the courts of equity.

Republicans Turned Him Down.

"Mr. Gompers in his letter states that his appeal to the Republican convention at Chicago for remedy against the injunction was denied, and he then goes on to state not only that the Democratic party promised a remedy, but promised him the particular remedy that he had already asked of congress."

The president here quotes the Democratic anti-injunction plank. Continuing, he says:

"This is the plank that promises the 'remedy' against injunctions which Mr. Gompers asked of Mr. Bryan's party. In actual fact, it means absolutely nothing; no change of the law could be based on it; no man without inside knowledge could foretell how any judge would decide in any given case, as the plank apparently leaves each judge free to say when he issues an injunction in a labor case whether or not it is a case in which an injunction would issue if labor were not involved. Yet this plank is apparently perfectly clear to Mr. Gompers, and in his letter to his followers he indicates beyond question just what he understands it to mean. He asserts that he has the requisite inside knowledge. His statement that Mr. Bryan's party (for it was Mr. Bryan who dictated the platform) pledged itself to those remedies which labor had already submitted to congress is a perfectly clear and definite statement.

"The 'remedies' which Mr. Gompers has already submitted to congress are matters of record, and the identification of his 'remedy' against injunctions in labor disputes is easy and certain. This 'remedy' is embodied in house bill No. 54 of the first session of the Sixtieth congress, the complete text of which is hereto appended.

The "Remedy."

"First: After forbidding any federal judge to issue a restraining order for an injunction in any labor dispute except to prevent irreparable injury to property or property rights, it specifically provides that 'no right * * * to carry on business of any particular kind, or at any particular place, if at all, shall be construed, held, considered or treated as property or as constituting a property right.'

"Second: It provides that nothing agreed upon or done by two or more parties in connection with a labor dispute shall constitute a conspiracy or other criminal offense, or be prosecuted as such unless the thing agreed upon or done would be unlawful if done by a single individual.

"The bill here described is not only the 'remedy' that Mr. Gompers has 'already submitted to congress,' but it is the one and only 'remedy' which he and those associated with him in his present movement have announced that they will accept in the matter of his grievance against the courts on the injunction issue.

"The counsel for the American Federation of Labor and Mr. Gompers, its president, are both on record to this effect.

"This bill, then, and none other, represents exactly the relief that Mr. Gompers demands in the way of anti-injunction legislation; and, if the statement in his letter is correct, this bill represents what Mr. Bryan and his party are pledged to in the matter of anti-injunction legislation.

Does Mr. Bryan Accept It?

"The injunction plank in the Bryanite platform may sound vague and hazy, but there is nothing vague and hazy about this bill.

"Does Mr. Bryan accept it as such?

"Mr. Bryan should state publicly whether he, in fact, accepts the principle of this bill, which is the official program of Mr. Gompers and those who stand with him.

"Mr. Gompers announces publicly that Bryan's party has made this program its own. Is Mr. Gompers correct in this statement?

"Mr. Bryan failed in his letter of acceptance to discuss this labor plank of his party's platform. So far as I am aware he has failed to discuss it since. There should be such a discussion as a matter of common fairness, not only to labor, but all citizens alike.

"Mr. Taft has repeatedly explained exactly where he stands in this matter of regulating injunctions. Mr. Gompers' public statements as to what his party has promised makes it imperative that Mr. Bryan declare himself."

Tokio, Oct. 22.—Today 4,000 soldiers from the fleet came to Tokio and attended a garden party at Habyia park, given by Y. Osaki, mayor of Tokio. At the same time the officers were entertained at luncheons given by the mayor and by Prince Shimadazu, later attending a garden party at the British embassy. Many of the officers were entertained at the home of the president of the Nippon Yusen Kaisha, a Japanese steamship company. Later today all commissioned officers of the fleet will attend a theatrical performance to be given at Kabuki theater, the largest playhouse in Tokio. At this gathering, President Shibusawa of the Japanese welcome society will speak.

Admiral Sperry and the other admirals of the fleet will leave Tokio for Yokohama on Friday, but the last feature of the city's entertainment of the Americans will be given by Baran Kaneko, president of the American Friends society, on Friday night, and Rear Admiral Emory will remain in Tokio to represent Admiral Sperry. The reception will be held at the rooms of the Maple club, and Baron Kaneko will then present to Admiral Sperry, through Admiral Emory, a relic of Commodore Perry's visit to Japan.

The dinner and ball given last evening in honor of the visit of the American fleet of battleships by Premier Katsura at his residence brought together about 1,500 prominent persons, including all the American officers who were invited to the ball. The guests at the dinner, however, were confined to those holding official positions. There were no set speeches. Premier Katsura proposed the health of President Roosevelt and American Ambassador O'Brien that of the emperor of Japan. A toast to the fleet by the premier was responded to by Rear Admiral Sperry.

Carried Out to Sea.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 22.—While trying to cross the harbor in a small boat from Morris cove to Savin rock, at night, Howard B. Welch of West Haven and Charles A. Prindle of this city were carried out into the Long Island sound by the wind and tide and were later picked up by the steamer Richard Peck, bound for New York on her regular trip. A message received from Welch from New York states that Prindle had died from exposure after they were taken aboard the steamer.

Governor Suspends Hunting Season.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 22.—In the hope of preventing more forest fires in Vermont, Governor Charles H. Prouty issued a proclamation today suspending the hunting season in this state until Nov. 8th. This will be done under authority of an emergency bill rushed through both branches of the legislature and signed by the governor yesterday.

Black River, Mich., Oct. 22.—The fire situation in Alcona township is alarming. R. D. Nicholson has lost his barn and his entire crops, together with all his farm machinery. Clarence Scribor's farmhouse was destroyed, and the family barely escaped with their lives. While the people extended temporary help, something will have to be done to aide them over during the coming winter. Other farmers in the vicinity are not in position to extend more than temporary help, as most everyone has suffered more or less.

THREE HUNDRED LIKELY DEAD.

Storm in Cagayan Valley of Philippines Devastating.

HEAVY TYPHOON AND RAINS.

Rivers Rose to Great Height and Swept Everything Before Them. Americans at Aparri Formed Brigade and Saved Scores of Natives—Reported Cholera Is Among Refugees.

Manila, Oct. 22.—Belated reports indicate that a storm on Oct. 12 in the Cagayan valley was the worst and most destructive within the memory of living inhabitants of the valley. The official figures are not yet available, as many places have not been heard from, but it seems certain that the number of dead will reach 300.

There was a heavy typhoon and torrential rains throughout the valley and in the mountains. The rivers were flooded, and in many places they rose to a height of thirty feet, sweeping everything before them in their path to the sea. Hundreds of animals and houses were swept away by the waters.

At Aparri, which was almost all under water, the American residents, headed by Lieutenants Treadway and Clark, Postmaster Foss and Engineer Clark, formed a brigade which rescued scores of natives, taking many off their houses, which were floating down the river.

The government has despatched a coast guard cutter to investigate conditions and organize relief.

It is reported that cholera has broken out among the refugees.

NINE MICHIGAN HEROES.

Carnegie Hero Fund Commission Awards Them Medals.

Pittsburg, Oct. 22.—The Carnegie Hero Fund commission, at its quarterly meeting just held, recognized forty-eight persons as having performed acts of heroism deserving recognition under the rules governing the fund provided by Mr. Carnegie. Each of these persons was awarded a medal—bronze, silver or gold—and a number of them were also awarded cash for educational or other purposes. The cash awards made amount to about $4,000.

In the awards just made nine go to Michigan. They follows:

Erwin J. Roller, Manchester, bronze medal and $2,000 for education; Edward A. Biber, Lansing, bronze medal and $2,000 for education; Ward W. Bennett, Glen Haven, silver medal and $1,000 towards home; Philo G. Plummer, Lansing, silver medal, $600 disablement benefits and $1,400 to pay debts; Jens Jensen, Oakhill, bronze medal and $1,000 for home; Walter S. Slear, Tecumseh, bronze medal; Elbert Gibson, Riverdale, silver medal and $50 a month to his widow and $5 a month for each minor child; August Schultz, Brainerd, silver medal and $50 a month to his widow and $5 a month for each minor child; Frederick Hiser, Wessel, silver medal and $250 disablement benefits.

Sent English Girl Back Home.

New York, Oct. 22.—Abundantly supplied with money and jewelry, Miss Ray Bucey, an attractive English girl, who said she was presented to the court of King Edward last season, has been sent back to England on the steamer Mauretania. Miss Bucey arrived here last Friday on the same steamer, and among her fellow passengers was J. H. Alport. Upon receipt of a cablegram from Alport's father, the immigration authorities detained the young man to await the government's decision in the case and sent the young woman back home. Miss Bucey was indignant at her treatment, which she characterized as outrageous.

Prisoners Get Out; One Escaped.

Coldwater, Mich., Oct. 22.—A bold jail delivery has occurred here, one prisoner escaping. Robert Brisbane, who was being held for trial for larceny, called to the sheriff's wife and asked for a mop and pail of water to scrub the corridor of the cell rooms. When the woman opened the big iron doors to hand in the cleaning utensils Brisbane, with Melbert Hopkins and David Mawhood, two Jackson prisoners, who were brought here a few days ago as witnesses in a case, shoved her to one side and rushed into the jail yard and made for the railroad yards. Hopkins and Mawhood were caught after a chase of several blocks, but Brisbane made good his escape.

CONDITIONS IMPROVED.

Back-Firing Has Saved Settlements in Soo District.

MUCH HARDWOOD BURNED.

Lapczinsky Family, Near Grand Lake, Did Not Perish—Supervisors Declare 1,200 People Are Destitute. Railroad Officials Say More—Sufferers Near Alpena Neglected.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Oct. 22.—Reports from the country indicate conditions in the fire zone are slightly improved. Back-firing around small towns and stripping of the surrounding country has been so thorough that now there is nothing to burn near the settlements.

The damage from now on will be confined mostly to the destruction of timber, which will undoubtedly continue until rain comes. Sugar island, which has been the center of attention for twenty-four hours, reports conditions better. While hundreds of acres burned over and many homes were threatened, back-firing and wetting roofs saved many farmhouses from destruction. It is estimated that seventy-five square miles of hardwood in that country have been burned.

Alpena, Mich., Oct. 22.—Marin Lapczinsky, his wife and two children, missing since last week Thursday, and thought to be either burned to death or drowned in Grand lake, have been located at the cottage of Bliss Stebbins on the lake shore, where they have been for several days.

Fourteen cabins are either finished or in process of erection in the village of Metz and many more in the surrounding country.

Over 1,000 Destitute.

Reports differ as to the number of destitute people. The supervisors, who have been through the country declare that 1,200 is a correct estimate. The books of the railroad officials, however, show that many more have applied for aid than were listed by the supervisors and are inclined to place the total at about 1,500.

Several attempts to graft provisions were discovered and frustrated by railroad officials. Many who obtained food and clothing at Metz came to Posen with the same tale of woe that won sympathy in the former case. The distributors at Metz, however, had provided Posen with a duplicate list of those aided and the supplies given them. Confronted with these lists, the greedy ones looked sheepish and drove away.

James Snowdy, president of the Presque Isle supervisors, declares that many who are demanding aid have money in Alpena banks. He is investigating the assessment rolls and will list all those who have money enough to keep them through the winter.

The D. & M. ran an excursion from Cheboygan to Metz. About 300 people came down and saw the scenes of devastation.

Suffering Child Cared For.

A pitiful case of injury and destitution was revealed when Eva Turah, a fourteen-year-old girl, walked from her father's farm to the station at Posen and asked for help. The girl was clad in a thin dress, the only garment left to her. Her lower limbs were terribly burned, and each step cost her terrible pain. Nevertheless, she had walked two miles.

The railroad men fought with one another to fit out the child with clothing and attend to her wants in the way of food. She will be brought to Alpena and cared for until her burns heal. The Turah family lost all their possessions in the fire and came to Posen for aid.

So much attention has been paid to Presque Isle county that much suffering near Alpena has gone unnoticed. There are seventeen destitute families near Bolton who will be cared for. Many supplies destined for Metz have been stopped at Alpena and will be sent where they will do the most good.

Several insurance companies' men are on the ground figuring the losses.

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 22.—After a desperate all night fight, the residents of Red Ridge and $1,000,000 worth of mining property were saved from a forest fire which threatened it.

The fire spread for half a mile on two sides of the village and threatened the big stamp mills of the Baltic and the Atlantic mines. Several hundred miners and villagers attacked the blaze and succeeded in holding it in check until a favorable wind saved the property.

No War Material For Servians.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—The government published an order today prohibiting the export of guns, ammunition, horses or any war material to Servia.

TO MIDDLE WEST AND ROCKY MOUNTAIN STATES REPUBLICANS.

You want Mr. Taft and Mr. Sherman elected, and they cannot be elected unless the Republican National Committee has sufficient money to pay the legitimate expenses of the campaign. It costs money to maintain an organization. It requires money to pay for printing, postage, salaries or stenographers and clerks at headquarters, traveling expenses of speakers and numerous other details that go to make the campaign end successfully. Congress, as you know, has passed a law making it unlawful for us to solicit money from corporations. We must depend upon the contributions of individual voters. If every Republican in this Western Division would contribute one dollar to the campaign fund, we will be able to do all the things that the voters want done; we will be able to elect Taft and Sherman. Will you help? If so, please send one dollar to the chairman of your State Finance Committee, whose name appears in the list following, or send it direct to me and you will receive the official receipt of the Republican National Committee. Respectfully,

FRED W. UPHAM,
Assistant Treasurer.

Contributions may be sent by check or money order to any of the following named chairmen of the various State finance committees:

TAFT AND EMPLOYERS' LIABILITY.

His Decision in the "Voight Case" Forerunner of Present Humane Statute.

A striking service to humanity which William H. Taft rendered in his judicial career is recalled by Eugene F. Ware, former Commissioner of Pensions, in a letter to the Kansas City Star. Mr. Ware refers to what was known as the "Voight case," which was decided by Judge Taft in 1897. Judge Taft's decision, although overruled by the United States Supreme Court, is really the pioneer of a section of the present employers' liability law, which was passed through the efforts of President Roosevelt and a Republican Congress, and approved April 22, 1908.

Voight was an express messenger who, to get his job, had to sign an agreement releasing the express company from liability in case he was injured or killed. The express company had a contract with the railroad exempting the railroad from liability in the event of injury to an express messenger. Voight was severely injured, and sued the railroad for damages on the ground of gross negligence, arguing that the railroad company could not make a contract evading its responsibility.

Judge Taft gave Voight a judgment of $6,000 and costs, holding that the express company had no right to make such contracts; that they were oppressive, unreasonable and unjust, and were against public policy, and further that the railroad company owed to the express messenger the same public duty which it owed to a passenger.

The path blazed out by Judge Taft was followed in the new law referred to, which provides "That any contract, rule, regulation or device whatsoever, the purpose or intent of which shall be to enable any common carrier to exempt itself from any liability created by this act, shall to that extent be void."

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

KOPKE-CLEMENT.

A pretty home wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Kopke in Holloway Wednesday evening, when their daughter May was united in marriage to Edwin Clement of Adrian. Wagner's Lohengrin was played by Miss Nora Mitchell and as the sweet strains of the march floated through the rooms the bridal couple unattended, took their places. Miss Marion Kopke, sister of the bride, acted as ring bearer. Rev. J. A. DeSpelder of Maurice, Iowa, performed the impressive service which united these two lives for the remainder of their life's journey.

The bride's gown was of white persian lawn lace trimmed and she carried a handsome shower bouquet of pink carnations. After hearty congratulations the guests, sixty-five in number, were invited to the dining room where a two course dinner was served, Mrs. Mattie of Tecumseh, catering. Mr. and Mrs. Clement left on the evening train for Detroit for a short wedding trip, Mrs Clement travelling in a suit of brown with hat to match. They will be at home in a short time at 127 East Maumee street, Adrian, Mich., where the groom holds a responsible position with the Lamb Fence Co. Both Mr. and Mrs. Clement have a wide circle of friends in Tecumseh who extend congratulations. Newton Satterthwaite and family, Miss Libbie Satterthwaite, Edith Magers and Will Hanna of Tecumseh, were in attendance.

HAD QUIT WORK
READY TO GIVE UP IN DESPAIR
Restored to Health By Vinol

"I was sick, run-down and finally had to give up work. After trying a number of remedies and several physicians, I was just about ready to give up in despair. I saw Vinol advertised and decided to try it, and it has done more good for me than all other means combined. It has built me up and restored my strength until I now feel twenty years younger, and am able to attend to my work again as usual." Job Jeavons, 1036 Lind street, Wheeling, W. Va.

The reason Vinol is so successful in such cases is because it contains tonic iron and all of the strengthening blood-making and body-building elements of cod liver oil, but no oil.

Vinol is unexcelled as a strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness—and is the best known remedy for coughs, colds and bronchitis.

We return your money if Vinol fails to give satisfaction.

VINOL is sold in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, Druggists.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Oct 17, 1908

An unusual number of changes in the Diplomatic corps in Washington will be made this winter owing to the death, transfer resignation and in one case removal of the diplomats who have represented the different countries in the United States. The most important change will be that made in the German Embassy. The late Ambassador, Speck von Sternberg died during the summer and his successor has not been named as yet It is believed that the Kaiser is hesitating about the appointment as he regards it of the utmost importance to find a man who will be acceptable to this Government and one who will do everything possible to sustain and promote the entente between the two countries. As the result of the elections would make a great deal of difference as to the Ambassador from Germany who would be most acceptable at the White House, it is believed that the Kaiser will not make his appointment until after it is known whether Bryan or Taft is to be the next President. Mexico has just announced that Ambassador Creel is to retire in the near future and there will be a new representative from that country. Turkey has already appointed an ambassador, the first of that rank to come to this country. The new representative is Diakazim Bey who for the last sixteen years has been Minister at Bucharest. The president Minister from Panama is to become a member of President Obaldia's Cabinet and it is probable that the Secretary of the Legation here will succeed him. It is rumored that Viscount de Alte of Portugal, Baron de Rosen of Russia, and Dr Wu of China may all be replaced but these changes are not offically announced as yet. Minister Corea of Nicaragua was believed to have retired when he left the city for his home last summer with his young American wife and new baby and most of his household goods but as he is on his way back to Washington it is now believed he will serve at lease another year. So many changes in Diplomatic circles in one season is quite unusual and is causing considerable perturbation in smart society which looks to the legations and embassies for much of its most interesting entertainment.

An interesting ruling regarding the real definition of "family" has just been made by the Civil Service Commission here and parents may be surprised to learn that their children who have left the parental roof and branched out for themselves no longer belong to the "family." It is doubtful if any mother in the land can be persuaded to believe that because a son has married and moved around the corner he is no longer one of the family, but the Commission so rules it. The Civil Service law forbids the appointment in the executive departments of more than two members of a family but there has always been some confusion as to what might be legally construed as a family, and the present ruling relieves the situation by explaining that a family consists only of those who live under the same roof with the pater families and that when sons and daughters become the heads of new establishments they cease to be part of the father's family.

Coming Oct. 24. "Nobody's Claim."

A melo-drama with a strong story of deep heart interest that holds the audience from start to finish and sends them away from the theatre satisfied that they have seen a play well worthy of their time and attention is "Nobody's Claim."

The touching story of the life of little Madge, from the time we find her a homeless mountain waif in the first act, to the time she marries Ward Devereaux in the last, is one that strongly appeals to every woman's heart, while the comedy element is of the bright catchy kind that keeps the audience in the best of humor throughout.

Far out over the western hills, out in the land of the setting sun, where the sun shines mostly, and the rain makes the wild flowers smell all the sweeter, are laid the scenes of "Nobody's Claim." The struggle of the out law band known as "Owls" against the U. S. Soldiers, the pretty little romantic love story of Ward Devereaux and Madge the mountain waif, and the troubles of the Irish Major and Calademus, the colored angel of the camp, all go to form a dramatic story of musical interest. Strong dramatic climaxes, sensational incidents and sparkling comedy are so nicely blended that we forget the theatre and see only the primative children of the hills as they are in real life. Holden Bros., big production of this great play will come to New Bradley opera house, on Saturday, Oct. 24 for one night. Don't miss this one.

LOWRY-TEMPLE.

A wedding of much interest to their wide circle of friends, was that of Miss Julia Lowry to Herbert Temple, which occurred Wednesday evening, at the home of the brides parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Lowry on Shawnee street at 6 o'clock

Rev. J. Wirt Dunning of the Presbyterian church, pronounced the ceremony which united the lives of the estimable young people

The wedding was a quiet one witnessed only by the immediate families of both bride and groom. After congratulations a wedding supper was served.

Mr. and Mrs. Temple left on the evening train for a short wedding trip and will be at home, soon, in the Rector house on Shawnee street.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Temple graduated from the Tecumseh High School in the class of 1900, and have always made this village their home. Numerous friends extend congratulations, wishing them a long, and prosperous married life.

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: "The good Electric Bitters have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

The real test is in the baking.

Other Baking Powders may make broad claims, but when it comes to the production of real delicious biscuit, cakes and pastry proves its real worth. This is because of its much greater leavening power and the strict purity of its ingredients.

CALUMET

It costs only a trifle more than the cheap and big can brands and much less than the Trust Baking Powders.

Culhane's Comedians.

The above well known company of players will be the attraction at the New Bradley opera house, for three nights beginning Monday, Oct. 26, presenting a line of plays that are new to the patrons of this popular playhouse, producing the plays in a manner that will win the theatregoers favor and patronage. The acting company is a competent one in every way, composed of people who are fully capable to play the parts assigned them. The play selected for the opening bill for Monday, Oct 26 is a comedy drama of more than ordiary merit, entitled "For A Girl's Love," a play of college life in three acts, full of bright, clean comedy, with a touch of heart interest here and there, telling a pretty love story. In addition to the play five big vaudeville acts are presented between the acts at each and every performance. On Monday night as is the custom, with all week stand companies, ladies will be admitted free. Popular prices 10-20-30c, will prevail during the engagement of this company.

IS THIS A SQUARE DEAL?

C. A. Wright & Son the Druggist will Give You Your Money Back if MI-O-NA Does Not Cure Dyspepsia.

C. A. Wright & Son makes this square deal offer because he is authorized to do so by the makers of Mi-o-na tablets, and he is willing to have this statement appear in the Herald because he knows the offer is genuine.

And while it may be that there are about 8 cases in 100 that are too far gone for Mi-o-na to cure, we are willing and ready to take all the chances, and if Mi-o-na does not cure, any dyspeptic can have his money back.

Even with this liberal offer, C. A. Wright & Son will not have to refund but a very small percentage, because the 8 incurable dyspeptics will find so much relief in Mi-o-na that they will once again look upon the sunny side of life, and will continue to use Mi-o-na.

Now, reader, you may say how can the makers of Mi-o-na make such an offer? How do they know that 92 per cent. of the users will be cured, and that the other 8 per cent, or the incurables, will be relieved?

Why, it's all very simple. We've made this same offer in 1000 towns before we made it here, and we have figured out the percentages, so that when we make the statement we know it to be absolutely true

"Mi-o-na tablets are truly great for anyone that has stomach trouble. I can not praise them too highly for what they have done for me."—Mrs. W. D. Bennett, Bucksport, Me.

The price is only 50 cents a box.

The Cause of Many Sudden Deaths.

There is a disease prevailing in this country most dangerous because so deceptive. Many sudden deaths are caused by it—heart disease, pneumonia, heart failure or apoplexy are often the result of kidney disease. If kidney trouble is allowed to advance the kidney-poisoned blood will attack the vital organs, causing catarrh of the bladder, or the kidneys themselves break down and waste away cell by cell.

Bladder troubles almost always result from a derangement of the kidneys and a cure is obtained quickest by a proper treatment of the kidneys. If you are feeling badly you can make no mistake by taking Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It corrects inability to hold urine and scalding pain in passing it, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night. The mild and the extraordinary effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It stands the highest for its wonderful cures of the most distressing cases.

Swamp-Root is pleasant to take and is sold by all druggists in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle of this wonderful new discovery and a book that tells all about it both sent free by mail. Address, Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Do not let anyone tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good for weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, inflammation of the bladder, or any Kidney and Bladder disorder. A week's trial will convince you. Sold by all druggists.

They are raising melons in Alaska. Great! Now, perhaps, we'll be able to get them cold enough.

But "common sense" sounds so hopelessly middleaged!

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

One cook in the kitchen is worth two dozen who promised to "consider the situation."

Married Man in Trouble

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

A JEWELER'S EXPERIENCE.

C. R. Kluger, The Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. Sold by all druggists.

OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Tecumseh who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. Sarah Austin, living on Pearl st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. For sometime I was bothered with kidney trouble. I had distressing pains in my hips and could not get my proper sleep at night on account of the frequent action of the kidneys. I passed a great deal of gravel in my secretions, and at times it was almost impossible to stand the pain. I doctored with different physicians, but only received temporary relief, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I began taking them. The results of their use were most satisfactory, in fact, they effected a complete cure. I am glad to endorse such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

BRYAN AGAINST WOOL GROWERS.

Proposed Policies of Democracy Would Wreck Wool Growing Industry.

McKinley was elected through a number of Rocky Mountain states which had voted for Cleveland. These states were Democratic because of the large mining population. They turned to McKinley on account of the severe punishment they had received by placing wool on the free list during the four years of the life of the Wilson Tariff act, which on the theory of free raw material swept away the duty upon wool, and this nearly destroyed the wool growing industry of the United States; and if it had not been saved by the Dingley act, which restored the McKinley duties upon wool, the industry by this time would have been wiped out in the United States. Bryan hopes to carry Wisconsin, which is a wool growing state, and the Rocky Mountain wool growing states which voted for Cleveland the last time. Apparently he expects the wool growers to overlook the fact that the Republican platform expresses and defines protection to American industries, particularly mentioning the farmer, who is a wool grower.

Bryan's election would be a menace to the wool grower in two ways. The Democratic party has defined its attitude toward wool as a raw material, although it is the finished product of the farmer. It takes a whole year to grow a fleece of wool, and in this climate, where sheep are fed in winter, they are fed crops, which represent labor and high-priced American labor, whereas the competitor of the American wool grower is the wool grower of the Southern Hemisphere (Australasia, the Argentine Republic and South Africa), who has the advantage of perennial pasture, and owing to this advantage, the cost of wool growing is only one-half of that of the American wool grower who, in the states enumerated, have to feed their sheep in the winter.

Another way to destroy the American wool grower would be by the destruction of the American Woolen Company, which consumes 40 per cent of American wool, on the ground that it is a trust. The American Woolen Company is composed of what were formerly some of the largest mills of the United States. They are thus what Bryan would denominate a "trust," and as his platform boldly declares that the products of trusts should be put on the free list, he would destroy the market for what American wool would be left.

Then, again, if, in order to strike at the trust, he removes the duty upon "manufacturers of wool," he destroys the other 60 per cent of the independent mills outside of the American Woolen Company, or, in other words, those that are not in the trust. The Bryan policy spells ruin alike to wool growers and wool manufacturers.—American Economist.

Fun Missed In Air Traveling.

It may be a great achievement for a balloon to travel at the rate of seventy-five miles per hour, but what is the fun in skipping along at that rate when you cannot see the telegraph poles or constables whiz past? The pleasure in speed is in passing things that stand still or go slower.—Boston Advertiser.

A VILLAGE HOME

Fountainville, Pa., Feb. 16, 1902.

S. B. Hartman, M. D.

Dear Sir: I have been thinking of writing to you for some time to let you know what Peruna did for me.

I am 57 years old. I lost my health about six or seven years ago. I first had dyspepsia and employed different doctors.

Last year I injured one of my kidneys. I had one of the best doctors for that. He put me to bed, not to move for two weeks.

I slowly recovered, but was so weak and prostrated that I could walk but a short distance. In fact I had to keep quiet.

I took several remedies, but obtained no relief. I also had catarrh in some form.

My wife advised me to take Peruna, and it is with pleasure that I can say that by taking one and one-half bottle of your Peruna, it cured me and I feel all right. I send this with many thanks to you, as I enjoy life again.

My wife has also been taking your Peruna for asthma and it helps to relieve her. We keep your Peruna in the house constantly. Again I say I thank you for Peruna.

Sincerely yours,
PHILIP KRATZ.

Fountainville, Pa., Nov. 9, 1903.

Dr. S. B. Hartman.

Dear Sir: I have good health now and your valuable medicine gave me good health. I have had no doctor for some time, as I do not need any. When I take cold I take Peruna and in a short time I am all right. My wife is subject to asthma. She takes Peruna at that time, and she has had no need for a doctor for some time. With many thanks for your medicine, we remain,

Sincerely yours,
PHILIP KRATZ.

Fountainville, Pa., April 16, 1903.

Dr. S. B. Hartman.

Dear Sir: We have Peruna in the house all the time and when we think we need it, we take it. We are about sixty years old and have not called a doctor to our place for some years.

We go out in all kinds of weather and sometimes when we go on a trip we take Peruna along. A preventive is better than a cure. That has been our experience.

I had poor health some years ago and when I found your medicine I hit the right thing. We both thank you for your good medicine.

Sincerely yours,
PHILIP KRATZ.

Witness to Signatures.

I, John Donnelly, Mayor of Doylestown, Pa., have been acquainted with Mr. Philip Kratz for 25 years. I know him to be an honorable and useful citizen. He, in my presence, signed the above statements concerning Peruna, which I have every reason to believe are true in all particulars.

ZIMMERMAN SAW GLAZIER.

Son of Bankrupt Says Commissioner Suggested Dubious Deal to His Father.

Chelsea, Mich., Oct. 22.—That Banking Commissioner Henry M. Zimmerman visited Frank P. Glazier's home at Kavanaugh lake and suggested a method by which the transactions of Glazier with his Chelsea and Dexter banks might be made to appear right was the sworn statement of Harold M. Glazier, son of the former state treasurer, in his examination before Referee in Bankruptcy Harlow P. Davock here Wednesday afternoon.

In the testimony of Harold Glazier, it is declared, attorneys for Frank P. Glazier plainly displayed one line of defense on which they hope to clear their client in the criminal proceedings set for trial in the Ingham county court next month.

The statement of Harold Glazier in regard to Zimmerman came at the very conclusion of an all day's examination of members of the Glazier family to reveal the hidden assets of the bankrupt. Questions by Attorney Sawyer, representing Glazier, brought out the sensational statement of the son.

The daughter and wife of Mr. Glazier were also on the stand during the day. Mrs. Glazier admitted having burned the books of 1907 of the Glazier Stove company at the Glazier country home.

In spite of the arguments of the attorneys to the contrary, Referee Davock at the close of the day's hearing, set Nov. 5 as the date when Glazier himself must appear for examination. Attorneys Gorman and Sawyer argued strongly that their client is not able physically to be examined, but Attorney Oxtoby, who represents the Security Trust company, persisted that the limit of delay had been reached, and the court finally decided in favor of the latter.

Owen Sound, Ont., Oct. 22.—J. Parish Creighton, condemned to be hanged on Dec. 3 for the murder of his wife and two daughters, daughter and granddaughters of a Port Huron judge, is dead in the county jail. EASILY UNDERSTOOD

Mr. Bryan Shows Why the Individual Favors Protection of Bank Deposits.

A MATTER OF INTELLIGENCE

Banks Should Attend to the Banking Business and Not the Government.

No issue in this campaign appeals more strongly to the individual than the protection of bank deposits. Thousands and thousands of republicans will vote for Mr. Bryan on account of this one issue, which he has presented so clearly to the people of the nation.

In a recent speech Mr. Bryan presented this issue in a simple and most convincing way. He said:

"Of the many policies proposed in our platform, the protection of bank depositors is the simplest and most easily understood. Why, my friends, this question is so easily understood that I suppose there is not a person in this audience who is not able to understand it. I do not mean that every one, everywhere, can understand it. I draw the line here: When every person reaches the period of intellectual development, where he is able to see that when a man puts his money in the bank he ought to be able to get it again, he ought to have intelligence enough to understand this subject; but until he gets to this point I do not know how to reach him. I take it for granted, however, that you are all sufficiently advanced to be able to understand that when you put your money in a bank you ought to be able to get it out again. Now, my friends, there are just two questions to be considered in this matter. One of these I have given you. The other question is, who must make it secure? Our position is that as the banks make their profits out of the people's money, the bankers ought to give the insurance the people require. Now, I had supposed that that was a self evident truth and that it would not be denied.

"I have made no speech without discussing the guaranty of bank deposits in all parts of the country. After I had made my speech in Baltimore, explaining our system and presenting our arguments in support of it, my attention was called to an advertisement in one of the papers. In my speech I had said that you could insure your house, you could insure your life, you could insure your buggy or your barn, but that you could not insure your money. And in this advertisement my language was quoted and the advertisement went on to say that I was mistaken, for a certain fidelity company was prepared to insure deposits. And then I found out how they do it down there. You put your money in a bank, and then go and get somebody to insure it so that you can get it out of the bank again. I believe the time has come to compel all the banks to stand back of the banks and make good the presumption upon which you deposit your money in the bank.

"Now, my friends, you may ask if the banks are not now sufficiently secured. That is what the bankers say. They will even tell you that only occasionally a bank fails, but the trouble is that we cannot tell in advance which bank is going to fail. Look at the notice they hang up. Does it say, 'this bank will fail?' No, the notice says 'this bank is closed,' and if bankers follow out this plan I will agree not to urge this insuring of deposits. Let the bank give notice three months in advance of a failure so the people can get their money out before the failure.

"Do you think the banks are sufficiently secure now? The postmaster general says, in his report in favor of the postal savings bank, that we are sending millions of dollars to Europe to be deposited in government savings banks there, and the people who send their money there would rather send it across an ocean three thousand miles wide than to risk the banks of this country. I say to you that we ought to make our banks here so secure that money will not be driven out of the United States to find a safe place of deposit. That money which is driven to Europe ought to be kept here and used in the business of this country. Not only does money go to Europe, but money goes into hiding, and this is about the time of year when we discover some of it. You will see in the paper every once in a while that Mrs. So and So for the first time this fall made a fire and was mortified to find that her husband, without her knowledge, had been using it as a bank. A man in New York said last fall, when the panic was on, that a billion dollars was in hiding under carpets. I do not know whether that estimate is too high or too low, but I know this, that if I were a banker I would be ashamed to have an old rag carpet running rivalry with me as a safety deposit vault, in time of danger.

"If any man says that the banks are sufficiently secure I will remind him that there is not a national bank in the United States that can get a dollar of Uncle Sam's money without putting up security. The state demands security; the county demands security; the city demands security; and each village demands security; and the fraternal orders are now demanding security, and I believe the time has come when the farmer, the merchant and the laboring man should have security when they put their money in a bank.

"In Oklahoma they have had this plan in operation for now some six months. I learned of one failure there and in forty-two minutes after the bank suspended, the man in charge had an order from the government to pay every depositor in full, and the business went on without interruption. And when he telephoned out to the farmers and said to them, 'The bank has suspended, come in and get your money,' they answered, 'We are busy with the crops now, we will be in in a few days.' Is it the way you do here in your state when a bank gets shaky? Is it the way you do when a bank suspends? No! the very rumor that a bank is a little uncertain makes a rush of depositors, and they make it insolvent whether it was insolvent or not.

"This plan protects the depositors; it protects the community, and it is good for the bank as well.

"I would rather see the banks attend to the banking business than to have it transferred to the government, and because I prefer to have the banking business done by the banks rather than by the government, I urge the guaranty of deposits as the easiest solution of our difficulties."

No War Material For Servians.

Vienna, Oct. 22.—The government published an order today prohibiting the export of guns, ammunition, horses or any war material to Servia.

The Cry of Politicians.

The best service that can be rendered for permanent prosperity is to rebuke the assumption which certain politicians continually are seeking to create in the public mind, that continued prosperity depends on the success of a particular political party.

Our form of government contemplates changes from time to time, and nothing is so disastrous as to instill in the people's minds the belief that there is danger to business in changing a portion of the officers of our government.

If the people cannot change their officers without creating a panic, then the logical step is to go to a monarchy, which, of course, none advocates.

But for the blessed Dingley tariff American newspapers could buy news print paper in Canada for $1.75. On this side they are paying all the way from $2.35 to $2.60. Canadian paper is as good as the domestic product and the labor employed in making it is as well paid as that on this side the border.—Johnstown Democrat.

A Word from Mr. Bryan.

WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN

Lincoln Neb
Oct 26-1908

Fellow Citizens:

The campaign is drawing to a close; the issues have been set forth in the platforms; the arguments of the candidates have been presented; and the verdict is about to be rendered. Every State in the Union shows Democratic gains, and there is no doubt of a Democratic victory if all who favor our policies vote and have their votes counted.

I write to urge you to see to it that every Democratic vote in your precinct is polled early and counted. We deserve a popular majority as well as a majority in the electoral college, and your vote is needed to offset a Republican vote some where else, even if not needed in your locality. Work! Vote! And then you can rejoice the more heartily in the victory.

Yours truly
W. J. Bryan

REPUBLICANS HOWL CALAMITY

Seek to Destroy Public Confidence in Futile Effort to Defeat Bryan.

Facing inevitable defeat and with a full knowledge of the fact that Bryan's election is as certain as anything reasonably can be in politics, the Republicans have been forced to resort to the last refuge of political cowards—to the calamity howl. They are now engaged in telling the country that panic and ruin will follow the election of Mr. Bryan. Instead of being patriotic citizens anxious to restore business confidence—a confidence which has been lost under a Republican administration—to subserve their own political selfish purposes they are vainly endeavoring to prolong the present business depression. The question naturally suggests itself: Why is it necessary to restore confidence? Why is it necessary to bring back business prosperity? What has become of confidence, what has become of prosperity? Both, under a Republican administration, have disappeared. Why is another Republican administration necessary to insure a return of confidence and prosperity?

The very same men who, today, are going about the country still further destroying confidence by preaching calamity, are the men, who, four years ago, said that the Republican party must be successful in order that there might be prosperity. The Republican party was successful, but instead of bringing prosperity it brought panic, business depression and commercial stagnation. Whatever may be said of the present panic, it cannot be denied that it is a Republican panic. The Republican party is in full possession of the government and must accept the responsibility. How, then, can a continuation of the Republican party in power cure the evils from which the business community and the laboring man now suffer? Let the Republicans howl about their own panic, and not make false predictions about what will happen under a Democratic administration. They predicted prosperity four years ago, and proven false prophets. Why, then, should any sane man accept their premonitions now when they say that Bryan's election would bring business troubles. Business troubles are already here. What business men want is a cure for them, not a prolongation of the disease by the same sort of treatment which has produced the ailment.

Because business men and laboring men both know that a Republican administration has produced panic, they will not be deceived again by these false cries of Republican calamity howlers. They know that William Jennings Bryan is an honest man; they know that he will give the public an honest administration. They know that the calamity howl is for the sole purpose of deception.

RAILROAD EMPLOYES VS. MR. TAFT.

The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers' Journal, in May, 1893, said: "Judge Taft's decision proclaims members of the B. of L. E. a band of conspirators."

Also, "We can not accept Judge Taft's decision in any other light than treason to republican institutions and the liberties of the people. It is, will be, and ought to be denounced and repudiated by all liberty loving men."

* * * The impudent falsehood that trusts and monopolies cheapen products and benefit the consumer is disproved by the fact that the price of commodities controlled by these monsters has been arbitrarily increased for no cause except to pay dividends on fictitious capital by methods that make larceny respectable. * * *
—Ex-Senator John J. Ingalls.

A University in Politics.

Josephus Daniels, chairman of the Democratic publicity bureau, commented as follows on the appearance of Prof. J. Laurence Laughlin of the University of Chicago as a stump speaker attacking the guaranty of bank deposits:

"It is not surprising," said he, "to see a professor of the University of Chicago on the stump opposing a measure so beneficial to the poor man as the guaranty of bank deposits. John D. Rockefeller and the other Standard Oil manufacturers can not be expected to favor Mr. Bryan's plans.

"Doubtless Mr. Rockefeller has communicated to the university which his money supports and has indicated that he would be gratified to have the university do effective work for the candidate he favors in this campaign."

Henry Clews, the Wall street publicity agent, has taken the stump for Taft. This typical representative of Wall street declares that Bryan is unsafe and that Judge Taft will make an ideal president. A few days ago he addressed a big crowd of eastern bankers and, of course, opposed the guaranty of bank deposits. Mr. Clews declared that the guaranty bank plank is "socialistic in its tendency and a far cry from true democratic principles, which oppose excessive centralization of power."

Taft and his supporters are insisting that if Bryan should be elected a hostile senate would defeat Democratic aims. This is an admission that they are false in their claim that the people rule, as Bryan says they should. Paste that in your hat.—Johnstown Democrat.

JOHN COMBS

PRESIDENT OF THE VILLAGE EXPRESSES HIS VIEWS ON VILLAGE IMPROVEMENT.

Able Paper Read Before the Men's Class of the Presbyterian Church Sunday, October 18.

He Makes a Plea for Better Treatment of Public Officials, Sewer, Improvement of Parks and Good Streets.

At a meeting of the Presbyterian Business Men's class held Sunday, October 18, at which 45 of the representative men of the village were present, President John H. Combs read the following paper. After a discussion of the measures proposed the following resolution was adopted unanimously:

"That we, present at this meeting, agree heartily with our president in his suggestions for the improvement of our village, and hereby pledge ourselves to support the projects indicated in this paper, in every way, when the council shall deem it wise to carry the same into force, and urge upon our fellow citizens to aid in this project. That this paper may have a wider reading that the editors of the Tecum-News and Tecumseh Herald be requested to publish it in their columns."

PUBLIC OFFICE, PUBLIC UTILITIES AND THEIR MANAGEMENT.

I am a firm believer in public ownership of all public utilities and have always considered a public office a public trust and any official a servant of the people.

I believe in a government "of the people, for the people and by the people" in genuine old Abe Lincoln fashion. From many years experience in local public office and with local public affairs dealing with township, county and state, my views may be somewhat at variance with those of many citizens of much wider knowledge and greater experience.

We all know there are many abuses, many violations of trust, many forms of so-called grafting, much unjust and unnecessary legislation, both local and state, and a general lack of confidence between the official and his constituency. For whatever deplorable or unsatisfactory condition of affairs may exist in either city, town, county, state or nation, the officials and the people, in my judgment, are both to blame, one as much as the other.

The affairs of this nation, large or small, are under the control of the people and it is in their power to shape and demand legislation, to make or to destroy, to change or modify any form of self-government. The average public official starts out with good intentions. He accepts his office with a grateful appreciation of what the dear, good people have done for him and he enters upon the duties of his position thoroughly imbued with the idea that he will serve his people faithfully, attend their every want, obey their slightest desires, and that he will be a loyal, helping factor in saving his country.

He hopes, intends and fully expects to satisfy everybody, but alas, for his rosy dreams and his visions of glory, he usually winds up by never satisfying anybody. Measures come up upon which he must act, that are favored by one faction and opposed by another. He finds himself criticised, condemned, abused, vilified, ridiculed, and accused of about everything in the calendar of crimes. The rich want one thing, the poor want another; the capitalist demands what the laborer hates; the prohibitionist desires what the saloonist refuses to allow; the farmer demands what the manufacturer can never grant, and the great corporations expect protection all the time at the expense of the general public. The official is blamed if he does, and blamed if he don't. His fine haired views of public service fade away like mist before the rising sun.

He is bombarded with unreasonable requests, hounded by the citizen who always knows just exactly how things should be done. He is ridiculed by the curbstone orator, torn into shreds by the calamity howler, criticised by the knocker, and paralyzed and pulverized by the ever-present scandal monger and gossip. In fact, the public official of modern times is not sleeping on a bed of roses and his pathway is not strewn with flowers. He sometimes becomes cynical in his views, hasty and unwise in his decisions, and he is apt to grow sordid and narrow in defending his own actions.

Did you ever stop to think that perhaps an unreasoning and unreasonable public had made him so? Did you ever stop to think that unjust, unwise and unnecessary criticism by people who really know nothing at all about the real conditions, the true reasons, or the good intentions behind the act has led to the failure of much good legislation and much needed public improvements in nearly every city and village in this country? To my mind, there is only one safe, sane or satisfactory course for a public officer to pursue—be honest and satisfy his own conscience before he attempts to satisfy anything or anybody else. Use his best judgment, follow the dictations of his own conscience in working for what he honestly considers the best interests of his people, his city or his country, and let all the criticism, all the abuse, the kicks and the knocks run off his mind like water from a duck's back.

Then when he is retired to private life he will at least be satisfied with himself, if no one else is, and while he is in a splendid position to extend his heartfelt sympathy to his successor, he can say unto himself that he would never again accept any office on the face of the wide earth, but he is glad he did the best he could with the one he had. So much for the public official of modern times, who, be he little or be he great, has about the same conditions confronting him.

I believe I am expected to state some of my views concerning our own village affairs. Let me say, that I believe in economy in the administration of all public affairs. Economy does not mean penuriousness, nor does it mean stinginess. As I interpret it, it means careful and judicious expenditure of money. Public improvements cost money and plenty of it if they are done right. If the public has these benefits and conveniences to use and enjoy then the public must expect to pay for them. Any council, or corporation, or board of control who do not spend money, can make no improvements, can accomplish nothing, can give the people nothing. Bridges and buildings, sewers, water mains and pavements have never yet been built of clear hot air, with any degree of satisfaction.

Each and every citizen in this community, or any other community, should be interested in public improvements and in the progressive advancement of his town, state or nation. It can truly be said that life is divided into three classes—youth, middle age and old age. Youth is filled with joy and exultation, exuberant in spirit, with rose colored visions of victories to win, living in the joyous present, heedless of the cares of tomorrow. Middle age has had some experience. It has not the rosy optimistic ideas of youth, nor has it settled down to the usual narrow, sordid, selfish views of old age. Middle age is progressive, wide awake, energetic, active, working, wants to do things, and have things that our friends and neighbors have and enjoy, wants to be up to date and accomplish things and at the same time desires to use care and prudence and reasonable economy. Old age has passed through both stages of rosy visions and energetic progression, and usually settles down to the idea that the present and rising generation, don't really need any public improvements anyhow. The good old things were plenty good enough years ago, and ought to be good enough now, and old age will always cling with pathetic tenderness to the good old days when the new-fangled, hifalutin, foolish ideas about modern improvements did not prevail, nor even exist. It therefore clearly devolves upon middle age to do things now, and to accomplish results.

Our fair little village is fortunate in many respects, because of its natural beauty and natural location, but it needs modern and up to date conveniences. The necessity for a complete sanitary sewer system is too well known and has been too recently discussed and cussed, to need mention here. It is like some other subjects, that grow tender and improve with age. I trust the subject of sewer for our village is not dead, but only sleeping and that it may come up for consideration until our public spirited citizens will carry it to completion.

I would also like to see a pavement on the two business blocks of Chicago St. and on all of Evans St. between the two railroad stations. What adds more to the beauty, convenience or pride of a city or village, than broad, clean smooth pavements on its principal business and residence streets? The commercial value of a pavement on Evans St. would be worth all it would cost, but this will never be appreciated until it is built.

It was my good fortune to attend the last annual convention of the State Municipal League, held at Manistee last June. I listened to reports from representatives from scores of cities and villages all over Michigan and I was surprised, pleased nd gratified to hear of the great improvements either underway or finished, in our municipalities. Nearly every village had undertaken something, had accomplished something and had completed some much needed public improvement for its citizens use and comfort. Things were discussed, advanced and favored at that meeting that would surely give many of Tecumseh's citizens cold chills, paralysis or heart failure, and yet those same improvements had been adopted and were a proven success in scores of villages and cities less favorable for operation than Tecumseh. Much was said upon the subject of beautifying our cities and villages, of taking spots that had been an ugly eye sore for years and at a small expense making them places of beauty and cleanliness.

We have a railroad running through our town with all passenger trains coming to a full stop in the heart of the business section. These trains carry thousands upon thousands of strangers across our little town every year. The ordinary traveler has a rubber neck and he looks out upon our streets and asks what town is this? This is Tecumseh. Now it comes to pass that, coming from either direction the passenger cars are stopped directly in front of our four alleys, three f them private alleys, not under the control of the village at all. During the fall and winter and late into the balmy spring, the rubber necked tourist can look from the car window and see a very choice collection of ash heaps and old rubbish, old boxes and barrels, flying papers by the cart load and small out buildings by the dozen. If the window is open, the travelers sensitive nostrils are greeted by odors, that by no means emanate from a garden of roses.

Is the traveler impressed with Tecumseh? Most assuredly, and the odor remains as a part of his impression. No sewer to remove unsightly buildings foul odors, and filth, or to encourage out business men to have the same pride at his back door that he does at the front.

And these same trains slowly pass a public park in front of our high school building. It looks more like a hay field now, than it does like a park. What would be the travelers impression of our town if he could look out upon a neat and well kept park, with nice cement walks running through it, with beautiful flower beds in it, with pretty rustic seats placed in it, with the grass kept green and closely cut, and a possible fountain or two? What would be his first impression? Don't you gentlemen believe it would be worth all it would cost? Don't you believe that hundreds of our citizens, both old and young would enjoy sitting there Sunday afternoons and hot summer evenings, to watch the fountains and enjoy the cooler air? Don't you believe we would all be a little gladder that we lived in old Tecumseh? Don't you believe it would advertise our town in a happy and creditable manner? And still, some, would of course object because of the awful expense. It seems to me, gentlemen, that instead of spending from two to three thousand dollars every season for base ball purpose, if that amount of money could now be spent to improve and beautify our little town, that it would be just as well for all concerned.

I fully appreciate the fact that base ball has gained us a splendid reputation as "the biggest little town on earth," and by no means would I discredited the game, but I desire to call attention to the fact that there are other things that might need attention.

Following my idea of public ownership of public utilities. I believe that Tecumseh should own, operate, and control her own lighting system. I believe it would be cheaper for our citizens, that we would have better service and that it would be much more satisfactory than the present plan. I am opposed to long time franchises of any kind or character that are in any way connected with, or involve the public service in any town, city, or village. These are only suggestions, gentlemen, which it seems to me, the citizens of Tecumseh should honestly and squarely consider. There are many other points, I would like to bring out for your consideration, but I have already detained you too long. I believe there should be a free fair and impartial, discussion of all public questions at all times. I don't believe we should go out to the barn, or way out behind some shed, or down cellar, and then talk in whispers about this or that public improvement, just because it might jar the nerves of some one who trades at our store or with whom we do business. Reforms don't come in a day, nor a month, nor a year, but when public sentiment and necessity demand it, these improvements come quite readily, and when the improvement is made, and its comforts and conveniences understood and the necessity for it is realized and proven, then the gossip says, "it should have been done long before," and the cheerful knocker smiles blandly and says, "I told you so."

As long as I am a resident of Tecumseh, it is my home, my town, my native land, and her interests are my interests and I shall cheerfully and willingly support any public improvement that will in any degree enhance the commerical value of our village or add in any way to the comfort or welfare of our citizens.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

DIED AFTER LONG ILLNESS

John O. Riley of Tecumseh Succumbs to Tuberculosis.

John C. Riley quietly passed away Sunday morning at 8:15 on Oct. 18th, at his home on Logan street, after a long suffering from tuberculosis of the lungs. Although Mr. Riley's death has been expected momentarily for the past week it comes as a terrible shock to his family and friends.

John C. Riley was the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Riley. He was born in Tecumseh July 21, 1874, and has always made his home in Tecumseh, with the exception of a short time spent in Blissfield, where he was in the cigar manufacturing business.

For sixteen years he was an employe in the J. J. Freeman cigar factory in Tecumseh. He started to work in this shop when a boy and it was there he learned his trade. His poor health compelled him to give up his work in the shop.

In June, 1906, Mr. Riley went into the hotel business and for a year was proprietor of the Vendoma. After giving up the hotel he went to Blissfield, where he opened a cigar factory, but a few months later he had to give up the business, his health being so poor, and returned to his home at Tecumseh.

May 29, 1903, he was united in marriage to Anna Karr, who survives him.

Mr. Riley possessed a cheerful, happy disposition and made many friends. During his long sickness he was a patient sufferer. He was a member of the Sir Knights of Maccabees and the Cigarmakers union.

Besides a large circle of friends he is survived by a widow, father and mother, four sisters, Mrs. Peter Zumsteg of Grand Rapids, Mrs. James Noone of Kalamazoo, Mrs. Charles Deery and Miss Agnes Riley of Tecumseh, and two brothers, James Riley of Clinton and Thomas Riley of Tecumseh.

The funeral was conducted from his late home Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock in the presence of many sorrowing friends and relatives.

The casket was completely covered with beautiful flowers sent by sympathizing friends. The services were conducted under the auspices of the Sir Knights of Maccabees. Rev. Cheney delivered the sermon.

The remains were carried from the home by Messers Albert Heindrich, O. C. Wood, Hugh Hanna, Bert Lawrence, Frank Kennedy and Comfort Chase.

The Sir Knights and members of the Cigarmakers union attended in a body. The remains were laid to rest at Brookside cemetery.

Among those present from out of town were Mrs. Peter Zumsteg of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs James Noone of Kalamazoo, James Riley and two children of Clinton, Mr. and Mrs. George Kilbury and two sons, Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Greenleaf, two daughters Francis and Leora of Ousted, Mindred Greenleaf of Lansing, Mrs. Theodore Reese, Mrs. John Reese and Miss Hattie Vershum, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kleinest and Mrs. George Kleinest and daughter of Riga, Mrs. John Mooney and two sons of Milan, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCarbery of Macon, Mrs. Charles Dennison of Cone, Mrs. David Boyd and daughter of Lake Ridge, Mrs. Mary Noone of Clinton.

We extend our sincere thanks to those who so kindly assisted us during the sickness and death of our loved husband, son, and brother. We wish to thank especially the Sir Knights of Maccabees, Cigarmakers and Royal Neighbors. Signed

MRS. JOHN RILEY,
MR. AND MRS. JAMES RILEY

The Bite of a Dog.

"I want to say a few words about hydrophobia," said a physician. "When an animal bites through clothing there is little or no danger of infection. The virus is on the teeth of the animal and when the person bitten has received the wound through a layer of clothing there is little danger.

"The virus on the teeth is left in the clothing and is communicated to the person bitten. Rabid dogs or other animals are not like reptiles. They have no hollow teeth through which poison may be communicated. It must be introduced directly into the system of the victim.

"Therefore, when a supposedly rabid dog bites a person, if the bite is not on an exposed part of the body he should have no fear."—Washington Post.

Cured the Dryness.

Mother—How did papa's new book get in this condition? Bobby—Why, mamma, I heard papa say last night that the book was too dry for him. So I put it in the bathtub and let the water run.

Slow, but Not Sure.

"Your daughter is not engaged to young Johnson yet, then? I suppose it is a case of slow and sure?"

"Well, yes—he is slow, and she is not at all sure!"

CONGRESSMAN CHARLES E. TOWNSEND.

Mr. Townsend is the Republican nominee for congress from the second district. He has made an enviable record, during his three terms in the national house of representatives at Washington and is certainly deserving of a big majority at the election Nov. 3. In congress he has always been one of President Roosevelt's staunchest supporters and has in numerous instances been in direct charge of the president's measures before congress.

Mr. Townsend represents all the people of the second district and solicits the support of all friends of good government. Let us make his election unanimous Nov. 3.

RELIEF FUND.

Money and Clothing Solicited for the Fire Sufferers in Northern Michigan.

TECUMSEH, MICH., Oct. 26, 1908.

In behalf of the Relief Association recently formed in this village, we wish to thank the people of Tecumseh and vicinity for their generous donations of money, clothing and supplies for the relief of the fire sufferers in northern Michigan.

$130.34 was collected and more than 1000 lbs of clothing, bedding, etc. donated. After careful inquiry as to where to send these supplies, where they would do the most good, we were informed by the Free Press and other Detroit authorities, that nearly all supplies and money collected in that city, including the Red Cross donations, were sent to Mayor William McKnight of Alpena and that he, with a committee of reliable citizens were using every care and precaution and their best judgment in disposing of all money or supplies sent to them.

A draft for the amount above named was sent the Mayor of Alpena today, and the goods sent to him by freight. The shipment was made free of charge via L. S. & M. S. R. R. for which we wish to thank our local agent, Mr. A. B. McLaughlin whose efforts secured the concession.

We also wish to personally thank the society of King's Daughters and every member of our soliciting committee for the excellent and efficient work done by them.

We believe that we may all full justly proud of the prompt action taken by our village and the prompt and generous response of so many of our citizens when called upon for assistance.

While not a large amount for any of us, we can fell that Tecumseh has done her share in proportion to other cities and villages and that she has again demonstrated the willingness of her citizens to help those who are destitute and suffering.

JOHN H. COMBS, President,
FRED ROSACRANS, Secretary,
FRANK AVERY, Treasurer.

The following letter was sent to Mrs. Fred Aylesworth in the country, who gathered up supplies for the people in the north:

October 23, 1908.

Mrs. Fred Aylesworth,
Tecumseh, Mich., R. F. D.

Dear Madam:—

As you may already known an association was formed and committee appointed in this village Tuesday evening for the purpose of raising funds and supplies to relieve the fire sufferers in northern Michigan.

In behalf of this association, its officers and committee, I write to acknowledge the very generous donation contributed from your locality. We wish to extend our best thanks to yourself and Mrs. Allison, and all others who may have helped you in the matter. We wish also to compliment you upon your kindly interest and most prompt action in extending this relief.

The supplies will be taken care of and placed where they will do the most good. It is certainly a most worthy cause and we can feel proud of the generous manner in which the people of Tecumseh and vicinity have responded to our call for help.

Again thanking you, and with very best regards, I remain

Yours very truly,

WHY SUFFER?

Breathe Hyomei and Kill the Loathsome Catarrh Germs.

Just as long as you have catarrh your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and spit, and you will do other disgusting things because you can't help yourself. The germs of catarrh have got you in their power; they are continually and persistently digging into and irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat. They are now making your life miserable; in time they will sap your entire system of its energy, its strength, its vigor and vitality.

If you do not kill the loathsome germs of catarrh, their desperate assaults will in time undermine your reason, rob your brain of its brilliancy and activity, and leave you not only a physical but a mental wreck.

This picture is not overdrawn; the writer has seen thousands of just such cases. He has personally experienced the demoralizing results that come from the ravishing attacks of the horrible catarrh germs, the greatest pest of civilized nations.

But there is one remedy that will kill the germs and cure catarrh, and that is Hyomei, the Australian dry air treatment. There may be other remedies, but they are not guaranteed as C. A. Wright & Son, the druggist, will guarantee Hyomei to cure catarrh, or money back. Don't delay this pleasant antiseptic treatment. Every day you allow these germs to exist in your system brings you nearer to complete demoralization. C. A. Wright & Son will sell you a complete Hyomei outfit for only $1.00. Ask him about it. It is also guaranteed to cure bronchitis, asthma, coughs, colds and hay fever.

DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr Kilmer's Swamp Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.

It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Home of Swamp-Root.

Do not let anyone tell you that something else is just as good as DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills because there isn't anything just as good for weak back, backache, rheumatic pains, inflammation of the bladder, or any Kidney and Bladder disorder. A week's trial will convince you. Sold by all druggists.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures coughs quickly, strengthens the lungs and expels colds. Get the genuine in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

But "common sense" sounds so hopelessly middleaged!

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulets, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulets bring easy, regular passages of the bowels.

One cook in the kitchen is worth two dozen who promised to "consider the situation."

Married Man in Trouble

A married man who permits any member of the family to take anything except Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, is guilty of neglect. Nothing else is as good for all pulmonary troubles. The genuine Foley's Honey and Tar contains no opiates and is in a yellow package. Sold by all druggists.

A JEWELER'S EXPERIENCE.

C. R. Kluger, The Jeweler, 1060 Virginia Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., writes: "I was so weak from kidney trouble that I could hardly walk a hundred feet. Four bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy cleared my complexion, cured my backache and the irregularities disappeared, and I can now attend to business every day, and recommend Foley's Kidney Remedy to all sufferers, as it cured me after the doctors and other remedies had failed. Sold by all druggists.

OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Tecumseh who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. Sarah Austin, living on Pearl st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. For sometime I was bothered with kidney trouble. I had distressing pains in my hips and could not get my proper sleep at night on account of the frequent action of the kidneys. I passed a great deal of gravel in my secretions, and at times it was almost impossible to stand the pain. I doctored with different physicians, but only received temporary relief, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I began taking them. The results of their use were most satisfactory, in fact, they effected a complete cure. I am glad to endorse such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Always Waning.

A Frenchman who apparently has a good deal of time on his hands has been amusing himself by reckoning up the number of kisses he has given his wife during the first twenty years of his married life.

He finds that in the first year he dispensed about 100 kisses a day, or, say, allowing for birthdays and legal and church holidays, about 36,700 in the year.

In the second year this number was reduced by half and in the third year to ten a day, while in the fifth year his better half had to be content with two a day, one in the morning and one in the evening.

What happened in the fifth year is "wrapped in mystery," but at the same rate of "progression" he probably arrived eventually at one kiss on the first of January every leap year.

Freedom of the Press.

The battle for a free press in the full modern sense was fought out between 1764 and 1771, beginning with the prosecution of Wilkes for attacking Bute in the North Briton and ending with the successful resistance to the proclamation by which the commons had forbidden the publication of their debates. Six printers who had infringed the proclamation were summoned to the bar of the house. Five obeyed, and the messenger of the house was sent to arrest the sixth. The lord mayor sent the messenger to prison. The house of commons sent the lord mayor to the Tower, but he was released at the next prorogation, and the day on which he left the Tower marked the end of the last attempt to silence the press.—New York American.

"Going Out to See a Man."

"Going out to see a man" was the invention of Artemus Ward. One night in the winter of 1865, when the humorist was about half through his lecture, he paralyzed his audience with the announcement that they would have to take a recess of fifteen minutes so as to enable him to go across the street to "see a man." H. R. Tracey, the editor of the Washington Republican, was in the audience and, seeing an opportunity to improve upon the joke, penciled these lines and sent them to the platform:

"Dear Artemus—If you will place yourself under my guidance, I'll take you to 'see a man' without crossing the street."

Artemus accepted the invitation, and while the great audience impatiently but with much amusement awaited the reappearance of the humorist the latter was making the acquaintance of Aman, a well known restaurant keeper at that time, and luxuriating at a well laden refreshment board. Of course everybody "caught on to" the phrase, and men became fond of getting up between the acts and "going out to see Aman." The restaurateur's business from that time forward boomed. Men who would ordinarily sit quietly through an entertainment and behave themselves allowed themselves to be influenced by the contagion.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Function of Next Administration.

(Judge Taft at St. Louis, October 6.)

"The function of the next administration is not to be spectacular in the enactment of great statutes laying down new codes of morals, or asserting a new standard of business integrity, but its work lies in the details of furnishing men and machinery to aid the hand of the Executive in making the supervision of the transactions so close, so careful, so constant, that the business men engaged in it may know promptly when they are transgressing the line of lawful business limitations and may be brought up standing whenever this occurs and may be prosecuted where the violations of law are flagrant and defiant, and promptly restrained and penalized."

You can't cure it as long as you are constipated. Insist upon Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Sold by all druggists

FARMERS RESENT COERCION

Resolutions Passed by Indiana Toilers Condemn Statements of President Sharples — Endless Chain Among Farmers.

Chairman Mack was informed by wire today that at a meeting of representative farmers of Washington township, Marion county, Indiana, the following resolutions were adopted, and it was also agreed to form an endless chain among the farmers of the country:

Whereas, The Associated Press has sent out a statement issued by P. M. Sharples, president of the Sharples Separator Company of Westchester, Pa., saying that the hour Bryan is elected the Sharples works will close down, and

Whereas, Such statements as this will intensify the present financial panic and will also tend to bring on, if possible, other and greater financial calamity; therefore, be it

Resolved, That as farmers who have the good of our country at heart, we deeply deplore such unwarranted statements, and believing they are made for partisan purposes to intimidate and influence voters, we herewith denounce all firms making this and similar announcements, as narrow and bigoted, and in these times as disloyal to the best business interests of the nation, and in as much as the persons and firms now resorting to these unfair and unpatriotic methods maintain their businesses by patronage of democrats as well as republicans, we condemn these methods as an insult to any democratic patron which ought to be, and which we hope will be, resented.

Resolved, That we hereby call upon the farmers of the nation, irrespective of party, who believe in fair play, to unite with us through their organization and as individuals, in crushing out this unwise and indiscreet spirit which would sacrifice the country's welfare for party success. (Signed) Albert Blue, chairman; Ross S. Ludlow, secretary.

SPECIAL INTERESTS VERSUS EQUAL RIGHTS.

In every utterance and every statement made so far Mr. Taft has shown great concern for the welfare of the TRUSTS and SPECIAL INTERESTS.

He is afraid that the guaranty of bank deposits will be a burden on a few big bankers. That thousands of small depositors may lose everything does not worry him.

He is afraid that a reduction of the tariff may hurt protected industries. He does not worry for the consumer, who bears the burden of the heavy tax.

He is afraid to oppose the TRUSTS, for he considers them a benefit. He does not mind the extortion they practice upon the public.

He is opposed to a jury trial in contempt and injunction cases because the SPECIAL INTERESTS want the unfair injunction process continued. The "Father of the Injunction" does not worry because the laborer may not get a square deal.

The Republican candidate believes in an income tax only when the present oppressive means of taxation fail to furnish enough revenue. In other words, he believes that the wealthy should not be taxed until the resources of the masses are exhausted. Not a word from Mr. Taft because the masses bear an unjust share of the burden of taxation.

Mr. Bryan stands for the PEOPLE as opposed to the INTERESTS.

Mr. Taft stands for PLUTOCRACY as opposed to DEMOCRACY.

Mr. Bryan stands for EQUAL RIGHTS as opposed to SPECIAL PRIVILEGES.

WITH WHICH DO YOU STAND?

How to Cure Liver Trouble

Keep Your Bowels Regular and Your Stomach Sweet

People sometimes imagine when they have liver trouble or are bilious that the main thing to do is to take physic.

Taking pills and keeping your bowels regular are two very different matters. The use of a violent cathartic does not mean the cure of constipation or the establishment of regular movements. A physic is an emergency remedy, but never a bowel treatment. If the bowels do not move regularly there is a reason deeper seated than the mere clogging up that is removed by a dose of salts or pills.

When that drowsy, tired feeling, with the coated tongue, the dull headache, the sour stomach, the sallow complexion, constipated bowels and touches of fever come on it is time to take a medicine that will act on the bowels gently and mildly, cleansing and strengthening them, stir up the liver and aid the stomach in digesting the food.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin does this every time. Take a few doses and see how quickly the drowsy feeling leaves, regular bowel movements come back, with a good appetite and perfect digestion, and you soon feel like your old self. It does not gripe nor pain, it acts smoothly, mildly and is very pleasant to take. Wm. Hinchman, Mesick, Mich., says: "I was troubled with indigestion and liver trouble. I have used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin with fine results. It is a perfect laxative and I now feel as strong and well as formerly." Wm. Block, Niantic, Ill., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best remedy I ever used for liver complaint or constipation." Mrs. R. H. Brown, Addington, Ind. Ter., was troubled with torpid liver and constipation. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave her prompt relief. All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

Pepsin Syrup Co., 306 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill., is glad to send a free sample to anyone who has never used it and will give it a fair trial.

STRAUS GIVES REASONS

The New York Merchant and Philanthropist Declares Election of Bryan Means Business Prosperity.

Nathan Straus, the great New York merchant and philanthropist, in announcing his reasons for supporting Mr. Bryan, said:

"I feel sure that he will be elected, and I say, as a business man, one who is as much interested perhaps as any, in the general prosperity of the country, as one who is bound to feel personally any lack of prosperity among the masses, that I believe his election will be a benefit to all the country, and to all of the people. Those that talk otherwise, those that predict panic and disaster, as the result of the election of an honest man, chosen by an honest majority of the people, are narrow minded and short-sighted, or pretend to believe that which they know is not true, or they are seeking to obscure the real and vital issues of the campaign. Mr. Bryan will make a safe, reliable, conscientious president, a president for all of the people, the rich and the poor, the big man and the little. He will represent the American people, not any class, and for that reason I shall work for him until election and vote for him on election day."

Against Laboring Men.

While William H. Taft is traveling about Ohio and elsewhere making frantic appeals for the support of laboring men, his running mate on the Republican ticket, James S. Sherman, is giving his endorsement to the statement that "labor unions are composed largely of anarchists, socialists and demagogues." Mr. Sherman heard the organized wage worker of the country thus denounced by a trust magnate who presided at a meeting where he spoke, and gave approval of the sentiment expressed. When Mr. Sherman appeared recently at Akron, Ohio, the meeting which he addressed was presided over by O. C. Barber, president of the Diamond Match Company. Mr. Barber introduced Mr. Sherman to the audience. In doing so he made use of the following language, as stenographically reported:

"One of the main reasons for the success of the Diamond Match Company is that its directors HAVE NEVER TOLERATED UNION LABOR IN ITS SHOP. THEY HAVE ALWAYS BEEN OPEN. We have had no one to dictate to us what wages we shall pay, what men we shall hire, and what hours our employes shall work. LABOR UNIONS TODAY ARE COMPOSED LARGELY OF ANARCHISTS, SOCIALISTS AND DEMAGOGUES."

is chiefly due to the fact that its workmen are better fed than those of any other country.

In the Spanish-American War it was "the man behind the gun" who made the American victory so quick and decisive.

And it is due to "the man behind the gun" in the factory—the workman—that American manufacturing is capturing the markets of the world.

The American workman can do more work and better work than any other workman because he is full of energy and vim—because of his better food, clothing and home conditions.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY has protected him against the cheap labor of Europe.

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY has by wise and far-seeing laws built up American trade to such an extent that the American workman is paid almost three times the wages of European workmen.

If the working men of the United States want these conditions to continue they will vote for the party which has created high wages, namely

THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

Some of the Democratic newspapers recognize the situation well enough to begin already to pick out Cabinet officers for President Taft, but that is something that President Taft can do much better himself.—Philadelphia Press.

MACK SEES VICTORY

Democratic National Chairman Declares That Bryan Will Carry East and West.

REPORTS SHOW RISING TIDE

Ohio, Indiana and New York in the Democratic Column.

Norman E. Mack, chairman of the Democratic national committee, is confident of the election of Mr. Bryan as president. In a statement summing up the situation he said:

"Three weeks ago it was apparent that the tide had turned toward Democracy, and that every outward evidence pointed to a Democratic victory in November. The situation is far better now than then, and I am confident in the belief that Mr. Bryan will be elected president. In fact, the campaign, from the Democratic viewpoint, has steadily improved with each succeeding week. As Mr. Bryan has presented the issues in various sections of the country, the people have become more and more convinced that his election is for the permanent prosperity and best interests of the nation.

"Of the many reports I have received from the various states there has not been one discouraging to our cause. On the other hand, all of our information has indicated that there will be a remarkable decrease in the Republican vote, and this statement applies alike to the banner Republican state of Pennsylvania as well as to states like New York, Ohio, and Indiana. Mr. Bryan will not only receive the majority of the electoral vote, but one of the greatest popular votes ever given a candidate.

Says Fight is Won.

"The fight is won, but we must keep everlastingly at it for the remaining two weeks of the campaign. Our reports have been of such an encouraging nature that I have at times had fears least some of those on duty would, in their enthusiasm, let up in the fight, and my parting word to those at headquarters is that they continue their efforts just as aggressively as if the contest had to be won in the declining days of the campaign.

"The Democratic party has a greater membership than the Republican party. The only question with us in recent years has been to get our folks together in harmonious and united phalanx. I do not believe there is a Democrat in the entire country who is outside of the breastworks in this campaign, and that is the greatest reason to my mind why Mr. Bryan will be inaugurated president on March 4 next. I will not attempt to give figures, but I will say now that New York, Ohio, and Indiana are Democratic this year, and my prediction does not take into consideration a number of other states that will swing from the Republican to the Democratic column on election day."

Republicans Pass the Lie.

Republican campaign managers have been endeavoring to create the impression that James Duncan, first vice president of the American Federation of Labor, is not in sympathy with the labor movement advocated by Mr. Gompers, urging union labor to support its friends and defeat its enemies in the present campaign. Mr. Duncan was advised of this fact and asked to state his attitude in the matter. His reply is explicit and gives the lie to the Republican managers who have been seeking to place him in a false light.

List of Trust Allies.

The Republican national committee is sending out a letter asking for "cash contributions," in which the declaration is made that "the election of Judge Taft and James S. Sherman is essential to the welfare of the country."

The letter is of interest by reason of the character of the men whose names appear on the letterhead, and who make this appeal. Here are the men who sign the letter informing the people of the country that Bryan's election will be dangerous:

Charles F. Brooker, head of the brass trust and vice president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, against which a government suit is now pending in the Federal courts.

Charles Nagel, of Missouri, one of the general attorneys of the Standard Oil company. This Standard Oil representative is in charge of Republican national campaign headquarters in Chicago.

Frank O. Lowden, multi-millionaire son-in-law of the late George M. Pullman, and now head of the great Pullman Palace Car trust, to which the traveling public pays tribute.

T. Coleman Du Pont, the head of the powder trust, which is fighting a suit against dissolution.

George R. Sheldon, the personal representative of J. Pierpont Morgan, in the capacity of director in all his trust companies, and who collected trust money for the election of Governor Hughes of New York.

William Nelson Cromwell, the legal representative of Edward H. Harriman and probably the greatest trust lawyer in the United States.

Fred W. Upham, the "fat fryer" for the Republican party in the west, and the man who wrote letters to corporations whose property he assessed by virtue of his position as a member of the board of review in Chicago.

Farmers and Business Men Know.

This is a fine outfit to advise the farmers and business men in the west how to vote. Two of the signers are heads of corporations which are fighting for their existence in the courts. Of course these men think Bryan's election dangerous; that is natural when one becomes acquainted with their connections. But there is not a legitimate business man in the nation, small or large, who has any reason to fear a Democratic victory.

THE GREAT EXPLAINER.

Here is a copy of a poster, headed "Laboring Men—Attention!" which has been circulated in advance of Judge Taft's appearance in a number of cities:

Come out and hear
HON. WILLIAM H. TAFT
Republican candidate for President.

HE WILL EXPLAIN
how he secured his appointment as United States judge through the influence of Senator Foraker, the attorney of the Standard Oil company.

HE WILL EXPLAIN
why, as United States judge, he put railroad men and mechanics in jail by means of his INJUNCTION process.

HE WILL EXPLAIN
why he is opposed to giving the laboring man a trial by a jury

HE WILL EXPLAIN
to you why the capitalistic class and the trusts and the syndicates of Wall street are supporting him, while the laboring men are opposing him, almost to a man.

By Order of the Committee.

TO PUNISH THE "NIGHT RIDERS."

Special Grand Jury Convenes in Union City, Tenn., Today.

UNDER MILITARY PROTECTION.

District of Reelfoot Lake Is Under Complete Military Domination. Trouble Originated Over Right of Men to Fish in Lake—Governors of Several States May Confer and Devise Plans to Fight "Night Raiders."

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 26.—What may happen this week as a result of the investigation of "Night Rider" depredations in the northwestern part of Tennessee is a matter of conjecture. Today, with the convening of the circuit court for Obio county in special session at Union City to investigate the death of Quinten Rankin, who was killed by a "Night Rider" band in the vicinity of Reelfoot lake, that region is under the complete domination of military rule.

Five companies of the state national guard will be at the disposal of Colonel Tatom to enforce martial law, and it is purposed to gather in every member of the band. To aid the militia the adjoining counties have been drawn on for armed bands of picked men. Should this force be inadequate to cope with the situation, it is declared that the entire military force of the state will be concentrated if necessary.

In the Reelfoot lake region the lake itself is the source of contention which brought forth the activity of the "Night Rider" organization. It was contended by those living near the lake that it was their right to ply their vocation as fishermen in its waters without molestation, while the owner of the land on the shores of the lake took an opposite view. In the courts the latter, the Western Tennessee Land company, of which Captain Rankin and Colonel R. Z. Taylor of Trenton were the organizers, was upheld.

Warnings Followed.

Then followed "Night Rider" warnings, threatening death to those who opposed the wishes of the members of the band. It was on the first visit in many months to the lake region that Captain Rankin was killed. Men connected with or supporting the land owners have been forced to leave their homes, and others who refused to obey the warnings were punished corporally.

Of a number of men arrested ten are held, and it is promised that sufficient evidence will be furnished to the grand jury to bring about the indictment of every member of the "Night Rider" organization. The court is under the military protection of a company of militia that was sent from Nashville especially for this service.

Governors of several states of the south have approved of a suggestion of Governor Patterson that a conference of the executives of the different states be held and plans devised whereby they can act in concert in an effort to destroy "Night Rider" organizations. Governor Noel of Mississippi, Governor Pindall of Arkansas and Governor Willson of Kentucky have already expressed themselves in approval of the proposed conference. Nearly all southern states have suffered from the operations of the mysterious organizations.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

Major Edward Murphy Robinson, prominent at the local bar and in politics in Mobile, Ala., has committed suicide by blowing out his brains at his home.

A magnificent hospital, built by the Japanese government, has just been opened in Seoul, Korea. It is one of the finest institutions in the far east and includes a school of medicine.

Three train thieves, believed to be Americans, who were known under the names of Bert, Bertha and Cauda, have been sent to prison in Rheims, France, for thirteen months for robbing passengers on express trains.

Albert Bell's twelve-year-old schoolboy, was shot and instantly killed by his sixteen-year-old brother, Raymond, while hunting in Wildwood park, near Harrisburg, Pa. With the brothers were three other boys, one of whom, without saying anything to any one, slipped a cartridge into the rifle, which was the only weapon they had. Later on, Raymond playfully pointed the rifle at his brother and pulled the trigger. The youth fell to the ground with a bullet in his brain.

GRAND FINISH TO CAMPAIGN.

Great Will Be Demonstrations In Every State This Week.

LEADING PARTIES VERY ACTIVE

Giving Special Attention to New York, Ohio and Indiana—Nominees Both in East—Prominent Campaigners and Politicians Enlisted on Each Side For Last Great Efforts.

New York, Oct. 26.—The political campaign, which is now to enter upon its last week, is to have a real whirlwind finish. From the highest to the lowest, all the spellbinders of all the parties will be out in force during the next six days, and wavering voters will be urged by eloquent advocates of the several causes to cast their ballots "right."

In practically every state in the Union rallies and mass meetings almost without number have been arranged, but it is in New York, with its large number of electoral votes at stake, that the real battle will be waged. There, practically all the leading candidates will concentrate their efforts, ably assisted by a large number of the country's most forceful and resourceful campaigners. Ohio and Indiana also will be given considerable attention, particularly by the two leading parties.

Members of Cabinet Out.

Among the speakers who will urge the voters of Ohio to support Mr. Taft will be several members of President Roosevelt's cabinet, Secretaries Root and Garfield and Postmaster General Meyer, and the Republican presidential candidate himself will deliver two formal addresses himself at Cleveland and Youngstown on Saturday. Vice President Fairbanks will head the Republican forces in Indiana, which will include Senators Beveridge and Hemenway, Edward H. Ozmun, consul general of the United States at Constantinople; J. L. Griffin, United States consul at Liverpool, and Representative Gardner of Michigan. William J. Bryan, after four days in New York state, will close his long, hard campaign by a series of speeches in Ohio, Illinois and Indiana.

Both Mr. Taft and Mr. Bryan were in this city last night. All the forces the Democratic national committee can summon will be brought to bear to secure the electoral vote of New York state for William J. Bryan. Led by the presidential candidate himself, who will speak four days in this state, an army of speakers will be sent into every county and town to spread the doctrine and appeal for votes for the ticket. Mr. Bryan went to the cities and towns in the southern tier Saturday, and, after two days' campaigning in this city and district, he will stump cities and towns that fringe the east shore of the Hudson river, which seldom are visited by Democratic candidates in search of support.

All the prominent campaigners the Democratic state and national committees can enlist have been sent to the sixty-two counties of New York state and to the doubtful states of the middle west. Among the leading speakers in New York state for the week will be ex-Judge Alton B. Parker, John Sharp Williams, Senator Bacon of Georgia, Governor Hoke Smith of Georgia, Governor J. H. Higgins of Rhode Island and Governor Ansel of South Carolina.

Many Mass Meetings.

The Republican wind-up of the campaign in New York city calls for twenty-two mass meetings, to be addressed by speakers of national reputation; a parade of the Republican clubs of Greater New York and a big parade of the Business Men's Republican association.

The big Republican event of the week will be the Madison Square Garden meeting, on Wednesday night, at which Mr. Taft and Governor Hughes will be the principal speakers. The other speakers will be Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan, George A. Knight of California and United States Assistant District Attorney H. A. Atwood of Chicago. General Horace Porter will preside.

Other Republican meetings of the week will be addressed by Secretary of State Root, Secretary of the Treasury Cortelyou, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus, Attorney General Bonaparte, James S. Sherman, the vice presidential candidate; Senator Dolliver, Congressman Herbert Parsons of New York, Congressman J. Francis Burke of Pennsylvania and others

DICKIE FLAYS OFFICIALS.

Attacks Warner and Detroit Office Holders.

ALSO TAKES JAB AT HEMANS.

Declares Them All Influenced by Saloon Element — Liquor Influence Must First Be Trampled Down Before State Can Have Decent Administration, He Declares.

Albion, Mich., Oct. 26.—President Samuel Dickie of Albion college, speaking before an audience of several hundred people in W. C. T. U. hall Sunday night, flayed the politicians of the entire state as well as his own county—Calhoun.

"The saloons now play such a big part in politics that the state of Michigan is unable to get good, square and just officials," he said. "They hold a controling interest, so to speak, in the election of certain candidates to office. Until they and their power are crushed we will not have men who can accomplish anything that will give justice to all."

Not only did Governor Warner and his Democratic opponent, Lawton T. Hemans, come in for a share of the attack, but the college president, before delving far in his bit of oratory, took a shot at some of Detroit's city officials. Police Commissioner Smith of Detroit, Prosecuting Attorney Yerkes of Wayne county and his staff of assistants were scored left and right for the part they played in the recent trial of R. E. Moore, a Detroit saloonkeeper, for alleged violation of the liquor law. Moore was brought into court on ten complaints made against him by the committee of 100, which claimed that he had repeatedly kept his thirst parlor open after the hour prescribed by law. A jury acquitted Moore, and this is what Dr. Dickie has to say regarding the verdict:

Jurors Were Perjurers.

"Each member of that jury is a self-confessed and a self-advertised perjurer. They acquitted that man when, in all the testimony offered, there was not one particle that pointed to anything save guilt. I suspect that they were selected for one purpose, and that is well enough known."

He then branched off in an attack on Commissioner Smith, who he declared were in a class with Prosecutor Yerkes and Governor Warner when they refused to further prosecute the case, the latter because he ignored the petition from the committee of 100 which called for the removal of Smith because of failure to carry out the duties of his office.

"No, the people of the state of Michigan will not and cannot have a decent administration until this saloon rule influence is trampled down by the good, honest administrative-inclined candidates," continued Dr. Dickie. In substance he said that under the present conditions no man, Warner or Hemans, can give the state the administration it should have.

"The saloon is so strong politically that you cannot do anything with it," he reiterated.

The college president came out with something entirely unlooked for by those who attended the meeting, it not being dreamed that he would lead an attack against the state executive official. His subject was "Temperance entirely and the power of the saloon along political lines."

Domestic Gets Judgment of $227.50.

Muskegon, Mich., Oct. 26.—Mrs. Jennie Webb, a domestic, has been given a judgment of $227.50 in her suit against Mrs. Frances Depew of Detroit. The jury deliberated eight hours before reaching a verdict. The judgment put an end to a legal battle, four times fought out in the courts. A peculiar incident in connection with the case is the fact that the final judgment was $37 in excess of the one granted at the first trial, which the defendant sought to relieve herself of by appealing to a higher court. Mrs. Webb claimed $300 from Mrs. Depew for wages she would have earned had not the latter discharged her.

ELECTION IN CANADA.

Electing New Parliament Today—Indications Are Liberals Will Win.

Montreal, Oct. 26.—A general election is being held today throughout the dominion of Canada to choose a new parliament, the eleventh since the confederation of the provinces of British North America in 1867.

At present the Liberal party, led by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, holds control of the Canadian government, as it has done for the past twelve years, and nothing has developed during the five weeks' campaign just closed to indicate to the impartial observer that a change is imminent. Most authorities, however, agree that the Liberals will be shorn of some of their strength should they again be retured to power.

The Liberals had a majority of sixty-six members in the last parliament. Their leaders say they will be satisfied with half that number in the new one. Conservative leaders and Conservative newspapers are not placing an estimate on the size of the majority which they expect their party to achieve. The Toronto World, an independent newspaper with Conservative leanings, predicts that the next parliament will be Conservative with a majority of six votes.

PATENT MODELS NOT TO BE DESTROYED.

Commissioner Moore Refutes Current Rumor.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Commissioner Edward B. Moore of the patent office denies that there has been any intention on the part of the secretary of the interior or any one else to destroy the models of patents accumulated by the government up to 1880, when mechanical drawings were substituted for models in the filing of claims by inventors. Widespread publicity has been given to statements that this collection of 157,000 models would be destroyed or scattered, and many protests against such action have been received here.

Mr. Moore explained that congress during the last session created a commission consisting of Secretary Garfield, Commissioner of Patents Moore and Secretary Walcott of the Smithsonian institution to place these models in some government building, where rent for storage would be saved.

"The entire collection," said Mr. Moore, "has been catalogued, boxed and labelled and is now stored in the basement of the patent office, where it will be kept until finally removed to the new national museum building, now nearly completed, where the law directs the models shall be lodged under the control of the commissioner of patents as heretofore. The model cases were sold, there being no further use for them, as they did not conform to the new building.

"The models are valuable for evidence in numerous suits in courts," added Mr. Moore, "where the earlier drawings in mechanical cases are not clear, and large sums of money have been saved to the government by having such evidence."

Marshall, Mich., Oct. 26.—Circuit Court Commissioner L. S. Page has reduced the bail of Floyd Huller from $10,000 to $2,000, and his father, William Huller of Leroy township, will try to furnish it. Huller is the former schoolteacher who is charged with assault upon is father one night last spring.

Hugh McGuire, a well known resident of Camp Hill, a suburb of Pittsburg, was killed by highway robbers between that place and Carnegie at night. A Clean Man Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts.

He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and clean, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs.

Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

UNAMERICAN EFFORTS HURT BRYAN.

Men of Organized Labor Refuse to Be Driven to the Polls as Slaves.

Wage Earners Everywhere Recognize Taft as Their Friend and Sympathizer and Ask What Bryan Has Ever Done for Their Cause.

The effort of Samuel Gompers to pack, seal and deliver the union labor vote to Bryan, the publisher afraid to use the union label, has failed. The influence of Gompers' advice is typified in the following quotation from the Labor World, one of the leading journals of organized labor in the United States:

"By all means let every wage worker in the land use his own judgment in voting, and if he does so, and before voting secures a knowledge of the will-o'-the-wisp career of W. J. Bryan and of his associations with such foes of organized labor as Governor Haskell he most certainly will not vote for Bryan."

Writing from Cairo, Ill., to the Labor World, R. L. Finney, organizer for the American Federation of Labor, says:

"You can place old Illinois in the Taft column and add my name to the list of endorsements."

Practical Unionism Demands Taft.

A few days ago James L. Feeney of Philadelphia, president of the Elevator Constructors' National Union, delivered a speech on Bryan and his party in which he made the following important statements:

"I am not here as a Republican, and I am not here as a Democrat, but as a practical union man it is my duty to uphold the party candidates whom I know and believe to be for the best interests of the cause I advocate. No man can accuse me of turning my back on organized labor. For twenty years I have been active in the movement, and I intend to continue so, and to-night, when I publicly announce my preference for the Republican ticket, I know they have in the past been labor's friend, and I believe will also be labor's best friend in the future.

"I was at one time an advocate of the Democratic party. The Democratic party has been tried by the American people, and it has been found wanting."

Taft's Labor Record.

In the October Steam Shovel and Dredge, official journal of the union, T. J. Dolan, editor of the journal and secretary-treasurer of the organization, has written an editorial commending Mr. Taft's fairness to the members of that union. The editorial says:

"Mr. Taft had direct charge of the construction of the Panama Canal, and in all his official acts and personal relations with members and officers of our brotherhood on that work he always has shown himself fair and just.

"When contractors showed a disposition to disregard or violate the eight hour law Mr. Taft started prosecutions against these contractors through the United States Attorney General's office. When an effort was made this year to cut wages at Panama Mr. Taft used his influence to prevent it.

"We have the utmost confidence, in case of his election to the presidency, of the continuance of the fair and just policies toward organized labor that prevailed while he was Secretary of War."

Denies Gompers' Right to Dictate.

H. K. Daugherty, a member of the Spanish Treaty Claims Commission, has made public in Washington a letter from James S. Clark, one of the vice presidents of the United Mine Workers, in which Mr. Clark comes out strongly for Mr. Taft and declares that Gompers has no right to dictate to labor.

Believing that the election of W. H. Taft means more to the wage worker of the United States than the election of William J. Bryan, Edward Hannan, a member of the Central Labor Council of Seattle and a union carpenter in good standing in Seattle Local 131, has declared for Taft and the Republican ticket, and will ask that his friends cast their votes for the Republican candidates.

Appeal for Funds Causes Bitterness.

The action of Gompers in sending a circular letter to the various unions throughout the country appealing for money with which "to help the friends and defeat the enemies of labor"—in other words, to support William Jennings Bryan and oppose William H. Taft for the presidency—is being condemned bitterly by labor men.

James R. Ryan, delegate to the C. F. U. from the Photo Engravers' Union No. 1, said that his union would not contribute a dollar to Gompers' fund. Alfred J. Boulton, leading member of the Stereotypers' Union, said that his union would not take any action on the circular. "I fought for Bryan in 1896," he said, "but I am against him this year."

Albert Abrahams of the Pressmen's Union, asked this question: "What's the use of the laboring men contributing a few thousand dollars to the Democratic party when that party will get hundreds of thousands of dollars, if not millions, from the Standard Oil Company?" Adolph Krieger of Local No 476, United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, is bitterly opposed to the action of Gompers. Elias Wolf, of the Cigarmakers' Union No. 90, said: "If other unions are fools enough to get money for Bryan my union won't."

Victor Buhr, member of the Amalgamated Painters, said: "The cheapest painters are being employed for contracts given out by the Democratic politicians of this city. The Democratic politicians fill the taxicabs, driven by strike breakers, with police while a little boy gets shot to death."

I have often wondered how every man loves himself more than all the rest of men.—Antonius.

QUESTIONS BRYAN PREFERS TO IGNORE

Seven P[illegible] Queries Propo[illegible] the [illegible]cratic Candida[illegible]

Failed to Answer Any of Questions.

Prior to his recent speech at Omaha Mr. Bryan had propounded to him the following pertinent questions by the Omaha Bee. Mr. Bryan did not see fit to attempt to answer any of them.

1. You, Mr. Bryan, are making much of Democratic friendship for labor. Why is it that practically no legislation to protect labor has been enacted in the Southern States in which Democrats have absolute control? Why are there no child labor laws in the South? Why are there no laws to protect women wage earners in the South? You and your fusion friends had absolute executive and legislative control of Nebraska for several years. Why was no legislation to protect labor passed then? Why did the wage workers of Nebraska have to wait for succeeding Republican legislatures to remove the $5,000 death damage limit, to get an equitable employer's liability act and to get a child labor law?

2. You, Mr. Bryan, are trying to make your paramount issue, "Shall the people rule?" The most advanced step toward popular rule has been through the direct primary. Why is it, Mr. Bryan, that your fusion friends when in complete control did not give Nebraska a direct primary law? Why is it that the Republicans of Nebraska had to secure the direct primary law over the opposition of the Democrats? Why is it that the progressive Republican States have enacted direct primary laws to bring the filling of offices closer to the people, while in the Democratic States of the South direct primary laws have been enacted avowedly to disfranchise the people?

3. You, Mr. Bryan, are bidding for office on your anti-trust remedies. Why is it that all the effective legislation against illegal combinations has been enacted by Republican congresses and for the most part by Republican State legislatures, while the Democratic States have no effective anti-trust legislation?

4. You, Mr. Bryan, are bidding for labor votes by promising to abolish the writ of injunction in labor disputes. Do you not know that injunction abuses have been chargeable as much to State courts as to federal courts? Can you name a single Democratic State which has passed a law to prevent the abuse of injunction by State courts? Why was no such law passed in Nebraska when your fusion friends were in complete control?

5. You, Mr. Bryan, are bidding for votes on your scheme of bank deposit guaranty. Oklahoma is the only State that has put such a law on its statute books. Why have none of the other Democratic States enacted deposit guaranty laws? You, especially, introduced such a bill into Congress in the early 90's. Why did you not get your fusion friends to enact the bill as a State law when they were in complete control of Nebraska? A deposit guaranty bill, which you endorsed, was offered in Congress last winter as a substitute for the Vreeland bill, but only a handful of the Democratic Congressmen voted for it, the remaining others voting against it or refusing to vote. The only Democratic Congressman from Nebraska was one of those who refused to vote. If your endorsement of that bill was unable to make these Democratic Congressmen vote for it last winter, how will you be able to make them vote for it next winter?

6. You, Mr. Bryan, are trying to make much of the popular election of United States Senators. We have the statement of Mr. Tibbles, made three years ago, that a large sum of money, said to be $15,000 or $20,000, was contributed by "Ryan, Belmont & Co." in 1904, through your brother-in-law toward your campaign for United States Senator in Nebraska. Is Mr. Tibbles mistaken in his assertions? If so, why did you not correct them long ago? If not, why did you not put your name on the ballot as a candidate for Senator and ask a vote of popular preference under the Nebraska law which gives you that right? Why did the Democrats refuse to submit candidates for United States Senator to popular vote in Nebraska in 1898, in 1900 and 1904?

7. You, Mr. Bryan, are making much of publicity of campaign contributions. Nebraska has a campaign publicity law, but it was enacted, as you know, by a Republican Legislature after your fusion State administration had failed to pass such a law. Why is it, Mr. Bryan, that your brother-in-law and Democratic campaign managers have persistently and willfully violated the Nebraska campaign publicity law? Why, if you are so devoted to campaign fund publicity, were you so insistent that the $50,000 contribution to your campaign made by the Bennett will should be kept secret?

The Hon. John W. Kern, Democratic candidate for vice-president, who visited this city yesterday, was "starred" in large headlines in "The Evening Post" as "an optimist." Anybody who can travel these days on a railroad pass has good reason for being "an optimist."—New York Tribune.

MRS. JOSEPH SPALDING.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Joseph Spalding, whose death occurred Sunday evening, Oct. 25 was held at her late home on Wednesday. The Rev. Ashby of the Congregational church of Clinton officiating.

She came with her parents to Mich. in 1837.

United with the M. E. church at about the age of 16, receiving a letter from the church after she married and came to her late home. Although unable to attend church of late years her daily walk of life proved she was living the Christian faith.

At the age of 22 she was united in marriage with Joseph Spalding on June 20, 1857 and settled on the farm, which has since been her home. Amid trying circumstances, beginning housekeeping in a loghouse surrounded by forest trees, and having the care of three small children of her husband's former wife, two of whom are still living and helped to comfort her declining years.

Mrs. Spalding was the mother of eight children, six of whom, two sons and four daughters, with an aged husband are left to mourn her loss.

During her two weeks of patient suffering from pneumonia, she was tenderly cared for by two daughters and a son.

Mrs. Spalding was a kind and affectionate wife and mother, ever thoughtful and considerate for the welfare of others.

Her smiling pleasant face bringing sunshine where-er she went.

Dear Mother, we shall miss you,
The voice we loved is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

OUR NEW MINISTER.

Pretty good testimony of the high favor in which a play is held by the community when enquiries as to the date of its re engagement begin to find their way to a box-office months and months before the play is due. Denman Thompson and Geo. W. Ryer's comedy, "Our New Minister" is just now enjoying this good fortune locally. Since the announcement of the contemplated return of the piece got into print, every day brings a question mark as to the date to the local management. It is now advertised to appear at the New Bradley opera house for the last time on Monday, Nov. 9.

SHERMAN-SMITH.

The marriage of Clarence Sherman to Miss Mayme Smith of Ridgeway, took place at the Methodist parsonage by Rev. Stanley Shaw. Mr. and Mrs. Sherman will reside in Tecumseh where they have numerous friends, who extend congratulations.

TRUE PARTY TEST.

Record of Republican Party Entitles It to Confidence.

Before the New York State convention Secretary of State Elihu Root said:

"We have a record which forbids discouragement or doubt in the performance of our task. We can turn to the administrations now drawing to a close, both in the State and in the nation, and with confidence ask every American voter to say whether they have not met all the great fundamental requisites of good government, whether they do not justify the belief that it is best for the country to keep in power the party which is responsible for them and is entitled to the credit for them. Have not these administrations within the state and within the nation been honest? Have they not been capable? Have they not been efficient? Have they not set before all the people of America examples of pure, high-minded and patriotic service in public office? Have they not raised the standard of public duty which the young men of America set for themselves? Have they not done us honor before the world?

These are the true tests by which to determine whether it is wise to confide to the world? These are the true tests by which to determine whether it is wise to continue a political party in power."

SHIFTING OPINIONS.

Bryan on Rail Ownership To-day and Two Years Ago.

TO-DAY.

To-day Mr. Bryan, in expressing his views of government ownership of railroads, said:

"I do not desire government ownership. I hope that the railroads will permit regulation. Mr. Taft's and my position only differ in that Mr. Taft has more faith than I have in the willingness of the railroads to be regulated."

TWO YEARS AGO.

Upon his return from his world tour Mr. Bryan said on Aug. 30, 1906, in a speech in New York:

"I have already reached the conclusion that railroads partake so much of the nature of a monopoly that they must ultimately become public property and be managed by public officials in the interests of the whole community in accordance with the well-defined theory that public ownership is necessary where competition is impossible. * * *

"The ownership and operation of the local lines by the several State governments is not only feasible but it suits itself to the conditions existing in the various States."

Where Bullets Flew.

David Parker of Fayette, N. Y., a veteran of the civil war, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, says: 'The good Electric Bitters have done is worth more than five hundred dollars to me. I spent much money doctoring for a bad case of stomach trouble, to little purpose. I then tried Electric Bitters, and they cured me. I now take them as a tonic, and they keep me strong and well." 50c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

RESEARCH CIRCLE

The first evening meeting of the Research Circle was held at the pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs Abner Wilson on west Chicago street. A large number of the members were present and the following program was carried out. "Washington, the Capitol" by Miss Carrie Sawyer was so graphically described that it seemed as though if we were to look up the street we would surely see the Capitol and perhaps some of the presidential family. This was supplemented by the members, who had been to Washington, telling what had impressed them the most. "National Cemeteries" was a very interesting paper written by Mrs. Mingay, being unable to be present it was read by Mrs. Fannie Bryan. This was also supplemented by those who had visited some of our National cemeteries. Pictures of public men and women had been handed to some of the members the week before and at roll call they gave a character sketch of the person whose picture they had. This was followed by a Presidential contest. The members were arranged in two rows and the president asked questions about the U. S. President and ex-Presidents. Any one failing to answer the question asked her was banished to another room. It is needless to say that the "other room" was soon filled. This closed the program and the members departed feeling that the evening meetings would certainly be a success.

The Research circle at its meeting Tuesday afternoon, Nov, 3, will be led by Mrs. Linton, with program as follows:

The First American Colony—Miss Dingman.

Historic Landmarks of the United States—Mrs. Eaton.

Review—The Courtship of Miles Standish.

Name six distinguished American authors.

An impressive and inspiring message was given by Rev. J. W. Dunning of Tecumseh, Sunday afternoon, to the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium in Adrian. His theme was, "A Man's View of What It Means to be Saved." He based his remarks upon the Scriptural text, "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature." He closed his talk with a plea to non Christian men who were present to make a start in this new life.

A musical program under the direction of C. H. Mott was rendered.

MAKES ASTONISHING CURES

Mi-o-na is a scientific and effective remedy for the permanent cure of indigestion.

Food is digested in the stomach be means of a churning movement of the walls of the stomach, which thoroughly mixes the food with the gastric or stomach juices.

If the muscular walls are flabby and lack tone or energy, the stomach cannot churn the food properly, and the digestive juices are not properly mixed with the food.

This causes indigestion. The common symptoms are: weight and fullness after meals, coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, discharges of wind from the mouth, and belching of sour material.

Dyspepsia cannot be cured by taking a digestor, such as pepsin, because pepsin simply digests your food artificially, and not all of the food either, for it has no effect at all on starchy food, such as potatoes, rice, oatmeal, bread, etc.

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach disorders, trivial or serious, and that is to tone up or put energy into the the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix or churn the food.

Mi-o-na tablets cure stomach troubles by putting strength and energy into the stomach. They quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction, and in a short time it is able to do its work properly.

And bear in mind that when the stomach is in good condition, constipation disappears, also nervousness, drowsiness, night sweats, heartburn, etc.

C. A. Wright & Son, the druggist, sells Mi-o-na tablets under a rigid guarantee to do all that is claimed for them, or money back.

OF UNTOLD VALUE.

The Information Contained in This Citizen's Statement is Priceless.

The hale, the hearty, the strong can afford to toss this paper to one side impatiently when they read the following, but any sufferer in Tecumseh who has suffered hours of torture caused by kidney complaint will stand in his own light if he does not follow the valuable advice offered here.

Mrs. Sarah Austin, living on Pearl st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I used Doan's Kidney Pills and think very highly of them. For sometime I was bothered with kidney trouble. I had distressing pains in my hips and could not get my proper sleep at night on account of the frequent action of the kidneys. I passed a great deal of gravel in my secretions, and at times it was almost impossible to stand the pain. I doctored with different physicians, but only received temporary relief, and when Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I began taking them. The results of their use were most satisfactory, in fact, they effected a complete cure. I am glad to endorse such a reliable remedy as Doan's Kidney Pills."

Snow Storm Caused Hardships.

Medicine Hat, Sask., Oct 26.—The first trains to reach Medicine Hat since last week Monday's snow storm has arrived from the east. Riders got in from the region stretching south to the United States border with fearful tales of hardship created by the storm. William Mitchell, after riding since Wednesday, arrived from a ranch, sixty miles south of here, and reported the second fatality as a result of the recent storm. Donald Cameron, sheep herder, with two others, was caught in the storm. They were forced to leave their sheep to perish and seek safety for themselves. Cameron, however, became exhausted and died. After being sixty hours without sleep and nourishment, the other men reached a ranch in safety. It is feared that many other herders have perished. Three thousand sheep were driven by the storm into Many Islands lake, and only 300 were saved.

GREEK BOY DROWNS SELF.

Lonesome For His Mother, Who Is in Native Land.

The boy was employed in the Grand Rapids candy kitchen by his uncle, George Parentesis. Before jumping into the lake the boy removed his shoes and hat, placed his pocketbook, containing 51 cents, in a heap near a box and then penned the following note, "Give that here, please." The boy meant for anyone finding the missive to leave it where it lay. The body was found.

George came to this country about ten months ago, and soon after his arrival in this country was sent to grammar school. He was unusually bright for a foreign boy and soon learned enough English to talk freely.

His father lives here, but his mother is in Sparta, Greece. A sister is employed in a Detroit candy store, owned by her uncle.

It is believed the boy was lonesome for his mother.

New Catholic Church Dedicated.

St. Johns, Mich., Oct. 26.—In the presence of a dozen or more priests, members of the congregation and townspeople, the new St. Joseph's Catholic church was dedicated Sunday. The dedicatory ceremony was conducted by Rev. Wittliff of Pewamo. The following prelates took part: Bishop Foley, Detroit; Rev. Andrew R. Drolling, Greenfield; Fathers Shubridge, Chicago; Hill, Lansing; Hayes, Coldwater; Patte, Tremont, O; Liederman, Fowler; Lynch, St. Johns. The services in the morning were attended by a large gathering.

Alleged Cashier Deceived Old Lady.

Jackson, Mich., Oct. 26.—That Edmond L. Cooper, cashier and one of the stockholders of the Farmers' bank at Grass Lake, took advantage of Mrs. Sarah McMasters in her old age and unsoundness of mind and induced her or deceived her into making him the main legatee in her will is the contention made by the relatives of the deceased in circuit court of this county, where the will is being hotly contested. The testimony being taken is causing a sensation in Grass Lake, and people from that village crowd the courtroom daily, listening to the developments in the case.

Fiend's Little Victim Still Alive.

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 26.—Mello Thibodeau, the six-year-old boy who was lured into a vacant house at 57 Commonwealth avenue Saturday noon by a strange man and mutilated so horribly, is still alive, and the physicians have some hope for his recovery. The boy's condition, as a matter of fact, is slightly improved. The lad's assailant is still at large. Guided only by the faint clue and meager description furnished by the victim, detectives are scouring the city.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Sheriff Blake of Monroe, in Toledo, has arrested Dave Friedland, eighteen years old, of Los Angeles, Cal., and Otto Davigowski, aged twenty-one, of Toledo, on a charge of stealing a horse from Ellory Smith of Erie, ten miles from Monroe, a week ago.

As the result of the blowing out of a flue in one of the large freight engines, near Twelfth street in the Pere Marquette yards at Saginaw, Fireman August Zeitz was probably fatally hurt and Engineer Arthur Harbin seriously injured.

Monroe authorities have issued warning to the bankers and merchants of that city to be on the lookout for a check for $50 drawn in favor of A. A. Casler of Flat Rock and signed by County Clerk C. C. Reday. The check disappeared from Reday's office.

For a crime which is alleged to have occurred one year ago, Robert Colwell of Port Huron was arrested in Sarnia, Ont. Colwell is said to have robbed Charles Damm of $500. Colwell fled to the United States, and nothing more came of the case until Colwell was lured to Sarnia and arrested.

Ten minutes after returning home from a hunting trip, George Malcolm twenty-one years old, of Rochester, accidentally shot himself in the left leg with a 22 caliber rifle. While attempting to extract a cartridge which stuck in the breech of the gun, the cartridge exploded, the bullet entering the fleshy part of the leg below the knee. Blood poisoning is feared.

Frank Barnum, thirty-one years old, and Ernest Pickell, twenty years old, both of Stockbridge, lost their lives by drowning while hunting duck on Joslin lake. The young men were in a small boat about twenty rods from the shore when a flock of ducks flew over them. They both stood up in the boat to shoot, tipping the boat so that it filled with water and sank.

Cyrus Townsend Brady Resigns.

Toledo, O., Oct. 26.—Dr. Cyrus Townsend Brady of Toledo has announced his resignation as rector of the Trinity parish. He goes to Kansas City to the St. George Episcopal church. Dr. Brady, in his letter of resignation, stated the church was incorporated under the laws of Ohio, which makes it different from any parish in the country. Dr. Brady said that he could not conscientiously serve the church under existing conditions

Officers Fire on Mob of Greeks.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 26.—Twenty-five men and women and two policemen were injured, several seriously, in a riot that followed the arrest of William Sarkis for fighting. The struggle took place in the Greek colony at Second and Plum streets. The mob demanded that the two policemen release the prisoner. The officers fired into the crowd, but this did not stop the onslaught. Finally a riot call brought reenforcements, and the rioters were dispersed.

Epitomizing Bryanism.

Mr. Bryan is a good man and is an orator, but he is constantly seeking for a short cut to a virtuous result, to a result that is going to give us something for nothing, and there is nothing in the world within the law and within justice that gives you something for nothing, except the love of your father and mother. That does, and you find when you become a father or a mother that you have to pay out to your children the love that you got from your father or mother. It goes that way.—Judge Taft at Greensboro, N. C.

LETTERS FROM WOMEN About Pe-ru-na.

MRS. CLARA L. MILLER. MRS. MAHALA REID.

The following testimonials represent actual experience of every-day life. They are the truthful utterances of women who have been ill and have found a reliable remedy in Peruna.

It means a great deal to the women of America to have at hand a remedy capable of giving such relief. Constipation, rheumatism, kidney trouble, bronchitis and a host of other catarrhal conditions are relieved by Peruna. At least this is what the women say. They have no object in saying such things, except to render truthful testimony to their suffering sisters.

Peruna is making such friends every day. It is the testimony of the people that has made Peruna so justly famous Chronic Bronchitis.

Mrs. Clara L. Miller, Box 71, Columbia Sta., Seattle, Wash., formerly vice president of Skoogay Country Club, writes:

"Nine bottles of Peruna cured me of a protracted case of bronchitis. There is no superior remedy that I know of, as the action of Peruna on the vasa motor system of nerves is very beneficial. It increases the tone of the system and aids nature to perform her functions.

"I have recommended it to a number of my friends, who speak in the same high terms of it. I have certainly found it a most efficacious medicine."

Nervous, Tired and Weak.

Mrs. Christina Smukalla, 490 Winslow Ave., Buffalo, N. Y., writes: "I trust every one suffering from systemic catarrh will read this and profit by it.

"I was in a very bad condition indeed, when I began to take Peruna, and my friends as well as myself were very much alarmed over my condition. I was always nervous, could not sleep at night, my food did me no good, and I was always tired and weak. I tried several doctors, but found no relief.

"Finally I took two bottles of Peruna and felt like a different woman. However, I did not stop there, but kept on with it until I had taken several bottles, when I felt completely cured, and have remained so ever since. I can eat and sleep now."

A Good Word for Pe-ru-na.

Mrs. S. L. Jewell, R. F. D. 1, Freeport, Pa., writes:

"Having used Peruna myself for many years with beneficial effects, and observing the good it has done others of my acquaintance, I cannot but say a good word in behalf of Peruna."

Keeps Pe-ru-na in the House.

Mrs. Maria Goertz, Orienta, Oklahoma, writes: "My husband, children and myself have used your medicines, and we always keep them in the house in case of necessity. I was restored to health by this medicine, and Dr. Hartman's invaluable advice and books. People ask about me from different places, and are surprised that I can do all of my housework alone, and that I was cured by the doctor of chronic catarrh. My husband was cured of asthma, my daughter of earache and catarrh of the stomach, and my son of catarrh of the throat. When I was sick I weighed 100 pounds; now I weigh 140.

"Dr. Hartman's remedies have proven to be reliable and wonderful. Their effect upon the system is remarkable. Peruna quiets the nerves, and is a great specific for all forms of chronic catarrh.

"I am very glad to say, that I can write you that I am cured in every way of catarrh, with which I had suffered terribly for ten years. I cannot thank you enough for your advice."

Constipation, Kidney Trouble.

Mrs. Mahala Reid, Corbyville, Ont., Canada, writes:

"Your celebrated remedies have been a wonderful boon to me in my old age. I have not been in so good health for several years as now.

"I was troubled with constipation, rheumatism and kidney trouble. A little over two years ago I completely lost my health, becoming almost helpless, when a dear friend sent me your remedies, Peruna and Manalin.

"I began to take them, following the directions on the bottles. I very soon began to feel benefited by their use, and continued to take them.

"I am now completely recovered from the above ailments, in fact, better than I have been for years past.

"I cannot praise the remedies too highly and will always recommend them to others."

Pe-ru-na in Tablet Form.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup is used nearly every where, because it not only heals irritation of the throat and stops the cough, but it drives the cold out of the system through its laxative principle by assuring a free and gentle action of the bowels, and that is the only way to cure a cold. You can't cure it as long as you are constipated. Insist upon Kennedy's Laxative Cough Syrup. Sold by all druggists

JOHN MITCHELL MAKES DENIAL.

Miners' Leader Says He Has Sent Out No Political Posters.

John Mitchell, for years president of the United Mine Workers, gave out a statement at Indianapolis in which he said he had sent out no posters, with picture of himself, advising union men how to vote in the coming election. Such posters, it is said, have been received by many unions. He also denied the authenticity of a dispatch printed in a Buffalo paper and purporting to come from him, in the interests of one of the presidential candidates.

"I am sure that I shall not be charged with partisanship," he says, "when I advise each citizen to examine carefully the principles and policies of the candidates; to consider seriously the effect of the election upon the nation as a whole and upon that division of society in particular to which he belongs; and having done this, it is his duty to cast his ballot in accordance with his best judgment and with the dictates of his conscience."

AS ROOSEVELT SEES BRYAN.

"You say that you have advocated more radical measures against private monopolies than either I or my party associates have been willing to undertake. You have, indeed, advocated measures that sound more radical, but they have the prime defect that in practice they would not work. I should not in this letter to you discuss your attitude on this question if you did not yourself bring it up, but as you have brought it up, I answer you that in my judgment the measures you advocate would be wholly ineffective in curing a single evil, and so far as they had any effect at all, would merely throw the entire business of the country into hopeless and utter confusion. I put Mr. Taft's deeds against your words. I ask that you be judged both by the words you wish remembered, and by the words that seemingly you and your party now desire to have forgotten. . . . . I hold it entirely natural for any great law-defying corporation to wish to see you placed in the Presidency rather than Mr. Taft. Your plans to put a stop to the abuses of these corporations are wholly chimerical. — Theodore Roosevelt."

If it is true that Roosevelt is going to take to the stump Bryan will have to take to the woods.—Philadelphia Press.

Mr. Bryan no longer refers to Mr. Roosevelt as his imitator, counterpart and understudy.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

CASTRO'S TIME LIMIT ENDS.

Netherlands Ultimatum Still Stands Unanswered

NO WAR PLANS APPARENT.

Venezuelans Confident Dutch Will Blockade Their Ports—Reported Castro Has Ordered Mobilization of Big Army—Rumored Attempt Was Made to Poison Castro.

Willemstad, Curacao, Nov. 2.—The Netherlands government fixed Nov. 1 as the limit of time for Venezuela to revoke the decree of President Castro issued on May 14 prohibiting the transshipment of goods for Venezuelan ports at Curacao. President Castro has refused to revoke this decree, but as yet, so far as is known here, the Netherlands government has not decided upon definite action.

There has been much activity here of late, but, in an interview, the governor of Curacao said that Holland ought to have assurance that Venezuela had not revoked the decree at the last hour of the day fixed, according to the ultimatum, before taking any active measures. He believed that his government had made ample preparations for any eventuality, and he added that a statement would doubtless be issued at once announcing the position of Holland and Venezuela and what action it was proposed to take.

The opinion is held among naval officers here that no direct steps by Holland would be taken within a week. The Van Heemskerck and the protected cruiser Friesland, which are now in this port, still have on board all the superfluous equipments which would be discarded in time of war. The report is current that Captain Snethlage, who is in command of the fleet, has been promoted to rear admiral.

There is no question, however, but that Venezuelans believe that the Netherlands government is preparing to blockade their ports. Advices received by the steamer Sulia from Maracaibo state that it was reported on Oct. 24 that President Castro had ordered the mobilization of 50,000 troops, to be ready Nov. 2.

Other advices reaching Willemstad again report the serious illness of President Castro, who, according to the report, was compelled to take his bed on Thursday last. There was some talk, too, of a trace of poison having been found in his food. The residents of Curacao and other Venezuelan cities look for the blockade to be inaugurated this week.

Remarkable Contests.

New York, Nov. 2.—A large number of aeronauts no Tuesday afternoon will compete in an unusual sort of aerial tournament at Morris park, Westchester. The Aeronautic society, under whose auspices the program has been arranged, declares that the exhibition of flying machines and the congress of aeronauts at the old race track will be one of the greatest the country has known. Gliding contests, wind wagon races, kite flying, balloon experiments and a free-for-all competition with flying machines are arranged for the day, with five motor cycle events at its conclusion. The aviators will compete for three distinct trophies, two of which have been offered by publishers and one by the Aeronautic society.

Robbers Attacked Him.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—"Throw up your hands or we'll blow your head off," was the command given by two men to Thomas Streeter, proprietor of a cafe at 150-152 Woodward avenue, as he was about to enter his home at 497 Fourth avenue shortly after 3 o'clock in the morning. Streeter was looking into the muzzle of two revolvers, but, instead of complying with the hold-up men's request, he stepped backward a step and dealt the larger of the pair a hard crack over the head with his cane, breaking the stick in two. At this the men pulled the triggers, and two bullets passed dangerously near Streeter's head. Streeter drew his own revolver, but it refused to work, and the two men fled, both making their escape.

CAMPAIGN IS AT AN END.

Republicans and Democrats Both Confident of Victory.

CHAIRMEN FIGURE BIG MARGINS

Mack Sticks to His Estimate That Bryan Will Have 333 Electoral Votes—Says Corrupt Use of Money Is Only Thing That Will Defeat His Candidate—Hitchcock Says, "Our Fight Is Won."

New York, Nov. 2.—At both Republican and Democratic headquarters in this city it has been announced that the work of the respective organizations in the campaign of 1908 was at an end. Chairman Frank H. Hitchcock of the Republican committee and National Chairman Norman E. Mack of the Democratic committee are going home to vote and will return to this city Tuesday afternoon to receive returns at headquarters. Mr. Hitchcock goes to West Newton, Mass., and Mr. Mack to Buffalo.

This is a very quiet day in the Metropolitan tower and the Hoffman House, details of correspondence left over from the flood tide rush of last week being about the only business attended to. Messrs. Mack and Hitchcock adhere to the forecasts given out on Friday and Saturday, the Democratic chairman contending that Mr. Bryan will receive 333 votes and Mr. Hitchcock announcing himself as positive in his belief that Mr. Taft will have 325 votes in the electoral college. As only 242 votes are necessary to elect, both chairmen are figuring on wide margins for their respective candidates.

In Fight to Last Minute.

While the national chairmen believe that all has been done that can be done to elect their chiefs, the candidates themselves will continue in the fight until practically the last minute. Mr. Taft, after spending Sunday in Buffalo, went this morning to Cleveland, where he will speak this afternoon, and to Youngstown, where he speaks tonight, hurrying thence to Cincinnati, to vote on Tuesday and hear the results of the election.

Mr. Bryan is putting in the day campaigning in northwestern Kansas and will be at Lincoln for a home-coming demonstration this evening.

Mr. Mack declares that "the only thing that can defeat Mr. Bryan is the corrupt use of money." He said he had sent his last instructions to state chairmen to get out their vote early and to see that it was fairly counted.

"We are through," said Chairman Hitchcock. "Our fight is won. It was made on the plans agreed upon at the beginning of the campaign."

Mr. Hitchcock announced that there had ceased to be any doubt as to Republican success in such states as Indiana, Ohio and New Jersey—all claimed by Mr. Mack—and it was added by a member of his staff that the Republican national committee is as sure of New York as it is of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Mack, in a statement just issued, has again attacked the Republican party for not immediately making its campaign contributions public.

VOTES TO SPARE.

Bryan Believes He Will Have Them After Being Elected.

Kansas City, Mo., Nov. 2.—William J. Bryan arrived in Kansas City this morning on his way to Lincoln to vote. He stayed long enough to make a thirty-minute address in Huron park, Kansas City, Kas. A reception committee from Kansas City, Kas., met Mr. Bryan at the Union station and took him in a motor car across the inter-city viaduct. After his talk, Mr. Bryan left in a special Missouri Pacific train for Lincoln.

Of the campaign results, Mr. Bryan said:

"I do not care to make any list of states in estimating the result of the election; for, while I think that the result is more certain in some states than in others, I should not want to discourage Democrats in the less certain states by making discriminations. I believe that we shall have votes to spare in the electoral college and a considerable majority of the popular vote."

STATEMENT FROM TAFT.

Assures Labor Vote He Will Not Injure Them If Elected.

Buffalo, Nov. 2.—Judge Taft caused a statement to be issued here last night as coming from him. In part it is as follows:

"It was brought to Mr. Taft's attention today that a number of labor leaders who have no sympathy with Mr. Gompers in his attempt to commit the entire vote of labor to the Democratic party were, nevertheless, in great concern lest the defeat of Mr. Bryan and Mr. Gompers, which now seems to them certain, would lead to reprisals on the part of the new administration under Mr. Taft and to a refusal on his part to continue the good work for labor which had been done by Mr. Roosevelt and, at his instance, by a Republican congress."

Speaking for himself, Mr. Taft said:

"I have been honored by Mr. Roosevelt in the last four years by being called in to assist as an advisor in respect to all the executive and legislative measures projected in his administration in the interest of labor, and I have had a very deep sympathy with all that has been done. There are other measures in the interest of labor that ought to be adopted. The sixteen-hour bill ought probably to be amended. The compensation for government employes act ought to be enlarged and liberalized, with a view to making the government liable the same way as a private employer for the injury of its workmen suffered while in its employ. It is the legitimate and approved practice of labor organizations to propose legislation of this kind to the executive for recommendation and to congress for action, and it will be a pleasant duty on my part, if elected president, as I expect to be, to consider all such labor proposals and to urge upon congress those measures approved in the Republican platform as well as such others as commend themselves to my judgment and my desire to aid labor."

Demonstration in Lincoln.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 2.—Tonight will see in Lincoln the greatest demonstration of the campaign in Nebraska. Mr. Bryan is expected to reach home in the early evening, and he will make his final address of the campaign, an outdoor speech, from the balcony of a hotel in the heart of the business quarter. A parade has been arranged on an elaborate scale, with all the pyrotechnic accessories that go with the closing of a presidential campaign. The Republicans, to offset the effect of the Bryan meeting, have arranged for a big demonstration and will hold two meetings, one at the auditorium and another on the state house grounds. Governor Sheldon and Senator Burkett will be the principal speakers. The Republicans have also arranged for a parade and fireworks.

Exodus From Washington.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Such an exodus from the national capital of voters entitled to the right of franchise in various states has not been known in any political campaign since that of 1896 as has been taking place in the last four or five days. President Roosevelt, Secretary Loeb and several White House attaches who hold voting residences at Oyster Bay or other places in New York will leave Washington tonight.

Hughes Is Confident.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 2.—Governor Hughes, when asked for an expression of opinion regarding the outcome of the election in New York state, said: "I am confident that we shall win. There is no mistaking the intense interest that is felt. Thousands have been working earnestly, and all signs point to victory.

Fair Weather Election Day.

Washington, Nov. 2.—Generally fair weather for election day throughout the United States, with the possible exception of the region extending from the north Pacific coast over the northern Rocky Mountain states is predicted by the weather bureau.

Both Claim Illinois.

Chicago, Nov. 2.—"Illinois is ours," is the assertion of both Republican and Democratic leaders.

POLICE ON CARPET

Numerous Charges Against Battle Creek Officers.

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 2.—National politics will not cut much figure with Battle Creek's police commission Tuesday night, in view of circumstances which became known during the past few days. A large percentage of the local police department will be up for investigation on that occasion.

The two latest additions were made Sunday, through complaints to the effect that Patrolman Oscar Hyde and Patrolman Forest Winterstein became intoxicated, it is said, last Thursday, en route home, and the former fell on a railroad track, whence he was removed by the latter officer, who was at least able to stand up.

Patrolman Fred Gore is also "on the carpet" for fighting his next door neighbor and trying to arrest him later on the street, by taking advantage of his uniform; Patrolman Simo Lawler, for charges preferred by Marion Garfield, who sues him for $5,000 damages for alienation of his wife's affections; Patrolman Dan Strickland and others officers, for arresting an aged man, Asa Bloomhoff.

DELOS BLODGETT PASSES AWAY.

Pioneer Lumberman Is Dead In Grand Rapids

IN HIS EIGHTY-FOURTH YEAR.

Founded Villages of Hersey, Evart and Baldwin—Was First to Demonstrate Value of Northern Lands For Agricultural Purposes—Leaves Monument in Form of Children's Home.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Nov. 2.—Delos A. Blodgett, who for sixty years has been closely identified with the lumber industry, is dead at his home here in his eighty-fourth year.

He was born in Otsego county, N. Y., in 1825. In 1845 he made an extensive trip through the south and west. The family moved to Harvard, Ill., in 1846. In 1847 he worked in an upper Michigan sawmill. The following year he went to Muskegon and worked three seasons in lumber camps and then, with Thomas D. Stimpson as partner, began timber buying and logging on the Muskegon river. Thomas Byrne and others were in partnership with him, and at a later date they were among the heaviest operators as long as any timber remained on Muskegon river.

He founded the villages of Hersey, Evart and Baldwin and was one of the first to demonstrate the value of northern Michigan land for agricultural purposes.

Since 1881 he has lived here and was identified with banking interests here and at Muskegon, Big Rapids and Detroit. He was a delegate at large to the national Republican conventions of 1892 and 1900 and several times district delegate He was married in 1859 to Jennie S. Wood, and to this marriage were born two children, John W. Blodgett and Mrs. Edward Lowe.

His first wife died in 1890, and in 1893 Mr. Blodgett married Miss Daisy A. Peck of Atlanta, Ga., and she survives him, with three young children. He had a summer home at Mackinac, Mich., and a winter home at Daytona, Fla.

Mr. Blodgett gave freely to churches and religious works, and to charity and leaves as a monument the Blodgett Home for Children. The building will cost $150,000 and is now nearly ready for dedication.

Diekema Very Confident.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—Chairman Diekema of the Republican state central committee has issued the following statement: "Michigan Republicans will win another victory all along the line, and Michigan will contribute her usual generous share toward the great majority which the country will roll up for Taft and Sherman, and at the same time will elect Governor Warner and the entire Republican state ticket, twelve Republican congressmen and, with few exceptions, all the Republican legislative and county candidates. Precinct reports from every nook and corner of the state justify the most confident prediction that our majority will reach 100,000."

State Sunday School Convention.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 2.—Sunday school workers from all over the country will be in Detroit during the second week of November, to attend the forty-eighth annual convention of the Michigan Sunday School association, which will have headquarters at the Woodward Avenue Baptist church. Meetings also will be held at the Woodward Avenue Congregational and the Woodward Avenue Baptist churches. More than 1,200 delegates are expected from the state. A choir of 500 voices is one of the features of the convention.

Gun Tore His Lungs to Pieces.

Bay City, Mich., Nov. 2.—Charles Wilbur, twenty years old, living in the western part of the county, was almost instantly killed by the accidental discharge of his gun while hunting. Wilbur set the gun alongside a log, and, in attempting to raise it, caught it by the muzzle, dragging it towards him. The hammers caught in the log, and both barrels were discharged into the young man's breast, tearing the lungs to pieces. He died before a physician could be summoned. With Wilbur at the time were his brother and three friends, all of whom witnessed the accident.

A Parlor Car Puzzle.

By HOWARD FIELDING.

Copyright, 1907, by C. W. Hooke.

Miss Leigh came straight to me.

"It was that man!" she cried. "You were right. I've got my ring again."

And she held up her hand to show it.

"After you left me I went to the rear platform of the car," she continued. "The train was stopping, and I had your words in mind. I thought that man might get off, and he did. And when I saw that he had another hat on—a soft one that must have been folded in his pocket—then I knew for sure. And I ran after him, and just as I caught him Mr. Anderson caught him too. He's in the baggage car now, and Mr. Anderson has all your things."

"Yes," said Anderson, with his peculiar drawl, "when I saw Tony Jack Wallace quitting us like that and pulling out his folder hat I knew something was queer, so I just trailed along. Nobody quicker than Tony Jack to take advantage of a little accident like the lady dropping the diamond. I'll bet he had it before it touched the floor. See him do it? Why, that man could take your shoes off your feet and you wouldn't know it. Working the trains is his specialty, and he always has a bit of fake baggage to make you think he's still aboard. I hadn't seen him in two or three years; didn't know he'd come back to this part of the country. But now he's back he'll have to stay. I've got him dead to rights this time. And now, gentlemen, if you'll name your losses I'll make good. I've got all the plunder."

"MY DEAR LITTLE RING," SAID SHE.

Miss Leigh resumed her place in seat No. 7 and I mine in No. 9, but now the two seats faced each other.

"My dear little ring!" said she. "I love it very much. It was my mother's."

She saw the look in my eye, and she laughed.

"I have to wear it on that finger," she said. "It won't fit any other."

Revealed.

An insurance agent was trying to induce a hard man to deal with to take out a policy on his house. After listening to him for an hour while he painted in vivid colors the extreme danger of fire consuming the house the hard man to deal with said:

"Do you really think it likely that my house will burn down within the time that the policy will run?"

"Certainly," replied the agent. "Have I not been trying all this time to convince you that I do?"

"Then," said the hard man to deal with, "why is your company so anxious to bet me money that it will not?"

The agent was silent and thoughtful for a moment; then he drew the other apart into an unfrequented place and whispered in his ear:

"My friend, I will impart to you a dark secret. Years ago the company disgraced me before my sweetheart. Under an assumed name I have wormed myself into its service for revenge, and as there is a heaven above us I will have its heart's blood!"

Humiliating.

Champ Clark frequently visited Washington before his election to the house and thought he was pretty well known there. On one occasion, says the Washington Star, he came to the capital on business for a client. He was surprised and pleased to meet an old friend and townsman at the hotel Mr. Clark had selected for his stay.

"Well, well, if it isn't Brown!" exclaimed Mr. Clark. "I'm glad to see you. Is there anything I can do for you?"

Then Mr. Clark took his friend by the arm and marched him to the hotel desk, saying, "I can do you a good turn, anyhow."

"Clerk," added Mr. Clark when they had reached that functionary, "this is my friend Mr. Brown. I want you to treat him right. Let him have whatever he wants, and if he gets too extravagant and runs out of cash just charge it to me."

"Why, yes," said the clerk, "I know Mr. Brown very well, sir, but who are you?"

She Got His Name.

"Little boy," asked the new teacher, "what is your name?"

"I'll have to write it for you, miss," he said hesitatingly.

"Why? My hearing is quite good! Your name, boy!"

"I'd rather not tell you."

"Surely you can't be ashamed of it?"

"No, miss, but"—

"Then we will not waste any more time, if you please! I am waiting!"

The small boy's eyes rolled wildly in their sockets, and his face became contorted with pain as he began:

"Ku-kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk-kuk-Clarence! That's my first name, miss. But my other name is Pup-pup-pup-pup-Perkins! I never stutter 'cept when I'm speaking my name, and when I'm nagged like this I get a whole lot worse, miss."

Her Way.

"I wouldn't cry like that if I were you," said a lady to little Alice.

"Well," said Alice between her sobs, "you can cry any way you like, but this is my way."—United Presbyterian.

"The Good Old Days."

How times have changed! When we were young, people had bad colds, soaked their feet in hot water and got well. Now they have grip, take quinine and feel sick all over. Then they had sore throat, wrapped a piece of fat pork in an old sock, tied it around the neck at night and went to work the next morning. Now they have tonsilitis, a surgical operation and two weeks in the house. Then they had stomach ache and took castor oil and recovered. Now they have appendicitis, a week in the hospital and six feet due east and west and six feet perpendicular. They worked then; they labor now. In those days they wore underclothes; now they wear lingerie. Then they went to a restaurant; now they go to a cafe. Then they broke a leg; now they fracture a limb. People went crazy then; they have a brain storm now. Politicians then paid good hard cash for support; now they send government garden seeds. Yes, times have changed, and we all change with the times. That's progression.—Anell Hatten in Westphalia (Kan.) Times.

Power of Plants.

Farmers are well acquainted with the fact that the roots of trees will disrupt and sometimes overturn a stone wall, but the lifting power of tender vegetables is equally surprising.

The one result which has perhaps attracted the greatest attention is the discovery that a weight of two and a half tons can be lifted by the common pumpkin in the course of its development.

Dr. Carpenter relates the story of a paving stone weighing eighty-three pounds that was raised from its bed (when joined by others on all four sides) by such a soft piece of fungi as the common mushroom. And still another and more remarkable story is added to the above.

A man had a cask of sweet wine and placed it in an empty cellar to mature. When examined several years later it had risen from the floor of the cellar to the ceiling, having been borne upward upon the tender shoots of a vine fungus with which the cellar was filled.—London Home Notes.

Catching the "Tone."

He was a well meaning young man, but as curate in a small village he had never occasion to meet the class of people who frequented the fashionable parish to which he had just been appointed.

His new rector, wishing to help him on to success, had been liberal with advice and had duly impressed him with the importance of always taking the "tone" of the people with whom he mingled. Being invited to take dinner at the mansion of one of the members of the congregation and knowing that he would have to say grace, the young curate took his cue from the conversation overheard before dinner, and when his hostess nodded meaningly in his direction he delivered himself of the following, which he considered quite in keeping with the "tone" of the guests assembled:

The Miser's Carpet.

"Dr. Quain, the eminent physician, full of Hibernian wit, would sometimes tell unauthorized anecdotes of his professional experiences," says Sir Algernon West in "One City and Many Men." "Once he was attending a well known man of miserly habits in Mayfair, who when very ill asked him to honestly tell him if he would ever again rise from his bed of sickness. The doctor thought he never would. 'Please ring the bell,' said the patient, and when he had secured the attendance of his housekeeper he said: 'Have the strip of carpet by my bedside, which is a good one, wrapped up and put away. I shall not want it again, and if it is left here those undertaker's men will be sure to spoil it with their dirty boots!'"

A Man's Tact.

Nobody but Mr. Henley would have asked such a question in the first place.

"Miss Fairley," he said, "if you could make yourself over what kind of hair and eyes would you have?"

"If I could make myself over," said Miss Fairley, "I would look just exactly as I do now."

"You would?" exclaimed Henley in honest surprise, and to this day he can't understand why Miss Fairley thinks him a man of little taste and less tact.

A Queer Cough Mixture.

Mrs. Delaney, so well known as an eighteenth century personage, had a strange prescription for a cough mixture. Writing to a friend in January, 1758, she says: "Does Mary cough in the night? Two or three snails boiled in her barley water or tea water or whatever she drinks might be of great service to her. Taken in time they have done wonderful cures. She must know nothing of it. They give no manner of taste. It would be best nobody should know it but yourself, and I should imagine six or eight boiled in a quart of water and strained off and put in a bottle would be a good way, adding a spoonful or two of that to every liquid she takes. They must be fresh done every two or three days; otherwise they grow too thick." A strange remedy, and one wonders whether "Mary" took it and benefited by it.

National Conversations.

If you see three men standing together on the sidewalk in any given country, you can guess the subject of their conversation. In Germany it is the army; in Russia, the bureaucracy; in France, women; in the United States, business; in England, sport, and in Turkey nothing at all.—Brussels Derniere Heure.

Indigestion

Stomach trouble is but a symptom of, and not in itself a true disease. We think of Dyspepsia, Heartburn, and Indigestion as real diseases, yet they are symptoms only of a certain specific Nerve sickness—nothing else.

It was this fact that first correctly led Dr. Shoop in the creation of that now very popular Stomach Remedy—Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Going direct to the stomach nerves, alone brought that success and favor to Dr. Shoop and his Restorative. Without that original and highly vital principle, no such lasting accomplishments were ever to be had.

For stomach distress, bloating, biliousness, bad breath and sallow complexion, try Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—and see for yourself what it can and will do. We sell and cheerfully recommend

The Barrel on the Sidewalk.

A barrel stood on the sidewalk, and beside it stood a man. The man was dressed in laborer's clothes and apparently was in a quandary about how to get the barrel to one of the upper floors. He scratched his head and pondered, and meanwhile a crowd began to gather.

"Rig up a derrick and hoist it by hand," suggested one man with a clay pipe in his mouth.

The man beside the barrel made no response.

"Get a rope and pulley and hitch a horse to the rope. That'll get the thing up in jig time," suggested another.

The man remained silent.

"Why in the dickens doesn't he put it on the temporary elevator and take it up that way?" asked the man with red whiskers.

"I know a better way than that," said the man with patches on his trousers. "Just rig up a boatswain's outfit, and the thing can be hauled up quick as a wink."

Suddenly the man beside the barrel took a red bandanna handkerchief from his pocket, wiped his forehead, took a chew of tobacco, put the barrel on his shoulder and carried it up to the second floor.

The barrel was empty.—Milwaukee Free Press.

Our Language Is So Explicit!

The tradesman had rendered his bill, waited a month and then wrote:

"Please, sir, I want my bill."

Back came the bill with these words:

"Certainly; here it is."

The bill was returned, and in a month the tradesman again wrote:

"Kindly send me the amount of my bill."

And the answer came promptly and politely:

"Certainly; it is $104.26."

The third month the tradesman again wrote:

"Will you send me a check for the amount of my bill?"

The answer came, with a blank, unsigned check:

"Certainly; here is the check. I have kept the amount of your bill."

The fourth month the tradesman wrote:

"I want my bill paid."

And the answer came back, "So do I."

Then the tradesman gave it up.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Is Oratory a Drawback?

The great orators have not been the most fortunate aspirants for the presidency. Webster, Clay, Douglas and Blaine were idolized by their followers, not only for their abilities and personal traits, but also for their persuasive powers of speech. Horace Greeley, candidate of the Democrats and Liberal Republicans in 1872, was not a notable orator, but was none the less an effective talker. He made a speaking tour in the latter part of the campaign, and, although his position was an anomalous one, he acquitted himself with credit, even if he was overwhelmingly defeated. Tilden, who in his free soil days made speeches, obtained his mastery by his pen, not by his tongue. Grant, who was called the silent man because he could not make a speech when he first became a candidate, learned to speak very well in public, his speech for Garfield in 1880 being a good example of his development in that direction.—Boston Globe.

"Balderdash!"

An illustration of the manners of critics in bygone days is furnished by a scathing notice once printed concerning a volume of Browning's poems. It was an early volume, and Browning was delighted to receive a letter from J. S. Mill proposing to write a notice of them in the Westminster Review. A few days later his expectations were dashed by hearing from Mr. Mill that he could not write the article, as he had been forestalled by a notice which had appeared in the Westminster Review itself. With a palpitating heart Browning rushed to his club and searched the pages of the Westminster Review, to find, to his dismay, the article which had robbed him of Mr. Mill's notice. It was to this effect: "A volume of poems by Browning—balderdash!"

Oyster Shells as Medicine.

Ground oyster shells were given by the mediaeval doctors to children suffering from rickets and scrofula. Now it appears that they were right. The shells contain lime, nitrogen, iron, sulphur, manganese, magnesia, flour, bromide, phosphoric acid and iodine, all excellent for feeble children. They say that if growing children were to take powdered oyster shells in their food the teeth would be improved.—London Answers.

Marie de' Medici.

The tastes of Marie de' Medici, wife of Henry IV. of France, were splendid, and she indulged them to the full. One of her collars of venetian point was alone "worth the eyes out of a man's head," and she had a fine store of them. Describing her as she arrayed herself on a typical occasion in a costume of carnation satin, M. Batiffol, in "The French Court in the Seventeenth Century," continues as follows:

"This arranged to her satisfaction, her jewels, of which she has quantities scattered in different cabinets, must not be forgotten nor yet her ring. Her gold bracelets, studded with seventy-two small diamonds, were purchased from Francois le Presire, jeweler of Paris, for 1,050 livres. Her earrings, two great diamonds surrounded by lesser brilliants, were made by the jeweler, Jean Subtil. Her gold watch, valued at 2,100 livres, is oval in shape and ornamented with several diamonds, and she must not forget to place in her pocket for use at mass the 'rosary of enameled gold, embellished with diamonds,' (a trifle worth 9,000 livres. And, thus adorned, the queen must yet perfume herself."

Clearing It Up.

"To which is a man more closely related," said the genealogist, "his first divorced wife's second husband or his present wife's first divorced husband?"

"So far as I can see, one is about as close as the other," said a thoughtful friend.

"So I should say," said the genealogist, "but Billy Bowen must have figured out a difference. Anyhow, when his first wife's second husband died Billy went to a ball game, but when his present wife's first husband died he went into mourning. I can't understand that."

"I can," said the thoughtful friend. "Billy's present wife was on the point of divorcing him so she could remarry her first husband. Now that he is dead she has decided to stick to Billy."

"Ah!" said the genealogist.—New York Press.

SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl St., New York

Golfing Feats.

The Scottish golfer who undertook for a wager to drive a ball a mile in a dozen consecutive shots probably set himself an easier task than some of his predecessors north of the Tweed.

Among the most interesting wagers of this kind was one taken in the Burgess Golfing society in 1798 that no two members could drive a ball over the spire of St. Giles' steeple. The feat was attempted by a Mr. Sceales of Leith and Mr. Smellie, a printer, each being allowed six balls, and both competitors succeeded in sending their balls well over the weathercock, a height of more than 160 feet from the ground.

Some years later Donald McLean, a writer to the Signet, won a substantial bet by driving a ball over Melville's monument, in St. Andrew square, while several Scotchmen have performed the difficult feat of driving the ball from Burntisfield links to the top of Arthur's seat, a species of golfing steeplechase which requires considerable stamina as well as skill.—Westminster Gazette.

A Little More Than Your Income.

A young man, being asked how much it cost to live in New York city, replied, "A little more than your income, whatever that is." A young city clergyman on his first round of parish calls found a family on the verge of starvation. The man had been out of work for months. He had a wife and five children, the youngest a baby. They had just eaten the last bit of food in the house. The young clergyman gave them $5 and collected for them $20 more before the day was out. A few days later he called to see about getting work for the man. They were again on the point of starving. With the $25 the woman had bought a fine new baby carriage, some coffee and sugar. When the clergyman expostulated she indignantly denied extravagance. The children had broken the old carriage, and it was necessary the baby should have a daily airing. As for the coffee it was the first they had had in weeks. They were accustomed to it and needed it.—Appleton's Magazine.

Misjudged.

A Scotsman was traveling in a third class smoking carriage on a north of England line when at a small station a fishwife with a creel opened the door. Not relishing the prospect of such company, the Scotsman said in his smoothest tones, "Ah, this is a smoking carriage, my good woman!" The fishwife took no notice, but pushed in. "My good woman, this is a smoking carriage," repeated the male passenger in louder tones. The fishwife put her creel in the corner and sat down opposite to him, and the train started. Then the woman put her hand in a pocket of her blue petticoat, took out a large black pipe, lit it, and, blowing a cloud of rank smoke that nearly suffocated her companion, remarked, "And so, my mannie, ye thocht naebody could tak' a draw but yersel'!"

A Big Swallow.

A detective was testifying in the case of a woman shoplifter whom he had arrested in her own house.

"And, your honor," said he, "when I told her the charge she turned her back to me and swallowed a purse, six suits of silk underwear, a silver candlestick and a chafing dish, and"—

"Rubbish! Are you crazy?" the magistrate interrupted.

"Excuse me. What I mean to say, your honor," explained the detective, "is that she swallowed the pawn tickets."

Stumping Competition.

That competition is at least the backbone if not the life of trade is illustrated by the big city department stores, especially those located in the same district, where rivalry runs high and the efforts to attract trade are studied with particular care in time of depression. That this same incentive for progress is not given to stores in the country may be one cause—or is it effect?—of the degeneration of some of our rural districts in the east. One of the heads of a prominent New York concern who spent a vacation in New England last summer went to the local "general store" to buy a few yards of a certain cloth.

"We don't keep it," said the storekeeper.

"Why not?" was the reply. "This is a staple. How can you get along without it?"

"Waal," was the indifferent explanation, "we just can't keep it. I laid in some a short spell ago, but it was bought out, and every time I've got some it only gets sold. There's no use trying to keep it here!"—System.

How is your Digestion.

Mrs. Mary Dowling of No. 238 8th ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in a case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market to-day." This great tonic and alterative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood, and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. 50c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

ARTHUR O. CHEEVER.

Word was received here Friday from Shackleford, Mo., that Arthur O. Cheever had passed away at that place Thursday from tuberculosis. About a year ago he left for the west on account of poor health and had been in Denver and Longmont, Colo., until about three weeks ago, when he was removed to the home of his wife's parents in Shackleford, where he passed away. The burial was held at that place Saturday. The deceased was 39 years old, the son of Mrs. L. E. Priest and grandson of Jacob Cheever of this place. He was also a member of the K. O. T. M. and was well known here, leaving many friends who regret to hear of his demise and join in sympathising with his wife, mother and other relatives.

DEATH OF MISS JANE E. BOYD.

Pioneer Resident of Lenawee County Passes Away.

Miss Jane Eliza Boyd died at the residence of her nephew, David Linton, in Macon township, this county, October 23, at the advanced age of 88 years. Funeral services were conducted at the residence on Sunday, October 25, by Rev. J. A DeSpelder, an old friend and former pastor of the deceased lady. Interment was at Tecumseh cemetery.

Jane Eliza Boyd was born in Ballyhutherland, Antrim county, Ireland, June 16, 1820. She came to the United States in 1848, and to Michigan in 1855. The deceased was the last member of a family of six, namely, Thomas and Maria, long since dead, and buried in Genesee, Livingston county, N. Y.; David, Margaret and Rose Anna, who lived and died in this community and are buried in Tecumseh. During the the early part of her life she was a member of the Presbyterian church, from which she transferred her membership to the Reformed church. Although for nearly fifty years a great sufferer from illness she retained a firm belief in Christianity and an unshaken faith in God.

She remained unmarried, and since coming to Michigan, lived principally with the families of her sisters. Rose Anna Linton and Margaret Boyd, and during her last years with the family of her nephew, David Linton.

RAT CATCHERS.

One of the Methods by Which They Make Big Hauls.

"Rat catchers, like horse tamers, try to make a mystery of their trade," said a zoo keeper.

He pointed toward the large gray rats that played about the corners of the carnivora house.

"But they can't mystify me in any phase of the rat question," he went on. "Living as I do, surrounded by an army of the largest, finest rats, I know the animals too thoroughly. I could set up as a successful rat catcher tomorrow.

"This is the way the men work. They go to the infested place late at night with a pair of tongs, a powerful lantern and a lot of bags.

"They walk softly about in the darkness, and they make a low, chattering, whistling noise, like this."

At the sound all the rats in the corners of the big room looked at the keeper inquiringly. He went on:

"This is the signal whereby a rat tells his mates that he has hit on good feeding. That sound made in the dark gathers rats as molasses gathers flies. The catcher, having made it, opens his strong lantern, the rats are dazed by the light, and he picks them up with his tongs and drops them in his bag.

"Of course there are other ways to catch rats, but of the secret, mysterious ones this is the best."—Exchange.

QUESTIONS OF ECONOMY.

A quart of tub oysters costs you 40c It is half water. You pay 20c for a pint of water, or 80c for a quart of oysters. Rather expensive whichever way you figure it.

Isn't it more sensible to pay nearly as much for a pint of "Sealshipt" Oysters—solid meats—as you pay for a quart of watered oysters? "Sealshipt" are firm, fresh, clean—no water—no melted ice—no possible contamination. And the pint of "Sealshipt" will go as far as a quart of watered oysters—to say nothing of the fine, snappy sea-flavor.

"Sealshipt" come packed in a steel container with ice around the container—not in the oysters. We sell "Sealshipt" only, and guarantee them.

OUR NEW MINISTER.

Pretty good testimony of the high favor in which a play is held by the community when enquiries as to the date of its re engagement begin to find their way to a box-office months and months before the play is due. Denman Thompson and Geo. W. Ryer's comedy, "Our New Minister" is just now enjoying this good fortune locally. Since the announcement of the contemplated return of the piece got into print, every day brings a question mark as to the date to the local management. It is now advertised to appear at the New Bradley opera house for the last time on Monday, Nov. 9.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Tecumseh People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills.

For Tecumseh kidney sufferers.

Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Tecumseh people who have been cured to stay cured.

Orson Austin, retired, living on Logan st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as when I gave a testimonial in their favor some years ago. Prior to that time, I had been troubled with a very bad case of kidney disease, the distressing pains in my back and shoulders at times being almost unbearable. Rheumatism also settled in my hips and limbs and greatly increased my misery. I could not get my proper rest during night on account of the too frequent action of the kidneys, and the passages were attended by a burning sensation. I knew Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, began using them and noticed their good effects in a short time. Thus encouraged I continued taking them until a complete cure was effected. My advice to all sufferers of kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

French Economy.

"A man doesn't have to go to Paris to learn something about the economy of French cooks," said a janitor. "All he has to do is to get a job like mine in a house occupied mostly by French families, and he'll learn some astonishing lessons in the art of saving. Up to two months ago I was working in a building of that kind. So far as attending to the garbage was concerned, I had the easiest time of my life. There was practically no garbage. The people lived well enough, I guess. Anyhow they received packages from the butcher and grocer, but they never seemed to throw anything away. About the only thing they didn't eat was coffee grounds and potato skins and tomato cans, and there was precious little waste of even that.

"Where I am working now the families are all American. That is where the food goes to waste. The people in that house throw away enough provisions every day to feed all those French families a week."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Made the Judge Perspire.

Sir John Charles Day, the English judge who earned the title of the "hooligan's terror," died at the age of eighty-two. In the nineteen years Sir John was a judge of the high court—from 1882 to 1901—he was noted for his gift of solemn humor and for his drastic flogging sentences. In fourteen years he sentenced 137 criminals to 3,766 strokes of the cat. Once he said to a gang of Liverpool ruffians: "I am not going to give you men long terms of imprisonment, but when you go in you get twenty lashes of the cat; when you have been in nine months you get twenty lashes of the cat; before you come out you get twenty lashes of the cat. And then you can show what you have got to your friends." He was perhaps the only English judge who ever did "hard labor." While on a visit to a prison he tried the treadmill, but when he asked to be set free the guard pretended not to hear his request. The judge was perspiring freely by the time he was permitted to abandon his experiment.

Eggs Barred.

One evening a solid looking citizen, carrying a basket, bought a ticket and started to enter the opera house in a Long Island town. Just as he was going in the cover of the basket unaccountably slipped off, revealing two dozen eggs.

"Hey!" said the ticket taker. "This isn't Easter. Where you going with them eggs?"

"None o' y'r business! Here's my ticket, all paid for an' reg'lr," declared the citizen.

"Well, there don't any eggs go inside while I'm here," said the ticket taker, and then the other saw the reason his burden was suspected and roared with laughter.

He left the eggs in charge of the man at the box office and entered, and he enjoyed every moment of the show. When it was over, the manager returned the eggs to him and said:

"I was afraid you might put your foot into the basket while you were applauding."

A Little Bit Thick.

"Yes," said the old salt, "I've seen some pretty thick fogs in my time. Why, off the coast of Newfoundland the fog was sometimes so thick that we used to sit on the rail and lean against it! We were sitting one night, as usual, with our backs up against the fog, when suddenly the fog lifted, and we all went flop into the water. A bit thick, wasn't it?"

Noise.

Noise, at first cultivated in this land by the Indians, has reached its climax in the college yell. It is used at political conventions, at christenings and at women's clubs. No monument was necessary for the man who first invented noise. His work lives after him.

Noise is used by cities, which have the first call for it. They split it up into as many sounds as possible and divide it among all.

Noise varies in its volume and intensity, from embryonic and immature sawmill to a baby crying in the night.—Life.

Its Origin.

"So you don't believe in the story of Jonah and the whale?"

"No," answered Mr. Meekton thoughtfully.

"How do you suppose it originated?"

"Well, I suppose Jonah had been away from home for some time and had to tell his wife something."—Kansas City Newsbook.

His Only Want.

Billionaire's Daughter—You wrong him, papa. He does not love me for my money. He scoffs at the world's sordid eagerness for wealth. Papa—What proof have you, child? Billionaire's Daughter—Why, only last night he told me he didn't care if he was never able to make a penny in his life if he only had me.

Kodol does not have to be taken all the time. Ordinarily you only take Kodol now and then, because it completely digests all the food you eat, and after a few days or a week or so, the stomach can digest the food without the aid of Kodol. Then you don't need Kodol any longer. Try it today on our guarantee. We know what it will do for you. Sold by all druggists.

Keep Your Bowels Open

A Safe Certain Home Remedy that is Sold By All Druggists

A fast day doctor will verify is that constipated people suffer most from disease. Regular bowel action is absolutely necessary to health. People who are constipated either part of all or the time must use something to make their bowels move. This should not be a violent purgative or a cathartic that sends many pass through the bowels emptying them of waste matter for the time but leaving them in a weakened state that prolongs the constipated condition. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an only, pleasant, natural laxative that removes the waste matter and established regular, daily movements without pain or gripe.

Children and delicate women should never be given strong purgs for it not only weakens the bowels but the entire system. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin serves as a tonic and as aid to digestion as well as a laxative that is certain in its effect upon the most obstinate, old cases and yet safe and pleasant for a baby. With the first few doses the ill effects of constipation, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, liver trouble, headaches, malaria, sour stomach, sick headache, bloated stomach, etc., quickly disappear. It is a remedy that should be in every home for every member of the family at some time has need of a safe, sure laxative. Mrs. J. C. Calper, Chester, Ill., writes: "I use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for myself and family. I keep it on hand constantly, as I find it to be a most pleasant laxative and is all you claim for it." Sarah J. Houser, Eureka Springs, Ark., says: "I would have been dead long ago not been for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is the best medicine I ever used for constipation, indigestion and biliousness." M. R. Zerbel, Troy, Ohio, considers it the best known laxative for children.

We are glad to send a free sample to any one who has not used it and will give it a fair trial. Write today to Pepsin Syrup Co., 308 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

CATHOLICS PARADE.

Great Demonstration Takes Place in Boston.

Boston, Nov. 3.—What was probably the greatest parade of a religious character in the history of New England brought to a close Sunday the centenary celebration of the founding of the Roman Catholic diocese of Boston, which began on Wednesday last. It is estimated that fully 40,000 men representing the Holy Name societies of the Roman Catholic churches in the five counties which constitute the diocese, with over 150 priests, participated, marching to the music of 100 bands. Thousands of spectators filled every point of vantage along the line of march.

Passing before the arch Episcopal residence on Bay State road, the parade was reviewed by Cardinal Gibbons and Archbishop William H. O'Connell, together with a number of visiting prelates, from a reviewing stand.

The day was begun with a solemn pontifical mass at the Cathedral of the Holy Cross, with Archbishop O'Connell as celebrant and Cardinal Gibbons occupying the pontifical throne within the sanctuary. Last night, in the same edifice, the Te Deum service was held.

It was customary to charge 20 per cent extra on shipments not under the old bill of lading. The new form is believed to be universally acceptable.

HEMANS LED BY WARNER.

Governor Ahead in Count For Executive Chair.

UPPER PENINSULA FOR HIM.

Estimated Northern Counties Will Give Him 20,000 Votes—Hemans' Friends Not Discouraged—Kent Proved His Banner County—Jackson, Ingham, Washtenaw and Eaton Wanted Him For Governor.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 5.—The gubernatorial race is still undecided. Returns are slow. Figuring on reports so far made, Governor Fred M. Warner is in the lead with a plurality of 3,407. Early returns gave Lawton T. Hemans the head of the column, but his majority has been slowly cut down.

Complete returns from thirty-seven counties have been received so far, leaving forty-seven to be yet heard from before the complete vote can be recorded. Of these Governor Warner received 23,561; Hemans, 20,454.

Complete returns from Oakland county show Warner's plurality in the thirty precincts of that county to be 258, considerably reduced from the figures at first given out.

Complete returns from sixty voting districts of Wayne county, including the thirty-five county and twenty-five city districts, give Warner 9,932 votes and Hemans 8,289, a plurality for Warner of 1,643. Approximately, the sixty districts are one-third of the total of 190 districts in Wayne county, and multiplying this 1,643 lead by three gives 4,929, or about 5,000 plurality to be expected for Warner in Wayne.

That Mr. Hemans and his friends have not given up by any means is indicated by the following dispatch from Democratic State Central Chairman Winship in Saginaw:

"I am even more convinced that I was Tuesday night of Mr. Heman's election as governor. Mr. Hemans certainly received a plurality of the votes cast. In every place where we have had confirmatory messages the size of Mr. Hemans plurality has been increased.

"In Ingham county he gains 400, in Calhoun 400, in Saginaw over 600, in Ionia 400 and in Oakland practically 600. Branch, which was originally claimed by Warner, shows a vote of 653 against him, and Washtenaw is 2,000 in favor of Hemans, instead of 1,000 as we originally claimed. Clinton also is for Mr. Hemans by 1,352 instead of for the governor.

"I believe the election is close and don't care to give any exact figures on the result."

Chairman Diekema of the Republican state committee said:

"The result is close, but there is no doubt of Warner's election. We have complete returns from only a small number of counties, but partial returns from practically all. Warner will have from 5,000 to 10,000."

Alcona, Gladwin, Mackinac, Ontonagon are liable to add to Warner's majority, especially the upper peninsula counties, so that his lead should continue to increase.

Republicans all agree that Taft's great run in Wayne county was a great factor in pulling Warner through. Undoubtedly the party vote saved him.

Farmers Not Heard From.

Most of the precincts yet to be heard from throughout the state are in the farming and back sections. In these sections Warner is leading. His greatest strength at the primaries was in these sections.

James Russell, warden of the Marquette prison, and one of the owners of the Mining Journal there, wires that Warner has carried the upper peninsula by approximately 20,000. Houghton county, which went strongly for Dr. Bradley at the primaries, is reported to have given Warner 5,000 majority, while Marquette county has given him about 3,000.

The democratic state headquarters concede Houghton to him by 5,000. Also they concede him Menominee by 1,000, although no direct returns have yet been received from there.

The banner Hemans county is Kent, which gives the Democratic candidate around 8,000 majority. Jackson comes next with 5,553, while Ingham gave him 2,906 and Washtenaw 3,955. Dr. Bradley's home county of Eaton cut Warner badly. It gave a majority of 1,118 for Hemans, yet went for Taft by 455.

Warner carried his home county of Oakland by about 500, which was less than one-half what she gave him at the primaries. Saginaw went several thousand against him.

The two surprises of the election in Port Huron were the enormous vote for Mayor Bell and the way in which Davidson, for sheriff on the same ticket, ran so far behind.

Davidson had declared against a wide open Sunday, and Bell was noncommittal, and the saloon element almost to a man voted for the winning mayor and Wagensell, who defeated Daivdson.

In St. Clair county incomplete figures give Warner an estimated plurality of 650. The revised constitution was overwhelmingly carried.

In Huron county, with twenty-three out of twenty-five precincts, Warner has 2,382 to Hemans' 1,390. It is estimated that when the missing precincts have been heard from Warner's plurality will exceed 2,50. The revised constitution was easily carried.

Warner carries Genesee county by 200.

In Barry county, with twenty precincts out of twenty-two, Hemans has an estimated majority of 350. The revised constitution was carried by a strong plurality.

Alger county, eight out of nine precincts, give Warner a plurality of 679; remaining precinct of sixty-five votes will probably add twenty more.

Complete unofficial returns in Ogemaw county give Warner 504 plurality.

Total vote of Emmet county for Warner, 2,058; Hemans, 1,281. Warner's plurality, 777.

Special Chinese Envoy Coming.

Tokyo, Nov. 5.—Tang Shao Yi, special Chinese envoy to the United States from China, today sailed for San Francisco on the steamer Mongolia, accompanied by a large suite. During his visit to Japan the envoy has been the recipient of much attention. In a public speech he said that the world had been mistaken in thinking that China was even slightly unfriendly to Japan. He asserted that a perfect understanding existed between the two countries regarding their policies, especially in Manchuria, and that all questions at issue between the two nations would be settled amicably. Among the passengers on the steamer Mongolia are the members of the United States commission to the Japanese international exposition, Frank B. Loomis, Frederick K. Stirr, Francis B. Millet, John C. O'Laughlin and W. A. Newcomb. All of the commissioners were the recipients of much attention while in Japan, each receiving a decoration from the emperor

Ambassador Reid Praises Taft.

London, Nov. 5.—Whitelaw Reid, the American ambassador, was the guest of honor at the Atlantic union dinner, given last evening to celebrate the establishment of penny postage between America and Great Britain. Speaking of the election of Mr. Taft, the ambassador said: "The character and antecedents of the president elect give the highest guarantee that the most powerful and most popular president since Lincoln is to have a judicious and able successor, trained to the business and quite competent to continue the great record made by recent administrations. Mr. Taft was brought up in an atmosphere of honorable public service, and no American doubts that his experience fits him for his new post. The incoming administration will pursue the same foreign policy with which you are familiar."

TAFT'S CABINET.

Several Names Mentioned by Political Wiseacres.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The usual cabinet slates which invariably follow the election of a new president are making their appearance, and political wiseacres are busy in forecasting the names of those who will make up President Elect Taft's official family.

Of course there is no authoritative ground whatever for the mention of specific names in connection with the cabinet, as Mr. Taft has not given the slightest intimation of his intentions, so far as can be learned. But this does not stop the usual conjecture and gossip at the various rendezvous for public men, and it is expected that various Taft cabinet slates will make their appearance from this time forward, with more or less outward appearance of probability.

In this speculative comment which is being indulged in, the name of Secretary Root is often mentioned as likely to continue at the head of the state department, if he desires to stay.

It appears to be the general impression that Secretary Luke Wright will be another cabinet officer to remain owing to the warm personal attachment existing between him and the president elect.

In the current speculation it is quite generally accepted that Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, is included, probably as postmaster general. The defeat of Congressman Hepburn of Iowa, long chairman of the commerce committee of the house of representatives, has aroused some comment as to his availability as secretary of commerce. As to the agricultural department, the slate makers assume that an agriculturalist will be named, and as Secretary Wilson comes within the class he is also looked upon as available.

It is assumed pretty generally that Mr. Taft will look to his own state for some of his cabinet material, and and this leads to conjecture regarding ex-Governor Herrick of Ohio, whose name has been suggested in connection with the secretaryship of the treasury. The name of A. B. Hepburn of New York is also mentioned. Mr. Hepburn was formerly superintendent of the banking department of New York state and was later comptroller of the currency.

Wants Duke to Confess.

Rome, Nov. 5.—The Tribuna, which is a government organ, in an article on the marriage of the Duke of the Abruzzi, says that the majority of Italians, while preferring that the duke should marry a royal princess, do not deny that he should not follow the dictates of his own heart, but they demand that the question of his marriage to Miss Elkins be officially confirmed or denied.

Roosevelt to Become Editor.

New York, Nov. 5.—In its issue of next Saturday the Outlook will confirm the published report to the effect that President Roosevelt will be associated with that publication after his retirement from office. According to the announcement, he will be associated with the editorial staff of the Outlook after March 5, as "special contributing editor."

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of woman is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organs that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription."

Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R.V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N.Y.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24, 1908.

One of the most interesting of the many interesting persons who make Washington their temporary home is the Chinese Minister Wu Ting Fang. Dr. Wu as he is generally called is a graduate of an Amerian University and speaks English with precision and without a very marked accent. He has always worn the Mandarin costumne and the silks of his gowns and flappy trousers are the admiration and envy of women wherever he goes. He is in much demand in society where few Chinamen have been received owning to their peculiar table manners, but Dr. Wu is a cultivated gentleman and a true cosmopolitan. One of his engaging eccentricities is his open and unabashed admiration of American women and though the average Chinese gentleman has the world, even Ireland, outdone in the variety and subtlety of his flattery, it is believed that Dr. Wu is sincere in the respect he pays the American society woman at a time when that more or less anomalous creature is coming in for such a large share of the blame for all unhappy social condition. He declares that it was owing to the influence of an American society woman that he renounced all meat foods and wines and that as a result of his charged diet his life was not only saved but that he has developed the expectation of living to be one hundred years young. It is believed that this society woman is Mrs. Henderson, wife of ex-Senator Henderson of Missouri who, as one of the wealthiest women at the Capital has converted many persons of prominence to a meatless diet through her delightful luncheons and dinners, invitations for which are eagerly sought though neither meat or wine is ever served at her table. Dr. Wu, like Mrs. Henderson was rescued from semi-invalidism on account of indigestion by a reformed diet and he goes abroad in the land preaching the gospel of vegetarianism to all like sufferers.

In speaking at a vegetarian sanitarium here a few nights ago he declared that complaints with which he has suffered for twenty years had been completely cured by the abstinence from meat and champagne, both of which he had greatly enjoyed previously. He said that the three eccentricities to a successful life were pure, non flesh food and no intoxicating drinks, pure air and pure thoughts. Certainly our missionaries who go to China every year in such numbers cannot preach a better doctrine and it is interesting to have a Chinaman in our own midst who is doing such fine missionary work.

Orville Wright, the aviator whose aerodlane fell during a practice flight at Fort Meyer near Washington a few weeks ago, resulting in the death of Lieutenant Selfridge and serious injuries to himself, has so far recovered as to be able to receive visitors in his room in the United States Army Hospital at the Fort and in a month or so will begin the building of a new machine for making the test. Owing to the accident the War Department extended the time which Mr. Wright would be allowed for making the test until next June. It is believed that by that time Mr. Wright will have sufficiently recovered to make the official flights but if he is not able then they will be undertaken by his brother, Wilbur Wright whose experiments at LeMans, France have been so successful. This brother is now on his way to America having sold his machine for $100,000 to a French syndicate which is to begin manufacturing machines for sale. As these two brothers, not long ago obscure bicycle manufacturers with a little shop in Dayton, Ohio are now international notables every scrap of news about them is eagerly sought and for days after the accident to Orville Wright the bulletin boards here showed frequent announcement of his condition. The sorrow that was felt for him in his disappointment and suffering was not less than that manifested by the Germans when Count Zeppelin's air ship was wrecked and several public subscriptions for him were started at once. It developed though that Mr. Wright had the best financial backing and the men whose sympathy had been touched even to the pocket nerve were not compelled to cash in.

John Smith, the 18 years old, son of Constable John Smith, was thrown from a carriage in a runaway Tuesday evening, and sustained a broken leg. John and his brother in law, Will Service were driving home when his horse became frightened and ran, to the creamery where both were thrown out. Smith was taken home, Dr. Hardy was called and found that both bones were broken in one limb just below the knee. Mr. Service escaped with a few injuries.

How is your Digestion.

Mrs. Mary Dowling of No. 228 8th ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble. She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in a case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market to-day." This great tonic and alterative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. 50c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Lenawee county stood 6,472 for Hemans and 4,653 for Warner.

Quoting from chairman Winship of the democratic state central committee of Saginaw:

"Nothwithstanding the claim of Warner's friends as to what counties in the north will do or have done, we do not concede the election and will not until the official vote is reviewed. We all know the history of the workings of the vote in the northern counties whenever there is a close election. We are not giving out any figures but have assurances that Hemans has a plurality of the vote polled and the Warner machine is not going to run away with the election until it is shown that our assurances are wrong.

"There are tens of thousands of republicans all over Michigan who do not believe Warner was even rightfully nominated and there are still thousands more ready to unite with the democrats to see that he must present a better claim to the election than he presented for his nomination. Just wait for the canvass of the votes."

Charles Townsend received a large plurality for congressman in the second congressional district. Plurality.

OUR NEW MINISTER.

Pretty good testimony of the high favor in which a play is held by the community when enquiries as to the date of its re-engagement begin to find their way to a box-office months and months before the play is due. Denman Thompson and Geo. W. Ryer's comedy, "Our New Minister" is just now enjoying this good fortune locally. Since the announcement of the contemplated return of the piece got into print, every day brings a question mark as to the date to the local management. It is now advertised to appear at the New Bradley opera house for the last time on Monday, Nov. 9.

The latest and best makes in Fall and winter rubbers just opened at T. C. Harris'.

The Proof is in the Eating.

Wouldn't you rather pay a few cents more for an oyster that tastes like an oyster with the true irresistable salt sea-tang? That's the kind "Sealshipt" Oysters are.

The price of "Sealshipt" is a trifle higher; but the actual cost is less, because you get so much more for your money. And the delicious flavor of "Sealshipt" is beyond comparison—superior to the taste of the washed-out flabby oysters sold from tubs.

Get a pint of "Sealshipt" Oysters. See the difference for yourself. They are sold from the white porcelain case with the blue "Sealshipt" trademark.

We sell "Sealshipt" only and guarantee them.

IS THIS A SQUARE DEAL?

C. A. Wright & Son the Druggist will Give You Your Money Back if MI-O-NA Does Not Cure Dyspepsia.

C. A. Wright & Son makes this square deal offer because he is authorized to do so by the makers of Mi-o-na tablets, and he is willing to have this statement appear in the Herald because he knows the offer is genuine.

And while it may be that there are about 8 cases in 100 that are too far gone for Mi-o-na to cure, we are willing and ready to take all the chances, and if Mi-o-na does not cure, any dyspeptic can have his money back.

Even with this liberal offer, C. A. Wright & Son will not have to refund but a very small percentage, because the 8 incurable dyspeptics will find so much relief in Mi-o-na that they will once again look upon the sunny side of life, and will continue to use Mi-o-na.

Now, reader, you may say how can the makers of Mi-o-na make such an offer? How do they know that 92 per cent. of the users will be cured, and that the other 8 per cent., or the incurables, will be relieved?

Why, it's all very simple. We've made this same offer in 1000 towns before we made it here, and we have figured out the percentages, so that when we make the statement we know it to be absolutely true

"Mi-o-na tablets are truly great for anyone that has stomach trouble. I can not praise them too highly for what they have done for me."—Mrs. W. D. Bennett, Bucksport, Me.

The price is only 50 cents a box.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all dealers.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills.

For Tecumseh kidney sufferers.

Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Tecumseh people who have been cured to stay cured.

Orson Austin, retired, living on Logan st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as when I gave a testimonial in their favor some years ago. Prior to that time, I had been troubled with a very bad case of kidney disease, the distressing pains in my back and shoulders at times being almost unbearable. Rheumatism also settled in my hips and limbs and greatly increased my misery. I could not get my proper rest during night on account of the too frequent action of the kidneys, and the passages were attended by a burning sensation. I knew Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, began using them and noticed their good effects in a short time. Thus encouraged I continued taking them until a complete cure was effected. My advice to all sufferers of kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

EUROPE IS MUCH PLEASED.

Election of Taft Highly Satisfactory Abroad.

PAPERS PUBLISH COMMENTS.

All Are Favorable to Presidential Outcome—German Papers Print Eulogistic Reviews of Taft's Career. Japanese Publican Declares "World Must Be Congratulated on Election of Judge Taft."

Paris, Nov. 5.—News of the election of William H. Taft has been received with great satisfaction in the business world of Paris, where it is considered certain to usher in a new era of prosperity in America. French financiers already are showing more interest in American investments, and they believe that the reflex effect in Europe will be most important.

The published comments are brief, for the newspapers are engrossed with the European situation, but they are all favorable. That Mr. Taft's election means the continuation of the policies of President Roosevelt, but in a less strenuous and sensational manner, is the general opinion.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—The newspapers generally greet the election of Mr. Taft with satisfaction, and the journals read by the well informed commercial classes publish eulogistic reviews of Mr. Taft's career, with expressions of confidence in the coming administration.

The Tageblatt, radical, says:

"The election of Mr. Taft proves that the United States are not going to begin dangerous politico-economic experiments, but that they will continue to steer the same course as hitherto. This certitude should serve to bring about a conclusion of the economic crisis in America and at the same time give an upward impetus to economic conditions in the old world."

St. Petersburg, Nov. 5.—The election of W. H. Taft is popular in Russia, for the people were favorably impressed by the ability, geniality and straightforwardness of the future president as evidenced during his stay in this city.

Brussels, Nov. 5.—The newspapers here consider the election of Mr. Taft a hopeful sign of peace and prosperity in the United States. The Independence Belge says that Mr. Taft owes his victory to the fact that Democratic program was disquieting to the public after the crisis last year.

Tokyo, Nov. 5.—The Japanese newspapers all contain editorials commenting upon the results of the election in the United States. The Kokuming, which is credited with representing the views of Premier Katsura, says:

"The world must be congratulated on the election of Judge Taft, who, because of his world-wide experience, will probably prove to be the ablest president America ever elected."

Rome, Nov. 5.—All the newspapers publish lengthy reports of Mr. Taft's election and discuss it from the most friendly viewpoint. The Tribune says that with Taft as president the good relations which have existed between the United States and Italy during recent administrations will be maintained.

The Giornale d'Italia says that while the freedom of Catholicism in the United States is great, the Holy See, wishing to preserve it, believes that Mr. Taft's election gives the most promising guarantees to that end.

FEEBLE OLD LADY

Has Strength Restored By Vinol

Mrs. Michael Bloom of Lewistown, Pa., who is 80 years of age, says: "For a long time I have been so feeble that I have had to be wheeled around in an invalid's chair. I had no strength and took cold at the slightest provocation, which invariably settled on my lungs, and a cough would result. My son learned of the cod liver preparation called Vinol, and procured a bottle for me. It built up my strength rapidly, and after taking three bottles I am able to do most of my work, and I can walk a quarter of a mile easily. Every aged or weak person who requires strength should try Vinol. I am delighted with what it has done for me."

As a body builder and strength creator for old people, delicate children, weak, run-down persons, and after sickness, Vinol is unexcelled. If it fails to give satisfaction we will return your money.

VINOL is sold in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, Druggists.

"ALL DEALERS"

WHAT "FRAZZLE" MEANS.

President Points His Questioners to Result of Election.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The president is in a very cheerful frame of mind over the result of the election. He has told the newspapermen that the election of Mr. Taft wholly carried out a prophecy made by him in a letter written to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge of Massachusetts, dated Oct. 26, 1908. In this letter the president said:

"Dear Cabot: Prophecy is very bad until after the event. Nevertheless, I must send you a line to say that I think the situation is steadily improving in Ohio. West of the Alleghenies I believe we shall have a larger popular plurality than four years ago; in other words that Taft's plurality will be greater than mine, and I think that our electoral vote will be larger east of the Alleghenies than four years ago, because I think the chances slightly favor us in Maryland, although this represents a good deal of guess work."

Over one thousand telegrams and many letters of congratulations on the result of the election have poured into the White House for President Roosevelt. He has been kept busy reading these messages and dictating replies to them.

The president said there seemed to be some doubt throughout the country regarding the meaning of the word "frazzle," which he used recently in referring to the campaign by saying: "We've got them beaten to a frazzle." He explained that it was a common word in the south and he had used it since he was a boy. "To those who do not know what is meant by the word 'frazzle,'" said the president, "the best definition I can give is to refer them to the election returns."

LIST OF CONTIBUTORS.

Republican National Committee Will Give it to the Public.

New York, Nov. 5.—In a statement given to the press, Frank H. Hitchcock, chairman of the Republican national committee, announces that a complete list of all the contributions made to the Republican campaign fund would be made public in the next few days, work already having been begun on the tabulation of the list.

The list is a very long one, Mr. Hitchcock said, and will give every contribution made. It will be issued in printed form.

Mr. Hitchcock will leave headquarters the latter part of this week for Chicago, where he will remain several days to settle up the business of the campaign in that city. On his return journey he will stop at Hot Springs, W. Va., where he will visit W. H. Taft, the president elect, for a few days, and then come to New York to close up the national headquarters here.

Mr. Hitchcock has been in communication with Mr. Taft by long distance telephone. Mr. Hitchcock said that the judge was highly elated over his sweeping victory, especially the large plurality given him by New York state.

Swedish Cashier Confessed Big Theft.

Warren, Pa., Nov. 5.—Israel Janesson, former cashier of a bank in Lindersburg, Sweden, who was arrested by a detective at Yankee Bush last Monday, has, it is alleged, made a complete confession, admitting he abstracted 127,000 kroner of the bank's funds. Janesson says most of the money was lost in speculation. Believing his shortage would soon be discovered, he says, he asked for a month's vacation and came to America with his family, who are now in Cleveland, O. He will sail for Sweden in charge of an officer Nov. 10. When arrested he had $700 in a belt around his waist and $30 in a pocket.

Good Health at Seventy-Seven.

Mrs. S. J. Edwards, Union City, Tenn., writes under date of Nov. 7, 1904, the following:

"On the 7th day of February, 1905, if I live, I will be seventy-seven years of age. I enjoy the best of health, thanks to Peruna, and have not had a spell of sickness since I began using it five or six years ago.

"I consider it the grandest medicine on earth, and whenever I feel a little badly a few doses of Peruna put me right.

"I can do as much work as I could forty years ago. I think all old people, who feel the effects of age, should benefit their health by using Peruna."

Ill the Best Part of His Life.

Mr. J. R. Prince, R. R. 2, Cattaraugus, N. Y., writes: "I am not very well satisfied with the picture that I am sending you, but when the reader looks at this picture if he could only realize that the original suffered for forty-five years, the best of his life, until your kind advice and prescription cured him, he would know from whence these wrinkles came. Next month I shall be sixty-six years old."

Nervous Prostration.

Mrs. Martha Avery, 23 Graham St., Leominster, Mass., writes:

"Four years ago I had nervous prostration. I employed several doctors. One would say I had catarrh of the stomach and bowels, another nervousness and another enlargement of the liver. My stomach was in a bad shape. There was nothing which seemed to do me much good.

"I tried other remedies, but did not gain any flesh until I commenced taking your Peruna, which built me right up. I have taken several bottles, but have not taken any now for about six weeks.

"I am seventy-three years old. I never expect to be entirely well or young again, but I am thankful for what Peruna has done for me."

Feels Ten Years Younger.

Mr. Henry Merz, 1505 West Franklin St., Evansville, Ind., writes: "When I first wrote to you I had bronchial trouble for four years, and had tried several doctors, but they could do me no good. I had pain and rattling in the chest, cough, expectoration, especially at night.

"I took Peruna, and can now say that I am entirely well. I feel ten years younger since using Peruna. I recommend Peruna to all my friends, for I was in bad condition.

"I am an old soldier and am seventy-seven years old."

CUBA TO HOLD AN ELECTION.

Chooses President, Vice President and Congress.

UNITED STATES TROOPS GO.

American Intervention Terminates Jan. 28.—Preparations For Election Complete—Two Parties In Field. Gomez Heads Liberals, Menocal the Conservatives — Absolute Fairness Assured.

Havana, Nov. 9.—On Saturday next elections will be held throughout the island for president, vice president, senators and representatives in the lower house of congress, to whom, according to the present program, will be committed the fate of the restored Cuban republic on the termination of the government of intervention, Jan. 28, 1909.

The troops of the United States will be withdrawn on that date, which is three days in advance of the date originally set, in order that their departure may mark the anniversary of the birth of Jose Marti, the Cuban patriot, and the great body of Cubans have striven during the last few months towards a selection of candidates who will best realize their desire for self government.

Preparations for the elections are now complete. All of the election officers have been appointed, the electoral boards organized and the last ballots distributed, and the whole island is absorbed in the outcome of the struggle for supremacy. The Conservatives are headed by General Mario Menocal and Dr. Rafael Montoro, the presidential and vice presidential candidates, respectively, while General Jose M. Gomez and his former bitter rival in the party leadership, Alfredo Zayas, are the nominees of the Liberal party, the Miguelista and Zayista factions of which finally united their forces in support of General Gomez, on the understanding that he would not be nominated for a second term.

It is assured beyond peradventure that absolute fairness will characterize the elections, about which every safeguard has been cast by the provisional government, in accordance with an elaborate election law framed by the advisory commission of which Colonel Crowder is chairman. Both of the political leaders have given absolute assurances that they will accept loyally the result of the popular verdict.

There is practically no difference in the platform of the two parties.

Governor Makes Appointments.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 9.—Governor Warner has announced the appointment of Judge Flavious Brooke of Detroit as justice of the supreme court, succeeding William L. Carpenter. The governor also appointed James O. Murfin of Detroit to succeed Judge Brooke on the Wayne circuit bench. Other appointments announced by Governor Warner are: Members of the Mackinac island park commission, Leo M. Butzel, Detroit, and Ira A. Adams, Bellaire; members of the board of trustees of the upper peninsula asylum for the insane, J. C. Kirkpatrick, Escanaba, and R. G. Ferguson, Sault Ste. Marie.

GIVES ANSWER TO QUESTIONERS

President Says Taft's Religion Concerns Them Not.

MAKES REPLY IN A LETTER.

Chief Executive Declares to Request It Be Made Public For Political Purposes Is Against Principles of Our Government—Makes Appeal For Obliteration of Religious Prejudice.

Washington, Nov. 9.—"Secretary Taft's religious faith is purely his own private concern and not a matter for general discussion and political discrimination," says President Roosevelt in a letter he has just made public in which he answers numerous correspondents. The President says he deferred the publication of the letter until now to avoid any agitation likely to influence the election. The letter, in part, follows:

"My Dear Sir: I have received your letter, running in part as follows:

"'While it is claimed almost universally that religion should not enter into politics, yet there is no denying that it does, and the mass of the voters that are not Catholics will not support a man for any office, especially for president of the United States, who is a Roman Catholic.

"'Since Taft has been nominated for president by the Republican party, it is being circulated and is constantly urged as a reason for not voting for Taft that he is an infidel (Unitarian) and his wife and brother Roman Catholics. * * * If his feelings are in sympathy with the Roman Catholic church on account of his wife and brother being Catholics, that would be objectionable to a sufficient number of voters to defeat him. On the other hand, if he is an infidel, that would be sure to mean defeat. * * * I am writing this letter for the sole purpose of giving Mr. Taft an opportunity to let the world know what his religious belief is.'

Receives Many Such Letters.

"I received many such letters as yours during the campaign, expressing dissatisfaction with Mr. Taft on religious grounds.

"You ask that Mr. Taft shall 'let the world know what his religious belief is.' This is purely his own private concern, and it is a matter between him and his Maker, a matter for his own conscience; and to require it to be made public under penalty of political discrimination is to negative the first principles of our government, which guarantee complete religious liberty and the right of each man to act in religious affairs as his own conscience dictates. Mr. Taft never asked my advice in the matter, but if he had asked it, I should have emphatically advised him against thus stating publicly his religious belief.

"The demand for a statement of a candidate's religious belief can have no meaning except that there may be discrimination for or against him because of that belief. Discrimination against the holder of one faith means retaliatory discrimination against men of other faiths. The inevitable result of entering upon such a practice would be an abandonment of our real freedom of conscience and a reversion to the dreadful conditions of religious dissension which in so many lands have proved fatal to true liberty, to true religious and to all advance in civilization.

Outrage Against Liberty.

"To discriminate against a thoroughly upright citizen because he belongs to some particular church, or because, like Abraham Lincoln, he has not avowed his allegiance to any church, is an outrage against the liberty of conscience which is one of the foundations of American life. You are entitled to know whether a man seeking your suffrages is a man of clean and upright life, honorable in all his dealings with his fellows and fit by qualification and purpose to do well in the great office for which he is a candidate, but you are not entitled to know matters which lie purely between himself and his Maker.

"So much for your objections to Mr. Taft because he is a Unitarian. Now for your objection to him because you think his wife and brother to be Roman Catholics. As it happens, they are not; but if they were, or if he were a Roman Catholic himself, it ought not to affect in the slightest degree any man's supporting him for the position of president. You say that 'the mass of the voters that are not Catholics will not support a man for any office, especially for president of the United States, who is a Roman Catholic.' I believe that when you say this you foully slander your fellow countrymen. I do not for one moment believe that the mass of our fellow citizens, or than any considerable number of our fellow citizens can be influenced by such narrow bigotry as to refuse to vote for any thoroughly upright and fit man because he happens to have a particular religious creed. Such a consideration should never be treated as a reason for either supporting or opposing a candidate fo a political office.

"I believe that this republic will endure for many centuries. If so, there will doubtless be among its presidents Protestants and Catholics and very probably, at some time, Jews. I have consistently tried while president to act in relation to my fellow Americans of Catholic faith as I hope that any future president who happens to be a Catholic will act towards his fellow American of Protestant faith. Had I followed any other course I should have felt that I was unfit to represent the American people.

Yours truly,

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

To Christen Big Battleship Tuesday.

Washington, Nov. 9.—A large delegation of naval officers have left here for Quincy, Mass., to attend the launching of the North Dakota, which is to be the biggest battleship in the United States navy. She will be sent down the ways and christened on Tuesday amid elaborate ceremonies. The launching probably will be the most notable of its kind ever held in this country, marking as it does an epoch in battleship construction of the world. The governor of North Dakota, with a delegation from that state, will attend, as will also officials of the state of Massachusetts.

VALUABLE FURS STOLEN.

Detroit Store Is Robbed, Probably by Amateurs.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—The wholesale fur store of Herman and Ben Marks, on the second and third floors at 74 Farrar street, was entered some time at night and between $4,000 and $5,000 worth of choice mink furs were stolen, including a quantity of storage goods.

The burglars had entered the building by means of a fire escape on an adjoining building and a ladder which enabled them to reach the roof, then they descended into the fur store through a skylight.

The fact that several valuable muffs hanging close to the goods that were stolen were left untouched leads the proprietors to believe that the job was not done by professionals. Detectives Downey and Fox are working on the case. The only clue left by the burglars was a dark lantern and several straps, which, it is thought, were to be used on telescopes, in carrying the plunder away.

Strike Didn't Stop Publication.

Cleveland, Nov. 9.—The strike of the typesetters and printers on the two local Hungarian papers, the Hungarian News and the Hungarian Szabadsag, has had the result of producing one of the most novel publications ever issued here. The Szabadzag, which, when translated, means liberty, appeared as if it had been typewritten, Typewriting was, in fact, the basis upon which the editor, E. P. Kehanyi, was able to produce his paper. He struck upon the novel idea of typing his news. The typewritten sheets then were photographed, and from the photographs printing plates were made the same as a photograph is engraved for printing. The engravings of the typewritten sheets were then placed together in consecutive order, and from these the papers were printed.

Elect Rev. French President.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 9.—The Rev. J. Leslie French, student pastor to the 815 Presbyterian students at the University of Michigan, has been re-elected president of the Michigan Christian Endeavor Union at its state convention here. Most of the other officers were re-elected. The next place of meeting will be announced later, Saginaw, Traverse City, Benton Harbor and St. Joseph being aspirants for the honor. A fund of $400 was raised by pledge to support the field secretaryship for the year.

Verdict in Two Weeks.

Washington, Nov. 9.—The result of the court-martial proceedings recently held at Fort Wayne (Mich.) will be known within two weeks at the latest. The verdict in the cases of both Colonel Cornman and Captain French has reached Judge Advocate General Davis at the war department, and he said that he expected to give the papers his indorsement and submit them to Secretary of War Wright by the last of next week.

IN NATIONAL CONVENTION.

American Federation of Labor Convenes In Denver.

AN IMPORTANT GATHERING.

Indorsement of Political Program Carried on During Recent Campaign Up For Discussion—Gompers or Daniel Keefe Likely to Be Ousted—Local Leaders Declare It Will Be Keefe.

Denver, Nov. 9.—Beginning at 10 o'clock this morning at the Auditorium, the twenty-eighth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor began. It is predicted it will be the most important gathering of delegates to a convention of that body in its history. The important question to be discussed is indorsement of the political program carried out by the executive council during the recent political campaign, which has generally been referred to as Mr. Gompers' plan.

Opponents of Samuel Gompers, president of the federation, are working together in an effort to prevent his re-election. They are charging him with "pernicious political activity," and using other arguments to convince delegates that Gompers has lost his standing as a leader of workingmen and that laboring people need expect nothing from congress in the way of legislation if Gompers continues at the head of the federation.

Among those who are expected to lead the fight on the federation's president is Daniel Keefe of Detroit, president of the Longshoremen's union, who was charged with deserting the federation's legislative committee and coming out for Taft.

Although it is difficult to get the temper of the delegates at this time, local leaders laugh at the idea of defeating Gompers. They declare that not only will he be upheld, but that Keefe will be removed from his place as a vice president of the federation, while all Keefe's followers will suffer like defeat for whatever office or other preferment they may seek.

MEET IN WASHINGTON.

National Conservation of Resources to Again Be Taken Up.

Washington, Nov. 9.—Invitations to a second meeting in Washington of the governors or their representatives have just been sent out by the National Conservation of Resources commission. The date announced is Tuesday, Dec. 8. At the same time letters are going out announcing for Tuesday, Dec. 1, the first general meeting of the conservation commission itself for organization. Both these meetings are the outgrowth of the White House conference of governors last May, at which the conservation movement was launched.

At the forthcoming meeting the governors will discuss the work which the national conservation commission has been carrying on during the summer and fall. The outcome of this work is the first thorough inventory of the nation's natural resources the federal government has ever made. The inventory is now practically complete, and most of the summaries on the waters, forests, lands and minerals of the United States have been handed in by the experts who have been steadily at work on them for nearly five months.

On this inventory, which the conservation commission expects to lay before the governors, the report which President Roosevelt has requested the commission to make to him not later than Jan. 1 will be based. From present indications the December conference will be second in importance only to the conference of governors at the White House last May. Governors who cannot attend in person will send representatives, and the executives are invited to bring advisers along, as they did last spring.

The governors of more than half of the states have appointed commissions, and these commissions are now at work along the same lines in their states that the national commission is following for the whole country.

INSIDE A SUBMARINE

You Are Greeted by a Deafening, Ear Splitting Racket.

WORSE THAN A BOILER SHOP.

To Make Yourself Heard at All You Must Shout Into the Ear of a Companion—The Economy of Space and the Simplicity of Arrangements.

Climbing down ten rungs of an iron ladder into the interior of a submarine is like going into a boiler shop where there is one continuous, deafening, ear splitting racket like a dozen trip hammers chattering a tattoo amid a grind and rumble and thump of machinery as if especially designed to burst your eardrums.

At first the noise in that narrowly confined space is painful and bewildering. To make yourself at all heard you must shout into the ear of a companion. So intense is the strain, says a writer in St. Nicholas, that you marvel how day in and day out human ears can withstand the ordeal.

You find yourself inside what seems an enormous steel cigar painted a neat pearl gray, a color which is serviceable and does not dazzle the eye. Light comes to you partly through portholes and in part from incandescent lamps placed fore and aft in the darker parts of the hull.

You have expected, of course, to land in a tangle of whirling machinery that fills the inside of the boat from stem to stern, threatening with every revolution to take an arm or a leg off. Instead the first thing you see is an uninterrupted "working space," or deck, measuring 7 by 25 or 30 feet.

At the stern, far in the background, are the machines and engines. In fact, this section of the vessel is nothing but machinery, a rumbling mass of silvery steel and glittering brass revolving at the rate of 500 times a minute, so compact that you wonder how the various parts can turn without conflicting or how it is possible for human hands to squeeze through the maze to oil the machinery.

But this economy of space is as nothing to what you will see. The floor you stand on is a cover for the cells of the storage batteries wherein is pent up the electricity with which your boat will propel herself when she runs submerged. The walls amidships and the space in the bow are gigantic ballast tanks to be filled with water that will these are tool boxes and hinged bunks for the crew to sleep in.

The four torpedoes, measuring sixteen feet three inches long, eighteen inches in diameter and weighing 1,500 pounds each, are lashed end for end in pairs at either side, and directly over these are tool boxes and hinged bunks for the crew to sleep in.

The very air which is taken along to keep life in you in case the boat should be detained beneath the surface longer than usual is compressed in a steel cylinder 2,000 pounds per square inch, a pressure so intense that were the cylinder to spring a leak no larger than a pin hole and were the tiny stream of escaping air to strike a human being it would penetrate him through and through and drill a hole through an inch thick board behind him.

And yet everything about the interior arrangements of this boat is so simple that you can see at a glance its purpose. Away forward, where the tip of the cigar comes to a point, are the two torpedo tubes out of which the gunner will send his deadly projectiles seething beneath the waters at the rate of 35 knots an hour against an unsuspecting hull.

Directly under the conning tower is a platform, three feet square and elevated three feet from the deck, upon which the captain stands, head and shoulders extending into the tower, so that while at his post he is visible to the crew only from the waist line down, and at the feet of the captain and on a level with his platform is stationed another of the officers, in charge of the wheel that controls the diving rudders and the gauges that register the angle of ascent and decline and show how deep the boat is down.

The two officers are in personal communication, so that in case of heart disease or other mishap either can jump to the other man's place.

Time to Wake.

Judge Wheaton A. Gray was once harangue by the prosecuting counsel on a warm day at the end of a long harangue by the prosecuting counsel he noticed one of the jurymen asleep. As soon as the argument was completed the judge addressed the jury in this peculiar manner: "Gentlemen of the jury, the prosecuting attorney has completed his argument. Wake up and listen to the instructions of the court."—San Francisco Argonaut.

One Was Enough.

"Dad," said the white faced lad, "how many cigars does it take to hurt a boy?"

"How many have you smoked?"

"One."

"That's the number," said dad, and, taking down the strap from behind the door, he soon convinced the boy that he was right.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Common.

"They are quite ordinary people, aren't they?"

"Yes—keep their engagements, eat plain food, pay their bills and all that sort of thing."—Life.

The world has not yet learned the riches of frugality.—Cicero.

Easily Pleased.

If you wish to make a Baganda perfectly happy, all you need to do is to say, "Way wally," which means a sort of supremely earnest "Well done." The moment this talismanic expression has left your lips the native to whom it is addressed will probably fall on his knees, and, clasping his two hands together, will sway them from side to side as if he were playing a concertina, while all the time his face beams with a most benignant and compulsive smile, and he purrs "A—o, a—o, a—o," as much as to say, "My cup of joy is overflowing."—Winston Churchill in Strand Magazine.

A Valuable Food.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are particularly rich in food values—nutritious but light and easily digested. One can eat heartily of them without discomfort. They can be prepared in scores of different ways, all equally tempting. They are acceptable as a single course or as an entire meal. Eaten for lunch, dinner or supper, they are always appetizing and delicious

To appreciate the real flavor and piquancy of the oyster it must be fresh. That is one reason for "Sealshipt" superiority. "Sealshipt" Oysters must be fresh because they are packed in sealed, airtight containers with ice around the the containers. No water touches the oysters. You get the natural oyster, whole and perfect.

We sell "Sealshipt" Oysters—you will find them displayed in a white porcelain case bearing the blue "Sealshipt" trade mark.

LYCEUM THEATRE.
TOLEDO, OHIO, Nov 4, 1908

Mr. Ed. L. Mark,
Manager Opera House,
Tecumseh, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

In booking Charles Grapewin in "The Awakening of Mr. Pipp" at your house, you are indeed to be congratulated in giving Tecumseh such a thoroughly high class production Mr. Grapewin is one of the very cleverest Comedians before the public today and his characterization of Mr. Pipp is one of the classics of the stage.

I have played him for many seasons at the Lyceum Theatre in this city, always to capacity business, and no artist playing this house had a wider circle of friends and admirers.

If Tecumseh knows a good thing, it will certainly buy this metropolitan attraction and give you a chance to book in other big shows.

Sincerely yours,
E. R. Kelsey,
Gen. Mgr. Lyceum and Burt Theatres,
Toledo, O.

To the Patrons of the "New Bradley."

I would like to add a few words:—I saw the above production at the Lyceum Theatre, Toledo, O., on Tuesday, Nov. 2, and can personally guarantee the attraction in every way. It is as far ahead of anything ever seen here (batring none), as day is ahead of night. In order to get this excellent company here I was obliged to guarantee them $300, which I willingly did, feeling sure that the public would appreciate the opportunity of seeing such an excellent production in their home town. Remember the date, Saturday, Nov. 14.

Yours very truly,
Ed. L. Mark, Mgr.,

A GREAT DISCOVERY

Certain Ingredients That Really Grow Hair When Properly Combined.

Resorcin is one of the most effective germ destroyers ever discovered by science, and in connection with Beta Napthol, which is both germicidal and antiseptic, a combination is formed which destroys the germs which rob the hair of its natural nourishment, and also creates a clean, healthy condition of the scalp, which prevents the development of new germs.

Pilocarpin, although not a coloring matter or dye, is a well-known ingredient for restoring the hair to its natural color, when the loss of hair has been caused by a disease of the scalp.

These ingredients in proper combination, with alcohol added as a stimulant and for its well defined nourishing properties, perfect the most effective remedy that is known for scalp and hair troubles.

We have a remedy which is chiefly composed of these ingredients, in combination with other extremely invaluable medicinal agents. We guarantee it to positively cure dandruff and to grow hair; even though the scalp in spots is bare of hair. If there is any vitality left in the roots, it will positively cure baldness. If the scalp has a glazed shiny appearance, it's an indication that baldness is permanant, but in every other instance, baldness is curable.

We want everyone troubled with scalp disease or loss of hair to try Rexall '93' Hair Tonic. If it does not cure dandruff and grow hair to the satisfaction of the user, we will without question or quibble return every cent paid us for it. We print this guarantee on every bottle. It has effected a positive cure in 93 per cent of cases where put to a practical test.

Rexall '93' Hair Tonic is entirely unlike, and in every particular better, than anything else we know of for the purpose for which it is prescribed. We urge you to try this preparation at our entire risk. Certainly we know of no better guarantee to give you. B. J. Polver.

This is the trade-mark of
and is on every bottle of it sold in the world—which amounts to several millions yearly.

Why—Because it has made so many sickly children strong and well—given health and rosy cheeks to so many pale, anaemic girls and restored to health so many thousands in the first stages of Consumption.

Send this advertisement, together with name of paper in which it appears, your address and four cents to cover postage, and we will send you a "Complete Handy Atlas of the World."

GHOST PARTY.

At the Presbyterian Church Thursday Evening. Election of Officers for Coming Six Months.

The Young People of the church gave a party at the church Thursday evening. The rooms were decorated with Harvest and Hollowe'en decorations, by the members of Miss Cutting's class. Games were played and refreshments of apples and popped corn served. CHAS. BIDWELL, Jr. P. M.

A Famous Newspaper Man.

William E. Curtis, the famous correspondent of THE CHICAGO RECORD-HERALD, writes a two-column letter for his paper every day in the year without intermission. His powers of sustained work are as great a marvel as his faculty of always making his matter interesting.

Probably no other newspaper correspondent in the country is read so regularly and eagerly by so many thousands of men and women as Mr. Curtis. Mr. Curtis has traveled several times around the world, visiting every country under the sun, and writing a larger of travel than were ever before produced by a single hand. Many of these have later been reprinted in book form. One of his latest expeditions for THE RECORD-HERALD was through Mexico, resulting in a series of letters as entertaining as those he wrote a few years ago from India, Turkey and the Holy Land. His forthcoming letters from Ireland, Russia and Germany will rival in importance and interest any of his previous contributions.

Beginning his career in Chicago as a reporter in 1872, Mr. Curtis rapidly rose to be managing editor. He resigned that position to accept a government appointment as secretary of the South American commission. So brilliantly did he perform the duties of the office that James G. Blaine, Secretary of State, placed him at the head of the Bureau of American Republics At the world's fair in Chicago he distinguished himself as the executive head of the Latin-American department. He is a member of almost every learned society in Washington and of many in Europe. It is not strange that THE RECORD HERALD prints Mr Curtis' letter every day in the first column of the front page, and that nothing but a California earthquake can displace it from that station of honor.

How is your Digestion.

Mrs. Mary Dowling of No. 228 8th ave., San Francisco, recommends a remedy for stomach trouble She says: "Gratitude for the wonderful effect of Electric Bitters in a case of acute indigestion, prompts this testimonial. I am fully convinced that for stomach and liver troubles Electric Bitters is the best remedy on the market to-day." This great tonic and alterative medicine invigorates the system, purifies the blood and is especially helpful in all forms of female weakness. 50c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

A Magazine of Sterling Worth.

COMPETITION is so keen among the magazines nowadays that they simply have to keep their fictional offerings up to a high standard or go out of business. For this reason a great many good stories appear every month, and for one to stand out noticeably among its fellows, it must be of exceptional quality indeed. Such a tale, however, is the complete novel in the November LIPPINCOTT'S—"The Viper," by Will Levington Comfort.

In addition to this excellent complete novel, the November LIPPINCOTT'S contains half a dozen splendid short stories

"5-DROPS" taken internally rids the blood of the poisonous matter and acids which are the direct causes of these diseases. The November Everybody's.

The November Everybody's is an election number. That is, three out of the seven articles in it are particularly pertinent at this time. First of all, a real national election issue—"The Independence of the Philippines"—is discussed by William Howard Taft and William Jennings Bryan, while Eleanor Franklin Egan contributes a plain statement of the work that has been done by the United States in the Islands.

In this number, too, is published the result of the "Shadow World" Prize Competition—four of the six winning articles, chosen from a mass of more than a thousand, are printed, with notes by Hamlin Garland. These are amazing and convincing substantiation of the experiments described in Mr. Garland's series, and they are wonderfully international.

The November Atlantic.

The November Atlantic presents a range of unusual scope. Three articles deal with the great social problems of the day, "Executive Aggression," by George W. Alger, "Democracy and the Expert," by Joseph Lee, and "Anthropomania," by Wilbur Larremore. Education is represented by President Henry S. Pritchett's striking comparison of Harvard and West Point, and an interesting article by Bertha H. Smith, "Self-Government in Public Schools." In lighter vein and cram full of humor is Rev. S. M. Crothers' "On Being a Doctrinaire." More special questions of daily life find voice in "Automobile Selfishness," by Seth K. Humphrey, and in "Closing the County Home," by Josephine Humphrey.

SERIOUSLY INJURED

Thomas Murphy of Macon Falls From Ladder of Windmill.

RENDERED UNCONSCIOUS AND STILL LIES IN THAT CONDITION.

No Bones Broken But Is Suffering With Concussion of Brain.

Thomas Murphy, son of John Murphy, veterinary surgeon of Macon, fell from the ladder of the windmill at their farm home Saturday afternoon, and lies in a serious condition, still unconscious, and suffering from concussion of the brain. A blood vessel was broken back of one ear.

Mr. Murphy had been helping a brother through the day, and arrived home about 3 o'clock. After his team had been taken care, his mother asked him to turn the windmill on as they had no water.

To do this he was obliged to climb the ladder, to the top of the mill. About twenty minutes afterwards, Mrs. Murphy heard someone moaning, and found her son lying on his face some distance from the ladder. Judging from the distance he was from the bottom of the ladder, it is supposed he was near the top when he fell, but possibly struck the wires that support the windmill, thus breaking the force of the fall.

Dr. Hardy was called from Tecumseh and him as thorough an examination as it was possible to give him in his condition, and found no bones broken.

Mr. Murphy has worked his father's farm for the past two or three years, and was about 23 years of age. He is married, his wife being Miss Hattie O'Haro of Clinton township, and they have one child.

Their many friends hope for the best, and anxiously await the outcome.

WHY SUFFER?

Breathe Hyomei and Kill the Loathsome Catarrh Germs.

Just as long as you have catarrh your nose will itch, your breath will be foul, you will hawk and spit, and you will do other disgusting things because you can't help yourself. The germs of catarrh have got you in their power; they are continually and persistently digging into and irritating the mucous membrane of your nose and throat. They are now making your life miserable; in time they will sap your entire system of its energy, its strength, its vigor and vitality.

If you do not kill the loathsome germs of catarrh, their desperate assaults will in time undermine your reason, rob your brain of its brilliancy and activity, and leave you not only a pyhsical but a mental wreck.

This picture is not overdrawn; the writer has seen thousands of just such cases. He has personally experienced the demoralizing results that come from the ravishing attacks of the horrible catarrh germs, the greatest pest of civilized nations.

But there is one remedy that will kill the germs and cure catarrh, and that is Hyomei, the Australian dry air treatment. There may be other remedies, but they are not guaranteed as C. A. Wright & Son, the druggist, will guarantee Hyomei to cure catarrh, or money back. Don't delay this pleasant antiseptic treatment. Every day you allow these germs to exist in your system brings you nearer to complete demoralization. C. A. Wright & Son will sell you a complete Hyomei outfit for only $1.00. Ask him about it. It is also guaranteed to cure bronchitis, asthma, coughs, colds and hay fever.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all dealers.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Tecumseh People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills.

For Tecumseh kidney sufferers.

Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Tecumseh people who have been cured to stay cured.

Orson Austin, retired, living on Logan st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as when I gave a testimonial in their favor some years ago. Prior to that time, I had been troubled with a very bad case of kidney disease, the distressing pains in my back and shoulders at times being almost unbearable. Rheumatism also settled in my hips and limbs and greatly increased my misery. I could not get my proper rest during night on account of the too frequent action of the kidneys, and the passages were attended by a burning sensation. I knew Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, began using them and noticed their good effects in a short time. Thus encouraged I continued taking them until a complete cure was effected. My advice to all sufferers of kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

MISSOURI IS STILL IN DOUBT.

Taft Apparently Assurded of 309 Electoral Votes.

VERY CLOSE VOTE IN MARYLAND

Republican Nominee Wins by Only 136 Votes—Democrats Do Not Concede Loss of State—Taft's Plurality in New York Totals 203,495—Colorado Shifts From Doubtful Column to Democratic List.

New York, Nov. 5.—Late developments in the election situation have surprised the political leaders of both big parties, and the result may be a vindication of the judgment of the national chairman, Hitchcock, who declared that Taft would receive 325 votes in the electoral college.

Returns indicate that Taft is practically assurred of 309 votes and has a fighting chance for Missouri's eighteen, which would give him a total of two more than Mr. Hitchcock claimed. Missouri had been conceded to Bryan, and the plurality from a good part of the state, including St. Louis, just turned in, took the leaders by surprise. If this advantage is continued Missouri will be in the Taft column. It is now placed among the doubtful.

Another surprise is the close vote in Maryland, which is claimed for Taft by the margin of 136 votes only. The Democrats do not concede the loss of the state and will be satisfied with nothing short of the official count. Conceding Maryland to Taft and figuring Missouri as the one still doubtful state, Bryan has 156 members of the electoral college assured him.

The states carried by Mr. Bryan are as follows: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 5; Colorado, 5; Florida, 5; Georgia, 13; Kentucky, 13; Louisiana, 9; Mississippi, 10; Missouri, 18; Nevada, 8; North Carolina, 12; Nebraska, 8; Oklahoma, 7; South Carolina, 9; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 18, and Virginia, 12. Total, 174.

All the rest of the states are safe for Taft with the exception of Maryland, where the issue is so close that an official count may be necessary to finally determine the result.

Bryan May Turn Senator.

National Chairman Norman E. Mack of the Democratic party has issued a statement in which he declared that he did not believe Mr. Bryan would again be a candidate for the presidency. He said he believed that the Nebraskan might be a candidate for the United States senate in 1911, provided the legislature of his state is Democratic in that year, when the first vacancy will occur.

Judge Taft's plurality in the state of New York, according to corrected returns, is 203,495, more than 28,000 in excess of President Roosevelt's plurality of four years ago. Governor Charles Evans Hughes was re-elected in New York state by 71,150. The returns as between president and governor indicate a heavy splitting of tickets.

The heavy vote in Ohio made returns extraordinarily late. Mr. Taft carried his own state, however, by 50,000 plurality, a reduction of more than 200,000 from the Roosevelt vote of four years ago. The Democratic state ticket in Ohio, headed by Judson Harmon for governor, appears to be safely elected. The state legislature, which is to choose a successor to Senator Foraker, appears to be in doubt as between the Republicans and Democrats.

In Indiana Mr. Taft was successful in carrying the state by about 8,000, but the entire Democratic state ticket, headed by Marshall for governor, was elected. The congressional delegation from the state shows a gain of seven Democrats.

The returns from West Virginia, owing to the mountainous character of the state, are slow in coming in. Enough districts have been heard from, however, to show that Mr. Taft has a safe plurality.

Colorado has shifted from the doubtful column to the Bryan list.

Watched Fifteen Years.

"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved us many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy of East Wilton, Maine, 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

Why Suffer?

If you suffer pain from any cause, Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills will relieve it—and leave no bad after-effects. That's the important thing. Neither do they create a habit. More often the attacks become less frequent, or disappear altogether. Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills have no other effect except to relieve pain and quiet nervous irritation.

"We are never without Dr. Miles' Anti-Pain Pills. My husband and son, aged 15 were always subject to sick headache until we began using these Pills, and they have broken them up entirely. Don't think they have had to use them for six months. I recommend them to every one. A few weeks ago I heard an old lady friend was sick. I went to see her. She was down with LaGrippe, and nearly crazy with awful backache. I gave her one of the Anti-Pain Pills and left another for her to take in a short time. They helped her right away, and she says she will never be without them again. Last winter my husband was taken with pleurisy on both sides, and I know he would have died if it hadn't been for the Pills. In less than half an hour he was sweating, and went to bed and slept."

Killed Mother and Self.

New York, Nov. 5.—Revelation by a son to his mother of a secret marriage and parental refusal to be reconciled to it is believed to have been the impelling cause of a double tragedy in a large uptown apartment hotel here. The victims of the tragedy were Mrs. Rebecca Veit, a wealthy widow, and her only son, J. Nelson Veit, a Wall street broker, the circumstances of the affair indicating that the mother was shot by the son and the latter then took his own life by inhaling illuminating gas. Mrs. Veit was found dead in her bed from bullet wounds in her head and body, while her son was found on the floor of the bathroom in his mother's apartment, lifeless from asphyxiation. The police made the discovery that Veit, who was supposed to be single, was married secretly in October of last year.

"Drunk With Thy Beauty."

Charles Dickens once had an argument with a friend about Byron's expression, "Drunk with thy beauty," to which he made great objection. During the discussion the novelist gazed as if enraptured at his host's fair haired daughter, who was in the room. At last he sprang to his feet, struck a dramatic attitude, clasped his heart with his hands and stalked to the window, where he wrote on the white woodwork:

O maiden of the amber dropping hair,
Would I, Byronically, thy praise might utter!
Drunk with thy beauty, would that I might dare
To breathe out paeans, borne upon a shutter!

Vetoed Twice.

Sir Gavan Duffy, formerly speaker of the legislative assembly of Victoria, was once returned to his seat by a single vote majority. On visiting his constituents subsequently, he was received with a special warmth by an Irish fellow countryman.

"And so," said Sir Gavan Duffy to his friend, "you were one of my supporters."

"No, sir," was the reply. "I was two of them."

The Boss.

"But!" exclaimed the man of delicate sensibilities, "will your conscience permit you to do as you suggest?"

"Look here, friend!" answered the New York politician, "I am accustomed to be boss even of my own conscience."—Washington Star.

Not Modesty.

"Sometimes!" said the press humorist, "I think my jokes are rotten. I s'pose that's my modesty."

"No," explained a friend, "that's your common sense."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Stomach Muscles In Old Age

How Old People May Retain or Restore Good Health.

Usually the bowels are not so active in middle or advanced years as in youth. Just as the eyes grow dim, the skin wrinkled, the hair gray, the muscles flabby, so do the internal organs show their age if we could but see them.

However we sometimes find a person whose age is near the meted three-score and ten and yet his step is sprightly, his eye keen, his flesh firm, his appetite good and his bowels regular, and upon close questioning you will find a life's history of right-living, good food, keen appetite, perfect digestion and regular bowel action.

Regular bowels and proper digestion of the food we eat is absolutely necessary to the enjoyment of good health by old or young. If the readers of this article are interested, we are glad to tell them how they can restore good health and prolong their lives.

Step into a drug store and purchase a bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It will cleanse the bowels of any waste matter that has clogged them up and restore to them strength and nerve force for regular natural daily action. It aids digestion by stimulating the stomach and digestive glands to a proper and sufficient secretion of the fluids necessary to perfect digestion. It acts on the liver and kidneys in a mild, quiet yet effective manner. Rev. A. J. Fletcher, of Rutherford, Tenn., is 93 years old, and it cured him of 40 years of dyspepsia. W. W. Bierling, Sioux City, Ia., says: "Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is the best medicine I ever used and I am 88 years old." B. F. Thompson, Shenandoah, Ia., says: "I suffered 15 years with dyspepsia and it cured me." It is certain and effective in the most obstinate old cases, and yet mild and safe for the most delicate woman or child. All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Pepsin Syrup Co., 304 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill., is glad to send a free sample to any one who has never used it and will give it a fair trial.

Girl Took Rose Nicotine.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 9.—Belle Watson, twenty-two years old, swallowed the contents of two bottles of rose nicotine in a bedroom of her home at 176 Livernois avenue. Her brother, Daniel, heard moans, went to the girl's bedroom and found her lying half unconscious. She died in his arms before a physician could be summoned. Miss Watson was a victim of overwork and worry.

PUNCTUATION.

Originated by Aristophanes and Revived by Charlemagne.

Punctuation by means of stops and points, so as to indicate the meaning of sentences and assist the reader to a proper enunciation, is ascribed originally to Aristophanes, a grammarian of Alexandria, Egypt, who lived in the third century B. C. Whatever his system may have been, it was subsequently neglected and forgotten, but was reintroduced by Charlemagne, the various stops and symbols being designed by Warnefried and Alcuin.

The present system of punctuation was introduced in the latter part of the fifteenth century by Aldus Manutius, a Venetian printer, who was responsible for our full stop, colon, semicolon, comma, marks of interrogation and exclamation, parenthesis and dash, hyphen, apostrophe and quotation marks. These were subsequently copied by other printers until their use became universal.

Most ancient languages were innocent of any system of punctuation. In many early manuscripts the letters are placed at equal distances apart, with no connecting link between, even in the matter of spacing, an arrangement which must have rendered reading at sight somewhat difficult.—Chicago News.

Why He Refused.

"Can I offer you a little more soup?" a lady asked her new paying guest.

"No, thanks!" was the quick reply.

"I hope you are not refusing because it is considered bad form to take two helpings of soup. We are not sticklers for etiquette."

"Oh, it isn't etiquette that I was worrying about—it was the soup!"

Saved the Dishes.

"Twenty-one," was the little man's reply.—Herald and Presbyter.

WON'T SCOLD THE EMPEROR.

Riechstag Refuses to Send Him Address.

VON BUELOW IS SCORED.

Members Refused to Accept His Explanation With Regard to Emperor's Published Interviews—Baron Von Kiderlen-Wareliter Received With Loudly Expressed Derision.

Berlin, Nov. 12.—The most exciting debate in a long time in the riechstag has just concluded with the rejection by the majority of a proposition to send an address to the emperor, calling attention to the danger of his majesty's personal interviews in foreign politics.

The discussion brought forth strong expressions from the representatives of most of the parties.

The displeasure of the house was concentrated principally upon Chancellor Von Buelow. Members of several of the groups refused to accept the chancellor's explanation with regard to the emperor's interview in the London Daily Telegraph as satisfactory, or as offering guarantees for the future, but when the proposition of addressing the emperor formally on the subject was put to the house the governmental majority did not hesitate in voting against it.

Chancellor Von Buelow listened unmoved to the personal attacks on him.

Baron Von Kiderlen-Warchter's defense of the foreign office, which was so closely identified with the "interview," was received with loudly expressed derision by the Socialists.

It was said that the emperor was receiving a full stenographic report of the proceedings at Donaueschingen, where he is the guest of Prince Von Fuerstenberg.

PLUNGES TO HIS DEATH.

Henry Watterson's Son Falls From Window of Building.

DEATH WAS INSTANTANEOUS.

Instantly Killed by Striking Roof of Adjoining Building—Was Thirty Years Old and Practicing Law In New York—Sad News Is Gently Broken to Father.

New York, Nov. 12.—Harvey W. Watterson, a lawyer, and younger son of Henry Watterson, editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, has met a terrible death here. He fell from the nineteenth floor of his office building at 37 Wall street. His body shot downward for 110 feet and landed on the roof of a ten-story building adjoining. Almost every bone in his body was broken and his head crushed, and death was practically instantaneous.

While there were no eye-witnesses to the tragedy, evidently it was entirely accidental. Mr. Watterson's hat and overcoat were on his closed desk. Presumably he had attempted to lower the window and, either stumbling over the radiator which was in front of the low sill or losing his footing in some manner unknown, pitched forward and down to death on the roof below.

Mr. Watterson was thirty years old and married. He was junior member of the law firm of Wing, Russell & Watterson.

The body was removed to the Watterson home after the coroner had declared that the death of Mr. Watterson was due entirely to accident. Mrs. Watterson is prostrated with grief over her husband's tragic death.

Watterson was born and reared in Louisville, Ky.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 12.—News of the tragic death of Harvey W. Watterson, first came to friends of the father, Henry Watterson, editor of the Courier-Journal, and they broke the news to the editor as gently as possible. Hundreds of telegrams from men of national prominence already are pouring in to him, offering condolence and sympathy.

The bond between Mr. Watterson and his son was an unusually strong one.

Mr. Watterson is not able to undertake a journey to New York, and Mrs. Harvey Watterson has been asked to bring the body to Louisville, and this probably will be done.

STATE CAN'T BORROW FUNDS.

Constitution Absolutely Forbids Such Proceedings.

SO SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Money Borrowed on Notes Might Be Declared Illegal—Creditors, However, Could Accept Warrants From Treasurer and Cash Them at Banks. Just As Good As Bonds.

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 12.—The state treasurer's department has gone up against a point raised by Attorney General Bird to the plan to make temporary loans from Detroit banks to meet current demands until the annual taxes, which all counties begin collecting Dec. 1, reach the state treasury.

The attorney general holds that the constitution absolutely forbids the state treasurer borrowing any such sum as is needed to tide over affairs until the December collection of taxes reach the treasury, which will be early in January. The amount required may reach $1,000,000.

True, lare sums were borrowed in 1893 and 1894 under identically the same conditions, and no objection was raised. But the fact remains that objection could have been raised, and, in the present situation, might be raised in a way to create much embarrassment.

A particularly interesting phase of the case as it now stands is that a special session of the legislature could afford no relief. A special session between now and New Year's day, when the old legislature goes out of business, would have no more constitutional right to borrow the money needed than has the state treasurer. Neither would a special session have a constitutional right to authorize the state treasurer to make a loan for the purposes for which the money is now needed.

Could Make Lot of Trouble.

The attorney general is understood to have raised the point that if the state made a loan in excess of the $50,000 that can now be made for emergency purposes and gave notes to secure the loan, any taxpayer might raise the point that such notes were unconstitutional, therefore not collectable. Of course, it is not to be assumed that the state would repudiate a loan of any kind, still persons so disposed could, by litigation, make a lot of trouble and expenses for the state as well as for those who loaned.

The outlook, however, is not by any means all clouds. It is learned that the constitutional objection can be surmounted if the banks are agreeable. A plan reported to have been suggested is for the auditor general to continue as usual issuing warrants on the state treasurer to all persons who present undisputed vouchers. Then let the persons receiving such warrants present them to any one of the banks with which an arrangement has been made and receive the face value.

The banks would not be taking the least risk, because the warrants would be as good as gilt edge bonds. The banks could deposit the warrants in the state treasury and receive their cash in January.

MAKING WAR ON SALOONISTS.

Lively Proceedings In Kalamazoo and Calhoun Counties.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Nov. 12.—Considerable of a sensation has been created here in the trial of George Dagnlea, proprietor of the French hotel, in the circuit court. Dagnlea is charged with selling liquor without a license.

The principal witnesses for the prosecution were Detective O. O. Wiard and Solon H. Benbow, the latter a well known insurance and business man. They were the cause of Dagnlea being in court, for it was through them that the evidence against the hotel man was secured.

Wiard testified that he and Benbow had taken two ladies into the French hotel and, after being taken to an upstairs room, were given beer and a lunch. The beer bottles were introduced as evidence.

The courtroom was crowded, Y. M. C. A. and W. C. T. U. workers being in attendance.

A member of the City Good Government league states that warrants have been issued against every saloonkeeper in Kalamazoo county who has violated the law in the past two years.

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 12.—It is acknowledged by Prosecuting Attorney L. F. Sewart that seventeen warrants have been issued for liquor law violations, fourteen having been added to the three already known. The new ones include Halladay Inn, two counts; Clifton hotel, three counts; Lou C. Weimer, Burt Peet, Michael Sharkey, John Leader, Ed Murphy and Charles Macomber, each one count. Imported detectives secured the evidence for Prosecutor Stewart, who promises to wind up his last days in office with one grand clean-up. These warrants are but a beginning, it is said.

Bandetti Partially Wreck Home.

Detroit, Mich., Nov. 12.—A can filled with gunpowder and placed on the front steps of Grillo Mercurio's frame house at 213 Larned street, east, did some damage, made considerable commotion in the Italian neighborhood and wrought consternation in Mercurio's family and among several of his boarders. The explosion occurred shortly before midnight and awakened the residents of the whole neighborhood. A few weeks ago a similar attempt was made at 1312 Rivard street, owned by Vincenzo Longo, although in that instance the damage was still less. Attempts to blackmail preceded each of these outrages, letters demanding $500, but it is apparent that in each instance the purpose of the explosion was to terrify and create fear rather than to kill or to do damage.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

Fishing and Advertising

Elbert Hubbard says: "The delight of Fishing comes from the uncertainty. You never know what is in a pond unless you fall in, in which you deal with a fact and romance flees." It is not difficult to carry this a little further and get pretty close to the conclusion that Fishing and Advertising have a great deal in common.

The Merchant or Manufacturer never knows what is in the pond until he gets in it, and it is just there that he begins to deal with facts and gets away from romance. The trouble is that too many advertising men make romance a part of their argument and their plans there is mighty little romance about business of any kind especially about the Clothing Business.

Don't Pay to Much for Your Fish

A great many people in the clothing business advertise Something for Nothing such as $15.00 Suits for $7.50 and so on down the line. We don't do that kind of business. We handle only dependable lines such as: Kuppenheimer Clothing, Douglas Shoes, Royal Hats Bradford Underwear all bought in large quantities for SPOT CASH and we are in position to offer you inducements that cannot be duplicated by but a very few Dealers in our lines.

YOUR Kind of Oysters.

"First catch your rabbit" is the way an old English recipe begins.

The modern version, applied to oysters, is "First buy "Sealshipt."

"Sealshipt" Oysters have that distinctive, salt, oyster flavor. The reason is they are packed in galvanized steel containers, sealed, airtight, with ice around the containers, but not in the oysters. No water is used. "Sealshipt" Oysters cannot bloat, nor collect dirt, nor germs.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are guaranteed. The White Porcelain Case bearing the Blue "Sealshipt" Trade-Mark, from which you buy "Sealshipt" Oysters, is your protection. You can depend on their wholesomeness, purity, freshness. You can be just as particular about your oysters as about any other food—"Sealshipt" Oysters are for particular people.

We sell "Sealshipt" only—wouldn't sell any other kind.

MAKES ASTONISHING CURES

Mi-o-na is a scientific and effective remedy for the permanent cure of indigestion.

Food is digested in the stomach by means of a churning movement of the walls of the stomach, which thoroughly mixes the food with the gastric or stomach juices.

If the muscular walls are flabby and lack tone or energy, the stomach cannot churn the food properly, and the digestive juices are not properly mixed with the food.

This causes indigestion. The common symptoms are: weight and fullness after meals, coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, discharges of wind from the mouth, and belching of sour material.

Dyspepsia cannot be cured by taking a digestor, such as pepsin, because pepsin simply digests your food artificially, and not all of the food either, for it has no effect at all on starchy food, such as potatoes, rice, oatmeal, bread, etc.

There is just one way to cure dyspepsia and stomach disorders, trivial or serious, and that is to tone up or put energy into the the stomach walls, so that they will be able to properly mix or churn the food.

Mi-o-na tablets cure stomach troubles by putting strength and energy into the stomach. They quickly arouse the stomach from its inaction, and in a short time it is able to do its work properly.

And bear in mind that when the stomach is in good condition, constipation disappears, also nervousness, drowsiness, night sweats, heartburn, etc.

C. A. Wright & Son, the druggist, sells Mi-o-na tablets under a rigid guarantee to do all that is claimed for them, or money back.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell. Sold by all dealers.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Tecumseh People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills, For Tecumseh kidney sufferers. Have made their local reputation.

Orson Austin, retired, living on Logan st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as when I gave a testimonial in their favor some years ago. Prior to that time, I had been troubled with a very bad case of kidney disease, the distressing pains in my back and shoulders at times being almost unbearable. Rheumatism also settled in my hips and limbs and greatly increased my misery. I could not get my proper rest during night on account of the too frequent action of the kidneys, and the passages were attended by a burning sensation. I knew Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, began using them and noticed their good effects in a short time. Thus encouraged I continued taking them until a complete cure was effected. My advice to all sufferers of kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

WOULD SUCCEED PLATT.

Lieutenant Governor Woodruff an Aspirant For Governorship.

Washington, Nov. 12.—That no man at this time has a clear path to the seat in the United States senate to be vacated by Senator Thomas C. Platt of New York in March, next, is evidenced as the result of several conferences on the subject at the White House and in Washington hotels.

For several days it has appeared that if Secretary of State Root decided to become an active candidate, other aspirants for the place would withdraw. Former Lieutenant Governor Timothy L. Woodruff, chairman of the New York Republican state committee, who has had ambitions to become senator for several years, has not assented to the program of eliminating all candidates except Mr. Root.

Mr. Woodruff has returned to New York, and his friends say he will give considerable thought to the situation before reaching a conclusion. He realizes that if he shies his castor into the ring, this would be the signal for numerous others to enter the ring, and that the result would be in doubt. He declined to commit himself on the subject, and none of those remaining here was authorized to speak for him.

Life Was Disappointment to Him.

Wayne, Mich., Nov. 12.—John Fitzgibbons, Jr., son of Deputy Sheriff Fitzgibbons, shot himself dead in the home of his parents here. The bullet penetrated the brain. The dead man was thirty years of age and an only son. His life has been one series of disappointments. He had trouble with his wife, and they separated. He had a cigar factory, and it burned down. His father set him up in business again but trade was dull. His health had been affected.

WAS IT ANDREE'S BODY?

Captain of American Schooner Found Grave In Northern Labrador.

Copenhagen, Nov. 12.—There is reason to believe that the body of Professor S. A. Andree, the Arctic explorer, who in 1897 made an attempt to reach the north pole in a balloon, has been found on the coast of Labrador.

A letter received here from the captain of the steamer Inga, dated Labrador, Sept. 30, reports that Captain Chalker, skipper of the American schooner Pelops of Conception bay, Newfoundland, discovered in northern Labrador a cross bearing the name "Andree," and beneath this he found a body and a box of documents.

Phipps and Wife May Make Up.

New York, Nov. 12.—Through the unexpected interest taken by Laurence C. Phipps of Pittsburg in his divorced wife, Mrs. Genevieve Phipps' narrow escape from death in Denver, in a thrilling adventure with a woman dynamiter, the friends and relatives of the divorced couple are expecting a reconciliation and remarriage. Mr Phipps has asked his Denver attorney to urge the prosecution of Mrs. Allen Read, who theatened to kill Mrs. Phipps unless she paid her $20,000.

Governor Stops Fight.

Mt. Clemens, Mich., Nov. 12.—In compliance with a telegram from Governor Warner, Sheriff Matthews has announced that the boxing show advertised for this city Friday evening would not be tolerated. The Empire Athletic club of Detroit, who promoted the enterprise, claimed to have permission from the police commission.

Gross Railway Earnings Fell Off.

Chicago, Nov. 12.—The gross earnings of the railways in the United States took an enormous drop during the last fiscal year, according to the reports filed by the various roads with the interstate commerce commission. The compilation of the figures shows a loss of $139,000,000 in gross earnings, all due, apparently, to the recent business depression.

Tickling, tight Coughs, can be surely and quickly loosened with a prescription. Druggists are dispensing everywhere as Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. The tender leaves of a harmless, lung healing mountainous shrub, gives the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough and to soothe and heal the most sensitive bronchial membrane. Mothers should, for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes. Test it yourself! and see. Sold by all dealers.

LEFT ON HER DOORSTEP FOR THIS MOTHER

Mrs. A. G. Tuson, of Livermore, Cal., writes: "I picked up from my doorstep one day a little book in which I soon became very much interested. My little girl of five years of age had been troubled for a long time with loss of appetite, extreme nervousness and undue fatigue. She was all run down and in a very delicate condition.

"This little book was very comprehensively written, and told of the new method of extracting the medicinal elements of the cod's liver from the oil, eliminating the obnoxious oil which is so hard for children to take.

"'Just the thing,' said I, 'for my little daughter,' and I immediately went for a bottle of Vinol. It helped her wonderfully. She has gained rapidly in flesh and strength, and she does not take cold half so easily.

"I am extremely grateful for the good it has done her, and I hope other mothers who have weak, delicate or ailing children will be benefited by my experience and just give Vinol a trial."

VINOL is sold in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, Druggists.

COMELY MATRONS PRAISE PERUNA

KENTUCKY
OREGON
OHIO.

The only valuable testimony which any household remedy can have is the testimony of those who have used it. It is worse than useless to discuss Peruna from a theoretical standpoint. It is what Peruna will do, not what people say about it, that constitutes evidence. The housewives of the United States know what Peruna will do. They have tried it. They have realized its benefit in the family. They are the ones that are competent to speak of it. Self-appointed critics know nothing of it whatever.

The Testimony of These Three Housewives Demonstrates Beyond All Cavil That Peruna is a Safe and Useful Remedy.

Gained Flesh on Peruna.

Mrs. Hattie Hamilton, R. F. D. No. 2, Sparta, Ky., writes:

"I have taken two bottles of Peruna and commenced on the third one. I did not really need the third one, but thought it best to take another bottle.

"I have always weighed 102 pounds, but since I began taking Peruna I weigh 120, for the first time in all my life, and I am now thirty-three years old. Your medicine has surely done me a great deal of good, and I have recommended it to several others who have begun taking it.

"My mother, who is seventy-six years old, had grown so weak she could scarcely walk. She took two bottles of Peruna and is fleshier and looking well."

Internal Catarrh.

Mrs. M. F. Jones, of Burning Springs, Ky., writes:

"No family should ever be without Peruna, for it is an unfailing cure for colds, and it is an excellent remedy to prevent and relieve croup.

"And to speak from a standpoint of experience, I can candidly say that it is the remedy for internal catarrh. I shall not hesitate to recommend it, especially to all suffering women.

"Peruna has gained full confidence and a permanent stay in our home."

Constipation, Torpid Liver.

Mrs. Anthony Rauch, 306 N. Walnut street, Bucyrus, O., writes:

"I was suffering from obstinate constipation and torpid liver, when I took your advice and purchased six bottles of Peruna and Manalin. When I had taken only one bottle I felt much better, and since I have taken two more bottles I feel entirely well, but I will continue taking the medicine for a short time to make sure of my cure.

"I think Manalin is one of the finest remedies for constipation that I ever tried. I will never be without it. It has made me so strong. I can do a day's work and never tire. I am so glad I do not get those dizzy spells any more. I haven't had one since I took your medicine.

"I cannot thank you enough for what your medicine has done for me. All sick people should give it a fair trial."

Kidneys and Bladder.

Mrs. Gus. H. Carlson, Box 201, Ortonville, Minn., writes:

"I had catarrh of the kidneys and bladder. I have taken Peruna until now, and I do not think I need to take it any longer.

"I feel well, and my tongue is clear, and I have no bitter taste in my mouth. I am very thankful for Peruna."

Peruna Their Family Medicine.

Mrs. Anna C. Hyde, 712 E. Yamhill street, Portland, Oregon, Vice President Literary and Educational Organization of New Hampshire, writes:

"I am pleased to endorse Peruna as an all-round good family medicine, and one that is safe to give children. I give it to mine at the least suggestion of a cold, and take it myself to build up my strength and nerves.

"My sister, who is living with me, uses Peruna, too, and she is loud in its praises.

"Your medicine is certainly worthy of praise."

Backache, Headache.

Mrs. Tressie Nelson, 609 N. Fifth Ave., Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"As Peruna has done me a world of good, I feel in duty bound to tell of it, in hopes that it may meet the eye of some woman who has suffered as I did.

"For five years I really did not know what a perfectly well day was, and if I did not have headache, I had backache or a pain somewhere and really life was not worth the effort I made to keep going.

"A good friend advised me to use Peruna and I was glad to try anything, and I am very pleased to say that six bottles made a new woman of me and I have no more pains and life looks bright again."

Catarrh of Bowels.

Mrs. Maggie Durbin, 1832 North street, Little Rock, Ark., writes:

"I was troubled for five years with a chronic disease. I tried everything I heard of, but nothing did me any good. Some doctors said my trouble was catarrh of the bowels, and some said consumption of the bowels. One doctor said he could cure me. I took his medicine two months, but it did me no good.

"A friend of mine advised me to try Peruna and I did so. After I had taken two bottles I found it was helping me, so I continued its use, and it has cured me sound and well.

"I can recommend Peruna to anyone, and if anyone wants to know what Peruna did for me if they will write to me I will answer promptly."

FOOLING CHINESE.

False Reports Regarding Fleet's Visit Circulated to Satisfy Their Pride.

Peking, Nov. 12.—In order to satisfy the pride of the Chinese people, the official newspaper controlled by Grand Councillor Yuan Shai Kai explains the fact that only half the American battleship fleet—that is to say, eight vessels—visited Amoy as the guests of the Chinese goverment by declaring that the fleet was dispersed by a storm on its way to the Chinese coast and the fate of the other eight vessels is unknown.

The foreign board accepts this statement with complacency. The American legation was not consulted prior to its publication.

On account of the isolation of Amoy and the lack of proper communication, the particulars of the entertainment of the American vessels are only now filtering into the native press. The ships left Amoy Nov. 5. The government is awaiting the report of Prince Yu Lang, who represented the throne at Amoy during the festivities.

Another Big Relay Race.

Washington, Nov. 12.—President Roosevelt has agreed to accept a message to be transmitted in another relay race by Young Men's Christian association boys, to be run this time from New York to Washington. In the thirty hours' run, 1,500 boys will participate. The start will be made from New York city Friday afternoon, Nov. 20.

Warrant For Carmack's Assailant.

Governor Says "Be Thankful."

Lansing, Mich., Nov. 12.—"A good world growing better every day and better opportunities than our fathers dreamed of are chief among God's blessings we have to be thankful for." This is one of the things for which the inhabitants of the state of Michigan can consistently be thankful, in the view of Governor Warner, as expressed in his Thanksgiving day proclamation, just issued. There is also a reference to the forest fire affliction thus: "Material prosperity has come to us as a people, and those upon whom the hand of affliction has been laid have realized that their lines were cast among a generous, sympathetic people who have shared with them their abundance." The day appointed for observance is, of course, Thursday, Nov. 28.

URGES NEW LAWS.

Forestry Convention Passes Resolutions Appealing to Legislature.

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 12.—With differences between Professor Roth of the University of Michigan and State Game Warden Pierce in regard to forest fires only partly settled, the state forestry association closed its third annual convention here with an elaborate banquet. Officers were elected as follows: President, J. H. Bissell of Detroit; vice president, Morris Quinn of Saginaw; treasurer, William Mershon, Saginaw; treasurer, Henry Stevens, Detroit.

Resolutions were adopted urging upon the legislature the passage of laws for the protection of property and lives; that the state make use of the waste lands, and that the taxation be adjusted. They also urged that fires should be treated as public enemy and the state patrol its own land. They ask that the fire laws be made stronger and the people who set fires vigorously prosecuted, and that a part of the revenue from the sale of timber go for schools and roads. They recommended the appointment of a state forester.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

A movement, national in its scope, which has for its object the securing of better Sunday hours for the druggists, has reached Detroit, and many local pharmacists are working to effect a change of hours. They desire that all druggists keep open from 9 a. m. to 6:30 p. m. on the Sabbath, giving them Sunday night off. No hours are named for closing during the week.

Bernice Raymond, the little Marshall blind girl, of whom much has been said of late, has been released from the school at Coldwater, and her mother is now circulating a subscription in an effort to raise money sufficient to send her to a Milwaukee school. The parent will not permit her child to be taken to Brooklyn by the Sunshine society, which a few weeks ago stated that it would care for the girl.

Will Reorganize C. H. & D. Road.

New York, Nov. 12.—Understandings recently arrived at between the Morgan interests in the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton and the Kuhn, Loeb-Harriman Blair interests in the Wheeling & Lake Erie and the Wabash Pittsburg terminal properties are expected to lead to the reorganization of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton in connection with the readjustment of the entrance of Gould lines into Pittsburg. Both the Erie and the Wabash railroads, it is understood, will figure in the general scheme.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism. Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt, I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I repeatedly tested many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, I uniformly cure all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those painful crystals, wasted, found in Rheumatic Blood, begin to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, not dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer with Rheumatism. We ask, and in confidence recommend you help. We ask, and in confidence recommend

POPE PIUS CELEBRATES

Fiftieth Anniversary of Ordination Today.

THRONG IN ST. PETERS.

Great Edifice Crowded With Churchmen and Laymen As His Holiness Sings Pontificial High Mass—People Kneel to Receive His Blessing As Pope Is Carried Forward on Shoulders of the Noble Guard—Career of Head of Roman Catholic Church.

Rome, Nov. 16.—With all the hereditary pomp and ceremonial of the Roman Catholic church his holiness Pope Pius X. celebrated today the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood.

Devout believers thronged St. Peter's to hear the singing of the pontificial high mass of his holiness. All classes of Roman society were represented, from the high officials of the Vatican and those of the Quirinal who remain steadfast in the old faith to the street beggar and small farmer of the outlying country. The singing of mass in St. Peter's by a pope has been a ceremony of rare occurrence in recent years, for the pontiff's daily administrations take place in his private chapel in the Vatican. All the high dignitaries of the church were congregated in St. Peter's, with many visiting churchmen and Roman Catholic laymen.

Great ceremonies attended the pope's entrance into the church. Seated in the sedia gestatoria, he was borne in on the shoulders of officers of the noble guard above the heads of the people, so that the congregation might behold the face of their spiritual leader. As the figure of the pontiff approached, giving the sign of benediction to the congregation, the people knelt to receive his blessing. The scene in the vast interior of the church was most impressive. In the procession that followed the pope were the college of cardinals, the archbishops, bishops, prelates of the pope's household, heads of religious communities, the Knights of Malta, the Knights of St. Gregory and members of other ancient and historic orders.

Pius X., Giuseppi Sarto, his holiness the pope, bishop of Rome and vicar of Jesus Christ, successor of St. Peter, prince of the apostles, supreme pontiff of the universal church, patriarch of the west, primate of Italy, archbishop and metropolitan of the Roman province and sovereign of the temporal dominions of the holy Roman church since Aug. 4, 1903, was born in Riese, Italy, June 2, 1635. He was educated at the diocesan seminary of Padua and ordained in 1858. He served as parish priest until 1876, when he became episcopal chancellor of the diocese of Treviso. From 1884 until 1893 he was bishop of Mantua, being elevated in the latter year to the sacred college with the title of patriarch of Venice. Five days after the death of Pope Leo XIII. he was elected pope.

Great Britain has the longest coast line of any country in Europe. Italy, Russia and France come next in the order given.

LIFE CONVICT KILLS SELF.

Timothy Linehan Dies in Prison at Jackson.

TRIED SUICIDE BY HANGING.

Rope Made of Sheet Broke—Blood Vessel In His Head Was Ruptured In Fall to Floor—Officials Were About to Send Him to Institution For Criminal Insane—Was Serving Life Sentence For Killing Wife

Jackson, Mich., Nov. 16.—Convict Timothy Linehan has committed suicide in prison by attempted hanging. He was serving life sentence for the murder of his wife in Detroit last July, being sentenced Oct. 8.

Linehan tore the sheet from his bed into strips and, tying the ends, formed a rope which he fastened about his neck. Making the other end fast to a bar above his cell he threw himself in a hanging position. His weight after a short time caused his improvised rope to break, and he fell to the stone floor.

A guard, attracted by a noise in Linehan's cell, discovered him and summoned the prison physician. Linehan was taken to the hospital, but it was found that he could not live, a blood vessel in his head having been ruptured.

Linehan was to have been removed to the state institution for the criminal insane at Ionia today. Dr. Pray examined him last week and pronounced him insane.

The man was fifty-nine years old and had been in ill health since his conviction in Detroit.

An inquest into the death of Linehan was held at the prison Sunday, at which time it was determined that he came to his death as the result of a suicidal attempt. The jury, before retiring, recommended that a padded cell, heretofore unprovided for, be installed in the prison.

Detoit, Mich., Nov. 16.—Linehan was taken to Jackson prison, after being convicted of slaying his wife, protest- his innocence. He declared another man, in whose company she had been on the afternoon of the crime, Wednesday, July, 29, followed them to their room, in the home of Mrs. William Leake, 54 Park place, and there fired the shots that killed Mrs. Linehan and wounded him.

The tragedy was discovered by Mrs. Leake, who peered through a window into the room and saw the woman lying on the floor and the man on the bed. She notified the police. The woman was dead, a gaping hole in her head showing where the bullet had ploughed its way through, and Linehan was in a sitting position, also shot through the head. He was rushed to St. Mary's hospital, where he denied all connection with the crime. He recovered in a short time and was later convicted.

Heney's Assailant Kills Self.

San Francisco, Nov. 16.—Morris Haas, the ex-convict, who shot and seriously wounded Francis J. Heney, prosecuting attorney, in open court, has committed suicide by shooting himself in the head in jail. Haas had concealed a small derringer in his shoe, and, after retiring, he pulled a blanket over his head, and soon after the guards were startled by a pistol shot. The would-be murderer and suicide was found lying, gasping for breath, with a small bullet hole in his head. His death must have been almost instantaneous.

Eight Dead, Many Hurt, In Fight.

Okmulgee, Okla., Nov. 16.—Eight men, including the sheriff of Okmulgee county, are dead and ten others injured as the result of a fight between white and negro citizens. The trouble was precipitated by the attempt of the sheriff to arrest two negroes. The negroes resisted arrest, and in the melee that followed the sheriff was killed. The white citizens then attempted to take the negroes, and a fight ensued. More than 200 shots were exchanged.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

His wife an invalid, Philip Rohm, a respected resident of Springfield township, Oakland county, became despondent and swallowed the contents of a bottle of laudanum and a bottle of carbolic acid. His son found him dead in bed.

Dr. Joseph B. Chapman of Davisburg has been sued for $11,000 damages by William A. McKinney of Detroit, administrator of the estate of his wife, Mrs. Jennie McKinney, who died Nov. 18, 1907, while undergoing an operation for the removal of her tonsils. Many charges are made against the doctor in the declaration.

FORAKER MAKES PUBLIC LETTERS.

Further Vindicates Relations With Standard Oil Company.

EMPLOYER SPEAKS WELL OF HIM

In Behalf of Constituents Gives Out Letter He Received From Virgil P. Kline of Cleveland—Latter Denies Having Required of Senator Anything Inconsistent With His Public Duties—Declares He Has Tried to Serve His State and Country Faithfully.

Cincinnati, O., Nov. 16.—Senator J. B. Foraker has given out for publication a statement which includes correspondence between himself and Virgil P. Kline of Cleveland, O. Senator Foraker says:

"Now that the election is over and the people have read and studied the returns, I deem it an opportune time and my duty to my constituents, as well as to myself, to publish the following correspondence:"

He here makes public a letter to Mr. Kline, in which he asked the latter, "in view of the charges of Mr. Hearst and the discussion now going on in the newspapers as to the character of my employment by the Standard Oil company," to make public the services rendered.

To Him For Assistance.

Mr. Kline, replying to Senator Foraker under date of Cleveland, O., Oct. 6, begins his letter by telling of the several cases which had been brought against the Standard Oil company. Then he continues thus:

"It was in the midst of these difficult cases, with the very serious consequences incident to an adverse decision, that, with the approval of my client, I turned to you for assistance and advice.

"It was upon a realization of these serious and disastrous consequences, well knowing your ability as an attorney and the respect which lawyers and courts had for you throughout the state, that I sought your services. You entered at once actively upon the employment.

"Your employment extended over a period of more than two years, during which time I was repeatedly in consultation with you, and there was no phase of the litigation of which you were not fully abreast all the time, and your counsel was fully appreciated by my associate counsel and by my client, and there never was a particle of effort upon your part to conceal your relation to the interests we represented.

"Your efforts greatly contributed to the success of the litigation and the prosecution of the property by its owners. At the time of your employment and when it ceased, as it did, according to my recollection, somewhere about the first of January, 1901, there was no intimation from any source whatever of criticism or attack on the part of the federal government. That did not come for more than four years afterwards; and, so far as I know, and I have been intimately in touch with the litigation and troubles of the company for twenty years, and am still, nothing has ever been asked of or accepted by you inconsistent with your public duties, and, so far as I know, you have had no relation whatever to the company as an attorney or otherwise for more than seven years.

"You may make any use of this letter you see fit."

Senator Foraker also includes a letter from M. F. Elliott of New York, attorney for the Standard Oil company, saying that he has read Mr. Kline's letter to Mr. Forake, and that the statements contained therein are true.

Who Shall Succeed Him?

In conclusion, Senator Foraker says: "With the publication of these letters, which, added to my former statements, should, in my opinion, satisfy any fair-minded man, I submit to the legislature, as every other candidate must do, the question as to who shall be my successor in the senate.

"I do not mean by this statement that I do not intend to give any further attention to the impending contest, but rather that I do not intend to engage in any unseemly scramble.

"Whatever may be the result, I shall always be profoundly grateful for the many distinguished honors I have enjoyed at the hands of the people of Ohio and shall always have the satisfaction of knowing, whether anybody else does or not, that I have under all circumstances striven to serve my state and my country faithfully and efficiently and, whether right or wrong, never more so than in regard to those questions in connection with which I have been criticized."

Had we not faults of our own we should take less pleasure in complaining of others.—Fenelon.

CONFIRMS ELECTION.

Governor Magoon Says Cubans Have Elected Liberal Candidates.

Washington, Nov. 16.—As indicated by previous dispatches from Havana, the Liberal party was triumphant in the election of president and vice president, according to a cablegram from Governor Magoon received by President Roosevelt.

Major General Gomez and Senator Alfredo Zayas, according to the dispatch, for president and vice president respectively, have a substantial majority in the electoral college. The governor adds that although the returns are not complete the liberal vote on presidential electors is of such a size as to indicate with certainty that the Liberals also have elected senatorial electors in all provinces. He says that the house of representatives wil contain a minority of Conservatives.

The election, according to Governor Magoon, was conducted with absolute tranquillity, and the governor expresses the belief that the election will be acquiesced in by the Cuban people.

Revolutionary Corner.

A Memorial Day Story.

By FRANK H. SWEET.

Copyright, 1907, by Frank H. Sweet.

"MISS CLARISSA," said Luella after a long pause, "shouldn't you think it must be nice to have a lot of dead folks all your own?"

Miss Clarissa dropped the black stocking she was knitting, pushed her spectacles up on her smooth iron gray hair and stared at her newly adopted daughter. The girl sat in the little carpet covered rocking chair, the lamplight shining on her abundant red hair, her freckled face, her small, nearsighted eyes. Not even her own mother could have called her a pretty child, but Miss Clarissa viewed her with perfect satisfaction.

Only six months ago Miss Clarissa had gone to the orphan asylum in the city and astonished the matron by asking for the homeliest girl they had for adoption.

"There's always plenty of folks to take the good looking ones," she said, with a contemptuous sniff.

There was something in the appearance of this determined looking woman, with her gray skirt above her heavy top boots, her plain coat and hat, her complete freedom from ornamentation of any kind, that impressed the matron.

"My name is Clarissa Slade of Royton," continued the visitor, "and I can refer you to the selectmen of the town."

"Our homeliest girl! Well, I think we ought to call up '42,'" said the matron to the amused first assistant. So "42," a shrinking, red haired child, not beautiful surely, was brought into the visitors' parlor.

"You can leave us alone," said Miss Clarissa, and the matron obediently withdrew.

"Now, my dear," said Miss Clarissa to the frightened child, with a sudden softening of manner, "get up in my lap."

The child allowed herself to be taken up.

"There, now," said Miss Clarissa. "Why, I guess you ain't much used to laps. Well, we'll change all that. Now, what's your name?"

"Forty-two," lisped the little girl.

"Pshaw! You must have some other name than '42.' What is it?"

"My name's Chrissy Boylston, only it's Christmas, not just Chrissy."

"Why do they call you Christmas?"

The child remained silent.

"Oh, I guess I know!" said Miss Clarissa. "They found you on Christmas day on Boylston street. Have you any relations or friends?"

"No, ma'am."

"No relations or friends? Well, we'll change all that too."

Miss Clarissa slowly and gently drew from the child all the story she had to tell. There was pitiably little of it. She had been only a few weeks old when the policeman found her. Her mother had abandoned her on Christmas day. They had brought her here. She had always had good food, clothes and teaching. No; she had never been held in any one's lap before. She had never been kissed, and she was ten years old.

So "42" was legally adopted by Miss Clarissa Slade and renamed Luella Alice Slade, after twin sisters of Miss Clarissa who had died in infancy.

Miss Clarissa kept a little notion shop in Royton, where she lectured the girls who came to buy corsets and refused to sell cap pistols to the little boys.

In spite of these prejudices her trade was good. The farmers' wives for miles around knew that Clarissa Slade's calicoes never "ran" and that her "all wool" meant all wool. Clarissa was one of the largest taxpayers in the town and was one of the quaint figures on the train when on stockholders' day all the holders of stock in the railroad company ride free to Boston.

Miss Clarissa was a patriot, and during the civil war, when of course she could not be a soldier, she had insisted upon sending a substitute. She had been favored by the authorities, who were much impressed, with an official document certifying that Clarissa Slade had furnished a substitute. The certificate in a frame was the crowning glory of her shop.

The fact that the substitute was shot in the back while running away from the fight did not, in Miss Slade's judgment, affect her responsibility toward the man's family, and she had watched over them—they were a shiftless lot—and borne with them until one happy day they all emigrated and were forever after unable to return.

The adoption of Luella Alice had been a matter of much interest in the town. It was just like Clarissa, they said, to take a child that no one else would have, but all the townspeople were kind to the plain, shy, unchildish stranger.

Day by day Miss Clarissa and Luella grew nearer to each other, the one so glad to give love, the other starving to receive it. Little by little the child opened her heart, sure of sympathy, and Miss Clarissa was learning what a strange and unnatural product an orphan asylum child is.

Luella's mind was so full of queer fancies that Miss Clarissa was not surprised that stormy night when our story opens that the child's thought should turn as it did and to bear her ask if it wouldn't be "nice to have a lot of dead folks all your own."

"Dead folks, Luella?" she asked.

"Yes," answered the child simply; "grandfathers and grandmothers and aunts and uncles, all your own, with a high fence around to keep folks out. Ah, it must be so nice!" Luella's face grew bright at the thought.

"Yes, dear," Miss Clarissa said softly. "I know what you mean. To have one's dead together is a comfort."

"But, Miss Clarissa, do you think it would be wicked to adopt grandfathers if they'd been dead so long they had no one left? There are two soldiers of the Revolution in the old part of the graveyard, and they have no one to love them and take care of them, and they'd make such nice grandfathers for me if you think they wouldn't object. Do you? I want some dead relatives so." The nearsighted eyes were dim with tears.

"Who are they?" asked Miss Clarissa.

"One is Captain Jonathan Martin, and the other is Lieutenant Thomas Edmunds, and they died before 1800."

"No," said Miss Clarissa in answer to the child's inquiry, "The Martin family are all gone, and the last Edmunds moved west years ago. There is no one living who would care, and as for the dead, I don't think they'll object, but what good will they do you?"

"Ah," said Luella, with fervor, "they will be such a comfort to me nights. I can make stories up about them after I go to bed, and I can take care of their graves and put wreaths on them on their birthdays, and perhaps you will have the headstones straightened, and I will clean and scrape them, and then on Memorial day they will put flags and flowers there, and I shall feel so proud and so—so respectable."

So with Miss Clarissa's consent and aid Luella Alice adopted her grandfathers.

All through April the child worked every pleasant day after school hours, patiently digging up witch grass and weeds from the neglected mounds and the graveled walk that ran beside them. Miss Clarissa had the sagging headstones straightened, but it was Luella who laboriously scraped and cleaned them till the old inscriptions were plainly legible.

There, too, the first wild flowers were carefully transplanted, and on Sunday afternoons Miss Clarissa and Luella often walked there, and the child showed with delight the improvements made during the week.

"I gave Grandfather Martin all of the cowslips, for he was so fond of them, you know. Grandma says he always kept a bowl of them on the sitting room table while they were in blossom." The child lifted her eyebrows significantly and whispered, "Make believe."

"But Grandpa Edmunds liked violets best, so I've given them all to him."

The child ran on, full of mythical tales of these pseudo grandfathers who had died more than a hundred years before.

Royton, like many old towns in New England, was rich in Revolutionary lore, and in her graveyard were buried several of those who by dying had helped to make the nation, but there was so much holy zeal felt for the ones who had died to save the nation that the Revolutionary soldiers were neglected, and Royton almost forgot that the blood shed in '76 was the seed that brought that eternal crop of glory in '61.

There they lay, in an obscure part of the old cemetery, out of the line of march on Memorial day, out of the line of men's thoughts. The sound of the fife and drum stole over the hill once a year and the odor of blossoms strewn on patriots' graves, but they were not for them.

Luella worked so faithfully that when Memorial day dawned her grandfathers' graves were in perfect order.

Soon the entire population had trustfully put their keys under their front doormats and were quietly wending their way to the cemetery, while the Grand Army post fell into line—at least those who were able to walk—for poor Silas Mason lay on his invalid's chair in the grocery wagon, and the old squire drove Tom Carter, with his crutches, in his own buggy.

It was a very different spirit from that which animates a Memorial day crowd in a great city. There was much less pomp, less noise and oratory, but there was a seriousness, a depth of feeling, a homelikeness, about the affair which made the spectator feel that here the ceremonies were no perfunctory matter. Their dead were their own, not the indiscriminate dead of the cities.

A sense of security and contentment filled Luella's heart as, with her hand in Miss Clarissa's, she walked to the soldiers' monument. She belonged to some one. She had a name, a home, a mother, even two dead grandfathers, and her cup of bliss was full.

The little procession, with muffled drum beat and tolling bell, came slowly to the soldiers' monument, where the townspeople had gathered.

The church choir sang, the minister made a prayer, and then came the roll call.

Before Miss Clarissa realized it Luella had slipped her hand away and run up to Captain Townsend, the officer in charge, with a bit of paper in her hand.

"If you please, sir," she said as she handed it to him, "won't you call the roll for the Revolutionary soldiers over in the old part too? Both my grandfathers are there—that is, not my really truly grandfathers, only ones that I've adopted because they hadn't any little girl and I hadn't any grandfathers, and I've copied their names on this paper, if you'll only call them out. I'm sure they must be very lonesome way over there in that corner."

The clear little voice rang out in the silence. Filled with an absorbing emotion, the shy little child became bold.

THEY MARCHED AT THE HEAD OF THE LINE.

There was such an intensity of appeal in her tone that the captain's eyes grew misty.

"Comrades," said he, "after this we will call the roll of the Revolutionary dead first."

The crowd, all of whom knew the child and her sad history, cheered.

"How glad they'll be!" she said, slipping back to her place with Miss Clarissa, whose stern face was very tender as she looked at the unconscious child.

One by one the names of those valiant dead were called, and the voice of the drum was the only answer. There were not many of them, but enough to make every heart fill with pride that the little town of Royton had borne her part so bravely in that mighty struggle.

Then followed the much longer list of the civil war soldiers, and there was not a veteran there who did not feel glad that the place of honor had been given to the earlier dead. In the great heart of America there is love enough to go around.

The minister then gave an address, and his text was "A little child shall lead them." Luella felt the blood rush to her face when, after the address, Captain Townsend holding her hand, they marched at the head of the line to the grass grown corner where her "grandfathers'" graves testified how much one tender little heart and two little willing hands could do.

On these and on the adjoining graves the choicest blossoms were laid and the largest flags planted.

Now when a stranger visits Royton almost the first place he is taken to is "Revolutionary corner," which the high school girls and boys keep in perfect order, and he hears the story how Luella adopted her grandfathers and how the Revolutionary heroes came to their own.

A WAR TRAGEDY.

Pathetic Incident at the Siege of Port Hudson.

At the siege at Port Hudson, La., there was one gun commanded by Alphonso Dubreuil. He was a young sugar planter who had opposed secession, but maintained that if Louisiana seceded he would go with his state. Dr. Chatrand, his neighbor, was a violent secessionist, and Dubreuil and the doctor's daughter Amelia were lovers. Louisiana seceded. Alphonso raised a company and proved so brave a Confederate that the doctor, who had opposed his daughter's marriage, readily consented, and the pair were married.

His bride was accorded special permission to go into the bomb proofs of the fort, where in comparative safety she could be near her husband. There she saw him operating his enormous gun, but her heart was torn with fear for his safety. Suddenly she became excited by the noise of firing and, rushing out from her place of safety, was struck by a piece of shell and fell back lifeless. Dubreuil ran to her side, saw death in her face and went back bravely to his gun.

The next morning was beautiful, and the sun shone gloriously. There was cessation of hostilities that the dead might be buried. Thus engaged, a request came from the enemy to allow the body of a young lady to pass through our lines. It was granted. The little cortege came, preceded by a military band playing a mournful dirge, and halted at the outpost. The old musket box used as a bier was accompanied by two ladies and several officers. One of the latter, a handsome young fellow with long hair, walked calmly and slowly, but his face betrayed the greatest grief. A detail of Confederate privates acted as pallbearers. Our men uncovered their heads.

All were blindfolded and led through our lines to the steamboat. They bade a last adieu to the dead bride and returned blindfolded.

It was the saddest sight I ever saw.—G. N. Saussy in Spare Moments.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

ASLEEP UNDER WATER.

One of the Funny Incidents Possible in a Diver's Life.

As showing how much at home a man may be today under water I may relate an amusing story. Some months ago while a great battleship was at Malta one of the seamen divers went down to clear her propeller from some flotsam that had become entangled, and he failed to come up. It chanced that the rest of the battleship's divers were ashore, and grave concern was felt on the ironclad for the missing worker. Signals by telephone and life line were sent below without avail. In the launch above the throb-throb of the air pump's cylinders went on, but the attendants looked at one another in dismay, fearing some strange tragedy deep down in those heaving green seas.

The worst was feared when some big brushes and other tools came floating to the surface, and thereupon the navigating lieutenant sent ashore an urgent message for one of the other divers. The man came on board, dressed immediately and went below, only to come up full of indignation.

"Why, that fellow's been asleep all this time!" he said wrathfully. It was true. The man had just had his lunch, and, finding the work much less serious than he had thought, he finished it in a few minutes and then sat comfortably on one of the giant blades of the battleship propeller and went to sleep with inquisitive fishes swarming around him, attracted by the dazzling searchlight on his breast. The officers were so amused at the occurrence that no punishment was inflicted on the lazy one.—St. Nicholas.

The Kind of Boy He Was.

That Marshall Field of Chicago knew how to wrest victory from defeat and make stepping stones of stumbling blocks is shown by the following story told of him by a friend:

When a boy young Field went to a great merchant and asked, "Do you want a boy?" "Nobody wants a boy," replied the merchant. "Do you need a boy?" the boy persisted, not at all abashed. "Nobody needs a boy," was the reply. But he would not give up. "Well, say, mister, do you have to have a boy?" "I think likely we do," replied the merchant, "and I rather think we will have to have a boy just like you."

Outreasoning Reason.

Little Raymond's mother had told him that she should put him to bed if he disobeyed her command in a certain matter. Temptation overcame him, and when his mother proceeded to fulfill her duty sobs of anguish filled the room.

"But, Raymond," said the mother gently, "I told you I should punish you in this way if you disobeyed, and mother must keep her word, you know."

Between muffled sobs Raymond managed to say, "You needn't break your word, mamma, but couldn't you change your mind?"—Woman's Home Companion.

AN AMERICAN HERO.

He Used His Own Body to Stop a Leak in a Ferryboat.

One morning in January, when the ice in the Hudson river ran unusually heavy, a Hoboken ferryboat slowly crunched her way through the floating floes until the thickness of the pack choked her paddles in midriver. It was an early morning trip, and the decks were crowded with laboring men and the driveways choked with teams. The women and children standing inside the cabins were a solid mass up to the swinging doors. While she was gathering strength for a further effort an ocean tug sheered to avoid her, veered a point and crashed into her side, cutting her below the water line in a great V shaped gash. A moment more and the disabled boat careened from the shock and fell over on her beam, helpless. Into the V shaped gash the water poured a torrent. It seemed but a question of minutes before she would lunge headlong below the ice.

Within 200 yards of both boats and free of the heavy ice steamed the wrecking tug Reliance of the Offshore Wrecking company, and on her deck forward stood Captain Scott. When the ocean tug reversed her engines after the collision and backed clear of the shattered wheelhouse of the ferryboat he sprang forward, stooped down, ran his eye along the water line, noted in a flash every shattered plank, climbed into the pilothouse of his own boat and before the astonished pilot could catch his breath pushed the nose of the Reliance along the rail of the ferryboat and dropped upon the latter's deck like a cat.

With a threat to throw overboard any man who stirred he dropped into the engine room, met the engineer halfway up the ladder, compelled him to return, dragged the mattresses from the crew's bunks, stripped off blankets and snatched up clothes, overalls, cotton waste and rags of carpet, cramming them into the great rent left by the tug's cutwater.

It was useless. Little by little the water gained, bursting out first below, then on one side, only to be calked out again and only to rush in once more.

Captain Scott stood a moment as if undecided, ran his eye searchingly over the engine room, saw that for his needs it was empty, then deliberately tore down the top wall calking he had so carefully built up and before the engineer could protest forced his own body into the gap, with his arm outside level with the drifting ice.

An hour later the disabled ferryboat, with every soul on board, was towed into the Hoboken slip.

When they lifted the captain from the wreck he was unconscious and barely alive. The water had frozen his blood, and the floating ice had torn the flesh from his protruding arm from shoulder to wrist. When the color began to creep back to his cheeks he opened his eyes and said to the doctor who was winding the bandages:

"Wuz any of them babies hurt?"

A month passed before he regained his strength and another week before the arm had healed so that he could get his coat on. Then he went back to the Reliance.—Everybody's Magazine.

A Lesson in Patience.

When the eminent botanist, Professor Altman of Glasgow, was a small boy, he had the present of a silver bit, whereupon his mother was so worried with questions as to what he should do with it that she exclaimed, "Really, you had better go to Thomas Elliot's (a well known pharmacist) and buy sixpence worth of patience."

Down the street marched the lad and demanded of the chemist, "Mr. Elliot, please give me sixpence worth of patience."

Mr. Elliot, taking in the situation at a glance, said: "Certainly, my boy; there's a chair. Just sit down and wait till you get it."

Professor Altman's endeavor to purchase patience was a great success. It made a deep impression on the lad and was one of the factors of his success in life.

MEN'S CLASS

Methodist Business Men's Class Gave Annual Banquet.

FRIDAY EVENING AT 7 O'CLOCK IN THE PARLORS OF THE CHURCH.

Rev. D. Stanley Shaw Was Toastmaster.

The Business Men's Class of the Methodist church held their annual banquet in the parlors of the church Friday evening, about one hundred fifty members and guests being present. The guests were greeted in the auditorium of the church and enjoyed a social half hour before the banquet was announced. At seven o'clock, with music by the Sunday school orchestra, the company marched to the banquet room. The invocation was given by Rev. F. W. Kamm of the Baptist church.

The ladies of the Epworth league served the supper, with Mrs. Earl Updyke as chairman. They received numerous compliments for the quiet and proficient way they served the repast The menu included, roast pork, mashed potatoes, white and brown bread, celery, pickles, salad, fruit jelly, doughnuts, coffee, ice cream and wafers.

Rev. D. Stanley Shaw made a very able toastmaster and the program for the evening was unusually good.

After a fine selection by the male chorus, J. W. Wightman spoke of "Our Class." He spoke particularly of the growth of the class since its organization three years ago, through the efforts of Rev. Ward. Here men meet each Sunday and discuss practical questions from a bible standpoint. The members are from various denominations, Baptists, Friends, Presbyterians, Episcopalians and Methodists. Everyone is allowed to state his own view of things, and scarcely a week passes but that each member takes an active part in all discussions. Visitors from away had written back to tell them of the good the class had done for them, and with the closing of the third year they felt that their efforts in the work had been successful.

Excellent music was furnished by the Sunday school orchestra, after which Frank R. Hurst was introduced to speak of men in the church. He thought all men to do good work in the church must be Christians, and that the men's classes in the various churches were very helpful in bringing more men into the church He urged that all would endeavor to so live that those tendencies to do good that come to them may pass down to those that come after Miss Metta McKinney with Mrs. Ella Hodges as accompanist, rendered an excellent solo, which was thoroughly appreciated.

George S. Tiffany spoke upon men as citizens. Mr. Tiffany thought it best to confine his talk to Tecumseh He did'nt think it was Baseball team that made Tecumseh the "biggest little town on earth," but the high minded men or good citizens living in the town."

Men as mirth makers was the subject assigned to Rev. John Wirt Dunning. Mr Dunning said as near as he could find out man had been a humorist from the beginning of the world, as Adam ate the apple to humor Eve He illustrated, with various stories, the wit of man in the seven stages of life.

F. J. Temple toasted "Our Ladies." Having been asked by the toastmaster, "To be to their virtues ever kind; to their faults a little blind, Mr. Temple paid the fair sex many a pretty compliment, which he had arranged in rhyme

The Gospel according to Paul Laurence Dunbar was given by Rev. J. D. Hailliday of the Clinton Methodist church. Mr. Hailliday said that he had always had a warm corner in his heart for the negro. He read several selections, from Mr. Dunbar's books, among them being, "Religion," "When Melindy Sings" The Turnin of the children in the Bed," and a number of others.

The benediction by Rev. Dunning closed the evening of pleasure, and one of the most successful social evenings in the history of the class.

JOSEPH BRUSH.

Josepeh Brush died at his home on west Pottowatamie street, Monday morning at 1:30 after an illness of only a few days caused by neuralgia of the heart. Mr. Brush had but recently moved here, purchasing the house formerly owned by John Orr. They own a cottage at Sand lake where they spent a portion of their summers, their home was formerly at Richmond. Ind. The funeral was held from the home to-day at 2 o'clock, the members of the I. O. O F attending. Rev. D. Stanley Shaw of the Methodist church conducted the services. Interment at Brookside. Their many friends extend sympathy to the wife and daughter in their sorrow.

The Century, in the November issue, begins a group of articles appropriate to the Lincoln centenary year with Frederick Trevor Hill's "The Lincoln-Douglas Debates Fifty Years After," a new account of this famous forensic "seven days' battle."

First of another unusual series of papers is "A Conversation on Music with Paderewski." It is the record, set down by Daniel Gregory Mason, of a free and intimate chat at the great musician's table, touching, among other interesting matters, upon modern French composers and their music.

DANIEL KETCHUM

After Fifty Years of Service Conductor Ketchum Retires From Lake Shore Road.

EIGHTIETH BIRTHDAY JUST PASSED.

Sole Survivor of the Force That Stuck by Campbell During the Strike in the Sixties.

After fifty years of service for the Lake Shore, Conductor Daniel Ketchum retired, with Saturdays run, under the limited age rule of the New York Central lines, on a pension, Oct. 12. Mr Ketchum celebrated his 80th birthday. He began his career with the Schenectady and Saratoga Railway Co., switching cars, and worked in various positions for other companies in the east. In 1855 he engaged with the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern company as engineer and removed his family to Adrian. For a number of years he had the Jackson run between Adrian and Jackson and later the Adrian and Monroe run.

He is the sole survivor of the old war force which stuck by Supt. Campbell during the strike of engineers in the early sixties.

Those who stayed at their posts during the strike were all rewarded with passenger runs.

Mr. Ketchum will spend the remainder of his days in Adrian, where he has a comfortable home.

Mrs. Fisher was 65 years of age. The funeral was held from the home Monday morning, Rev. Kamm officiating Burial occurred at Reynold's corners, five miles west of Clinton.

"Sealshipt" Sense."

This is the title of a very interesting little book about "Sealshipt" Oysters. It gives much valuable information about cooking serving the "delicious bivalve," and contains new recipes for preparing.

What will appeal to every oyster lover is the detailed description of how "Sealshipt" Oysters differ from other kinds—how they are shucked into galvanized steel containers and packed airtight with ice around the containers, but not in contact with the oysters. The "Sealshipt" shipping carrier system is what accounts for the cleanliness and delicacy of flavor of "Sealshipt" Oysters.

The price of "Sealshipt" Oysters is higher than that of tub oysters; but they go so much farther that they actually cost you less—besides having the full, delicious, sea flavor which tub oysters cannot have.

We have "Sealshipt Sense" books and will gladly give you one. We sell "Sealshipt" Oysters exclusively—out of the handsome White Porcelain Case bearing the Blue "Sealshipt" Trade Mark.

CROUP QUICKLY CURED

Don't Let the Child Choke to Death While Waiting for the Doctor

Croup should have prompt treatment. The life of many a dear one has been sacrificed because the right remedy was not at hand.

Pay close attention to the child who is feverish, thirsty, and occasionally coughs dryly and shrilly. This is the first stage of croup, and instant treatment should be given.

Hyomei, the miraculous, antiseptic dry air treatment, will cure croup in either the first or second stages. Easily inhaled, even when the breathing is irregular, it reaches more promptly than any other remedy the terribly inflamed membrane of the windpipe. Its soothing balsams act immediately, the inflammation is allayed, and the swelling reduced.

"Not long ago our little boy, Walter, awoke in the night with a bad attack of croup, so that he experienced great difficulty in breathing. We allowed him to inhale Hyomei, and he immediately began to breathe easier, and in half an hour was fast asleep. Our children, being subject to croup, we feel safe with Hyomei in the house, and I am glad to speak a good word for a remedy that will rob croup of its terrors."—Rev. Geo. Sisson, Pastor of M. E. Church, South Londonderry, Vt.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is the quickest acting and most sensible remedy ever discovered for all diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs. It is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and croup, or money back. A complete outfit, including a neat hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs only $1.00. An extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all dealers.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Tecumseh People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills, For Tecumseh kidney sufferers. Have made their local reputation.

Oreon Austin, retired, living on Logan st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as when I gave a testimonial in their favor some years ago. Prior to that time, I had been troubled with a very bad case of kidney disease, the distressing pains in my back and shoulders at times being almost unbearable. Rheumatism also settled in my hips and limbs and greatly increased my misery. I could not get my proper rest during night on account of the too frequent action of the kidneys, and the passages were attended by a burning sensation. I knew Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, began using them and noticed their good effects in a short time. Thus encouraged I continued taking them until a complete cure was effected. My advice to all sufferers of kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

SOMEONE BLUNDERED.

It Resulted in Loss of Eleven Lives in Wreck in Louisiana.

New Orleans, Nov. 12.—It is a heavy price in human life that has paid for the errors of railroad traffic here. A Great Northern express crashed into the rear of a New Orleans & Northeastern local train at Little Woods station, a fishing and hunting camp on Lake Pontchartrain, twelve miles from New Orleans.

Eleven dead and many more injured, some of them fatally, is the record of the wreck, which was attended by unusually gruesome scenes in the foggy swamps of the lake shore. To add to the horror of the situation, the wreck caught fire, and only the heroic work of the surviving passengers prevented the cremation of those pinned in the debris.

No one on the Great Northern express was seriously hurt, but those aboard the Northeastern local were thrown right and left or crushed by the express locomotive as it tore through the two rear coaches of the local.

That some one blundered is admitted by railroad officials, but the delinquent has not been determined.

SIMPLIFIED SPELLING.

France Is to Introduce It Into Her Schools.

Paris, Nov. 12.—Simplified phonetic spelling, upon lines advocated by President Roosevelt, is to be introduced in the public schools by M. Doumergue, the minister of public instruction. This reform, which is to strictly limited to various groups of double consonants, received the approval of the French academy, the arbiter in all matters pertaining to the orthography and construction of the French language, as long ago as 1893, but has not heretofore received government sanction.

It provides for the suppression of the "H" in the Greek group of words like "rhetorique," "rhinoceros," etc.; the substitution of "I" for "Y" in "analyse," "style," etc.; the substitution of "C" for the sibilant "T" in words like "confidential," etc., and the extension of the "S" as sign of the plural in words ending in "ou," "eau" and "au."

APPOINT RECEIVER.

Cleveland Railway Properties Are to Be Turned Over.

Cleveland, O., Nov. 12.—Two receivers for the Municipal Traction company and the Cleveland Railway company will be appointed by Federal Judge Tayler, who has announced his decision without hearing the arguments of attorneys for the Central Trust company of New York, applicant for a receiver. The receivers are merely to preserve the property.

The decision was the culmination of a suit by the Cental Trust company of New York, trustee for holders of $8,000,000 of bonds, $2,000,000 of which become due next July. These proceedings followed a referendum election, resulting negatively when the people voted on the question whether to approve or disapprove the twenty-five year franchise under which the municipal or three-cent fare company was to operate.

Former State Senator Kills Self.

Syracuse, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Edward E. Bostwick, sixty-eight years old, and a former state senator of Michigan, committed suicide here by strangling himself with a silk scarf at the home of his sister, Mrs. Benjamin Clark, in this city. Insanity brought on by worry over the illness of his wife caused the act. His home was in Union City, Mich. He served as state senator in 1867-8.

Russia Recalls Minister to Persia.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 12.—M. Hartwig, the Russian minister to Persia, stationed at Teheran, has been recalled.

Fruitful Comparison.

"That girl is a peach," enthusiastically remarked a spectator.

"Yes," said another, "and she is the apple of her father's eye."

"She and young Binks would make a fine pair," suggested a third.

"But," objected another in the group, "a fellow like Binks would find her something of a lemon in the garden of love."

The cynical bystander who had been listening butted in at this point.

"I don't know the young lady," he said dryly, "but she seems to be very fruitful in her resources."—Baltimore American.

A Person to Be Avoided.

"Palanquin is certainly a man to avoid. People have told me stories about him which are not edifying."

"Really? You do well to tell me, for I need not now give him back the money he loaned me."—Paris Figaro.

Weak Heart Action

There are certain nerves that control the action of the heart. When they become weak, the heart action is impaired. Short breath, pain around heart, choking sensation, palpitation, fluttering, feeble or rapid pulse, and other distressing symptoms follow. Dr. Miles Heart Cure is a medicine especially adapted to the needs of these nerves and the muscular structure of the heart itself. It is a strengthening tonic that brings speedy relief. Try it.

"For years I suffered with what I thought was stomach trouble, when the doctors told me I had heart trouble. I had tried many remedies, when the Dr. Miles' almanac came into my hands, and I concluded to try Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. I have taken three bottles, and now I am not suffering at all. I am cured and this medicine did it. I write this in the hope that it will attract the attention of others who suffer as I did."

How to Cure Constipation

Simple Home Remedy That Is Safe and Pleasant

Few people escape constipation. Catching cold, over eating, worry, lack of exercise, failure to answer promptly the calls of nature, diseased or weakened system or strong medicines may cause it. The too common practice of taking salts, or pills or some such violent cathartic has always done more harm than good. They make the bowels act quickly and violently simply because they irritate them, and leave them in a worse condition than before.

What is needed is a mild easy herb laxative, that gives regular daily movements in all cases, yet does not pain or gripe, and which will strengthen the bowels and tone up the system instead of depleting it.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin taken at night before going to bed will bring all easy pleasant natural movement in the morning even in the most obstinate cases and without any bad effects. No pain, no gripe and it is so safe and pleasant to take, mothers give it to their babies with splendid results. It is an aid to digestion and tones up the system as well as cures bowel trouble. Dr. L. E. Covey, Savannah, Tenn., writes: "I get better results from it than any Pepsin I ever used." Dr. T. Jones, Osgood, Mo., says: "I consider Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the best of all laxatives." Mrs. Almon Willis, Jamaica, Vt., says: "I truly believe it saved my little boy's life." Rev. A. J. Fletcher, Rutherford, Tenn., says: "I am 80 years old and your Syrup Pepsin has cured me of dyspepsia and bowel trouble."

W. D. Jackson, Burns Station, Tenn., says: "I was afflicted with constipation and dyspepsia for nine years, and found no relief until I used Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin." All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

We are glad to send a free sample to any reader of this paper who has never used it and will give it a fair trial. Write today to Pepsin Syrup Co., 301 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill.

ASSERTED HERSELF.

The Young Woman Also Had a Few Questions to Ask.

The young woman was being interviewed by her prospective employer. The man bit off his words and hurled them at her in a way to frighten an ordinary girl out of her wits.

"Chew gum?" he asked.

"No, sir."

"Talk slang?"

"No, sir."

"Know how to spell correctly?"

"Yes, sir."

"Use the telephone every other minute?"

"No, sir."

"Usually tell the office force how much the firm owes and all the rest of the private business you learn?"

"No, sir."

He was thinking of something else to ask her when she took a hand in the matter and put a few questions.

"Smoke cigars when you're dictating?"

"Why—er—no!" he gasped in astonishment.

"Slam things around when business is bad?"

"No."

"Lay for your employees when they get caught in a block some morning?"

"No, indeed."

"Think you know enough about grammar and punctuation to appreciate a good stenographer when you get one?"

"I—I think so."

"Want me to go to work, or is your time worth so little that"—

He interrupted her enthusiastically:

"Kindly hang up your things and let's get at these letters."—Judge.

Bad Eggs.

Seated in a dark, cool cellar, a lighted candle in one hand, three eggs in the other, the egg candler talked. "No egg is unsalable," said he. "You can sell an egg when there's nothing left of it but the smell. Who buys it then? The kid glove maker. He beats his kids soft in a yolk bath, and the riper that great foaming yellow bath is the more joyously the kid glove maker splashes about in it. Here's a half dozen fresh brokens, O. K. but for the shells. The confectioners 'll take 'em. This couple is what you might call fair—what your grocer would term 'fresh;' not 'new laid' nor 'best fresh'—only 'fresh.' Such eggs you could stand in a Spanish omelet, but not boiled. We'll split them and sell the yolks to low class bakers and the whites to papermakers for sizing."

DOWAGER EMPRESS DIES.

China's Woman Ruler Succumbs Few Hours After Emperor.

Peking, Nov. 15.—Tzze Hsi An, the dowager empress of China, the autocratic head of the government, which she directed without successful interference since 1861, and without protest since 1881, is dead.

The announcement of the dowager empress' death was official and followed closely upon the announcement that Kuang Hsu, the emperor, had died a few hours previous.

An edict just issued has placed upon the throne Prince Pu Yi, the three-year-old son of Prince Chun, the regent of the empire, in accordance with a promise given by the dowager empress soon after the marriage of Prince Chun in 1903.

Prince Chun, the regent, has ordered the viceroys and governors to take precautions for the continuation of the administration of the province as heretofore, and he has ordered 100 days of mourning. The court will go into mourning for three years.

The people, when they learned of the death of the dowager empress, although the Chinese are in no wise emotional, showed that they were profoundly impressed by the passing of their powerful ruler.

CATHOLICS GATHER IN CHICAGO.

Clergy and Laymen in Great Missionary Congress.

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The greatest assemblage of Catholics of the United States since the plenary council in Baltimore, more than twenty years ago, gathered here. The occasion is the Catholic missionary congress of the United States and Canada.

More than sixty archbishops, bishops and abbots of the United States, Mexico and Canada are assembled here. Their head is the Most Rev. Diomede Falconia, apostolicl delegate of the holy see at Washington. The leading spirit of the congress and the man in whose hands are all the arrangements is Archbishop Quigley, who is chairman of the board of governors of the Catholic Church Extension society. He is assisted by the Rev. Francis Clement Kelley, president of the society and permanent vice chairman of the congress.

The congress was made possible by virtue of the recent decree of Pope Pius taking the United States and Canada out of the ranks of missionary nations and placing them on the same footing as the nations hitherto recognized as distinctively Roman Catholic.

The aim of the congress is to arouse among the Roman Catholics of the United States a sense of the obligations imposed upon them by the new standing of American in the church. During the congress a message of congratulatain will be sent to Pope Pius on the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination. The papal jubilee takes place today in Rome.

KAISER DELAYED AGAIN.

One of His Closest Companions Dies in His Presence.

Berlin, Nov. 16.—Because of the tragic death of General Count Huelsen-Haesler, chief of the German military cabinet, the emperor has telegraphed Chancellor Von Buelow that the audience arranged to take place at Kiel today aboard the battleship Deutschland must be deferred. The emperor will return to Berlin on Tuesday, when the meeting between him and the imperial chancellor, which the country awaits with intense feeling, is expected to occur.

Count Huelsen-Haeseler was laughing and talking after dinner at Donauoschingen when he suddenly fell, stricken with apoplexy, in the emperor's presence, and he died almost immediately. He had held the position of imperial adjutant for nineteen years and was the emperor's constant companion.

Public irritation against the emperor, as indicated in the newspapers and in the conversation wherever one goes, seems to increase with the delay in the emperor's receiving the chancellor. The expectation appears to be that the emperor, if he recognizes the feeling of the country, will make some sort of a declaration which may tranquilize his subjects.

YOUNG MEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION.

A Little Concerning the Work in Lenawee County and Tecumseh During the Past Few Years.

TECUMSEH WAS THE FIRST TOWN WHERE A Y. M. C. A. CONVENTION WAS HELD.

Has One of the Best Associations the County.

Tecumseh Team in the International Relay.

First County Conference held in the Interest of Religious Work for Boys—Tecumseh, January, 1906.

At the close of the past year the county committee of the Lenawee county Y. M. C. A. have published a booklet giving a report of the work of the past year and a brief survey of the association's efforts the past five years. The booklet shows in story and picture the phenominal growth of the work since the inauguration of the work in the county in 1903. Several beautiful cuts illustrating the athletic work, the camps and outings, and the religious work, of the county associations, are used giving the booklet a most attractive appearance.

The first year of county work in Lenawee there were four organizations in different parts of the county with a membership of less than 100. In the past year ten associations with a total membership of 400 have been actively engaged in a work for the young men of the county.

The county Y. M. C. A conducts a fourfold work, religious, educational social and athletic. In all these branches of endeavor only the highest ideals of Christian manhood and Christian service are held up before the youth of the county.

The Lenawee county association was the first to call the boys of the county together for a conference which was held then the boys have met annually in different parts of the county for the purpose of studying methods of work among their fellows.

In 1903 the county associations conducted three summer camps in which boys from all parts of the county were given outings under the leadership of Christian men.

Bible Class of Lenawee County Boys.

A junior and senior baseball league was organized the past year in which nine teams participated. At the county athletics meet in Hudson, Sept. 12, 60 athletic of three different classes competed in the events of the day. A local paper said. "The feature of the day's doings was the friendly spirit of the contestants, and the gentlemanly manner in which all the boys conducted themselves."

Twenty-five boys from the county participated in the International Relay from New York to Chicago, four Tecumseh boys carrying the message the last four miles into Hillsdale.

In Bible study work the Tecumseh boys have been especially aggressive In the season of 1908 the boys of the Tecumseh High school, unaided directly by any man, conducted four Bible classes with a total membership of fifty. In 1907 the older boys published an outline of the "Twelve Minor Prophets" in book form for use in the local classes. At the recent State Conference for boys in Lansing, Dale Hodges presented a paper on Bible study that reflected great credit upon the efforts of the Tecumseh boys. That the work is producing its effects upon the boys who leave the town and the local association is shown in the fact that two former members are now in college fitting themselves for definite religious work. In the second meeting of the Y. M. C. A. in Alma college this year a Tecumseh boy was chosen out of the large freshman class to conduct the discussion for the benefit of first year men.

The local association is planning an aggressive work among the boys of the town the coming winter. The older boys, at present are conducting Bible study and educational work for the benefit of all who wish to join them. Some of their work so for this fall has been of a most practical. In one meeting a most helpful medical address was delivered by Dr. North, in another Dr Frost gave a practical talk on "First aid to the Injured" Last Thursday evening the local association was fortunate in having Dr. C M Butler of Morenci for an hour's lecture on "Bird Life." Dr. Butler's lecture was listened to by the members of the Y M C. A. and Y W. C. A. who gained a definite knowledge of many forms of bird life that have been more or less vaguely familiar. Dr. Butler illustrated his lecture with beautiful slides, which made the lecture the more vivid and appreciative. Dr. Butler has offered his services to the associations of the county for similar lectures during the coming winter.

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to cure a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription restores and regulates the womanly functions, abolishes pain and builds up and puts the finishing touch of health on every weak woman who gives it a fair trial.

BLOOD

We live by our blood, and on it. We thrive or starve, as our blood is rich or poor. There is nothing else to live on or by.

When strength is full and spirits high we are being refreshed—bone, muscle and brain, in body and mind—with continual flow of rich blood. This is health.

When weak, in low spirits, no cheer, no spring, when rest is not rest and sleep is not sleep, we are starved; our blood is poor; there is little nutriment in it.

Back of the blood is food, to keep the blood rich. When it fails, take

WEIGHT OF A HORSE.

Bad Guesses Made by Men Unskilled In Horseflesh.

Many people, even among those who frequently make use of horses, have little idea what an ordinary horse weighs and would have much difficulty to guess whether a given animal standing before their eyes weighed 500 or 1,500 pounds. Yet they would have no such difficulty with a man and probably be able to guess, especially if they were good Yankees, within ten or twenty pounds of his weight. The governments of Europe have long been purchasing and weighing horses for the military service and transferring them from carriage or draft employment to the various branches of cavalry and artillery. The animals are ordinarily assigned according to weight. The French military authorities find that an ordinary light carriage or riding horse, such as in the United States would be called a "good little buggy horse," weighs from 300 to 400 kilograms—say from 800 to 900 pounds. Such horses as these are assigned to the light cavalry corps. The next grade above, which in civil life passes as a "coupe horse," or carriage horse of medium weight, ranges in weight up to 480 kilograms, about 1,050 pounds. This horse goes to help mount the cavalry of the line.

Next come the fashionable "coach horses" of persons of luxury, which weigh from 500 to 580 kilograms, or from 1,000 to nearly 1,300 pounds. These horses go to serve the purpose of drill for the cavalry belonging to the reserve military forces. Above these there are still two grades of heavy horses. The first are those used for ordinary draft purposes and are commonly found drawing the omnibuses of Paris where such vehicles are still in use. These weigh from 1,100 to 1,500 pounds. The heaviest horses are the Clydesdales and Percherons, which are oxen in size and strength and which weigh from 600 to 800 and sometimes even up to 900 kilograms—that is, from 1,300 up to nearly 2,000 pounds. None of these Percherons of the heaviest weight are used in the military service, but some of the lighter ones are employed for draft and artillery purposes.—Buffalo Commercial.

A DRAMATIC CLIMAX.

Effect of One Woman's Pathetic Eyes Upon a Jury.

James T. Brady, who was one of New York's greatest lawyers, was once counsel for a young woman in a case involving an attempt to break a will.

His client sat by his side. She was a very beautiful young woman, whose eyes seemed always to rivet the attention of those upon whom her glance fell. There was a pathetic expression which affected every one. She sat watching the jury during the course of the trial, and at last there was some complaint that she was attempting by means of her glances to excite the sympathy of the jury.

Then Mr. Brady arose and in one of the most touching and beautiful of all the addresses he ever made in court spoke of the blessings which every one who had an appreciation of beautiful things and could see them enjoyed and dwelt for some moments upon the happy lot of the jury who could see the budding of the flowers—it was then springtime—and the charms of nature. Then, suddenly turning to his client, he said, "That blessing is denied my client, for, though she has eyes which seem to look upon you, gentlemen, there is no vision in them, for her sight has been taken from her."

She had been, in fact, the victim of total paralysis of the optic nerve, which had not impaired the beauty of her eyes, but had given to them that singular pathetic expression which she was thus falsely charged with employing that she might secure the sympathies of the jury.

HIS CORRECTION.

The American Knew a Little About Shakespeare and English.

An English literary man who visited this country some years ago to lecture frankly declared that he came not expecting to find accurate scholarship among Americans, especially on purely literary subjects, adding affably:

"You have been too busy and useful a nation in practical matters to give much time to the arts and graces of learning."

During the dinner at which he made this remark he criticised Shakespeare, sharply declaring that his metaphors often were absurd, "as, for example," he said, "'Sleep that knits up the raveled sleave of care.' How ridiculous to to figure sleep as knitting up a torn sleeve of a coat!"

A young American sitting near him said modestly: "I think the word is not sleeve, but sleave, the thin fluff of a damaged web. It is a technical expression among weavers."

"In the United States probably!" retorted the critic irritably. "Shakespeare never could have heard it. He meant sleeve."

"I believe," persisted the American gently, "the word is printed sleave in all the old editions. It is not an American word, but has been used for centuries by weavers in Scotland and the north of England."

The visitor frowned and then with English frankness said, laughing: "Thank you. I was mistaken. Perhaps I am mistaken about other things and will be corrected before I leave your shores."

A Helping Hand.

Among the contributors to a minister's donation party was a small but very bright boy belonging to one of the families of the congregation. After obtaining his mother's permission to spend his money for anything he pleased he went to the village store and returned home with a neat package. In it was a pair of suspenders, and attached to them was a card upon which was written in a scrawling hand:

"For the support of our pastor."

JOSEPH EMERSON SAGE.

Joseph Emerson Sage was born in Macon, Mich., June 16th, 1845 and passed away Oct. 23rd, 1908, making him 63 years, 4 months and 7 days old. He was the son of John and Hannah Sage, who were early settlers here and had spent his entire life on the farm where he was born. Being next to the youngest member of a family of seven children, of whom three brothers and one sister have preceeded him, while two sisters Mrs. Duncan Robison and Miss Mary Sage still survive him. He was united in marriage Feb. 23rd, 1888 to Miss Rachel Marshall of Galesburg, Ill and she, with a nephew Frank Sage are left in the home to mourn his loss. His death was due to Bright's disease, from which he had been a great sufferer for nearly a year bearing his affliction with patience and cheerfulness. His jovial disposition and willingness always to respond in times of sickness or need will be missed in the community.

The funeral services were held on Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the house and were conducted by Rev. G. W. Scarlett. A large circle of friends gathered to play their last respects and followed the remains to their last resting place.

CARD OF THANKS.

We desire to extend our sincere thanks to our neighbors and friends, who so kindly assisted us in the sickness, death and burial of our husband and uncle. Also to the choir who furnished the music, and for the beautiful floral offerings

A Town of Macs.

Scotsmen are remarkably successful as colonists. They are also very clannish. There are many prosperous settlements in Greater Britain where Caledonians largely predominate, but the names of these localities do not carry that fact on their face. Nobody, however, can be mistaken as to the prevailing nationality in "Macsville." This is a town in the Cobalt district of Nova Scotia. You will be perfectly safe in accosting anybody there thus: "I say, Mac."—London Chronicle.

In the Depths of the Sea.

The quantity of light emitted by many minute deep sea animals is so great as to supply over definite areas of the sea bottom a sufficient illumination to render visible the colors of the animals themselves. Some cephalopods are furnished with apparatus which reflects the light from their phosphorescent bodies upon the sea bottom over which they float. This reflecting apparatus is spoken of as "an efficient bullseye lantern for use in hunting through the abysmal darkness."

The Contrary.

"I dropped some money in the market today," announced Mr. Wyss at the dinner table.

"Again?" exclaimed Mrs. Wyss reproachfully.

"No," replied Mr. Wyss mournfully; "a loss."—Judge's Library.

Several were awakened by the explosions, and started in pursuit, but soon lost track of them. The safe was completely wrecked, and holes were torn in the ceiling and walls of the building, a chair and desk badly broken by pieces of the flying iron.

About "Sealshipt" Oysters.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are a dish "fit for a King." They have a flavor that causes the epicure to smack his lips for more

The only way to get the true oyster flavor is to buy "Sealshipt" Oysters.

"Sealshipt" come direct from the beds, packed in airtight, steel containers, with ice around the containers but not in contact with the oysters. "Sealshipt" is the only method of shipping that retains the original, distinctive oyster taste. You get solid, naturalized meats. The price of "Sealshipt" is higher than for tasteless, soft insipid tub oysters; yet they actually cost less, since they go so much farther. But "Sealshipt" Oysters are worth more than any oysters you ever saw—you will agree to this after you have once tried them.

Notice how temptingly "Sealshipt" Oysters are displayed in the Pure White Porcelain Case bearing the Blue "Sealshipt" Trade-Mark—your guaranty of purity and excellence.

WALTER SMITH.

Harry Tansley received word Tuesday evening from E. J. Smith of Princeton, Ind., that their son Walter, aged 18 years died last Saturday at five o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Smith and family resided in Tecumseh several years ago, Mr. Smith being an engneer for the D., T. & I The family have many friends here who extend sympathy to them in their sorrow.

NEAR DEATH'S DOOR

Dootor Said Mrs. Lucier's Stomach was Worn Out, but Mi-o-na Cured Her.

Why, oh why will people of intelligence continue to suffer with dyspepsia or distressing stomach troubles, when Mi-o-na, the only scientific remedy, has a record of thousands of just such cures as the following:

"I was near to death's door. The doctor said he had done all he could; that my stomach was old and worn out I was so weak I could not walk. I took Mi-o-na tablets, and have been eating heartily ever since, and I am able to work like a tiger. I wish I could go and thank you myself. I send you my picture, and you can use my word and my picture, and I thank you again."—Mrs. Nelson Lucier, 113 Fisk st., Athol, Mass.

Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia. There isn't a particle of doubt about it; and if any of the readers of Herald are suffering from stomach trouble of any kind, C. A. Wright & Son's drug store will sell you a box of Mi-o-na for 50 cents with an absolute guarantee of relief, or money back. In many cases one box will effect a permanent cure; in chronic conditions more is necessary. But one thing is certain: one box of Mi-o-na will make you feed so much better and brighter, so much more energetic, that you will not give it up till cured.

Mi-o-na is not a digester. Digesters never cured dyspepsia, and never will. Mi-o-na is a stomach strengthener that builds up the worn out, flabby inside of the stomach, and makes the stomach strong enough to perfectly digest what you eat.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all dealers.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Tecumseh People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills.

For Tecumseh kidney sufferers.

Have made their local reputation.

Proof lies in the testimony of Tecumseh people who have been cured to stay cured.

Orson Austin, retired, living on Logan st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as when I gave a testimonial in their favor some years ago. Prior to that time, I had been troubled with a very bad case of kidney disease, the distressing pains in my back and shoulders at times being almost unbearable. Rheumatism also settled in my hips and limbs and greatly increased my misery. I could not get my proper rest during night on account of the too frequent action of the kidneys, and the passages were attended by a burning sensation. I knew Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, began using them and noticed their good effects in a short time. Thus encouraged I continued taking them until a complete cure was effected. My advice to all sufferers of kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

A WALKING GALLOWS

The Horrible Deeds of Lieutenant Hepenstall.

HANGED MEN FROM HIS NECK

This Handsome but Brutal Giant of the Wicklow Militia Was the Most Cold Blooded and Eccentric Executioner That Has Ever Existed.

Among the examples and records of British tyranny during the terrible year 1798 there is none more extraordinary, according to a writer in an English magazine, than that of Lieutenant Edward Hepenstall, known by the nickname of "the walking gallows," for such he certainly was, literally and practically.

This notorious individual, who had been brought up as an apothecary in Dublin, obtained a commission in the Wicklow militia, in which he attained to the rank of lieutenant in 1795. He was a man of splendid physique, about six feet two inches in height and strong and broad in proportion. Referring to this handsome but brutal giant, Sir Jonah Barrington in his memoirs states:

"I knew him well and from his countenance should never have suspected him of cruelty, but so cold blooded and eccentric an executioner of the human race never yet existed."

At the outbreak of the sanguinary rebellion, when the common law was suspended and the stern martial variety flourished in its stead, Lieutenant Hepenstall hit upon the expedient of hanging on his own back persons whose physiognomies he considered characteristic of seditious tenets. At the present day the story seems almost incredible, but it is a notorious fact, revealed by the journalism of the period, that when rebels, either suspected or caught red handed, were brought before him Hepenstall would order the cord of a drum to be taken off and then, rigging up a running noose, would proceed to hang each in turn across his athletic shoulders until the victims had been slowly strangled to death, after which he would throw down his load and take up another.

The "walking gallows" was clearly both a new and simple plan and a mode of execution not nearly so tedious or painful as a Tyburn or Old Bailey hanging. It answered his majesty's service as well as two posts and a crowbar. When a rope was not at hand Hepenstall's own silk cravat, being softer than an ordinary halter, became a merciful substitute.

In pursuance of these benevolent intentions the lieutenant would frequently administer an anaesthetic to his trembling victim—in other words, he would first knock him silly with a blow. His garters then did the duty as handcuffs, and the cravat would be slipped over the condemned man's neck.

Whenever he had an unusually powerful victim to do with, Hepenstall took a pride in showing his own strength. With a dexterous lunge of his body the lieutenant used to draw up the poor devil's head as high as his own and then, when both were cheek by jowl, begin to trot about with his burden like a jolting cart horse until the rebel had no further solicitude about sublunary affairs. It was after one of these trotting executions, which had taken place in the barrack yard adjoining Stephen's green, that Hepenstall acquired the surname of "the walking gallows." He was invested with it by the gallery of Crow Street theater, Dublin.

At the trial of a rebel in that city the lieutenant, undergoing cross examination, admitted the aforementioned details of his method of hanging, and Lord Norbury, the presiding judge, warmly complimented him on his loyalty and assured him that he had been guilty of no act which was not natural to a zealous, loyal and efficient officer.

Lieutenant Hepenstall, however, did not long survive his hideous practice. He died in 1804. Owing to the odium in which he was universally held, the authorities arranged that his funeral should take place secretly, while a Dublin wit suggested that his tombstone would be suitably inscribed by the following epitaph:

Here lie the bones of Hepenstall,
Judge, jury, gallows, rope and all.

A Slight Difference.

The globe trotter was telling about the wonders of India.

"The scenery in some portions of the country," he said, with enthusiasm, "is incomparable. Far, far away, the mountains pile up toward the sky, and stretching off to them are beautiful valleys, while close at hand you can get in sight of a man eating tiger"—

"I beg your pardon," interrupted an eager listener, "but did you say inside of a man eating tiger or in sight of one?"—New York Press.

Great Britain has the longest coast line of any country in Europe. Italy, Russia and France come next in the order given.

Watched Fifteen Years.

"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved us many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy of East Wilton, Maine, 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

A HOME WHERE PERUNA IS USED.

Residence of Mr. C. Hallock, Antwerp, Ohio.

One of the Many Thousand Homes Where Peruna is a Popular Household Remedy.

MR. C. HALLOCK.

CATARRH OF THE HEAD.

Mr. C. Hallock, Antwerp, Ohio, writes: "My daughter, Allie, after taking three bottles of your Peruna, is entirely cured of catarrh of the head of two years standing.

"We have used Peruna as a general tonic, as well as for catarrh, and are well pleased with it, and recommend it to anybody who has catarrh.

"Anybody wishing any information can write to me."

Could Take No Food.

Mr. William F. Burke, 1365 Frankford Ave., Philadelphia, Pa., writes:

"On the 19th of February, 1901, I was taken with cramps that extended from just below my throat to the bottom of my stomach. They were so severe that my wife had to go for a doctor about two o'clock in the morning.

"I had from February until July of that year three doctors, and they were giving me medicine for kidney, liver and bladder troubles, and after taking all kinds of their mixtures, in the month of July I could neither eat nor drink. For three weeks I had not taken a morsel of food except in a liquid form. At the end of that time I could not drink milk or water except in small sips, which caused me great pain.

"I had given up all hope of living more than a week or two at most. I told my wife I thought I had catarrh of the stomach. She seemed to think so too, and having read of Peruna I decided to give it a trial.

"I took several doses that evening, and for the first time in weeks rested fairly that night.

"I kept on using Peruna as I had started, and after using it three days and nights the pains in my chest and stomach disappeared, and they have never appeared since, and it will be two years this July."

Pe-ru-na Relieved All Symptoms.

Mr. J. C. Crumpacker, R. R. 1, Kokomo, Ind., writes:

"I can say that I have nothing to complain of now. I feel well, rest well at night, have a good but moderate appetite, can eat almost any kind of food.

"I have no aches or pains anywhere, and can do some kind of work every day. I must say I can stand as much fatigue as I ever could, and feel good over it.

"The hemorrhage has yielded to Peruna, the grip has done the same, as well as pains and aches of all kinds.

"The roaring noise has entirely left my ears and head, my mind is clear, my recollection good, my bowels are regular, and I just simply feel easy all over.

"The cure of my case was surely a victory."

Catarrh of Long Standing.

Mr. C. A. Reustrom, 570 Seventh St., Ogden, Utah, writes: "I take great pleasure in stating to you that your medicine, Peruna, has completely cured me of a long-standing case of catarrh.

"I had consulted noted doctors without any relief. By persistent urging of a friend I commenced the use of your wonderful Peruna with the best of results, and today I highly recommend it to any one suffering from catarrh in any form.

"As for myself, I suffered untold agony, but today I feel as spry as any one, with more ambition and confidence in myself than I have enjoyed for years.

"All my friends say I look better than ever before, and I urge them all to try Peruna, and have sold dozens of bottles with the greatest of satisfaction.

"Your Peruna is the greatest tonic and builder for a broken-down constitution arising from that dreadful disease, catarrh."

Some people prefer to take tablets, rather than to take medicine in a fluid form. Such people can obtain Peruna tablets, which represent the medicinal ingredients of Peruna. Each tablet is equivalent to an average dose of Peruna.

PISO'S CURE

WOOD LOTS OF JAPAN.

Example Furnished of Tree Growing on Small Plots.

In these times of great drains on the timber supplies, caused by the heavy demand for forest products of all kinds, Americans may see in Japan an example of what can be done in growing wood on small plots.

That country contains 21,000,000 wood lots, about three-fourths of which belong to private persons and one-fourth to communes. The average size of the plot is less than nine-tenths of an acre. They usually occupy the steepest, roughest, poorest ground. In this way land is put to use which would otherwise go to waste and if unwooded would lose its soil by the wash of the dashing rains.

From Japan's wood lots the yearly yield of lumber is about eighty-eight feet, board measure, an acre and three-fourths of a cord of firewood. In many cases the yield is much higher. More than 500,000,000 trees are planted yearly to make up what is cut for lumber and fuel.

With all the care in cutting and the industry in replanting it is by no means certain that Japan's forests are holding their own. If the preservation of the forests is doubtful there, it is evident that depletion must be alarmingly rapid in other countries which cut unsparingly and plant very little. On the other hand, it is encouraging to see what can be done with rough, steep and poor land. The United States has enough of that kind to grow billions of feet of lumber.—Pathfinder.

The Tactful Doctor.

A physician in a small town in northern Michigan got himself into a serious predicament by his inability to remember names and people. One day while making out a patient's receipt his visitor's name escaped him. Not wishing to appear so forgetful and thinking to get a clew, he asked her whether she spelled her name with an "e" or "i." The lady smilingly replied, "Why, doctor, my name is Hill."—Success Magazine.

Your Enemies.

Don't make enemies unnecessarily. Your friends don't do much for you, as you all know, but your enemies will lie awake nights looking for opportunity to take a shot at you. And you all know that too.—Atchison Globe.

All Bound.

A citizen of culture and poetic taste went to a public library and asked for Shelley's "Prometheus Unbound."

He was rather taken aback when the librarian replied, with great hauteur:

"We don't keep any unbound books in this library."

Had we not faults of our own we should take less pleasure in complaining of others.—Fenelon.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing a long received strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

MICHIGAN IN QUARANTINE

Secretary Wilson Puts Ban on Livestock Shipments.

HE ARRIVES IN DETROIT.

Holds Conference With State and Federal Officials and Then Issues "Edict" — Cattle Near Plymouth Have Dread Disease—May Have Originated in Michigan.

Detroit, Nov. 25.—Secretary James Wilson of the department of agriculture has arrived here in a personal investigation of the work being done to stamp out the outbreak of foot and mouth disease. He was accompanied by officials of the bureau of animal industry and was met by state and federal officers engaged in the work here. Secretary Wilson came direct from Buffalo.

The entire party immediately went to the Hotel Cadillac and held a conference. No sooner was this completed than Secretary Wilson issued a general livestock quarantine of the state of Michigan. No shipments of cattle will be permitted in or out of the state, and all movements within its borders are strictly prohibited. The quarantine order is to remain in effect until the last vestige of the foot and mouth disease has been stamped out.

"It is very gratifying to me," said Secretary Wilson, "to find the state and federal authorities working in entire harmony. Work of that kind can be productive only of the best results."

Before leaving Buffalo for Detroit Secretary Wilson gave out the following letter relative to conditions there:

"East Buffalo, N. Y., Nov. 24.

"Raymond A. Pearson, Commissioner of Agriculture, Buffalo, N. Y.:

"Dear Mr. Pearson: I am glad to find matters so well in hand in the state of New York. Dr. Law, yourself and our veterinarians, Drs. Houck and Wende, cannot be excelled in skill and executive efficiency.

"I find most of the infected animals now under ground and the work being pushed night and day. I came down to see if I could find a place where another man or another dollar would hasten the stamping out of the foot and mouth disease. The commercial interests of the country demand that we spare neither pains nor expense in hunting out and destroying every affected animal in the country, quarantining the premises, disinfecting yards, cars, etc.

"If you have any doubts whether it is wise to spend money in the carrying on this work, resolve the doubt in favor of expediency and spend the money, and we will help you out.

"Yours very truly,
"JAMES WILSON,
"Secretary of Agriculture."

Plymouth, Mich., Nov. 25.—Michigan not only has to deal with the worst foot and mouth disease situation in the country, but investigation so far discloses that in all probability New York state got its aphthous fever from this state.

This much the government experts have learned: Shaw Bros. & Wilson of Livonia township received a shipment of cattle about the middle of October from the Detroit stockyards. Those cattle were infected. They spread the disease to others in the Shaw-Wilson herd. Part of the same herd from which the shipment was made at the Detroit stockyards, the experts say, went to Buffalo.

Where the cattle came from in the first place is the point on which the inspectors are now working.

Rife in Livonia.

All of the cattle in Livonia township that Dr. M. R. Grainger of Plymouth said had the foot and mouth disease are infected with the scourge. His judgment is sustained by the government experts, Adolph Eichorn of Washington and C. O. Durfee of Buffalo.

J. M. Wright, state veterinarian of Illinois, was here. When he heard the government experts' decision he said:

"I shall immediately advise Governor Deneen of Illinois to issue a proclamation forbidding the acceptance in the state of any cattle whatsoever from Michigan."

The party inspecting the cattle consisted of the three members of the state sanitary commission, H. H. Rinds, C. A. Taylor and John McKay; the government experts, A. Eichorn and C. O. Durfee; Dr. Grainger, and Dr. Green, head of the inspection department of Detroit. They spent the entire day working on the various farms.

In the Shaw Bros. & Wilson herd were found fifty-five diseased animals. George Cornell has thirteen, Charles Herschlieb seven, Edward Pankow twelve and Robert Bredin eleven, a total of nearly 100. There are, however, other herds in the same vicinity, and the experts will investigate further.

To Slaughter Victims.

If Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture gives the order the experts say he surely will, every one of these cattle will be killed within a couple of days.

Trenches five feet deep will be dug on each farm where there are infected cattle. The cattle will then be led in, and as they stand in the trench they will be shot to death. Their bodies will then be sprinkled with lime and covered with earth.

Not only the cows and calves will be killed, but also every pig and sheep on the farms. Of these, however, there are not many at this time.

Following the killing of the cattle, the farms will be thoroughly disinfected.

THREE NEGROES ARE LYNCHED.

Another Exciting Affair in the "Night Rider" District.

SPECIAL DEPUTY WAS KILLED.

Posse Pursued Assailants, Captured Them and Gave Them "Trial"—Immediately Condemned to Death, and Mob Executed the Sentence of the "Court."

Union City, Tenn., Nov. 25.—Tiptonville, bordering on Reelfoot lake, which recently has been the place of "Night Rider" incidents, has just been the scene of the "legalized" lynching of three negroes who were arrested for murdering Special Deputy Sheriff Richard Burruss and wounding John Hall, a deputy sheriff.

The negroes lynched were Marshall, Edward and James Stineback. These brothers created a disturbance at a religious meeting near Tiptonville Saturday night. When Officers Burruss and Hall attempted to arrest them the negroes shot the officers and escaped. A posse of citizens were soon in pursuit of the negroes. They were surrounded and captured in a swamp near Ridgely. The negroes were quickly placed in jail at Tiptonville.

Soon the jail was surrounded by a mob which had no hesitancy in threatening a lynching at once.

Several citizens mounted the steps of the jail and appealed to the mob to desist. The mob, however, was restless, and it was apparent that delay would not be brooked.

As a last resort, S. J. Caldwell and Sheriff Haynes went before Justice Lee Davis and explained the situation. Justice Davis at once agreed to "open court" at 5 o'clock, "summon a jury" and allow the negroes, after "all available evidence" was heard, to be "duly sentenced to death."

Meantime Governor Patterson was advised by telephone of the situation, and he ordered a company of militia to proceed from Union City with all haste to Tiptonville, seize the three negroes and conduct them to a place of safety. The troops started at once, but failed to arrive in time to prevent the lynching.

At the "trial" all of the evidence of those who had seen the killing was heard, and in an incredibly short time the "case" was given to the "jury," which in a few minutes "returned a verdict of guilty" and "fixed the penalty at death."

The "sentence" had barely been passed on the three negroes when the mob, with a whoop and a yell, swarmed into the courtroom, seized the prisoners, rushed them to a large tree near the edge of the town and "duly executed the sentence of death" by hanging.

He Nearly Ran Down Roosevelt.

Washington, Nov. 25.—Because he barely avoided running down President Roosevelt with his bicycle while the latter was walking to church, Albert Boyer, a negro youth, was arrested on the charge of not having a suitable bell on his bicycle. Boyer was released upon putting up $5 collateral, which he forfeited rather than stand trial upon the charge.

RUSH CASTRO TO EUROPE.

Venezuelan President Is to Undergo Operation.

DOCTOR WON'T COME TO HIM.

Is Suffering From Internal Abscess. Places Government in Hands of Vice President—Rebels Already Active. Puts Holland in Bad Position—Castro Has Suffered Long.

Caracas, Nov. 23, via Willemstad, Nov. 25.—President Castro will sail from La Guaira on the steamer Guadeloupe for Bordeaux, France, for the purpose of undergoing an operation at the hands of a skilled specialist of Berlin. Efforts which were made recently to have Dr. Israel of Berlin come to Caracas for the purpose of performing the operation failed, and, as an operation was imperative and President Castro's attending physicians were unwilling to take the responsibility, nothing remained but for the president to undertake an European voyage.

The operation will be performed immediately on President Castro's arrival at Bordeaux, where Dr. Israel will be in waiting. Should the operation be successful, the president will visit Paris, where he will rest for a few days only, as he wishes to return to Caracas at as early a date as possible.

Three of the leading Venezuelan physicians will accompany the president and several members of his immediate family. The physicians are Dr. Pablo Acosta Ortiz, Dr. Fonseca and Dr. Jose Baldo. Dr. Baldo has been the president's chief physician for two years and is now minister of education. Dr. Ortiz is one of the noted surgeons of South America and has already operated on President Castro several times.

The greatest excitement prevails in Caracas, and political intriguing already has commenced. It is thought that the departure of President Castro may open the road for the settlement of the Holland, American and French disputes. Vincente Gomez, the vice president, will assume the presidency. Castro issued a proclamation in which First Vice President Gomez is constitutionally charged with the presidency.

The president of Venezuela is suffering from an internal abscess in the region of the kidneys, and his attending physicians long ago advised him that the only possible relief was in an operation by a German specialist.

Especially interesting is President Castro's departure because of the embarrassing effect it is likely to have on Holland's plans to force Venezuela into revoking the transhipment decree, which Castro has refused to do peacefully. If Holland should send out a confidential agent, as suggested by Castro in his last answer to Holland's demands, that functionary may find no Castro with whom to deal.

COUNTY CONVENTION

Lenawee County Y. M. C. A. Convention was Held in Tecumseh.

TUESDAY AFTERNOON LARGE NUMBER OF DELEGATES IN ATTENDANCE.

Good Program was Given. Banquet Served at the M. E. Church Tuesday Evening.

The Lenawee County Y. M. C. A. Convention was held in Tecumseh Tuesday afternoon and evening. The afternoon session was called at 2 o'clock, and the large number in attendance were entertained by interesting talks from Frank Hurst of Tecumseh, who told of the Place Athletics held in the County Y. M. C. A. C. F. Angell of Allegan spoke of the religious work in the rural communities, and C. L. Rowe of Jackson spoke of the County Y. M. C. A. Discussions followed each talk.

A banquet was served at 6:30 to the men and boys of Tecumseh and the delegates, at the Methodist church by the Ladies of the church.

Dr. North presided at a business meeting, at which time reports from the various committees, were given.

Mr. F. M. Boswell of Adrian presided as toastmaster.

W. L. Reed of Blissfield spoke of the Five Years of County Work. He confined his talk to Blissfield, telling of their experience in trying to get the boys to work. It is only in the past three years that they are beginning to see the results of their work. They have several large classes in Bible Study and more boys who are anxious to begin the work. He closed his talk with the opinions of several of the business men of Blissfield in regard to the Y. M. C. A. work all of whom held the work in the highest regard.

Echoes from the Field was responded to by Archie Mabee of Hudson; Mr. Omans of Addison; Earl McNeil and Frank Hurst of Tecumseh and C. L Rowe of Jackson, and Mr. Hershy of Blissfield, all of whom told of the work each association was doing in their home town.

Rev. D. S. Shaw of Tecumseh spoke of Efforts, Manward. Mr. Shaws remarks were full of good thoughts. He thought that all men should live Christian lives and would, if they knew that their lives shaped the son's life, as the son in making efforts to become a man, would follow in his father's footsteps.

Lynn Rogers gave a Violin Solo, which was greatly enjoyed.

S. A. Ackley of Jackson gave an address on The Making of a Man. He gave a very interesting talk on this subject, complimenting the young mens association in their work, and urged that more of the older ones become interested in the work.

The benediction by Rev. D. S. Shaw closed one of the most helpful meetings in the history of the association.

CROUP QUICKLY CURED

Don't Let the Child Choke to Death While Waiting for the Doctor

Croup should have prompt treatment. The life of many a dear one has been sacrificed because the right remedy was not at hand.

Pay close attention to the child who is feverish, thirsty, and occasionally coughs dryly and shrilly. This is the first stage of croup, and instant treatment should be given.

Hyomei, the miraculous, antiseptic dry air treatment, will cure croup in either the first or second stages. Easily inhaled, even when the breathing is irregular, it reaches more promptly than any other remedy the terribly inflamed membrane of the windpipe. Its soothing balsams act immediately, the inflammation is allayed, and the swelling reduced.

"Not long ago our little boy, Walter, awoke in the night with a bad attack of croup, so that he experienced great difficulty in breathing. We allowed him to inhale Hyomei, and he immediately began to breathe easier, and in half an hour was fast asleep. Our children, being subject to croup, we feel safe with Hyomei in the house, and I am glad to speak a good word for a remedy that will rob croup of its terrors."—Rev. Geo. Sisson, Pastor of M. E. Church, South Londonderry, Vt.

Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) is the quickest acting and most sensible remedy ever discovered for all diseases of the nose, throat, and lungs. It is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son's drug store, to cure catarrh, coughs, colds, asthma, bronchitis and croup, or money back. A complete outfit, including a neat hard rubber pocket inhaler, costs only $1.00. An extra bottle of Hyomei, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents.

It isn't so difficult to strengthen a weak Stomach if one goes at it correctly. And this is true of the Heart and Kidneys. The old fashioned way of dosing the Stomach or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is surely wrong! Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. "Go to the weak or ailing nerves of these organs," said he. Each inside organ has its controlling or "inside nerve." When these nerves fail then those organs must surely falter. This vital truth is leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. A few days test will surely tell! Sold by all dealers.

DEEDS, NOT WORDS.

Tecumseh People Have Absolute Proof of Deeds at Home.

It's not words, but deeds that prove true merit.

The deeds of Doan's Kidney Pills, For Tecumseh kidney sufferers, Have made their local reputation.

Orson Austin, retired, living on Logan st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I hold the same high opinion of Doan's Kidney Pills today, as when I gave a testimonial in their favor some years ago. Prior to that time, I had been troubled with a very bad case of kidney disease, the distressing pains in my back and shoulders at times being almost unbearable. Rheumatism also settled in my hips and limbs and greatly increased my misery. I could not get my proper rest during night on account of the too frequent action of the kidneys, and the passages were attended by a burning sensation. I knew Doan's Kidney Pills were good for such troubles, began using them and noticed their good effects in a short time. Thus encouraged I continued taking them until a complete cure was effected. My advice to all sufferers of kidney trouble is to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."

handicapped by the fact that all of his running heretofore has been done on the road, while Hayes is familiar with circular tracks such as that in the Garden, which measures ten laps to a mile. Hayes' supporters say they cannot see the Italian at any stage of the game. "Johnny will outrun him and will last much better than the Italian," said the American champion's manager.

Shah Changes His Mind.

Teheran, Persia, Nov. 25.—The shah already has repented of his proclamation, posted in the mosques, in which it was set forth that the people, in spite of his promises, shall not have a constitution, and later he sent out urgent orders to withdraw this proclamation from circulation and to destroy all copies of it. This sudden change of front on the part of the shah is attributed here to the vigorous representations that undoubtedly have been made by the British and Russian legations. These powers, it is reported, have notified the shah that he will be personally responsible if is refusal to give his people a constitution results in anarchy.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 25.—The foreign office here is frankly puzzled in the matters of what course it should pursue in the Persian situation. It agrees with Great Britain that vigorous measures should be adopted to force the shah to restore the constitution, without which normal order cannot be re-established. The impression is gaining ground in non-official circles that the people of Persia may cut the Gordian knot by affecting a change of sovereigns. There is no hope for improvement on the part of the present occupant of the throne.

Watched Fifteen Years.

"For fifteen years I have watched the working of Bucklen's Arnica Salve; and it has never failed to cure any sore, boil, ulcer or burn to which it was applied. It has saved us many a doctor bill," says A. F. Hardy of East Wilton, Maine, 25c. at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

A BAPTIST ELDER

Restored to Health by Vinol

"I was run down and weak from indigestion and general debility, also suffered from vertigo. I saw a cod liver preparation called Vinol advertised and decided to give it a trial, and the results were most gratifying. After taking two bottles I regained my strength and am now feeling unusually well." Henry Cunningham, Elder Baptist Church, Kingston, N. C.

Vinol is not a patent medicine—but a preparation composed of the medicinal elements of cods' livers, combined with a tonic iron and wine. Vinol creates a hearty appetite, tones up the organs of digestion and makes rich, red blood. In this natural manner, Vinol creates strength for the run-down, overworked and debilitated, and for delicate children and old people. For chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis Vinol is unexcelled.

All such persons in this vicinity are asked to try Vinol on our offer to refund their money if it fails to give satisfaction.

VINOL is sold in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, Druggists.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Hereafter thinkers mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

BIG SWINDLE.

Eastern Officials Believe They Have Uncovered It.

Pittsburg, Nov. 25.—Interesting developments are expected soon in the alleged swindling scheme which recently resulted in the arrests of J. Montefiore Meyers, now in charge of the New York authorities, and John A. and W. A. Fitzpatrick, now in charge of the Wilkesbarre (Pa.) police. Two other men, B. F. McCarthy and Allen G. McDonald, are now wanted by the police of this city and Wilkesbarre. McCarthy is believed to have fled to New York, while McDenald, it is said, has been located in this vicinity.

As the investigation into the operations of the men progresses the police say it is more evident that one of the most gigantic swindling schemes in the history of the country had been about perfected. The timely arrest of Myers and the Fitzpatrick brothers affectively broke up the plan.

It is said in addition to the five men mentioned several others in different parts of the United States were connected with the same scheme, and their arrest is expected.

According to reports here several government officers were interested in transactions of Myers and his confederates. It is known that Meyers made a number of trips to Washington from this city, and his basis for conducting operations with the federal officials is said to have been a proposition to make loans on the property of defunct national banks.

The Fitzpatrick brothers were taken to Wilkesbarre, Pa., by an officer on a charge of conspiracy to defraud a business man there out of $3,000.

Masons Dedicate Temple.

Burletson, the former Parma banker, has been bound over by Justice Russell for trial at the January term of the circuit court on a charge of having violated the state banking laws. His bail remains at $8,000, and as Burletson was unable to furnish it he went back to jail.

Those Who Have Used Pe-ru-na Are the Only Ones Who Really Know

Many a matron has lengthened the days of her comely appearance by taking Peruna. To be beautiful, the body must be kept clean internally as well as externally. Peruna produces clean mucous membranes, the basis of facial symmetry, and a clear, healthy complexion.

MISS NETTIE E. BOGARDUS

Internal Catarrh.

Mrs. George C. Worstell, 11 River Road, Clarksburg, W. Va., writes:

"I trust that no one will think from this that I want my name in public for any cause only to let sufferers know where they may find relief from many ailments.

"I can truly say I have been much benefited by the use of Peruna. I feel better than I have for two years. It is the best medicine that I know for internal catarrh.

"I have taken medicine from the doctors and found no relief; but when I began taking Peruna I could see that before I had finished taking the first bottle it was doing me good."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have incessantly labored to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous labors have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets. Each tablet is equivalent to one average dose of Peruna.

Pe-ru-na Prolonged Her Life.

Mrs. O. D. Robinson, 43 St. Felix Street, Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"I have taken Peruna and it did me more good than all my two years' treatment by special physicians. I can really say that I feel like another person. No more swollen feet and limbs. No more bloating of the abdomen. No more shortness of breath. No more stiff and sore joints. You have no idea what your treatment has done for me. It certainly has prolonged my life and made a new woman of me.

"O, such a blessing I have received through your kindness, doctor, and the assistance of the medicine which you have so kindly prescribed. I am able to work since I began your treatment, but before I was not able to help myself, much less work for anyone else. All praise is due to Dr. Hartman and his treatment."

My Sister Advised Me to Try Peruna.

I Took Your Treatment and My Appetite Returned Speedily.

I Gained Strength and Flesh and Am In Perfect Health.

I Am So Thankful Your Medicine Has Done Me Much Good.

—So Says Miss Julia Butler, Of Appleton, Wis.

Sick Headache.

Miss Nettie E. Bogardus, R. F. D. 21, Westfield, N. Y., writes:

"I have been a great sufferer from sick headaches, but am now entirely free from that trouble. I have not felt so well in ten years as I do now.

"I would recommend Peruna and Manalin to all sufferers. I will say, God bless Dr. Hartman and his wonderful remedies."

Weak, No Appetite.

Mrs. Ruth B. Brent, Holmes, Ill., writes:

"I was in poor health three years ago. I kept getting worse, and I finally was so weak that I could not sit up all day. My feet and hands were always cold. I had no appetite.

"I consulted one of the best doctors, who said I could not be cured. I was nervous, my heart would flutter, and I had a pain in my left side and also had chronic constipation.

"I got a bottle of Peruna and one of Manalin and wrote to you for advice. While under your treatment I gained three pounds a month.

"I took several more bottles of Peruna and now I am well. I am able to do all my housework—cooking, washing, ironing, baking and mending.

"Everybody compliments me on looking so much better than I used to, and now I have a girl baby six months old, as fat as she can be.

"She is what I call a Peruna baby, for I know if it had not been for Peruna she would not be here."

For Suffering Women.

Miss Esther Lee, 302 Madison Street, Topeka, Kas., Secretary Triple Tie Social Club, writes:

"Fourteen months ago I began to be troubled with internal catarrh, which left me pale, weak and nervous. I decided to give Peruna a trial.

"To my great relief I found that my general health improved. I kept growing stronger, and within three months I was in my usual normal condition. I cannot recommend Peruna too highly to suffering women."

CHILD MALTREATED.

Port Huron Girl Charged With Serious Offense.

Port Huron, Mich., Nov. 25.—Mrs. Louise Lee, seventeen-year-old wife of Casper Lee, from whom she was separated a few weeks ago, is in jail here, charged with maltreating Pearl Lee, ten years old. The child is in a critical condition.

Mrs. Lee, it is said, went to the Jackson school and, by promising to give the child, who is a niece, $1.50, enticed her to go to her rooms on Huron avenue. Later the child was allowed to go to her home and soon after became seriously ill. Dr. S. S. Hanson, county physician, was called, and his examination revealed the girl's condition.

Pearl told the officers that her aunt had warned her not to tell anybody of what happened in the rooms and had threatened her life if she did.

Assistant Prosecutor Thomas George investigated the case. Public indignation runs high, and the young wom-

Leupp Had Planned to Abolish Mount Pleasant School.

FINALLY CHANGED HIS MIND.

Six Non-Reservation Indian Institutions Will Be Abolished—Indian Commissioner Believes They Have Outlived Their Usefulness—Is Preparing Service For Its Curtailment.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The Mount Pleasant (Mich.) Indian school has just had a narrow escape. Indian Commissioner Francis E. Leupp, in his annual report, says he has decided not to ask congress for any money for the support of six of the non-reservation Indian schools, and the Mount Pleasant school was excluded from this list at the last moment.

The commissioner stands by the position he assumed last year regarding these schools. This is that they have served their usefulness and ought to be gradually dispensed with. He would close six at once, but if congress appropriates for them without his recommendation he will see that they are conducted as usual.

The schools the commissioner favors retaining are those located, with regard to climate and other considerations, to best meet the demands of the pupils. His ultimate aim is to have the Indian children receive their primary education in day schools, under the eye of the parents, and their higher education, if they seek any, at the same institutions attended by the offsprings of other American citizens.

The Mount Pleasant school has a capacity for 320 pupils and an average attendance of 318.

Reorganization of the Indian service along lines which will prepare it for going out of business at no distant day is the general aim of Commissioner Leupp.

The commissioner calls attention to the work already done in that direction and says that he is glad to have been able to effect in a slow and orderly way the changes inaugurated by him, "because the Indian service, handling more than one thousand appropriations and funds, hedged about with some hundreds of statutes, might have been actually wrecked by having even a better organization thrust violently upon it." Improved organization, he says, is almost more important in a diminishing than in a growing bureau.

"No greater held," he declares, "can come to the Indians or to the neighborhood in which they live than through having this service pass out of existence in just the right way." The commissioner argues that there is no better way of accomplishing this result than for congress to grant him the additional employes he needs "to guide the office in its decline," the expense of whom, he says, would be more than made up by a saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the government and the Indians.

SALOONISTS PLAN REVENGE.

Will Try to Force Coldwater to Shut Up Tight Sundays.

Coldwater, Mich., Dec. 3.—Backed by the common council, Marshal Gripman has ordered all cards, dice and slot machines from saloons and cigar stands of Coldwater and also gave the keepers of saloons notice that opening hours in the morning must be observed.

The men affected by the order are planning to retaliate by closing the city tight on Sunday, shutting livery barns, fruit stores, flower stores and other places of business.

OFFERED TREASURESHIP.

Representative Burton Tendered Seat in Taft's Cabinet.

Cleveland, O., Dec. 3.—The Cleveland Plain Dealer today says that Representative Theodore Burton of Cleveland has been offered by President Elect Taft the portfolio of secretary of the treasury.

Mr. Burton has taken the offer under consideration, but will make no reply to Mr. Taft until after the Ohio senatorial situation has been clarified.

DEAD IN WOODS.

Demented Woman Perished of Hunger and Exposure.

Marquette, Mich., Dec. 3.—Missing from her home for nearly a week, Mrs. Evan McPherson was found dead in the woods less than a quarter of a mile from the residence of the family at the Jackson mining location at Negaunee.

She had wandered away while deranged, it is believed, and had perished from hunger and exposure.

SENSATIONS OF BALLOON FLIGHT

No Dizziness Experienced Says Lieutenant Lahm.

DISTANCE FOOLS THE EYE.

Seems Less Than It Usually Is to Ground—Even Motion of Elevator Is Lacking—Famous Aeronaut Reads Paper Before Mechanical Engineers in Convention.

New York, Dec. 3.—The American Society of Mechanical Engineers, in convention here, listened to a very interesting paper by Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm, United States signal corps, on "The Conquest of the Air."

Lieutenant Lahm spoke at length, giving a brief historical view of aeronautics and describing with great detail the most prominent feats in ballooning during the past several years. He also described some of the sensations experienced during a balloon voyage.

He said there is no sense of dizziness in making an ascension; that the effect is not like looking down from a high building or tower, because there is nothing to connect the observer with the ground and he cannot measure his height. The distance from the ground generally appears less than it really is. The aeronaut does not get sea sick, and there is practically no motion in the balloon. He would not know he is moving at all except by seeing the ground recede. Even the motion of an elevator is lacking in a balloon.

The danger of ballooning, he declared, is less than that attending automobiling. The expense, he added, is less than automobiling. A balloon large enough for three people cost $800. A trip of 100 miles, including cost of gas inflation, shipping the balloon back and the railroad fare home cost approximately $25 per person.

FAMOUS MEN ASSEMBLE.

Attend American Mining Congress in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Dec. 3.—What is expected to prove the most important convention ever held by the American mining congress has convened in this city. Men famous in the mining and business world are present, while during the next three days cabinet officers, sixteen governors, senators, congressmen and many state legislators will come here to participate.

A message from President Elect Taft some time during the convention and his views concerning the relations of the United States government and mining industry is awaited as one of the vital features of the meeting.

It was clearly shown that within sixty days congress will take steps to establish a bureau of mines in the department of the interior and that renewed efforts will be made to prevent the great sacrifice of human life in our coal mines.

HAZEL BOY'S DEFENSE.

Adolescent Insanity Claimed in Case of Toledo Lad.

Toledo, O., Dec. 3.—Adolescent insanity will be the defense of Harvey Hazel, the boy of seventeen accused of killing his mother and now fighting for his life against an indictment charging first degree murder.

This will make expert testimony necessary, and one of those who will probably be called is President Hall of Clark university, Worcester, Mass., recognized as an authority on adolescence.

For the first time since his arrest young Hazel has now shown emotion. While being questioned the boy broke down and seemed to realize the enormity of his crime. The state has thirty witnesses and the defense fifty.

Beers Gets Recount.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 3.—Dr. John Beers, candidate in the Seventh district against Prosecuting Attorney C. E. White of Berrien for state senator, has, through his attorney, James O'Hara, asked and obtained the consent of the attorney general to file a petition in the supreme court for a writ of mandamus to compel the district canvassing board to reconvene and recanvass the vote for senator on the ground that the board erred in counting any votes for White.

Martial Law Proclaimed.

Prague, Austria, Dec. 3.—Martial law has been proclaimed in this city. This action on the part of the government served greatly to exasperate the Czech students of Prague, and they forthwith started rioting.

NEW PRESIDENT IS PROCLAIMED.

Deposed Nord Alexis Takes Refuge on French Ship.

WILD TIME IN PORT AU PRINCE.

Angry Mob Gathered About Palace. Situation Became So Alarming Alexis Consented to Withdraw—Shameful Scenes at Wharf—Trunk of Gold Left Behind Seized by Mob.

Port au Prince, Dec. 3.—President Nord Alexis has been deposed and is now safe on board the French training ship Duguay Trouin, and Port au Prince is in the hands of the revolutionists. General Antoine Simon, the leader of the insurgents, is marching up the peninsula with an army of 5,000, and a new president, General Legitime, has been proclaimed.

At the last moment President Alexis yielded to the urging of those about him and decided to take refuge on board the French warship. A salute of twenty-one guns announced his departure from the palace.

Thousands had gathered there, and they had surged around the entrance, threatening to tear down the walls to drive out the president and his loyal followers.

So serious was the situation that the French minister, M. Carteron, and other foreign representatives, together with members of a specially appointed committee, forced themselves upon the president, who finally consented to withdraw.

Shouts greeted him as he stepped from the palace and into a carriage which had been provided. Mr. Carteron, carrying the French tri-color, sat beside him, and the minister threw the folds of the flag over the shoulders of the deposed president to protect him.

All along the route the people jeered and cursed at the fallen president, but when the landing stage was reached the mob lost all restraint. The scene was tragic and shameful. Infuriated women broke through the cordon of troops and shrieked the coarsest insults into the very face of the president, who strove bravely to appear undismayed.

They tried to hurl themselves upon Alexis and fought with hands and feet against the soldiers, who found difficulty in forcing them back. In order to disengage them, troops discharged their guns, several shots being fired. During this time a space was cleared, and Nord Alexis was hurried aboard a skiff in tow of a steam launch, his suite tumbling into the skiff after him. As the launch drew away, warships in the harbor fired a salute to the fallen president.

A trunk which was left behind on the wharf was seized upon by the rioters and broken open. It was found to contain some $10,000 in gold and 20,000 Haitien gourdes. The specie was scattered about and promptly appropriated.

Because of her sympathy for his family, Miss Elvira Smith, pretty stenographer, living in Chicago, dropped her prosecution of the man whom she charges with having bigamously married her in Windsor, Can., a year ago. The action was a surprise to Herman Falkenstein, the defendant.

FIND HAT AND COAT.

Now Believed Christiana Lagesen Drowned Self in Lake.

Ludington, Mich., Dec. 3.—The finding of a hat and coat, which have been positively identified as those worn by Christiana Lagesen, the eighteen-year-old Danish girl who disappeared Sunday while attending a church service, gives credence to the theory of self destruction advanced by relatives.

The articles were picked up on the shore of Lake Lincoln. A number of men, police officers and relatives searched for the young woman's body, but all was to no avail.

KILLED FATHER-IN-LAW.

Louis Dicopa of Detroit Guilty in Second Degree.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 3.—Louis Dicopa is guilty of murder in the second degree. A jury in Judge Phelan's court brought in this verdict after two hours' deliberation. Dicapo shot and stabbed his father-in-law to death.

WILSON WON'T TAKE CHANCES.

Removes Hay Embargo Then Puts It on Again.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Secretary Wilson, after deciding that he would issue an order permitting the shipment of hay, etc., from state of Michigan under certain restrictions, later changed his mind. He will not issue the order, and the delegation of hay dealers from Michigan, understood to be about to start for Washington, may as well come along if they feel like it.

The secretary said he had stopped the order because he is not yet entirely satisfied that it is safe. That is all. He would not agree to the inference from this that he might issue the order a little later, as it was apparent that he would like to do so. He said it was always his policy to interfere as little as possible with business, but that this was a most serious affair, and that he would not take any chances.

GLAZIER "ALL IN."

Manifests But Little Interest in Bankrupt Proceedings.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 3.—The bankruptcy case of Frank P. Glazier of Chelsea, the former state treasurer, is proceeding in Referee Davock's court. Glazier is present and has the appearance of a man about "all in."

It is apparent that his physical condition is not good; that he is sadly lacking in strength and vigor. He listens to and answers questions passively, giving little direct informaton to the lawyers, although apparently knowing in his own way what were the transactions under investigation. But he seems to have lost all personal interest in the matter. His whole attitude seems to be that of dull passivity.

Little of importance has so far developed.

Some Washington officials are taking seriously the rumor that Mr. Taft is going to appoint Colonel R. M. Thompson secretary of the navy and that Truman H. Newberry of Detroit will go out in March. The men closest to the president elect, however, scout the story.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women, as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. THE CHRISTMAS LIPPINCOTT'S

With the approach of Christmas, everybody ought to be in a joyous mood, even if everybody is n't, so let us away with gloom and melancholy, and have about us only reading matter that is cheerful in tone and atune with the holiday season. The December LIPPINCOTT'S provides just the sort of entertainment to put you in good humor. The complete novel is a humorous mystery story entitled "Seven Days."

Among the notable offerings other than fiction are a witty and amusing paper on "Irish Courtship," by the famous Irish humorist, Seumas MacManus; "The Nativity," a beautiful miracle play in blank verse, by Charles L. O'Donnell; a delightful sketch called "The 'Truly' Christmas," by Edwin L. Sabin; a very funny discourse on "Anatomy for Beginners," by Thomas L. Mason; a strikingly beautiful Christmas poem, "Jesus unto Mary," by Chester Firkins.

"Walnuts and Wine," LIPPINCOTT'S widely quoted humorous section, is brimful of cleverness this month, and helps to round out a very satisfying magazine.

WHAT'S IN McCLURE'S

Everyone who has thought of the danger of facing poverty in his old age will be interested in Burton J. Hendrick's article on "The Superannuated Man" in the Christmas number of McCLURE'S MAGAZINE. Dr. Henry Smith Williams contributes a paper dealing with alcohol as a chief cause of crime, insanity and pauperism; Samuel Hopkins Adams shows how Copenhagen has solved the pure milk problem, and General Kuropatkin tells why Japan defeated Russia. The number contains two Lincoln articles: one the hitherto unpublished account of an eye witness of the assassination of Mr. Lincoln and the other the story of "Our American Cousin," the play he went to see on the night of the tragedy. An attractive feature of the number is a paper by John LaFarge in his series on "One Hundred Masterpieces of Painting," which is handsomely illustrated in colors.

If you think the rents are too high in your neighborhood hire an amateur cornet player to move in.

THE DECEMBER ATLANTIC

The December Atlantic opens with a Christmas talk by S M. Crothers. The Bayonet-Poker is his theme, for such an implement stands by his own study fire, devoted now to a wholly peaceful purpose, and the essayist takes it as symbolical of the coming of international peace. In Ghosts, Frank Crane protests against the inherited notions which we imagine to be convictions of our own. Again this month the Atlantic presents an important article by President Pritchett of the Carnegie Foundation on The Organization of Higher Education. Other articles of social and political importance are The New View of Charity, by Edward T. Devine, Civic Righteousness via Percentages, by R. L. Bridgman, and Races in the United States, by W. Z. Ripley. Turning to the field of letters, Stephen Phillips as a Writer of Tragedy is a fine criticism on one who may now be called the most important of contemporary poets; while the centenary of Edgar Allen Poe is marked by John Macy's article, The Fame of Poe. The Last Two Years in Italy, by Homer Edmiston, is a keen analysis of the conditions political and social in the Italy of the present day.

THE DECEMBER SMART SET.

America's next war forms the theme of the complete novel published in the December number of THE SMART SET. This is an imaginative romance by Arthur Stanley Riggs, whose fancy soars to almost as great heights in dealing with the future as did that of Jules Verne. In this novel, "In Quest of Fame," the author cleverly interrupts now and then the progress of a charming love story to draw a very logical picture of the conditions that may bring on an ultimate conflict with the next two decades.

Among other SMART SET fiction of the month are to be noted "Seventeen Candles," by George Bronson Howard, an eerie, fanciful tale fit to be told by an open fire under shaded lights; "Consequence," by Leigh Gordon Giltner, a story of a love won after marriage; "In Deep Waters," a story of primeval passions, by Walter Hackett.

Medicine That Is Medicine.

"I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints, but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that remedy is Electric Bitters; a medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for run down conditions," says W. C. Kiestler of Halliday, Ark. Electric Bitters purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, and impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you. 50c at C. A. Wright & Son's drug store.

"We shall always praise Pe-ru-na, for it saved our boy's life."

HERMAN HOCHMUTH.

MRS. EARNEST HOCHMUTH, 1703 Maple St., Des Moines, Iowa, writes: "Two years ago our little boy, Herman, was taken down with scarlet fever. He looked [illegible] stead of the eruptions coming to the surface they affected his lungs and stomach. For weeks we watched by his bedside, hardly expecting him to live from one hour to the next.

"Finally he became a little better and was able to sit up. Then he commenced to cough, and in spite of everything we could do he seemed to get worse all the time. His coughing spells would last until he was completely exhausted, and his lungs hurt him a great deal. Everybody thought he had consumption.

"One day, while at the drug store, my husband saw a Peruna almanac and brought it home. We read in it a perfect description of his case and we thought we would try Peruna. We bought a bottle, quit everything else, and began giving him Peruna.

"By the time two-thirds of the bottle was used the cough had almost gone. After he had taken two bottles he was perfectly cured. He has not seen a sick day since and is a hearty, healthy boy.

"We shall always praise Peruna, for it saved our boy's life."

MOLLY BAWN.

No creator of Irish character since the days of Boucicault has been as true to Irish life as it is seen in the Emerald Isle as Miss Beulah Poynter, the author of "Molly Bawn" which will be seen at the New Bradley opera house Wednesday, Dec. 9.

The scenes of Miss Poynter's play are laid in the vicinity of beautiful Killarney, whose beauty has long been made famous by writers of Irish poetry and literature. The play is a dramatization of the famous novel of the same name by "The Duchess."

Messrs Burt, Nixon & Nicolai have provided a cast of players of recognized rank and a scenic equipment of great magnitude and rare beauty. Reports from cities in which this play has been seen are of the most flattering character and the forthcoming engagement at the New Bradley, gives promise of being one of the most noteworthy attractions of the season at this house.

Mrs. Addie Rowland Griffin.

Mrs. Addie Rowland Griffin, who died Nov. 28th, at her home in Dover township, was a daughter of Wm. B. Rowland of Tecumseh. She was born in this village, spending her girlhood days here, moving near the village of Clayton upon her marriage to Berkeley Griffin twenty-three years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, a sister, Miss Ettie Rowland of Tecumseh, and two brothers, W. A. Rowland of Chicago, Ill., and C. A. Rowland of Toledo, O. The burial occurred at the West Rome cemetery Tuesday Dec. 1st, at 1:30 p. m.

Free Methodist Meeting.

Protracted meeting is being held by the Free Methodist's every night on Logan street near the railroad. The "Harvey Wood" house has been nicely fitted up and lighted

Quarterly meeting will be held there over Sunday of this week. Services Saturday at 2 and 7 p. m. Lovefeast Sunday morning at 9:30, preaching by district elder, S. W. Stone of Spring Arbor to follow. Preaching at 2:30 and 7 p. m.

We extend a welome to lovers of old Methodism.

Quality versus Quantity.

If there is anyone that quality counts it's in Oysters.

That is why the wise housekeeper insists on having "Sealshipts" Oysters. The price sounds higher, but the cost actually is lower; because you get solid meats—no water. "Sealshipt" Oysters are carefully packed in steel container with ice around the containers, but not in contact with the oysters. This method makes a truly astonishing difference in the flavor and appearance. "Sealshipt" Oysters are as firm as when they came out of the sea, taste like half shell oysters just opened.

You eat "Sealshipt" with indescribable relish because you know they are wholesome, fresh and healthful.

Look for the Pure White Porcelain Case bearing the Blue "Sealshipt" Trade Mark—it is your protection and guaranty. You will find them at our stores. We always have "Sealshipt"—would not have any other kind.

When You Buy Oysters Don't Pay For Water

Why should you get a pint of water with every quart of Oysters? Water is cheap—bloats and bleaches the oyster—spoils its natural flavor.

You have never known how good oysters can be unless you have had

"Sealshipt" Oysters

They are shucked into air-tight steel cans and shipped direct from the beds—packed with ice around the container, not in contact with the oysters. You get all solid meats. And how fresh, wholesome, appetizing and deliciously different they are!

Ask for "Sealshipt Sense," a booklet containing new and attractive ways of preparing oysters.

If your dealer doesn't sell "Sealshipt," here are some who do:

C. M. Gilbert and James Lowry & Son

The genuine "Sealshipt" Oysters are always sold from a White Porcelain Display Case bearing the "Sealshipt" trade mark in blue. This is for your protection—look for it. The "Sealshipt" Carrier System is patented. Infringements will be prosecuted to the full extent of the law.

An Interesting Lecture.

Most people in these days are greatly interested in the subject of Religious Healing. A strictly scientific application of the principles of Religion to the healing of diseases was begun a few years since in Emmanuel church, Boston. It met with wonderful success, and what is known as the Emmanuel Movement is rapidly spreading abroad—New York, Philadephia, Chicago and etc. The Rev. R. E Macduff, Rector of St. Paul's church, Jackson, who attended lectures in Boston last summer, will give an account of the movement in St Peters' church on Tuesday evening, Dec 8th at 7:30 o'clock. The subject of his lecture will be "The Emmanuel Movement: What it is, and What it proposes to do for the sick bodies and minds of men, women and children" Opportunity will be given for question and discussion. All are cordially invited. The lecture is free, but a collection will be taken.

COUNTY FAIR

GIVEN BY ST. PETER'S ALTAR GUILD A GREAT SUCCESS.

Ladies Realized About $100 from Their Efforts.

One of the Features of the Winter's Entertainments.

The County Fair held Wednesday, December 2nd in Witherell hall under the auspices of the Altar Guild of St. Peter's church was in every respect a great success. From the opening of the sale in the afternoon until the closing in the evening Witherell hall was well filled with friends and patrons of St Peter's.

Six booths attractively decorated displayed the articles on sale. At the entrance, the miscellaneous booth in charge of Mrs. Floyd Freeman, attracted many purchasers with its array of holiday fancy articles. Next the candy booth presided over by Miss Josephine Hayden and her assistants, Lila Miller, Ruth Kloffenstein and Bonnie Brown held a tempting display of home-made confectionery. Here the soft strains of a music-box lured patrons on to the forture-teller's booths, where under a gaily decorated canopy past, present, and futures were faithfully revealed for the magnificent sum of five cents. On the opposite side of the hall the handkerchief booth, with Miss Alma Kloffenstein as chairman realized a large sale of dainty handkerchiefs.

The art booth next to this displayed various pictures, calendars and holiday gifts. Here, too, tea was served during the afternoon. The pop corn booth gaily decorated in white with long floating streamers was presided over by Miss Cummings and Mrs R. K. Anderson. Toward the close of the afternoon two small "barkers" in the persons of Misses Ola Hicks and Camilla Hayden with megephones appeared in front of the booths and began to announces the salable articles while a large graphaphone kindly loaned for the purpose added to the general festive spirit.

During the afternoon and evening Miss Ola Hicks accompanied by Mrs. Wood executed several pretty dances which were greatly enjoyed. From five to seven an excellent chicken dinner was served and in the evening followed the country dance of the County Fair. So successful was every feature of the County Fair that the Altar Guild will realize nearly a hundred dollars from its proceeds. The members of the Guild wish to thank all who assisted them in the preparation for the fair and the patrons who so generously aided in making it so great a financial success.

IMMEDIATE RELIEF

From Coughs, Colds, Sore Throats and Hoarseness, by Using Hyomei

When you catch cold you want to get rid of it as quickly as you can. You don't want to lie around the house for a week swallowing nauseating drugs You know when you do this that you are not only making your own life miserable, but are a nuisane to everyone about you.

Why not avoid all this; why not relieve your cold in five minutes; why not cure it over night? You can do it by using Hyomei, the sure and guaranteed cure for Colds, Coughs, Sore Throat, Catarrh, Bronchitis and Asthma.

Hyomei is medicated and antiseptic air; you breathe it into the lungs through a small pocket inhaler, and its soothing influences as it passes over the inflamed membrance of the respiratory tract, stops the mucous discharge, allays the inflammation, and the cold is cured. A complete Hyomei outfit costs $1.00, and C. A Wright & Son's drug store will refund your money if it fails to cure.

Husband and Wife Cured.

I had a bad form of catarrh. My left nostril was closed entirely. There was also a constant dripping of blood from the right. I only used Hyomei a little over two weeks, and am now cured. My husband was also cured of catarrh and lung trouble two years ago by Hyomei. —Mrs. Harry Obney, Alliance, Ohio.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his presciption—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Tecumseh Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No 2 comes from the backs. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Tecumseh proof.

J. H. Welch, living on Union st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved beneficial to me. Years ago I strained myself and injured one of my kidneys, began treatment at once but was not helped. At night my rest was disturbed by the frequent action of the kidney secretions, thus causing me to arise in the morning tired and unrefreshed. Finally I begun using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Son's drug store, and now feel better than for several years. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a number of friends who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole Agents for the United States.

THATCHING.

The Ancient Art In the Low Countries and In England.

Once upon a time two amateur botanists were hunting bog mosses on Exmoor, on the confines of the land of Lorna Doone. About the hour of luncheon they found that their enthusiasm had led them far afield, a good hour and a half from the farmhouse which they had made their temporary headquarters. The only place which yielded promise of food was a shepherd's shack half a mile distant, so thither they went. That the shack, or, rather, its owner, a small, wiry, dark man with curly hair, could offer nothing better than brown bread, which was woefully "clit," or heavy, and raw onions is neither here nor there. The point was that the roof of the shack was artistically thatched with layers of plaited reeds.

"Feyther taught I th' way to do un," explained the shepherd, with an upward jerk of his thumb toward the roof. "An' his feyther taught 'im avore that, an' his feyther avore that, an' back an' back twill nobody can think."

"A hereditary art evidently," said one of the moss hunters to his companion. "But I never saw thatches like these outside of the Low Countries. Safe bet that this fellow is of Dutch descent." Then he said to the man of Devon, "And what is your name, may I ask?"

"Well," replied the shepherd, "most volk call I Van, but ma right name be Henry Van Torp. They do say that ma gurt-grandfeyther were a-vittin' against England an' were took prisoner an' married a Devon girl an' settled 'ereabout"—he indicated the southward sweep of the moor—"but there be a lot of voolish tales to ma think in'."—Craftsman.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

What Is the Earliest Event In Life You Can Remember?

"I can remember back to my fourth year," said a physician. "I was four during the Philadelphia Centennial of 1876, and I remember two Centennial scenes well. One was a great room full of brass band instruments—horns so big and yellow and shiny that they delighted me. I remember, too, a Turkish coffee room. My father took me into this room. Turks in native dress served the coffee. I liked the place at first; then I saw that it was noisy. The native waiters shouted horribly. I was frightened. I was on the point of tears, but whether I cried or not I can't tell you."

"I can remember back to the time when I was three," said a lawyer. "At the age of three my family took me to Cape May. I saw my father out in the water. He laughed and held out his arms to me, and, all dressed, I ran into the sea to him."

"All of us," said a psychologist, "can remember back to our fourth year. Some of us can even remember back to the second year. It would make an interesting article, a compilation of the earliest memories of a lot of people. The trouble, as a rule, is to fix the date of these memories, so as to be sure of our age at the time."—Pittsburg Press.

Explanations In Order.

A man whose wife was extremely jealous planned a pleasant surprise for her in the form of a trip to New York to see "The Merry Widow" and wrote a friend in the city to let him know the earliest date for which he could secure seats. The next day when he was away from home the following telegram was delivered there, addressed to him, but opened by his wife:

"Nothing doing with the widow until the 10th. Will that suit you?"

Explanations were demanded.

Liberality.

Little Jimmie, who had just received a box of mixed candy, passed it around to treat the family, saying: "Help yourself to all the chocolates you want. I don't like them."—Exchange.

To stop any pain in 20 minutes, take one of Dr. Shoop's Pink Pain Tablets. See formula on the box. Ask your Doctor or Druggist about this formula. It can't be bettered. Womanly pains, head pains, any pain gets instant relief. Box of twenty Pink Pain Tablets, 25c. Sold by all dealers.

VINOL CURES CHRONIC COUGHS, COLDS AND BRONCHITIS

After Other Remedies Fail

"I have been troubled with a chronic cold and bronchitis for a long time and have tried many remedies without finding relief. Through the kind suggestion of a friend I tried Vinol, and after taking four bottles, am entirely cured." A. H. Wilde, 732-8th Avenue, Minneapolis, Minn.

S. McDonald, 147 W. Congress St. Paul, Minn., writes: "I contracted a severe cold last winter and thought I would never get rid of it. I tried Vinol as a last resort, and it has completely cured me."

Vinol combines two world-famed tonics, the healing, medicinal properties of cod liver oil and tonic iron, deliciously palatable and agreeable to the weakest stomach. For this reason, Vinol is unexcelled as a strength-builder for old people, delicate children, weak and run-down persons, after sickness and for Chronic Coughs, Colds and Bronchitis.

VINOL is sold in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, Druggists.

INDIANS ELOPED.

Chap From West Took Girl From Carlisle School.

Carlisle, Pa., Dec. 3.—Superintendent Friedman of the Carlisle Indian school has sent out telegrams to chiefs of police in several cities, asking for the arrest of an Indian couple who eloped from the school.

The girl was a scholar at the institution, but her lover came here from the west. The superintendent declined to permit the wedding without the consent of the parents of the girl.

England's Prettiest Villages.

After a very careful survey we venture to write down the names of the six English villages that we consider the prettiest in the land so far as our own opinion and wide experience are concerned. The choice is made impartially and with full knowledge and due recognition of the claims of each to its high place. Here are the six: Bonchurch, Isle of Wight; Clovelly, Devonshire; Witchampton, Dorset; Sonning, Oxfordshire; Shere, Surrey, and Clapham, Yorkshire.—London Strand Magazine.

FOUND MRS. GUNNESS.

Oglesby (Ill.) Man Says She Is In His Town.

Laporte, Ind., Dec. 3.—Ira Marsh of Oglesby, Ill., in a letter received by Sheriff Smutzer, insists that Mrs. Gunness and Jennie Olson are in Oglesby. Marsh says that he will produce them as soon as he is sure the reward money will be paid him.

The woman, Marsh writes, arrived in Oglesby last May and joined a man who, Marsh declares, told him of going to meet a widow in Laporte. This man, whose name he does not give, came back to Oglesby after a trip to Chicago in January, 1907, a couple of months after Jennie Olson disappeared from the Gunness place, bringing with him a young wife, who, Marsh declares, is the image of Jennie Olson's photograph.

It is not likely that any investigation of the story will be made.

BONI'S REPUTATION WAS ASSAILED.

Former Wife's Lawyer Accused Him of Attempted Extortion.

Paris, Dec. 3.—The Princess de Sagan, who was Miss Anna Gould of New York, has just had her innings in court in the hearing of the case brought by her former husband, Count Boni de Castellane, to have the children of the union placed in the custody of is mother, the Marquise de Castellane.

Hundreds of women literally fought in the corridors in the palace of justice to gain admission to the court room, where the side of the princess was presented by M. Clemenceau.

Although essaying the impassioned oratorical role played by M. Bonnet last week, M. Clemenceau, cooly and calmly, but with cutting irony and keen ridicule, met the accusations brought against the Princess de Sagan, whose character, he insisted, was blameless. He mercilessly scored the record and character of the Count de Castellane and said he was wholly unfit to have the custody of his children.

He charged that the real purpose of the action was to raise money and satisfy his vengeance on the prince and princess even at the expense of the interests of his children, whose minds he had continually tried to poison.

Neither the Prince de Sagan nor the Count de Castellane were present in court.

TOOK MOTHER FOR BURGLAR.

Detroit Boy Shoots Down Parent In Early Morning.

THIEVES ENTERED THE HOUSE

While Mother and Daughter Were at Early Morning Service — Finding House Ransacked on Returning Home, Woman Gave Alarm, and Son, In Excitement, Shot Her.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7.—Mistaken by her son, Raymond, for a burglar, Mrs. Gertrude Schmelzer, wife of the late Sgeeant of Police Frank D. Schmelzer, was shot in the throat at her home, 204 Chestnut street, about 6 o'clock in the morning.

Although the bullet passed through te flesh and lodged near the spine, Dr. H. A. Luce, who is attending Mrs. Schmelzer, says that the injury is not a serious one.

Mrs. Schmelzer left for church with her two daughters at 5 o'clock Sunday morning. Raymond, aged twenty-two, and a younger brother, Frank, were still asleep. Returning home an hour later, Mrs. Schmelzer and her daughter found that the house had been thoroughly ransacked during their absence.

With a scream for help, Mrs. Schmelzer started to run up the stairs. Hearing her cries, Raymond seized a 22 caliber revolver and rushed to the landing. Mrs. Schmelzer was part way up the stairs when her son, not recognising her in the darkness, fired point blank at her.

Mrs. Schmelzer sank to the stairway, and Raymond, seeing his mistake, summoned Dr. Luce, who operated on the wound in the hope of removing the bullet, but without success. It is thought that after Mrs. Schmelzer recovers from the shock of the wound the bullet can be removed.

The entire downstairs of the house was thoroughly gone over by the burglars. They took considerably jewelry.

CORNERSTONE LAID.

Bishop Foley Blesses It on Being Put in Place.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7.—In the presence of 5,000 people, the cornerstone of St. Leo's Catholic church, Grand River and Fifteenth street, was laid Sunday afternoon with elaborate ceremonies. The event marked the rapid growth of a parish which has flourished for nineteen years in that section of the city.

The ceremony was attended by clergy from all parts of the city. Rt. Rev. Bishop John S. Foley was escorted from his home by a gorgeous religious pageant headed by the commandery of the Knights of St. John under Colonel Finigan, the Holy Redeemer Greys and all divisions of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in Wayne county, under the direction of Legion No. 10. Two brass bands preceded the parade and were followed by about thirty priests.

Bishop Foley blessed the cornerstone as it was dropped into place.

The new structure was begun about five weeks ago. It is designed to accommodate 1,160 people. It is expected that within a year's time the edifice will be ready for occupancy. It will be heated by a central heating plant separate from the main building.

HAS SHIP GONE DOWN?

If Steamer Clemson Was Wrecked Twenty-four Men Perished.

Duluth, Minn., Dec. 7.—One week has passed without news since the steamer D. M. Clemson, owned by A. B. Wolvin of Duluth, passed the Soo, bound up from Lorain, O., on her last trip of the year. Her owners say that in all probability the vessel foundered in the terrific storm that raged at the lower end of Lake Superior early in the week, or is stranded somewhere on the north coast. In either event, the entire crew of twenty-four men, officers, may have perished.

The Wolvin Steamship company has started out tugs on a thorough patrol of the entire north shore, from Port Arthur to the Soo and from the Soo to Isle Royale.

PLAYED ON THIN ICE.

Three Children Lose Their Lives in Vicinity of Boston.

Boston, Dec. 7.—Playing on thin ice has cost the lives of three children in this vicinity. Two young girls, Ethel, aged eleven and Martha, aged ten, daughters of Charles Anderson, drowned in a pond in North Easton.

At Methuen, George Slack, Jr., aged thirteen, lost his life in trying to save his younger brother, Arthur, from the water of Mystic pond. Arthur was saved by a man who head the outories of the boys.

GIVES LIE TO EDITORS.

President Denounces Editorials Appearing In Publications.

BRANDS STATEMENTS FALSE.

Smith's Indianapolis News and Laffin's New York Sun Come In For Drubbing—Controversy Pertained to Panama Purchase—Roosevelt Evidently Much Disgusted.

Hot Springs, Va., Dec. 7.—Some correspondence passing between Presidetn Roosevelt and William Dudley Foulke has been made public by the latter, in a letter to the president Mr. Foulke says:

"The Indianapolis News, not only during the campaign but even after its close, has been repeatedly and continually making serious charges against your administration, as well as against Mr. Taft, in connection with the Panama purchase, as for example the following:"

Here he inserted an article taken from the News. It said in part:

"It has been charged that the United States bought from American citizens for $40,000,000 property that cost these citizens only $12,000,000. Mr. Mr. Taft was secretary of war at the time the negotiation was closed. There is no doubt that the government paid $40,000,000 for the property. But who got the money? We are not to know. The administration and Mr. Taft do not think it right that the people should know. The president's brother-in-law is involved in the scandal, but he has nothing to say. The candidates brother has been charged with being a member of the syndicate. He has, it is true, denied it. But he refuses to appeal to the evidence, all of which is in the possession of the administration and wholly inaccessible to outsiders."

The president felt not disposed to aswer the criticisms, feeling that they were so utterly false.

He said in part:

"The News states in one of its issues that probably some of the documents dealing with the Panama matter have been destroyed. This is false. Not one has been destroyed, and they have been accessible to every human being who cared to look at them ever since, and are accessible now.

"The News gives currency to the charge that the 'United States bought from American citizens for $40,000,000 property that cost these citizens only $12,000,000.' The statement is false. The United States did not pay a cent of the $40,000,000 to any American citizen."

In answering one statement the president says:

"Really, this is so ludicrous as to make one feel a little impatient at having to answer it."

The president winds up by saying:

"Mr. Delavan Smith is a conspicuous offender against the laws of honesty and truthfulness; but he does not stand alone. He occupies, for instance, the same evil eminence with such men as Mr. Laffan of the New York Sun, editorials of whose paper you or others have from time to time called to my attention.

"The fact is that these particular newspapers habitually and continually, and as a matter of business, practice every form of mendacity known to man."

Cleveland, O., Dec. 7.—Mr. Delavan Smith was shown a copy here of the letter of President Roosevelt while on a train, and he made the following reply:

"The president's comments on the Panama editorial are based on statements made by a prominent New York paper, not the New York Sun, which the Indianapolis News printed at the same time, with many other papers, giving full credit to the source from which they obtained it. In making the editorial comment to which the president takes exception the editor of the News credited its information to the New York paper making the charge and distinctly disclaimed any responsibility for its accuracy."

HOUSE AND SENATE MEET.

Second Session of Sixtieth Congress Opens Today.

ASSEMBLE AND ADJOURN.

Legislators Separate After Short Session In Order to Pay Respects to Memory of Late Senator Allison. Will Listen to Message From the President Tomorrow.

Washington, Dec. 7.—As the hands of the clock in the hall of representatives in the national capitol converged at noon today Representative Joseph G. Cannon of Illinois let fall the gravel that is the outward symbol of his authority as speaker of the house of representatives and announced in his usual short, sharp tones that the members of the house would come to order. As he did so the voices of the legislators, blended in a babel of discussion that filled the immense hall, were suddenly stilled, and they awaited in reverent silence the opening prayer of Chaplain Couden.

While this scene was being acted in one end of the capitol another very similar, but on a much smaller scale, took place at the other end at the same minute as the senate was summoned from its private conversation to public business by the voice of Vice President Fairbanks.

Following the divine invocation in the two houses there were the usual scenes of swearing in of new members, escorted up to the seats of the presiding officers by their colleagues. As the present session is the second session of the Sixtieth congress, no organization was necessary, Speaker Cannon retaining his authority by virtue of his former election, and Mr. Fairbanks as ex officio presiding officer of the senate. The only changes that will be made are those in the committees, made necessary by deaths and resignations.

Death Causes Adjournment.

Today's session was very short. After the absolutely necessary business was transacted the two houses adjourned for the day in order to pay proper tribute to the memory of the late Senator Allison of Iowa. His successor, Albert B. Cummins, was sworn in today.

Before the house was called to order the crowds of visitors that filled the gallery spent the time of waiting by singling out for comment well known members. The latter seemingly paid no attention to the comments, which reached them, if at all, only in confused murmurs, and circulated among their colleagues, renewing old friendships, congratulating those whose efforts had resulted in success at the polls and condoling with those who were elected last month to remain at home. Prominent among the men who were the recipients of the latter mournful attention could be marked Representatives Hepburn of Iowa and Landis and Overstreet of Indiana, erstwhile leaders on the Republican side of the house. Judging from their outward appearance, however, these three, with the other unsuccessful candidates for re-election, bore their disappointment with cheerfulness. Their demeanor seemed to indicate that failure to obtain re-election to the house could be regarded in some lights as being far from a calamity.

Democrats Discuss Situation.

On the Democratic side the man who attracted the greatest amount of notice were John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, who has relinquished his post of representative of the house minority in view of his election to a seat in the senate, and Champ Clark, leader of the house Democrats. Each man was made the center of a group of his particular colleagues, discussing the chances of fighting successfully against the strong Republican majority in the house. Fewer Democrats than Republicans suffered defeat last month, the Republican majority being cut down, but the change will not, of course, affect the present session. On the Democratic side the man who was the recipient of the greatest number of condolences seemed to be the aged General Sherwood of Ohio.

Tomorrow the house and senate will listen to the reading of the president's message, after which adjournment will be taken in order to permit of organization for actual work.

DISPROVE LIFE EXISTS.

Physician Determined to Show That Electricity Does Kill.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 7.—County Physician Frank G. Seammell has announced that he would make an effort to resuscitate the next man electrocuted in the New Jersey state prison in order to disprove the claim of a New York physician recently put that electricity does not kill, but that electrocuted criminals die under the surgeon's knife in the autopsy or in the quick lime in which they are buried.

The next man to be electrocuted is John Mantasanna, who is to die during the week of Dec. 21.

TAFT DINES TONIGHT WITH TAR HEELS.

Guest of North Carolinians at New York Banquet.

New York, Dec. 7.—President Elect Taft will be the guest of honor at the dinner here tonight of the North Carolina society of this city. He has promised to attend and deliver an address to the south.

According to a prominent member of the society, the subject of Judge Taft's speech will be the tariff in its relation to the industries of the southern states. It is declared that he will outline the policy that will be pursued in the effort to win over to the Republican ranks some of the southern states.

The governors of the southern states have been invited to attend the banquet. Among the other speakers will be Walter H. Page, editor of World's Work, who is a native of North Carolina and will preside at the dinner, and President W. W. Finley of the Southern railway.

CASTRO MUST APOLOGIZE.

Else France Won't Let Him Land at Bordeaux.

Paris, Dec. 7.—If President Castro of Venezuela comes to Bordeaux he will not be allowed to set foot on French soil until after he has offered a formal apology for the fashion in which he has flaunted France.

This decision has been arrived at by the cabinet. The decision had been kept a secret for two reasons. First, because it was suspected that Castro would disembark at Santander, Spain, and, second, because his physical condition may be such that humanitarian motives might render immediate care at a hospital imperative.

But should he arrive at Bordeaux and his illness not be serious, the cabinet has determined that some signal redress must be exacted from the Venezuelan president for his ignominious expulsion of M. Talguy, the French charge d'affaires, from that country in January, 1906.

Permission to land therefore will be made conditional upon, first, the despatch of an official telegram of apology to the French government and, after that, the despatch of telegraphic instruction to Caracas for the immediate execution of the arbitral award in the matter of the French claims, which France asserts Castro has ignored.

Wilson Won't Lift Hay Embargo.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Secretary of Agriculture James Wilson is firm in his determination that no hay shall be sent out of the states which have been quarantine by the federal government because of the foot and mouth disease among cattle. For this reason the committee of Michigan hay men, composed of George C. Warren of Saginaw, Albert Todd of Owosso and J. A. Heath of Lenox, who came to Washington with resolutions asking that the embargo be lifted, made practically no progress toward that end.

Champ Clark Minority Leader.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Representative Champ Clark of Missouri has been chosen minority leader of the house of representatives. This took place at a caucus of the Democratic members of that body.

Six Day Bicycle Race.

New York, Dec. 7.—Amid the plaudits of 10,000 spectators, Dorando Pietri, the Marathon runner, at five minutes after 12 o'clock this morning fired the signal that sent fifteen teams of American and foreign bicyclists away in the sixteenth annual six day race around the big saucer shaped board track in Madison Square Garden.

let were affixing the plasters. "Would not wonder but they'll disfigure him for life."

"And he ain't any too good lookin' as it is, goodness knows," added Bige sympathetically.

"Go ahead and taunt me," growled Abner in a muffled voice from the environment of his disarranged clothing.

"There," said the doctor finally, fastening the last band and rising to his feet. "Now we must keep him warm. He ought to have a couple of blankets and three or four bedquilts on top of him."

"Sereny," observed Abner a few moments later, peering out from beneath a mountain of bedclothes like a rabbit peeking from under a straw stack, "I don't feel like I was very long for this world. I'm a half cured ham covered with mustard. I feel like a moldy old sandwich." He turned his face toward the wall and groaned.

"Oh, Abner," said Miss Simkins cheerfully, "do try and bear up, Abner!"

"And, Sereny," he resumed weakly, "when they take them poultices offen me I'll be the reddest Moon anybody ever saw. I'll be so lurid that I won't dare to go home for fear of givin' my children the scarlet fever."

"There, there," crooned Miss Simkins cheerily; "don't you go to worryin' about them children, Abner."

He turned and looked at her tenderly. "Sereny," he said, "would you really like to look after 'em—always? Would you care to marry"— He paused suddenly and rolled his eyes like one in mortal agony. His breath came in gasps. His mouth was wide open.

"Fire! Fire!" he roared suddenly, trying desperately to push the covers off. "I'm ablaze from one end of me to the other. I'm a ragin' conflagration. In just three minutes there won't be nothin' left of me but a bed of coals. I'm sufferin' spontaneous combustion, I tell ye! Won't somebody please put me out?"

Miss Simkins wrung her hands in fright. "Oh, Dr. Lavender!" she cried. "Oh, Mr. Eliet! Do something for him, can't you?"

"Mebby I'd better throw a bucket of water on him," said Bige. "Mebby I'd better turn in a fire alarm."

"Consarn ye!" groaned Abner. "I want ye to take them things offen me. They've drawed my wishbone and my spinal column together already, and the soles of my feet are clinging to my kneecaps like a stone bruise to a boy's heel."

"Be there any blisters on ye?" asked Dr. Lavender.

"There's just one," snorted Abner, "but it's bigger than a barn door, and I'm right in the middle of it."

"Too bad," said the doctor solemnly. "When plasters take effect as quick as that it shows his nervous system is a total wreck." He opened his medicine case, took out a bottle, shook it and held it between him and the light.

"I'm afraid, mum," he resumed sadly, "I'll have to give him a dose of this, after all. I hate to do it, but it's the only chance left us." He poured a little into a spoon. Abner was watching him with a florid but anxious face.

"It may cure him, mum," he resumed gravely. "If it does, he will be a well man in ten minutes, but if it doesn't, mum, it will kill him deader than a nit."

Abner clutched the bedclothes convulsively. He tried to speak, but he could only gurgle like cider pouring out of a jug, and a cold sweat broke out all over him.

"N-n-no," he gasped, throwing off the covers and sitting up on the edge of the sofa, "I won't take it! There is nothin' allin' me but just plain foolishness. I came here to court Sereny, and when I saw Bige Eliet comin' I hid in the smokehouse. But I'm goin' home now. I ain't goin' to ask Sereny to marry me. I wouldn't ask any woman to marry a consarned idjit that'll let a couple of heartless heretics make a dogratted dunce of him."

"But I want to marry you!" cried Miss Simkins, laughing and weeping by turns. "I don't care if you have been offered up as a burnt sacrifice. You're passed through the fiery furnace triumphant, and I'll marry you if you say the word, Abner."

She put one arm around his neck and rested her head affectionately upon his shoulder.

"Ugh!" groaned Abner, twisting his face into a horrible grimace. "I love ye, Sereny, and I'll merry ye, but—please don't piller your head on that poultice, Sereny."

The Traces of the Beasts.

On every side in the Malay wilds the traces of the beasts—which here live as scheduled, as safe from molestation, as did their ancestors in pre-Adamite days—are visible on tree trunk, on beaten game path and on the yielding clay at the drinking places by the hurrying stream. Here a belt of mud nine feet from the ground shows that an elephant has rubbed his itching back against the rough bark of a tree, and, see, coarse hairs are still sticking in the hardened clay. There a long, sharp scratch repeated at regular intervals marks the passing of a rhinoceros. Here, again, is the pad mark of a tiger barely an hour old, and the pitted tracks of deer of all sizes and varieties surround the deeply punched holes which are the footsteps of an elephant.—Cornhill Magazine.

Settled the Sign.

When William M. Evarts was secretary of state a new elevator man had been employed in the department who did not know Mr. Evarts by sight. In his car was a conspicuous sign to the effect that by order of the secretary of state smoking was prohibited. One day Mr. Evarts boarded the car in company with a famous senator, the latter smoking a cigar. The new man promptly touched the smoker on the elbow and said, pointing at the notice, "Can't you read that sign?" Mr. Evarts promptly tore down the offending notice and, turning to the elevator man, said: "What sign? I don't see any." The attendant, suspecting something, wisely held his peace, but he followed the pair out and asked the guard at the door who the chap with the large head was. The guard told

A PAIR OF FIRE EATERS

The Principals in the Longest Duel on Record.

IT LASTED NINETEEN YEARS.

The Way the Quarrel Between These Two Hot Headed Frenchmen Began in 1794 and How it Was Continued Until Finally Settled in 1813.

The following duel story presents a striking contrast to those we are now accustomed to hear and gives us some idea of the character of those dashing beaux sabreurs by whose aid Napoleon became the scourge of Europe.

In the city of Strassburg at the close of the eighteenth century soldiers of all ranks had ample opportunities of picking quarrels whenever they wished. A captain of hussars named Fournier indulged in this amusement to his heart's content and became celebrated for his aggressive temper and his address with arms. Strassburg had to reproach him for the loss of her sons, and especially for having challenged without any plausible reason a young man named Blume, whom he killed without the slightest pity.

On the very day of Blume's funeral General Moreau gave a ball, to which were invited all the members of the high bourgeoise. It was desirable to avoid the scandalous scenes which could not fail to take place between the fellow townsmen, perhaps the relations, of the unfortunate deceased and the aggressor, who was styled his murderer. General Moreau therefore desired his aid-de-camp, Captain Dupont, to prevent Captain Fournier from entering the ballroom. Dupont stationed himself in a corner of one of the antechambers and immediately he caught sight of him accosted him abruptly.

"What are you going to do here?"

"Ah, is that you, Dupont? Good evening. Parbleu! You see what I am doing. I am come to the ball."

"Are you not ashamed to come to a ball the very day of the funeral of that poor fellow Blume? What will his friends and relations say?"

"They may say what they please; it is all one to me. But I should like to ask what business that is of yours?"

"It is everybody's business. Everybody is thinking and talking about it."

"Everybody is wrong, then. I don't like people to poke their noses into my affairs. And now, if you please, let me pass."

"You shall not go into the ballroom."

"Indeed! Why not?"

"You must take yourself off. The general orders you to return to your own apartments."

"Am I turned out of the house?"

Dupont shrugged his shoulders.

"Are you aware of the consequences of turning Fournier out of doors?"

"I don't want to hear any of your rodomontades. Just have the goodness to take yourself off."

"Listen!" said Fournier in a fury. "I cannot have my revenge on the general because he is my superior officer, but you are my equal. You have presumed to take your share in the insult, and you shall pay for the whole of it. We will fight."

"Listen in turn," said Dupont. "I have long been out of patience with you. I am disgusted with your bullying ways, and I hope to give you a lesson you will long remember."

Fournier would have gone mad with vexation had he not been consoled by the hope of killing Dupont. But the result of the combat was not what he expected, for Dupont gave him a frightful wound.

"You fence well," said Fournier as he fell.

"Not badly, as you see."

"Yes. But now I know your play. You won't catch me another time, as I will soon show you."

"You wish for another encounter?"

"Parbleu! That's a matter of course."

In fact, after a few weeks' nursing Fournier for the second time was face to face with his adversary. It was now his turn. He gave Dupont a home thrust, with the comment: "You see you hold your hand too low to parry properly. After your lunge you gave me time to stock three inches of cold iron between your ribs."

"This is only the second act," cried Dupont. "We'll come to the catastrophe as soon as possible."

At the third meeting they each received a trifling scratch. So these two fire-eaters, annoyed at such a negative result, agreed to recommence the struggle until one of the two confessed himself beaten. They therefore drew up a treaty to this effect, and whenever the madmen were able to meet they fought. Their persons were marked with numerous scars, yet they continued to cut and slash at each other in most enthusiastic style. Fournier used to observe now and then, "It is really astonishing that I, who always kill my man, cannot contrive to kill that devil Dupont."

After these encounters had continued some years Dupont, now promoted to the rank of general, received orders to join the army of the Grisons. He was not expected and was trying in vain to find a lodging when he perceived a chalet, through whose windows a light was gleaming. He knocked at the door and entered. A man was writing at a bureau. He turned his head and, recognizing his visitor, said before the other could cross the threshold:

"Ah, is that you, Dupont? We will have a little sword play."

"With all my heart," said Dupont to Fournier, who chanced to be the occupant of the chalet, and they set to work, chatting between the passes.

"I thought you were employed in the interior," said Fournier.

"The minister has promoted me to the Fourth corps."

"Vraiment! What a curious coincidence! I command the cavalry there. And so you have only just arrived? I am delighted."

At last General Dupont's sword, after piercing General Fournier's shoulder, struck the wall.

"Sapristi!" shouted Fournier.

"You didn't expect that."

"On the contrary, directly I left my guard I knew I was caught. But 'tis you who don't expect what is going to happen."

During the little dialogue Dupont kept Fournier pinned to the wall as a naturalist would a butterfly.

"Well, what will happen?"

"The moment you stir I shall give you a thrust in the belly. You are a dead man," said Fournier.

"I shall parry your thrust."

"Impossible."

"I shall keep you pinned till you throw down your sword."

"I shall not do that. I intend to kill you."

Fortunately the noise made by the two generals was heard by some officers, who separated the combatants.

Dupont, the more reasonable of the two, sometimes thought of the absurdity of a quarrel which still went on after so many conflicts and at last decided to make an end of the matter.

One morning he called on Fournier.

"Are you come to fix a day for a match?" inquired the latter.

"Yes, but first of all let us talk a little. Listen. I intend to get married, and before doing so I should like to be done with you."

"Oh! Oh!"

"Our quarrel has now lasted for nineteen years. I do not wish to continue a style of life which my wife might consider not exactly comfortable, and therefore I am come to propose a change in the mode of the combat. One of my friends has at Neuilly an inclosure planted with trees, surrounded by walls with two doors, one at each end. At the hour agreed we will go to the inclosure separately, armed with our two holster pistols, to take a single shot with each. We will try which can find the other, and whoever catches sight of the other shall fire."

"That's a droll idea."

"Ten o'clock on Thursday morning—will that do?"

"Agreed. Adieu till Thursday."

They were punctual at their rendezvous, and as soon as they were inside the inclosure they sought each other cautiously. They advanced slowly, cocked pistols in their hands, eye on the watch and ear all attention. At the turn of an alley they perceived each other. They threw themselves behind a couple of trees and waited. At last Dupont resolved to act. He waved the tail of his coat just outside the tree which protected him; then he protruded his arm, drawing it back instantly. Immediately a bullet sent a large piece of the bark flying. Fournier had lost a shot.

After a time Dupont recommenced the same maneuver on the opposite side of the tree trunk without, however, drawing his adversary's fire. Then, holding his hat in his hand, he displayed it as far as the brim. In a twinkling the hat was blown away. Fortunately there was no head inside it. Fournier, therefore, had wasted his second bullet.

Dupont then sallied from his fortress and marched up to his opponent, who awaited him in the attitude of a brave man for whom there is no further hope. When Dupont was close to him he said: "I can kill you if I like—it is my right and my privilege—but I cannot fire at a human creature in cold blood. I spare your life."

"As you please."

"I spare you today, but you clearly understand that I remain the master of my own property, of which I allow you the provisional enjoyment. If ever you give me any trouble, if ever you try to pick a quarrel with me, I shall take the liberty of reminding you that I am the lawful owner of a couple of bullets specially designed to be lodged in your skull, and we will resume the affair exactly at the point where I think proper to leave it today."

So ended a duel begun in 1794 and finished in 1813.—Chambers' Journal.

Her Ancestor.

An Australian woman of great charm and tact tells many amusing stories of the strange questions put to her by people with a thirst for information about her native land.

"It is a very common thing for me to be asked if the bushes are still thick where I live or whether our house is in a 'clearing,'" she says plaintively, "and I know they often regard my veracity as a doubtful quantity when I tell them Australia is not all 'bush' by any means. But an old lady asked me a new question one day. She evidently supposed that all the dwellers in Australia were descendants of the criminals transported to Botany Bay.

"'Is it possible for the convicts to educate their children so well ordinarily?' this terrible old Englishwoman asked me, surveying me through her lorgnette as I finished telling one of her friends about my school days.

"'But my father was not a convict, madam,' I said, with natural surprise.

"'Ah,' she said meditatively, 'then I suppose it was your grandfather who was sent there. Of course much can be done in the third generation.'

"I should have been angry if it had been worth while," the Australian adds, with admirable wisdom, "but she surveyed me so impersonally that I didn't even tell her there was actually a part of the population of my country which did not come from convict stock."

CONFIDENCE

We Back Up Our Statements With Our Personal Reputation and Money.

We are so positive that we can cure constipation, no matter how chronic it may be, that we offer to furnish the medicine free of all cost if we fail.

It is worse than useless to attempt to cure constipation with cathartic drugs. Laxatives or cathartics do much harm. They cause a reaction, irritate and weaken the bowels and make constipation more chronic Besides, their use becomes a habit that is dangerous and often fatal.

Constipation is caused by weakness of the nerves and muscles of the large intestine or descending colon. To expect a cure you must therefore tone up and strengthen those organs and restore them to healthier activity.

The discovery of the active principle of our remedy evolved the labor of the world's greatest research chemists. It possesses all the best qualities of the remedical active principle of the best known intestinal tonics, and it is particularly prompt in its results.

We want you to try Rexall Orderlies on our guarantee. They are exceedingly pleasant to take and are ideal for children. They act directly on the nerves and muscles of the bowels. They have a neutral action on other organs or glands. They do not purge or cause any inconvenience whatever. They will positively cure chronic or habitual constipation and the myriads of associate or dependent chronic ailments Try Rexall Orderlies at our risk. The B. J. Pulver Drug Co.

REV. SIDEBATHAM,

A Korean Missionary was Burned in Explosion of Gasoline.

Died Shortly Afterwards as a Result of the Accident.

Rev. R. H. Sidebatham, a Korean missionary, who was to have spoken in Tecumseh last week, was badly burned from the explosion of gasoline while building a fire in his home in Lapeer, and died shortly afterwards as a result.

Rev. and Mrs. Sidebatham were both missionaries, Mrs Sidebatham returning to this country a little over a year ago, on account of failing health. Mr Sidebatham followed shortly afterward, and intended to return last October, but had postponed the return trip on account of the work in this country not being accomplished as he had expected.

He was 34 years of age and leaves two children beside his wife to mourn his loss.

Rev. Sidebatham spoke in Tecumseh sometime ago, and greatly interested the people here in Korea.

GEORGE TRIPLETT.

The body of George Triplett, the seven year old son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Triplett of Bangor, Me., was brought here for burial last Saturday. The funeral was held from the home of Dr. and Mrs. H. R. Conkling Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. D. S. Shaw officiating. Burial at Brookside. The circumstances of the little one's death are particularly sad. He was returning home from school at noon and in crossing the street he passed in front of a wagon and in his hurry did not see the street car approaching. He was thrown under the car and beside internal injuries was quite badly hurt on his head. He was taken to the hospital where, after 8 hours of intense suffering, death released him. He was conscious a part of the time and was able to tell of the accident. He leaves a father and mother and a sister in Bangor, Me., and a brother Walter, who is attending the University of Michigan, of the immediate family to mourn his loss. Mr. Triplett accompanied the re- to Tecumseh as Mrs. Triplett was not able to make the long journey.

SHOT HIMSELF

Wallace Ferguson of Jackson Shot and Killed Himself Friday Night.

Visting at the Home of His Sister Northeast of Tecumseh, Mrs. Clare Cramb.

Live an Hour and a Quarter. Leaves a Wife and Three Daughters.

Wallace Ferguson of Jackson, a brother of Mrs. Guy Belding of this place, shot and killed himself at the home of his sister, Mrs. Clare Cramb who resides on the Frank Clarkson farm, three miles north and east of Tecumseh.

Mr. Ferguson has been sick the past eight weeks, and it is thought that worrying over his own health has caused him to take his own life. He came to Tecumseh Friday noon, visited with Mr. and Mrs. Belding, until after dinner, when Mrs. Belding accompanied him to the Clarkson farm, to visit the younger sister, Mrs. Cramb.

Mr Ferguson seemed to be in the best of spirits. About supper time he went to the barn. His father, Walter Ferguson, who lives there called him, and upon receiving no answer, went to look for him. He found him lying on the barn floor, with a wound in his right temple. Guy Belding and Dr Hardy were immediately notified and the unfortunate man lived about three quarters of an hour after the doctor's arrival He was unconscious during that time.

Mr. Ferguson was 39 years of age, and leaves a wife and three daughters to mourn his loss, beside his father, a brother Walter Ferguson in Jackson, two sisters, Mrs. Belding and Mrs. Cramb of Tecumseh. Before his sickness he was employed at the Michigan Central car shops in Jackson, and was well liked and respected by the other employees.

The funeral was held from the home of Guy Belding yesterday at 10:30, Rev. D. Stanley Shaw officiating. The remains were taken to Jackson for burial at 1:35.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see. Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Thanksgiving is a good thing; thanksliving is better.

Every farmer should take part in politics, but it is better to get the corn husked first.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Tecumseh Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Tecumseh proof.

J. H. Welch, living on Union st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved beneficial to me. Years ago I strained myself and injured one of my kidneys, began treatment at once but was not helped. At night my rest was disturbed by the frequent action of the kidney secretions, thus causing me to arise in the morning tired and unrefreshed. Finally I begun using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Son's drug store, and now feel better than for several years. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a number of friends who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

THE SWORDFISH.

Overlord of the Sea and the Daintiest Feeder That Swims.

The swordfish is the overlord of the sea. Neither the whale, the shark nor any other giant of the deep can conquer him in private fight or public brawl. Nevertheless he is peaceful in the main and seeks the simple life, amusing himself often with worldwide travel and always with delicate gustatory joys. He is the daintiest feeder that swims, always kills his own game and thereby insures its freshness, wherefore his flesh is a delight to the palate of mankind and wherefore, again, men go forth to kill him for market and thereby at times fall upon adventures that make the hunting of tigers and the shooting of grizzlies pale into pastimes for the weary weakling.

For the bold swordfish is still hunted in mode as primitive as that the Eskimo uses to kill the stupid whale, and often the sting of the harpoon changes this luxurious ocean gastronome into a raging water devil, quick to perceive his advantage, charging with the speed of a bullet and the accuracy of a swordsman up against the lone fisherman in the dory who tries to bring him to gaff. Then must the fisherman measure with exactness the lunge of the monster, avoid it by a marvel of nice sidestepping in a plunging dory, or he will be spitted like a lark.—William Inglis in Harper's Weekly.

CHANCES IN GAMBLING.

The Rule of the Unexpected at the Tables In Monte Carlo.

There are systems, some will say, that will defeat the bank at Monte Carlo. I have not found one. Two factors settle all systems. One is the bank's limit, which prevents the doubling system so often advocated; the second, the extraordinary idiosyncrasies of chance. Red or black will often run in long series. I saw fifteen reds come up in succession on one occasion, seventeen uneven numbers in an unbroken series on another. One evening on a losing day I was playing on the first six numbers and persistently for some hours the last twelve numbers invariably turned up. Once I saw 21 come up four times in succession when mathematically it should have taken 144 coups to make it show that number of times, and still more strange that on this occasion each time it came up a gentleman had staked the limit on the number—namely, 180 francs—winning in ten minutes something over 24,000 francs. One readily sees by these instances the unexpected very often happens—in fact, more often that not.—Arthur Hewitt in Bohemian Magazine.

The Hog.

No other animal has been more modified by civilization and none reverts more quickly to the original wild type than the hog. Three generations of running wild suffice to turn the smooth, round, short snouted razorback or hazel splitter thin, lank, leggy, lop eared, snarp snouted, an Ishmael in bristles, running like a deer, if running be possible, fighting as only a wild hog can fight when battle is imperative. The tusks, which have been half obliterated in the process of civilization, get back size and strength. At a year old they are formidable, at two murderous, at three or five more deadly than a sword. They afford a certain index of age up to six years, but are commonly broken in fights long before that time. Wild boars are very ill tempered and when worsted in fighting often revenge themselves by ripping the bark from trees as high as they can reach.

Her Exercise.

Many readers think insufficient exercise is responsible for worrying moods. "Dare I whisper it," writes one correspondent. "Though I am a married woman, with two bonnie bairns, when my worries and temper prove too much for me I shut myself up in my room and dance a wild Scotch reel. I always did it when I got in a temper as a child as a sort of vent to my feelings, and I do it still and probably shall continue to do so as long as I'm sufficiently energetic."

Certainly a Scotch reel ought to provide enough exercise to exorcise any demon of worry if lack of exercise is the cause of it.—Home Chat.

Mystery of a Cookbook.

Somebody mentioned cookbooks. "It takes a good deal to make me wonder," said the publisher, "but I received a jolt in the culinary line the other day that set me thinking. In looking over the manuscript of a cookbook that had been submitted for our approval I was struck by this introduction to many of the recipes, 'Good for boarding house table.'

"Now, why that discrimination? Isn't anything that is good enough for a boarding house table good enough for any other table, and isn't anything that is good enough for any other table good enough for a boarding house table? Judging by the way those particular recipes read, they may result in some rather tasty dishes. Then why limit them to boarding houses?"—New York Globe.

Heart Troubles

The heart may be weak just the same as the eyes, stomach or other organs. It often happens that a person is born with a weak heart. Then again disease, fevers, over-exertion, anxiety, nervousness, rheumatism, etc. weaken the heart. The result is shortness of breath, palpitation, pain in the heart, or in some of the nerves of the chest or abdomen. The heart should be strengthened with a tonic, and for this nothing equals Dr. Miles' Heart Cure.

"I had LaGrippe last fall as I thought in a mild form. I was weak, tired feeling, and short of breath; could hardly go about, and a good deal of the time sort of an asthmatic breathing and extremely nervous. I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and Nervine and now I feel so much better in every way. I am so thankful that I began taking this medicine, and shall not hesitate to tell others how much good it has done me."

Women Inclined To Constipation

Great Care Should Be Taken Not to Use Violent Cathartics

Women, owing to their peculiar functions, are more or less liable to constipation and many of them owe their continued ill health to the pill habit. A well known physician lays the majority of cases of foul breath, bad complexion, disordered stomach, sick headache and female weakness to constipation and the constant use of violent cathartics to overcome it.

We believe women will be glad to learn of a safe reliable bowel and stomach remedy that is pleasant to take and that the first few doses will certainly produce natural daily movements without pain or gripe and in a short time establish a permanent cure. It is so effective it has cured cases of 40 years' standing and yet so mild and safe thousands of mothers give it to their babies. Jennie Gresham, Nashville, Tenn., says: "I suffered almost death with torpid liver and indigestion and Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin gave me quick relief." Sister M. Berchmans, of Mt. St. Mary's Academy, Oklahoma City, says: "We have found Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin satisfactory as a gentle laxative and stomach tonic." Mrs. Myrtle Mather, Chicago, says: "My daughter was troubled since birth with constipation and sick headache. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin cured her." Mrs. W. M. Powers, New Philadelphia, Ohio, says: "It is the best remedy for constipation and stomach trouble I have ever used." Mrs. R. H. Brown, Addington, Okla., says it gave her prompt relief from constipation and torpid liver. Mrs. Isabella Wheeler, Freetown, Ind., says: "Twenty-three years ago I was taken with stomach trouble. Three years ago I had become so weak I could hardly walk. I took Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and today am as well as ever." Druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

We are glad to send a free sample to any one who has not used it and will give it a fair trial. Address Pepsin Syrup Co., 308 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill.

Auto Hits Old Man.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7.—N. B. Jones was struck by an automobile driven by E. S. Raymond as he was crossing Woodward avenue at Holbrook avenue. He was knocked down and sustained a badly sprained leg and several bruises and cuts about the head. The injured man was taken to his home, 65 Leicester court, by Raymond, where it was at first thought his injuries would be fatal because of his advanced age, seventy-three years. Doctors say, however, his chances for recovery are good.

Died of Exposure.

Kalamazoo, Mich., Dec. 7.—John Green, aged about thirty-five years, and apparently a tramp, is dead at Borgess hospital as a result of exposure to the cold. A LINGUISTIC ESCAPADE.

When Henry W. Longfellow Shocked Intellectual Boston.

In the original impression of Longfellow's poem of "Hiawatha" there were found in the seventh book the three lines following:

Straight into the river Kwasind
Plunged as if he were an otter,
Dove as if he were a beaver.

How this offending preterit passed the proofreader without protest is one of those mysteries which have never been revealed. But the form certainly made its appearance and can still be found in copies of the poem which were regularly published and sold. Boston never received such a shock since the days when Fenimore Cooper insisted that it was only in the middle states that the English language was spoken in its purity. But that attack came from an outsider. Here the offender was of her own household, was, in fact, her favorite son. What means of suppression were resorted to will probably never be disclosed. A mysterious reticence has always been preserved in regard to this lingulstic escapade. The biographers of Longfellow appear to be silent upon the subject. Measures of some sort must, however, have been taken at once. "Dove" was expunged, and the decorous "dived" assumed its place, and the whole transaction was so completely hushed up that no public scandal was created. Let him who possesses a copy of that first impression continue to cherish it. Whatever may be its worth now, the time will come when it will reach the value of the virtuous woman of Scripture, and its price will be far above rubies.—Professor Thomas R. Lounsbury in Harper's Magazine.

THE PALACE WAITED.

A Suggestion That Changed the Plans of a Pope.

At a time when there was great suffering among the people from lack of food and when famine in its worst form was threatened Pope Alexander VI. had made arrangements for the erection of a magnificent palace. The best architects had been employed, and the plans had been submitted and accepted, and an accomplished builder had been sent for to come from Venice, a man whose work had won for him renown and who was known to be a just and upright man.

The builder had arrived, and at an appointed time he waited upon his holiness to receive the plans and make his estimates. "There is one thing yet to be done," said the pope. "There has been no proper inscription or legend thought of to be placed over the main entrance of the palace. It should be put above the great gate. You have had experience. Do you think of an inscription that would be appropriate?"

"If your holiness would pardon me for the liberty, I might suggest one most appropriate at this time."

"You are pardoned in advance," said the pope, smiling. "Now, what shall it be?"

"Sovereign pontiff, let it be thus: 'Command that these stones be made bread!'"

The pope was visibly and deeply affected. He paid the builder munificently for his expenses of coming and going, and instead of building his palace he fed the hungry ones of his children.

LIESKE CONVICTED.

Found Guilty of Assault to Do Great Bodily Harm in Shooting Detective.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 7.—Frank Lieske, on trial for shooting Detective Williamson, has been convicted of assault to do great bodily harm.

Nervous and trembling, the prisoner sat in the little pen as the twelve men trailed into court, weary from their ten hours of deliberation. As their finding was announced by the foreman Lieske showed no sign of emotion.

For eight and a half hours the jury pondered over the evidence, their loud arguments occasionally drifting throught the transom, and then announced that they wanted to be instructed on some of the fine points in the case. Judge Connolly was notified, and he called the men from the room.

Foreman Taylor explained that it was not clear to them how many different charges it was possible to find. This announcement left no doubt in the minds of the court attaches and the prosecution that the finding would be a conviction. After retiring again it took but a short time to reach an agreement, and Lieske was again brought into court.

Attorney Grece asked for an extension of time to prepare a motion for a new trial and was granted thirty days.

The trial of Lieske was not a sensational one, and the outcome was as predicted by every member of the police department. His defense was an alibi. He was accused of shooting Detective Frank Wilkinson on Oct. 17, when the latter attempted to arrest him. The officer recovered from the wound and took the witness stand and positively identified the man.

Lieske denied the crime from the first and said he was a victim of police persecution, and he said he fled from Detroit only because he knew he would be convicted if caught.

NATIONAL APPLE SHOW.

Fruit Exposition, With International Exhibits, Opens in Spokane.

Spokane, Wash., Dec. 7.—The apple is the greatest fruit in the world, and the northwestern corner of the United States is the greatest place in the world to grow it in, if the people gathered here today to witness the opening of the national apple show are to be believed. Their belief seems to be justified by the many splendid specimens of fruit placed on exhibition.

Months ago the projectors of the show, aided by the Spokane chamber of commerce, induced the national government to issue invitations to foreign countries to send here their best specimens of the apple. The object was the bringing together at one time of the standard varieties of apples grown for commercial purposes throughout the world for the purpose of comparison. Another object is the advancement of the interests of apple growers.

Fleet Passes Singapore.

Singapore, Dec. 7.—The United States Atlantic battleship fleet, under Rear Admiral Sperry, passed through the harbor here Sunday. The presentation was made by Dr. Karl Buenz, consul general of Germany at New York. France Will Serve Expulsion Order On Castro.

HIS MISSION ONE OF PEACE.

So Declares President of Venezuela, Who Reaches Spanish Port—Will Go to Bordeaux—Expects to Arrange Differences With United States.

Paris, Dec. 10.—Humanitarian considerations alone have influenced the government's decision to allow President Castro to land at Bordeaux. It is stipulated, however, that his landing is only possible in the event of his wishing to pass through France to another country to seek medical or surgical treatment, or if his condition is so critical that an immediate operation is necessary. In any case, it is planned to serve upon the Venezuelan president the order of expulsion.

If an operation is performed on Castro at Bordeaux, this order becomes effective immediately thereafter, unless he apologizes and makes the other amends demanded by the French government. Unforseen circumstances, however, may alter the program at the last moment.

Santander, Spain, Dec. 10.—A member of Castro's entourage, which has reached here, expressed the opinion that various governments would be very much surprised when certain documents in the possession of President Castro were shown to them.

President Castro has every reason to believe that things will go smoothly during his absence from home. He has left matters in excellent shape, and Acting President Gomez is regarded as fully competent to handle the situation. President Castro was informed of the Dutch naval demonstration off the coast of Venezuela, but he would make no comment.

All the passengers on board the Guadeloupe who talked with President Castro on the trip over were greatly impressed with his remarkable intelligence and strong personality.

Castro will continue on board the steamer to Bordeaux, and from Bordeaux he will travel overland to Berlin. He has come to Europe with the intention of settling all Venezuela's international quarrels. His general heath is good.

His position is that the French government is aware that he is going to France with his hands stretched out in peace. He declared he is ready to make important concessions in order to restore amicable relations.

President Castro, it is said, also expects to arrange the differences of his government with the United States, including the asphalt affair.

Vapor Surrounds Planet Mars.

Boston, Dec. 10.—Professor Percival Lowell, the well known astronomer, has made an important statement with reference to the water vapor on Mars. His assistants at his observatory at Flagstaff, Ariz., have been able to determine that the water vapor on the planet is present and measurable. Those scientists who disbelieve in any life on the planet have known that their point could be proved if the absence of an atmosphere could be shown. Professor and his staff have been at work seeking what evidence there might be in favor of an atmosphere.

MAJORITY RULES IN THE HOUSE.

"I Am Not a Czar" Declares Speaker Cannon.

SAYS HE ONLY PRESIDES.

Directs Ohio Valley Improvement Association to Seek Appropriation Through Committee on Rivers and Harbors—Says They Will Get Consideration There.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Speaker Cannon has declared in a public address here that never since 1890 had there been a time when under the rules of the house, either under Republican or Democratic control, that a majority of the members had not been able to register their will in legislation. He was speaking to a delegation of about 200 members of the Ohio Valley Improvement association, which, through its chairman, presented him with a memorial urging the improvement of the Ohio river at a cost of $63,000,000, to be paid in bonds.

"I appreciate," said Mr. Cannon, "that you approach me because I occupy the office of speaker. I know that they say that I am the czar and that I have more power to bind and to loose than had St. Peter when it was said to him, 'On this rock I build my church.' But that is incorrect. The speaker's function is to preside over the house and to enforce its rules, and nothing more."

He then declared that in view of this fact it would rest with the committee on rivers and harbors to make recommendation in this, as in all other matters pertaining to the improvement of the waterways of the country, and with the house and then with the senate and lastly with the president to say what should be done with such a recommendation.

The speaker made no definite promises, but assured his hearers that he had no doubt that the committee would give the subject its very best consideration.

QUEER CEREMONY.

Body of Chinese Emperor Placed in Mortuary.

Pekin, Dec. 10.—The body of Kuang Hsu, the late emperor of China, has been carried with much ceremony from the hall in the Forbidden city, where it has reposed for the last week, to the Coal Hill mortuary.

It will here continue to lie in state pending the location and construction of the imperial sepulcher. The funeral cortege was brilliant, barbaric and weird in the eyes of western observers.

The cortege was accompanied by 6,000 mourners and 4,000 soldiers. Fully 10,000 men knelt in the streets of the imperial city as the procession went by.

Sixty-four imperial chair bearers bore the catafalque as far as the east gate, and at this point the regent and the members of his suite fell out of the procession and retraced their steps to the Forbidden city.

At the east gate these sixty-four bearers were replaced by 128 others, by whom the coffin was carried and escorted to the mortuary.

Two Iron Workers Killed.

New York, Dec. 10.—Two sheet iron workers were killed and two others slightly injured in east New York when a row of steel uprights supporting the roof skeleton of a lofty coal shed buckled and collapsed.

SEARCH SHORE FOR BODIES.

Cabin of Missing Clemson Has Been Found.

FOUNDERED WITHOUT WARNING

Such Deduction Is Made by Marine Men—Not Lifeboat Found—Relatives of Members of Crew Living at Marine City Abandon Hope of Their Being Alive.

Grand Marais, Mich., Dec. 10.—Part of the cabin of the missing steamer Clemson of the Wolvin line has been found on the shore near here. The owners of the boat have a large band of men patroling te beach in search of bodies of the crew. Superintendent Hayes of the Wolvin line is on the shore directing the search being made between here and Whitefish point.

No lifeboat has been found, and from this fact marine men deduce that the ship foundered without warning. They declare that under ordinary circumstances the men would at least have time to don life jackets or launch a sea boat before the vessel sunk.

Some predict that the bodies will never be found. Lake Superior, with its great depth of icy cold water, but seldom gives up its dead. A year ago the steamer Cyprus met a similar fate, and not a body of the crew of that vessel was ever recovered.

Marine City, Mich., Dec. 10.—Relatives of Charles Woods, Burt Balfour, Stephen Vollmar and Loftus Regan, the four members of the Clemson's crew who hailed from this port, have, after days of anxiety, come to the conclusion that the men are lost.

In a catastrophe of this nature the blow, in a way, falls on most of the residents here, as this is purely a sailors' town, and every is intimately acquainted, if not related, to everyone else.

The mother and a sister, Mollie, are prostrated with grief over the loss of Burt Balfour, who sailed as steward on the Clemson but barely two months ago. The sister is an invalid and is very low. Balfour, who was twenty-eight years old, was the main support of the little family, the father having been dead several years. Besides a mother and the invalid sister, he is survived by two other sister, Frances and Mrs. Kate Killbreath, and a brother, William.

Grave fears are entertained for the life of Mrs. Wood's, wife of the second mate of the Clemson. She is constantly under the doctor's care.

No More Bleached Flour.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Bleached flour will be outlawed after the lapse of six months. Secretary Wilson's decision to this effect just announced means that machinery in about forty Michigan flour mills valued at nearly $300,000 must be thrown on the junk pile. Secretary Wilson's decision is based on his view that the effect on flour of the peroxide of nitrogen generated by electric bleachers is equivalent to adulteration.

Another Outbreak In Haiti.

Cape Haitien, Haiti, Dec. 10.—There has been a revolutionary outbreak in several of the northern towns of the republic, and it is feared that the movement will spread. General Robillard has left Plaisance for Gonaives for the purpose of suppressing the disorders.

TO MEET MR. TAFT.

Republican Members of Ways and Means Committee Will Talk Tariff.

Washington, Dec. 10.—President Elect Taft's day Wednesday was crowded with conferences and social engagements. The important feature was a conference with Speaker Cannon which led to an arrangement whereby the Republican members of the house committee on ways and means will meet Mr. Taft at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the residence of Representative Nicholas Longworth.

It also was arranged that at the conclusion of this conference a statement should be issued to make known what the attitude both of the president elect and the committee is to be respecting the forthcoming revision of the tariff.

PLAN TO TRADE HERE AND ABROAD.

National Council of Commerce Organized Today.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The organization of the national council of commerce, begun at a meeting held today in the office of Secretary of Commerce and Labor Straus, is expected to prove of farreaching benefit to the foreign and home trade of the United States. The council is the embodiment of ideas of Secretary Straus whereby it is hoped the commercial world may be brought in closer touch with the departments of the government and utilize their machinery and the valuable information secured by them for the general betterment of trade at home and abroad.

SECRETARY OSCAR S. STRAUS.

One of the features of the movement is the establishment of a permanent bureau of the council in this city in charge of a capable man who can keep in close touch with the departments that have to do with commercial affairs and advise various commercial interests of important matters that arise from time to time and affect their welfare.

The president will receive the delegates today, and Secretary and Mrs. Straus will tender a reception to them this evening.

"My husband is the most unselfish of men!" exclaimed Mrs. Youngwife. "I gave him a whole box of cigars, and he only smoked one and gave all the rest away."

The Fountain Head of Life Is The Stomach

A man who has a weak and impaired stomach and who does not properly digest his food will soon find that his blood has become weak and impoverished, and that his whole body is improperly and insufficiently nourished.

Dr. PIERCE'S GOLDEN MEDICAL DISCOVERY makes the stomach strong, promotes the flow of digestive juices, restores the lost appetite, makes assimilation perfect, invigorates the liver and purifies and enriches the blood. It is the great blood-maker, flesh-builder and restorative nerve tonic. It makes men strong in body, active in mind and cool in judgement.

This "Discovery" is a pure, glyceric extract of American medical roots, absolutely free from alcohol and all injurious, habit-forming drugs. All its ingredients are printed on its wrappers. It has no relationship with secret nostrums. Its every ingredient is endorsed by the leaders in all the schools of medicine. Don't accept a secret nostrum as a substitute for this time-proven remedy of known composition. Ask your neighbors. They must know of many cures made by it during past 40 years, right in your own neighborhood. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

Rheumatism

I have found a tried and tested cure for Rheumatism! Not a remedy that will straighten the distorted limbs of chronic cripples, nor turn bony growths back to flesh again. That is impossible. But I can now surely kill the pains and pangs of this deplorable disease.

In Germany—with a Chemist in the City of Darmstadt—I found the last ingredient with which Dr. Shoop's Rheumatic Remedy was made a perfected, dependable prescription. Without that last ingredient, I successfully treated many, many cases of Rheumatism; but now, at last, it uniformly cures all curable cases of this heretofore much dreaded disease. Those sand-like granular wastes, found in Rheumatic Blood, seem to dissolve and pass away under the action of this remedy as freely as does sugar when added to pure water. And then, when dissolved, these poisonous wastes freely pass from the system, and the cause of Rheumatism is gone forever. There is now no real need—no actual excuse to suffer longer without help. We sell, and in confidence recommend

ACCIDENTAL DROWNING

Charles McNeil an Inmate of Psychopathic Ward at University Hospital, Ann Arbor.

Tecumseh man, who had been suffering with a nervous trouble.

Word was received here last night that Charles McNeil, a farmer residing in Newberg just two miles north of Tecumseh, had been drowned in the mill-race below the Ann Arbor electric light plant shortly after 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. Mr. McNeil had been an inmate of the psychopathic ward at the University hospital since last July and has been improving enough so that he came home at Thanksgiving time and remained several days.

Thursday afternoon he was walking with another inmate of the hospital along the mill race when Mr. McNeil suggested that they cross to the other side on the ice. They had gone but a few feet when the ice began to crack beneath their weight. Mr. McNeil's companion started back and called to him as he did so, but the former kept on, not heeding the warning of his companion and he soon sank to his death. Help was summoned at once, but it came too late. The police searched for the body last night, but it was not found until this morning. A brother-in-law of deceased, Fred Sheldon of this place went to Ann Arbor last night and will bring the body to Tecumseh at once for burial.

Charles McNeil was about 45 years of age and has resided in and around Tecumseh during his entire life, residing on a nice farm in Newberg. About two years ago he suffered a sun stroke and it is thought this contributed largely to his nervous trouble. He was never violent and was allowed numerous privileges about the hospital.

He leaves to mourn his loss, a wife, who was formerly Miss Helen Sheldon, daughter of Mrs. Ella Sheldon of this place and four children, Earl, Allan, Russell and Ellen. The family are prostrated with grief. Numerous relatives in and around Tecumseh are left to mourn. Sympathy is extended to the wife and children in their great bereavement. No arrangements have been made for the funeral.

FALLING IN LINE.

Delegates Are Endorsing Bond Issue For Rivers and Harbors.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Sentiment in favor of the issuance of government bonds for a comprehensive improvement of the rivers, harbors and canals of the country to the end that this nation shall have the greatest system of waterways in the world has gained considerable headway at the annual meeting of the rivers and harbors congress here.

The scheme contemplates the issuance of $500,000,000 worth of federal bonds for internal water courses, to be distributed over a ten year period, or $50,000,000 annually. Following the lead of President Roosevelt and President Elect Taft both of whom, before the joint conservation meeting, advocated the issuance of government bonds for the construction of permanent public improvements, enthusiastic endorsement has been given the proposition by such leading figures as Vice President Fairbanks, Andrew Carnegie, Joseph E. Ransdell, president of the congress, and other speakers.

It is learned today that the congress in all probability will adopt resolutions asking congress to authorize the issuance of bonds.

Upwards of 3,500 delegates, representing forty-four states and the territories of Alaska, New Mexico and Hawaii and Porto Rico, are in attendance.

A ROYAL FUNERAL.

Strange Ceremonies That Mark the Burial of a Spanish King.

Strange and almost weird is the ceremonial which accompanies the burial of Spanish kings. The pantheon, or royal tomb, is at the palace of the Escurial, situated 3,000 feet above the level of the sea and some distance from the capital. Only kings, queens and mothers of kings are buried there, the coffins of the kings lying on one side, those of the queens on the other. After lying in state for several days in the throne room in Madrid an enormous procession is formed, accompanying the body to the Escurial. A halt is made on the way, and the corpse rests there for one night.

In the morning the lord high chamberlain stands at the side of the coffin and says in loud tones, "Is your majesty pleased to proceed on your journey?" After a short silence the procession moves on and winds up to the grand portal of the palace. These doors are never opened except to admit a royal personage, dead or alive. When the casket containing the remains is at last placed in the vault the chamberlain unlocks it and, kneeling down, calls with a loud voice: "Senor! Senor! Senor!"

After a solemn pause he cries again: "His majesty does not reply! Then it is true, the king is dead!"

He then locks the coffin, gives the key to the prior and, taking his staff of office, breaks it in pieces and flings them at the casket. The booming of the guns and the tolling of bells announce to the nation that the king has gone to his final resting place.

How He Managed It.

The bishop of Richmond told a good story about his father. "He was a farmer," said Dr. Pulleine, "and a nice old gentleman too. One year he took it into his head to grow flax, so he sowed the seed and, having a good crop, sent it away to be made into a tablecloth. Some time later when seated at dinner he remarked to a lady near him, 'Do you know, I grew this tablecloth myself!' 'Did you really?' she answered, with the greatest surprise. 'However did you manage it?' 'Well,' most mysteriously, 'if you'll promise not to tell any one I'll tell you. I—planted a napkin.'"—London Mail.

PE-RU-NA IN THE HOME.

One of Thousands of Homes.

MRS. FLORENCE AITKENS, 409 3rd St., Toledo, Ohio, writes: "Peruna cured me of internal catarrh. I took about four bottles when I noticed the improvement and the fifth bottle cured me.

"I do not know what I would have been like today had I not got Peruna, for I was in a terrible state. I had pains all over and was cross and irritable. I was losing hope of ever being well again, and was downhearted. I am today a cured woman, after suffering for nine months.

"I cannot tell you how happy I feel, but you will know. I never heard of such medicine; it is the best medicine on earth. My husband is now taking it. I will always keep Peruna in my house. Peruna is the best friend I ever had. It must be praised; it cured me."

Pe-ru-na Tablets.

For two years Dr. Hartman and his assistants have labored incessantly to create Peruna in tablet form, and their strenuous efforts have just been crowned with success. People who object to liquid medicines can now secure Peruna tablets.

Another Home Where Pe-ru-na Is Used.

MRS. MARIA GOERTZ, Orienta, Oklahoma, writes: "My husband, children and myself have used your medicines, and we always keep them in the house in case of necessity.

"I was restored to health by this medicine. People ask about me from different places, and are surprised that I can do all of my housework alone, and that I was cured by the doctor of chronic catarrh.

"My husband was cured of asthma, my daughter of earache and catarrh of the stomach, and my son of catarrh of the throat. When I was sick I weighed one hundred pounds; now I weigh one hundred and forty. Peruna quiets the nerves, and is a great specific for all forms of chronic catarrh."

"I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints, but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that remedy is Electric Bitters; a medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for run down conditions," says W. QUEER TELEGRAPH POLES.

Made of Adobe in Bolivia—Growing Trees Used in Africa.

The most original telegraph line in the world once extended from the capital of Bolivia, La Paz, to the town of Oruro. In this part of Bolivia there are no growing trees, and wood is so difficult to find that even the ordinary household furniture of the natives is invariably made not of wood, but of dried mud or adobe.

So when the war broke out between Chile and Bolivia and a telegraph line became urgent it was adobe that was chosen for the queerest telegraph poles in existence. These pillars were built on stone foundations and measured about five feet square at the base, with a height of about fifteen feet.

They were placed at intervals of about 361 feet and thus held the wire at a height sufficient to clear the only animals of the country, the llama and the donkey. The total length of the line was 356 miles.

Among other curious telegraph lines is the growing pole line erected in Uganda by an English engineer, who could not find any dead wood which would withstand the white ants and hit upon the idea of transporting growing bark cloth trees to the side of the roads and using them as poles.

In the Dutch East Indies growing trees are turned to account also, but there a wire is stretched across the road between the trees on either side, and the insulator is suspended in its middle, and the line is thus over the road and clear from vegetation.—Chicago Tribune.

Watch Springs.

The watch carried by the average man is composed of ninety-eight pieces, and its manufacture embraces more than 2,000 distinct and separate operations.

Hairspring wire weighs one-twentieth of a grain to the inch. One mile of wire weighs less than half a pound.

The balance gives five vibrations every second, 200 every minute, 18,000 every hour, 432,000 every day and 157,680,000 every year.

The value of springs when finished and placed in watches is enormous in proportion to the material from which they are made. A ton of steel made up into hairsprings when in watches is worth more than twelve and one-half times the value of the same weight in

Don't Buy Watered Oysters

Oysters should never be watered or packed directly in ice. The ice should be around the container. Otherwise the sharp, jagged edges of the ice cut, mangle and batter the oysters, spoiling their looks and running their delicate flavor.

The oyster is a salt water shell fish. When put into fresh water it puffs up and loses its pleasant, piquant flavor. It is just as unnatural to soak oysters in ice and fresh water as to subject a fine, juicy steak to such treatment.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are the only kind that are properly packed. They are shucked into airtight, steel containers and ice is packed around the containers. Ask for "Sealshipt Sense," a book about "Sealshipt" Oysters. It goes into the details of "Sealshipt" excellence.

WARNING TO THOSE MEDDLING WITH MAIL BOXES.

I want to sound a note of warning to the young boys—and some not so young—who have been, using the farmers' mail boxes for target practise.

To be sure, the farmers own these boxes, and farmers are easily imposed upon; but listen, boys, Uncle Sam is their guardian, and he will allow no meddling.

A similar case is now being investigated at Marshall by the U. S. Postal authorities, and the probabitities are that the offenders will be heavily fined.

Have your target practise, if you must. We offer you free use of the many sign boards, and posters with which our fences and shade trees are so beautifully and artisticaly decorated.—Shoot at them to your heart's content, but spare our mail-boxes.

LETTER FROM A FORTY-NINER

COULD NOT OBTAIN RELIEF FROM CATARRH UNTIL HE HAD USED HYOMEI

Here is a simple, interesting and sincere letter from a rugged pioneer of '49, who braved the dangers and hardships of the overland trail to California. Surely the sincerity of this letter should strongly appeal to those who desire to escape the bondage in which they are now held by that ruthless and most powerful wrecker of health and happiness: Catarrh.

Santa Rosa, Cal., May 5, 1908.

Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sirs;—Some years ago I was afflicted with catarrh, and tried a number of remedies, but received no relief. I was told by a friend who had been using your Hyomei, and thought I would receive a great benefit and perhaps a cure. I purchased an outfit, and before I had used the bottle I noted a marked relief

I used it for a month or so, and thought I was cured, and stopped using it for a year or so. Thought I was getting catarrh again, and started using it again, and I keep it in the house and use it every morning once a day, and keep myself clear of catarrh I consider it the best catarrh medicine that is used I have often recommended it to my friends. I am 81 years old. I came to California in 1849, and of course am not as vigorous as I was 58 years ago. My address is 841 4th St. Yours truly, W. Mock.

Hyomei (pronounced High o me) is guaranteed by C A. Wright & Son's drug store not only for catarrh, but for grip, coughs, colds, bronchitis, croup of infants, asthma, and all diseases of the nose, throat and lungs A complete outfit, including inhaler, costs only $1.00; extra bottles of Hyomei if afterwards needed cost but 50 cents. Ask C. W. Wright & Son about it.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see. Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Thanksgiving is a good thing; thanksliving is better.

Every case of backache, weak back, bladder inflammation and rheumatic pains is dangerous if neglected, for such troubles are nearly always due to weak kidneys. Take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are antiseptic and soothe pain quickly. Insist upon DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Regular size 50c. Sold here by all druggists.

One can not judge of a man's importance by the number of badges on his coat

More people are taking Foley's Kidney Remedy every year. It is considered to be the most effective remedy for kidney and bladder troubles that medical science can devise. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities, builds up worn out tissues and restores lost vitality. It will make you feel well and look well. Sold by all druggists.

Every farmer should take part in politics, but it is better to get the corn husked first.

For a mild, easy action of the bowels, a single dose of Doan's Regulets is enough. Treatment cures habitual constipation. 25 cents a box. Ask your druggist for them

Keep the soundest parts of old grain sacks for patches to mend the others with.

DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve has many imitators. There is one original, and the name DeWitt is on every box. Best salve for burns, scratches and hurts. It is especially good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

The man who is continually waiting for something to turn up is usually turned down.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—48 Prevents—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers

If it is true, as some wise men argue, that we are what we eat, what is the man who feeds exclusively upon pork?

Stops itching instantly. Cures piles, eczema, salt rheum, tetter, itch, hives, herpes, scabies—Doan's Ointment. At any drug store.

In painting don't use small dabs and strokes. Make long, even, careful sweeps; and there will be no mare's-tails and clouds in your work.

A PERSONAL APPEAL

If we could take to you personally about the great merit of Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, you never could be induced to experiment with unknown preparations that may contain some harmful drugs. Foley's Honey and Tar costs you no more and has a record of forty years of cures. Sold by all druggists.

When you need a helping hand, and one is offered you, grasp it with all the vigor and vim at your command. Do not be a cad and pretend you do not need it.

Foley's Orino Laxative cures chronic constipation and stimulates the liver. Orino regulates the bowels so they will act naturally and you do not have to take purgatives continuously. Sold by all druggists.

When a man's wife is away from home he feels free to act as he did when he was a bachelor—but he seldom does it.—Ex.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Tecumseh Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Tecumseh proof.

J. H. Welch, living on Union st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved beneficial to me. Years ago I strained myself and injured one of my kidneys, began treatment at once but was not helped. At night my rest was disturbed by the frequent action of the kidney secretions, thus causing me to arise in the morning tired and unrefreshed. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Son's drug store, and now feel better than for several years. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a number of friends who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole Agents for the United States.

MORGAN IN CHICAGO.

Has Strenuous Time Dodging Photographers.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—J. Pierpont Morgan, after the fatigues of a day spent largely in refusing to be interviewed for publication and dodging photographers, sat at the banquet board of the Chicago Association of Commerce last night while B. F. Yoakum, chairman of the executive committee of the Rock Island and 'Frisco lines, discussed "Our Country and Our Railroads."

Mr. Morgan accepted the invitation to be present some time ago, stipulating, however, that he should not be called on to speak.

Mr. Yoakum declared that the panic of last winter caused a shrinkage in the pay rolls of the railroads of $1,000,000 a day, largely as a result of misdirected agitation against the railroads. He averred his conviction that an established railroad policy by the government was necessary, but it must be a stable, centralized one, under which the railroads could plan construction years ahead. He said that 100,000 miles of road would have to be built west and southwest of Chicago to care for increasing population and commerce. Railroads alone, he said, could not solve the transportation problems of the country, but the government must adopt as broad and comprehensive a waterways policy as had been pursued by capitalists in building railroads.

Republicans Honor Senator Hale.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Republican senators in caucus have unanimously elected Senator Hale of Maine as chairman of the Republican caucus, to succeed the late Senator Allison of Iowa. The position carries with it the chairmanship of the Republican steering committee of the senate, which determines all important legislation in the senate and also imposes the duty of selecting members of the committee on committees.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Mrs. Thomas Blanchard, aged sixty-five, of Marine City, is dead as the result of a fall on the icy sidewalk. She had lived all her life in Marine City and was the only support of an invalid husband.

James R. Johnson, a farmer living three miles from Alden, has ended his life by taking paris green. He is said to have been temporarily deranged and to have threatened his family before taking his own life.

Jay Snell of Marquette was killed while hunting in Delta county. His companion, Zeph Labumbard of Rapid River, fired three times at a deer, and one of the bullets struck Snell in the head. He lived but a short time.

Arthur V. Harmer, who has been deputy in the Cadillac postoffice for fifteen years, has tendered his resignation, to take effect Jan. 1. He will engage in business.

Peter McCarthy of Ann Arbor, who was charged with vagrancy, was so elated over his discharge in a justice court recently that he acquired a jag and was again picked up by the police. Judge Kinne gave him two years in the Ionia reformatory.

Chief of Police Marx of Port Huron has received word of the death of his brother, John Jacob Marx, in Germany. The brother had been mayor of Saucheid, Germany, for several years and was sixty-eight years old.

Charlie LaFountain and Agnes DuPule of Munising eloped to Escanaba and asked for a license to marry. Neither was over sixteen years of age, and, instead of having their wish satisfied, the police hustled them back to the home of their parents.

Peter Corcoran of Jackson has just sworn out a warrant charging "John Doe" with the larceny of $38 from his overcoat pocket. He says that he loaned the coat to a stranger whom he met on a train and that when the man returned it the pocketbook was missing.

Recovers Her Jewels.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 10.—The $10,000 worth of jewelry lost by Mrs. Sue Williams Buek of Richmond on a Pullman sleeper on the Atlantic Coast line recently has been recovered upon the confession of a negro named Tucker, who was arrested on suspicion. Tucker claims that he found the jewel case in Mrs. Buek's berth and held it for reward.

Kaiser Sends Message to President.

Doctors

say take Cod Liver Oil—they undoubtedly mean Scott's Emulsion.

It would be just as sensible for them to prescribe Quinine in its crude form as to prescribe Cod Liver Oil in its natural state. In the oil is emulsified and made easy to take—easy to digest and easy to be absorbed in to the body—and is the most natural and useful fatty food to feed and nourish the wasted body that is known in medicine today.

Scott's Emulsion

Nothing can be found to take its place. If you are run-down you should take it.

INSISTS HE MADE LOANS.

Glazier's Brother-in-Law Denies Transactions Did Not Exist.

Chelsea, Mich., Dec. 10.—"Isn't it a matter of fact that the reason why you never worried about your loans to Mrs. Frank P. Glazier was that those loans never existed at all?"

Thus did Attorney Walter V. Oxtoby bring the examination of Frank H. Sweetland, Glazier's brother-in-law, to a sensational climax at the Glazier examination conducted here by Referee in Bankruptcy Harlow P. Davock. Despite the imputation of gross irregularity made by the attorney, Sweetland, without show of anger, irritation or indignation, simply replied; "No, that's not so."

The examination hinged on the assignment to Sweetland of two of Glazier's insurance policies, each for $10,000. When Mrs. Glazier was on the stand a few days ago she testified that she assigned those policies as security for money owed Sweetland. It is the theory of the receiver and creditors that the various policies were assigned unlawfully and not any real debt.

OPPOSITION TO HORTON STRONG.

He May Be Ousted From the Grange Mastership.

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 10.—The feature of this year's Grange sessions is the insurrection against the rule of State Master George B. Horton, who has been considered almost a fixture in the executive office and who for sixteen years has devoted his best energies to the work of the order.

Opposition to him is apparently strongly developed, and a complete ticket has been put in the field, headed by N. P. Hull of Diamondale, for the past eight years overseer of the Grange. The Hull forces are very active in their efforts to unseat the veteran master.

Apparently the only person sure of election is J. W. Hutchins of Jackson, now secretary of the Grange. He is supported by both the Horton and Hull forces and will consequently be re-elected.

The opposition to Master Horton has cropped out also in a resolution introduced limiting the number of times any one office may be held by one person to two terms. This will be actively supported by the Hull faction, while it is expected that the Horton advocates will oppose it when it is brought before the Grange for final action.

Three cities, Traverse City, Kalamazoo and Battle Creek, are in the field for the next convention.

"BLACK HANDS" CAUGHT.

Threatened Citizen of Elk Rapids and Were Nabbed.

Elk Rapids, Mich., Dec. 10.—The sheriff's force has two confessed "Black Hands" locked securely in the county jail at Traverse City. They are Charles Duverny and Vego Johnson, aged about thirty years each.

They had sent threatening letters to a business man of this place, and he informed the police. A trap was laid, and the men were caught. They confessed later.

Electric Road Enjoined.

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 10.—Officials of the Michigan United railway have obtained an injunction in the circuit court restraining the Detroit, Jackson and Chicago Electric railway from putting in switches on the Milwaukee street tracks to lead to the site of their proposed new car barn. The council Monday night granted the D., J. & C. permission to place the switches. The M. U. R. claims the ownership of the tracks, although the D., J. & C. was allowed to run cars over it.

Girl Dying From Fright.

Hillsdale, Mich., Dec. 10.—Miss Hazel Harris, fourteen years old, living at Pittsford, near here, is suffering from brain fever caused by fright, and there is no hope for her recovery. The child was playing in the yard at her home when her pet dog jumped out from behind her. She was so frightened at the sudden and unexpected appearance of the canine that she almost went into hysterics. Going to the house, she soon collapsed and has been sick ever since.

Poor Superintendents Meet.

BELIEVE THEY HAVE ASSAULTER

Strong Evidence Against Negro Arrested in Detroit.

FAMILY ATTACKED AT NIGHT.

Blood Bespattered Hammer Found in Sleeve of James Williams' Coat. Two Men and Woman Brutally Assaulted—Necessary to Take All to Hospital.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14.—Although James Williams, alias Walter Hall, a negro arrested on suspicion of being the man who broke into the house at 28 Adelaide street and brutally assaulted the occupants with a hammer, steadfastly denies that he was in the locality when the crime occurred, the police are convinced that he is the man responsible, not only for this offense but for a series of burglaries committed in the district within the past two weeks.

Williams was arrested by Patrolman Fred Riss and George Schoff. He made no resistance. Hidden in the sleeve of his coat, Williams had a heavy blacksmith's hammer, bespattered with blood. He was taken to the Hunt street station and closely questioned.

While the police were examining him a report of a robbery in the home of Eugene Sullivan, 196 Napoleon street, was brought to the station. Members of he family say they heard some one within the house. When they arose to investigate the intruder hastily made his exit, departing over the back fence. He was recognized, however, as a negro. A cap which Sullivan claims as his, two razors and $3 in cash, which were taken from the house, were found in Williams' possession. A stiff hat, believed to belong to Williams, was found in the house at 28 Adelaide street. The police say that Sullivan positively identified Williams as the negro who had entered his house.

Footprints about the home of Gilbert Simon on Adelaide street and those leading from Sullivan's house correspond exactly, detectives say, with the impress of Williams' shoe.

Housebreakers broke into the home of Gilbert Simon, peddler, early in the morning and, with a heavy hammer and an iron bar, battered in the heads of two men and one woman occupants of the place.

The injured are: Gilbert Simon, forty-five years old, skull badly fractured, face and head terribly beaten, will probably die; Ida Simon, wife of Gilbert, aged thirty, skull fractured, head and face torn and beaten, condition critical; Max Sampson, brother of Mrs. Simon, twenty-one, severely beaten, head cut and bruised. All three victims were taken to St. Mary's hospital.

Although nothing is missing from the house, the fact that the Simons had considerable silverware and $100 in money in their possession leads to the theory that robbery was the motive for the crime.

Found Old Gentleman Dying.

Marshall, Mich., Dec. 14.—John Pierce, aged seventy-two years, a well known resident of Marengo township, and father of C. W. Pierce, the Michigan Central railway ticket agent here, was found lying on the floor of his home. He had suffered a stroke of apoplexy and it is feared cannot recover. He is now unable to speak. The aged man has lived alone for some time and, previous to being found Sunday, had not been seen in two days.

Seek Pardon For Beckman.

Marshall, Mich., Dec. 14.—The Modern Woodmen of America of this city have taken up the case of John M. Beckman, alias Joseph I. Fisher, now serving time in Marquette, in an effort to have Governor Warner pardon him. Beckman is a member of the order. Beckman was convicted in 1904 of defrauding Mrs. Caroline Cameron of Marshall and Windsor, Ont., and was sentenced to ten years.

Want Registration For Nurses.

Marshall, Mich., Dec. 14.—Representative Henry and Representative Elect Hatch will be asked to present a measure in the legislature for a law making the registration of nurses compulsory. A petition headed by Dr. J. H. Kellogg, head of the Battle Creek sanitarium, is being circulated in the state.

Two Perish in Flames.

Brunswick, Vt., Dec. 14.—Mrs. Laura Smith, housekeeper for James Gilkey, a wealthy farmer here, and her two-year-old daughter were burned to death in a fire that destroyed Mr. Gilkey's farm buildings. Gilkey escaped in his nightclothes.

T. J. HAINS ON TRIAL TODAY.

Accused of Aiding in Killing of Annis.

BROTHER'S CASE LATER.

Man Who Wielded Pistol in Tragedy of Last August Not Yet Mentally Fit to Face Jury—May Be Well Soon, Declare Lawyers—Domestic Unhappiness Cause of it All.

New York, Dec. 14.—Public interest in the Hains-Annis murder case, which has never really flagged since the shooting to death of William E. Annis at Bayside, N. Y., on Aug. 15, 1908, by Peter C. Haines, Jr., was revived today by the opening of the trial at Flushing, N. Y., of Thornton Jenkins Hains, brother of Captain Hains.

T. Jenkins Hains is accused of being as guilty of the shooting as his brother. He is charged not only with counseling and aiding his brother in the actual shooting, but also with assisting him by holding back the crowd that might have succored Annis. After Captain Hains had emptied his revolver into the body of Annis, in the presence of a throng of persons witnessing a boat race on a hot summer afternoon, in the full light of a glaring sun, his brother aimed at the crowd his own pistol, ordering them to "Stand Back!" According to the prosecution, in so doing he rendered himself equally guilty of murder with his brother.

THORNTON JENKINS HAINS.

Hains' Defense.

In justification of his actions T. Jenkins Hains asserts that he was actuated by fraternal affection and sought only to prevent the summary execution of lynch law on the body of his younger brother. He also declares that he tried to avert the tragedy.

Peter C. Hains, Jr., who was a brilliant young army officer before his troubles began, and T. Jenkins Hains, a well known writer of stories of adventure, are the sons of General Peter C. Hains, U. S. A., retired, formerly chief of the engineer corps of the United States army. The maternal grandfather of the young men was Admiral Thornton Jenkins of the United States navy. T. Jenkins Hains is forty-two years old and a widower.

Cause of the Trouble.

The trouble in which the young men find themselves is due to the marital disturbances in the life of the younger brother. He accused his wife, Mrs. Claudia Libby Hains, a beautiful young woman, of misconduct with William E. Annis, who was a publisher and advertising man, and sued her for divorce, naming Annis as corespondent. The suit is now pending. The Hains family assert that Captain Hains was crazed by his domestic unhappiness and took the law into his own hands in a time of temporary insanity. His charges are denied by Mrs. Hains. The four young children of the couple are now in the care of General Hains and his wife.

Since the shooting both Captain Hains and T. Jenkins Hains have been in confinement. The former has given evidences of mental unsoundness, and no date has been set for his trial. According to his attorneys, however, he is improving rapidly and may be well soon.

Leading Theaters Start Picture Shows.

Montreal, Dec. 14.—As a protest against the seventy-five moving picture shows which do a thriving Sunday business, the Academy and Francais, two of the leading theaters here, opened their doors. The performances consisted of songs and moving pictures, but the attendance was not large. The police were on hand to collect evidence for the prosecutions which will follow the infringement of the city by-law.

TAFTS TO SPEAK TOMORROW.

Civic Leaders to Hear President Elect and Wife.

FEDERATION'S MEETING.

Topics of Importance to Wageworkers and Employers Will Be Discussed. Gompers and Ridder, Political Opponents of Judge Taft, to Be His Fellow Speakers at Banquet.

New York, Dec. 14.—The guests of honor at the annual meeting of the National Civic federation, which began its session in this city today will be President Elect Taft and Mrs. Taft, both of whom will deliver addresses at the federation's dinner, to be held tomorrow night.

Judge Taft will speak on the work of the federation's public employees' welfare committee, of which he is chairman, and Mrs. Taft's topic will be the work of the women's department of the federation, in which she takes a keen interest.

Gompers and Ridder on Program.

Several other addresses will be delivered at the dinner. Among the speakers will be Seth Low, Andrew Carnegie, Herman Ridder and Samuel Gompers. The announcement of the expected presence at the dinner of the two last named gentlemen, who opposed Judge Taft's election, has caused considerable comment.

Among the subjects to be taken up at the meeting of the federation are the following:

How may the employee and his family be protected against financial stringency in case of accident, illness or death?

Shall this country follow England by providing old age pensions for dependent citizens? Shall the Massachusetts voluntary savings bank annuity plan, designed to encourage thrift and providence, be generally advocated in the United States? Or will the need in this country be met by the establishment of postal savings banks?

German Plan Proposed.

Shall the state or the employer, or the state, employer and employee jointly, as in Germany, bear the burden incident to death or bodily injury of employees?

Are there trade agreements between organizations of employers and organizations of employees that can be regarded as conspiracies in restraint of trade under the Sherman act?

Should trade agreements with public service corporations contain provisions for arbitration of all disputes before striking?

CASTRO TO COLOGNE.

Physicians There Will Determine if Operation is Necessary.

Paris, Dec. 14.—President Castro of Venezuela and his party have left here for Cologne, where a consultation of physicians will be held to determine upon the advisability of an operation on the president. If an operation is found necessary, Dr. Israel probably will perform it in Berlin.

During his stay in this city Castro kept himself closely confined to his hotel. One interview has been had with him. The interview, while guarded, fully confirms the representations made by Castro at Santander to the effect that he was desirous of settling Venezuela's outstanding diplomatic differences and, so far as France is concerned, had already made the first steps in that direction. He said, however that everything for the moment must be subordinated to the restoration of his health and that he would submit to an examination in Germany on which would depend the question of a surgical operation or merely medical treatment. He added that he might return to Paris.

NEGRO HEALTH CONGRESS.

Tuberculosis Exhibit Opens Today in Tuskegee, Ala.

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 14.—For six days, beginning today, this city will be the scene of a "health exhibition" intending exclusively for the benefit of negroes, probably the first in the history of the world. The exhibition is part of the worldwide fight being waged against tuberculosis and is intended to aid in stopping the ravages of the disease among the colored people.

The visitors to the exhibition were welcomed by Booker T. Washington, president of the Tuskegee institute, and other officials of the institute and city.

Taft Pays Wonderful Tribute to McKinley's Memory.

New York, Dec. 14.—President Elect William H. Taft, in speaking at the dedication of a McKinley memorial organ in Metropolitan Temple, told the audience the story of his official association with the late president and declared, with reference to the Philippine Islands, that the policy laid down by Mr. McKinley in 1900 had been the policy of the present, as it will be the policy of his own administration in the White House.

Mr. Taft paid a striking personal tribute to the character of Mr. McKinley and declared that it was peculiarly fitting that an organ should be dedicated to him, whose whole life was one of harmony.

"He was a great judge of men," continued Mr. Taft. "I did not realize how great until I began the work myself of selecting a cabinet.

"He always seemed sure of his ability to persuade a man to accept office under him."

TRIAL OF "NIGHT RIDERS" BEGAN TODAY

Struggle Between Lawlessness and Law Commences.

Union City, Tenn., Dec. 14.—Clad in rough homespun, with ragged trousers tucked deep into cowskin boots, with straggling beards and huge slouch hats, but always with the inevitable long barreled rifle or big pistol in plain view, the denizens of the Reelfoot lake region are assembled in this quaint little town today, attending the opening of the "Night Rider" trials.

They are friends and relatives of the men who are held under military guard at the barracks. They ignore the townspeople, or look at them with scowls. When they meet one another a silent nod or a whispered word is all that passes.

They feel keenly this trouble, these rought, but simple, men of the Tennessee backwoods. They believe that they are persecuted and that the whole world is against them.

When a special grand jury was instructed by Judge Jones and commanded Attorney General Caldwell to stop the "Night Rider" lawlessness, quickly came the defy of the "Night Riders," "Dismiss the grand jury, stop the investigation or we will send jury, judge and prosecutor to join Captain Rankin."

The answer was the numerous arrests of alleged "Night Riders" by the militia, 125 indictments for capital offenses and the trials on these indictments, which open today. The issue is clearly drawn. Both sides are face to face, ready for the struggle without quarter. It is a struggle between organized lawlessness and the forces of order.

SEIZE VENEZUELAN SHIP.

Dutch Cruiser Captures Coast Guard Vessel.

Willemstad, Curacao, Dec. 14.—The Dutch cruiser Gelderland has captured the Venezuelan coast guard ship Alix. The Dutch flag was hoisted on the Alix, the crew of which was sent ashore. The guard ship was then manned by a Dutch officer and marines and towed to Willemstad.

Although the seizure of the Alix was plainly discernible from Puerto Cabello, the forts there did not fire upon the Gelderland.

There is great enthusiasm over the incident in Curacao. The steamer Maracaibo brings rumors of a revolution in the interior of Venezuela.

The seizure of the Alix was in accordance with the plans of the Holland government when instructions were issued to the three Dutch warships now in these waters to make a demonstration off the coast of Venezuela and to capture any Venezuelan ships of war or guard vessel that they might find.

Washington, Dec. 14.—While no advices, official or unofficial, have yet reached the state department confirming the Associated Press dispatches from Willemstad regarding the seizure of a Venezuelan coast guard ship by the Dutch cruiser Gelderland, the news was received with interest, though with little surprise, in diplomatic circles here. Although Holland had had three or four war vessels at Curacao or thereabouts for some time past, no hostile act had previously occurred, and there has been much speculation as to Holland's purpose. Great interest attaches to the Netherlands government's next move, since it apparently intends to force matters to an issue.

MRS. McRANEY'S EXPERIENCE

Mrs. M. McRcRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes: "I was confined to my bed for three months with kidney and bladder trouble, and was treated by two physicians but failed to get relief. Kodol is pleasant to take, and is guaranteed to give relief in any case of stomach trouble. Sold by all druggists.

GREELEY PIONEER DIES.

Captain David Boyd, Succumbs After a Long Illness in Boulder Sanitarium.

Captain David Boyd, a well known Greeley pioneer, died in the Place sanitarium in Boulder, Saturday afternoon, November 28, 1908

The funeral was held from the family residence at 1:30 p. m., Tuesday, December 1

He is survived by a wife and two daughters, Psyche and Sela a sister, Mrs. William Hastings of Albion, Mich., and two brothers, John Boyd of Tecumseh, and William Boyd of Albion.

David Boyd was born in Antrim county, Ireland May 30, 1833, of Scotch-Irish parents, and emigrated with the family to the United States in 1851. He entered Ann Arbor university, the classical course, taking one of the two scholarships then awarded the best prepared students entering for that course. But before it was well entered upon, the din of battle sounded over the land, arousing the ardent and patriotic young men, who were everywhere leaving college halls for the scene of action.

He entered the 18th Michigan infantry July 8, 1862, remaining with it some months, when he sought and obtained a captaincy in the 40th U. S colored troops

On October 16, 1866, he was married to Miss Sarah Motheral of New Brighton, Pa He bought a farm in Lenawee county, Michigan, and cultivated it until the spring of 1870, when he sold out and joined the Union Colony of Colorada.

In the winter of 1889-1900 he wrote and published a book of about 450 pages, Boyd's History of Greeley and Union Colony, giving a full and complete account of the inception and progress of the great enterprise, at once the most remarkable and successful colonization project ever achieved in the west.

In recent years he spent much time in traveling and had invested in property in Michigan which claimed most of his attention lately. He returned to Greeley in July seemingly in good health, but was taken seriously ill after a short time with what proved to be an internal abcess. On September 13, he went to the Place sanitarium, where his death occurred. Mr. Boyd will be remembered by many of the older residents of Tecumseh.

Charles McNeil

The accidental drowning of Charles W. McNeil at Ann Arbor of which an account appeared in last Fridays paper, brings peculiar sadness to a happy home, as well as to a large circle of friends To his mother whose only son he was and who looked to him for strength and support in her declining years. To the wife and children who had every reason to believe from the marked improvment manifested when he visited them at Thanksgiving time, and the hopeful tone of his letters since, that he would soon be with them again permanently. The blow is a crushing one, and friends and neighbors are stunned by the suddeness and sadness of it.

"Charley" McNeil as he was familiarly called is too well and favorably known to need any words of eulogy. Most of his forty-eight years of life had been spent near his late home. We all knew him to be loyal and true, "the soul of honor," of strong convictions and unswerving in his adherence to what he believed to be right He will long be remembered by all who knew him as the noblest work of God, a man.

The funeral was held on Sunday p m. at his late home and the large company assembled to pay the last tribute of respect to the memory of the departed and to sympathise with the especially bereaved ones. The beautiful floral offerings all bore witness to the high esteem in which he and they were held. The services were conducted by Rev. F. W. Kamm, pastor of the Baptist church in Tecumseh assisted by Rev. Blanche Young, pastor of the Universalist church. The music, two vocal solos, was very pleasingly rendered by Mrs. R. S Moore. Interment at Brookside.

An Astonishing Airship.

In these days of dirigible balloons, airships and aeroplanes the following account of an airship taken from the London Post for Dec. 22, 1709, is of interest:

"Father Bartholomew Laurent says that he has found out an invention by the help of which one may more speedily travel through the air than any other way, either by land or sea, so that one may go 200 miles in twenty-four hours."

The airship which was to accomplish this astonishing feat had at the top "sails wherewith the air is to be divided, which turn as they are directed." There was a rudder to direct the vessel's course, and the body was "formed at both ends scallopwise. In the cavity of each is a pair of bellows, which must be blown when there is no wind."

Two loadstones, some large amber beads and various other items all had some mysterious part to play in this attempt to traverse the air.

This is perhaps the most extraordinary of all flying machines on record.

Well Placed.

There had never been any difficulty about securing Mrs. Homer Clay Washington of Maple court when one more woman was needed for washing or scrubbing, so that when two postal cards failed to bring her to the Morse residence one winter Mrs. Morse went to see what could be the trouble.

She found Mrs. Washington, evidently in the best of health, entertaining two of her neighbors and was welcomed most cordially.

"I suttinly is pow'ful glad to see yo', Mis' Morse," said the hostess, "an' is de fambly all tol'able well dis winter?"

"Not as well as we should be if you had come to help us out," said Mrs. Morse. "Why didn't you come when I wrote you? We thought you must be ill."

"No, indeed, Mis' Morse," and the black head tilted airily; "I's enjoyin' de best ob health, an' de char'ty society done 'stablish a bread, soup an' coal fund up at de corner, so none ob us ladies in de co't has to work dis rheumaticky time ob yeah.

"You heah folks talkin' 'bout de harm society does, but us ladies ob Maple co't is right ready to stan' up fo' it any time now."—Youth's Companion.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Dec 5, 1908.

There have been two events this week, one of national and the other of international importance. The first was the placing of over fifteen thousand postmasters of the fourth class under the aegis of Civil Service rules The other was the signing of an agreement between Japan and the United States, by Secretary Root and the Japanese Ambassador to the United States. Calling it an "agreement," or as some call it a "declaration," was a polite way of sidestepping the Senate, because the Senate, as past experience has demonstrated, is rabid on treaties and very jealous of its prerogative. The way some of those fellows in the Senate have torn to tatters treaties between the United States and Great Britian and other countries, prepared by Secretary Root and his predecessors has given notice to the government.

This "declaration" not being a "treaty" will not go to the Senate and it may be with certainty assumed that it insures peace and good understanding for at least four years during the incumbency of the President elect and for eight years at least, if he shall be re elected in 1912

The declaration is very short and consists of five brief articles couched in plain language, but these five articles may be still further condensed as follows:

1. It is the wish of the United States and Japan to live in peace.

2. They accept the status quo with the policy of the open door.

3. They recognize the meaning of meum and tuum as applied to the island of the Pacific.

4. They are for unmutilated Chinese territory and the square deal in that country for all powers.

5. If necessary, they will put their shoulders together to enforce the aforesaid.

The recently appointed new Secretary of the Navy has announced his method for reforming the bureau system which naval critics hold responsible for the ineffectiveness and clumsiness noted by them in the designing of warships and the defects alleged by them to exist in vessels of very recent construction. The way in which the Secretary is expecting to provide himself with board equivalent to a general staff or admiralty, is by a Departmental order creating a general board, of which the Admiral of the Navy, the Chief of the Bureau of Navigation and the President of the Naval War College shall be ex-officio members. This board will be enlarged by the appointment of "such other officers" as the Secretary may designate. Secretary Newberry will no doubt appoint a board of the aggressive critics of the Bureau System: also young and progressive officers of the line. It is proposed to bring the Departmental Bureaus into close relations with this board, by designating as members a suitable contingent of staff officers, including members of the construction board. The reorganization proposed, it is thought, will tend to the promotion of a unity of purpose that has been lacking in the administration of that branch of the service which has to do with building and equiping warships. It is well known in naval circles that Senator Hale of Maine, who is the chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs in the Senate, is an unsurmountable obstacle to the improvement of the Navy. He has been opposed to large ships and it is significant that a large number of the small ships have been built at shipyards in his state, where owing to the shallowness of the water, only small ships can be launched. His influence is paramount in naval affairs and has been paralizing to the navy and very expensive to the country.

The tariff committee has announced a further continuance of its hearings. There is no telling just what kind of a tariff bill will be presented, much less what kind of a bill will be passed after it has been debated and amended, but there is strong hope among tariff reformers that there will be large additions to the free list in the way of raw material, such as wool, hides, lumber and coal. It is well known that we cannot have the best woolen fabrics made in this country because the finest fleeces of Australia and South America go to the looms of England and Germany and France, while American manufacturers, on account of high tariff are obliged to eke out their scanty supply of wool with cotton and shoddy.

Heart Strength

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Positively, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the Heart must continue to fail, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves.

This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing Hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, palpitating, suffocating heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds; it strengthens; it offers real, genuine heart help.

If you would have strong Hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed, with

MURDEN MILLER.

Letter from Murden Miller, a Macon boy, who recently visited the west.

On Dec. 2, we left Detroit for Denver, Colo. Starting at 11 o'clock at night, we arrived in Chicago, Dec. 3rd Leaving that city, shortly, on the Great Western for Omaha, arriving Dec. 4th at 10 o'clock in the morning. At Sidney, we saw the cowboys, with large herds of cattle. Also the immense flocks of sheep attracted our attention. We then walked over 40 miles to Sterling, Colo., and during our trip overland we saw a large number of prarie dogs At one time we were walking after night, and when about 6 miles from Sterling, we heard a great howling behind us, and discovered it was coyotes. They would keep a little ways behind us all the way. As the only weapon we had was a jack knife with a blade an inch long, it is needless to say we didn't care to have them tackle us. We arrived safely at Sterling however, and could find no work.

We started at once for Denver, arriving there Dec. 11. Here my pardner left me, after he had seen the city of Denver. Bidding him good bye, I went to a friends home, who resided near Denver. He wanted me to stay, and secured me a job on a ranch for a few weeks. The first thing I was obliged to do was to hitch up a bronco, and go 2 miles for water. I went very fast over the hills. I saw many wild animals while taking my ride, but I was going too fast to shoot any of them.

I remained there until after Christmas. I received a letter from my pardner at this time, saying he was back in Detroit. I thought I would start for home pretty soon, also, but decided to go down into New Mexico first. Here I found work on the ratoon tunnell. It looked queer to me to see the dirt houses and the huge houses built of brick. They were not half built. I did not stay in New Mexico long, going back by the way of Trinadad, Pueblo and Colorado Springs. I stopped over at each of the above named places. I went back to Denver, and was given a job of painting. This was in February.

The fellows I was working with and I often took long walks up in the mountains. I soon got a job of surveying. The first day we had to survey towards the mountainrange. We walked 10 miles, and worked hard all day. When night came we rode back in a wagon, drawn by three teams. That was the roughest and fastest ride I ever took. The next day we worked on the Seamans gold mine, but the altitude was so high that we had the nose bleed every day we were there. We had to give this up, and went back to Denver. After picking up some handsome souvenirs such as all kinds of ore, and pictures of the mountains to show the folks at home, we went to Salt Lake City.

We took the Union Pacific, going by the way of Shian. The population of this city is 15,000. We stayed there over night and went to Salt Lake, arriving there the 21st of May. I visited the Mormon church and the capitol of Utah. We found the farmers very odd. We crossed the great Salt Lake, and could see snow from where we were. From there I went to Pocatello to see the Indians. This was a great sight to me, to see them living in their wigwams or tepees The Indian ponies attracted my attention and admiration. On decoration day I went through Silver-bow, where the ground was covered with snow. Butte was the next place I visited, and I found this to be a very dirty town. I could see the silver mines, all over the mountains. When lighted, they presented a pretty sight, indeed.

On the first of June I left Butte to go to Sappington a distance of thirty miles, walking all of the way looking for work. I made a big bon fire, and slept out of doors all night. It began to snow while I was there, blokading the trains so that the mail was tied up at the depot at Sappington. This was pretty expensive for the railroad company as they had to pay the expenses, during the week they were laid up there, of all the passengers.

June 4th was my 23rd birthday and I celebrated this at Longmount, Colo. I went as far as Livingston, Montana. I did not care for this country, as it seemed terribly wild to be. I saw the largest herds of cattle here though, that I ever saw in my life, and met some of the cowboys, but they were too rough to suit me. I got into a fight with a Mexican while on my trip, but as I was the stouter, of course I won. If he had of had the chance, I have no doubt but that he would have stabbed me.

Thursday, June 11, found me at Madan, North Dakota, and went to a circus while there. The Indians I found, very nice, and they all tried to sell me some of their souvenirs and relics.

The farm houses there were miles and miles apart. They raised a large amount of wheat last year. The fields are so large that it took a half a day to plow once around them. I visited at Fargo, for a day going from there to Minneapolis and St. Paul on my way home. These two cities join each other and are both beautiful places.

I didn't realize hardly that I was in a tame and civilized country until I reached Chicago. Making a short visit there I went to Montpelier, O. and arrived in Britton, all safe and sound on June 19. I found that home was the best place on earth.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

A LIBERAL OFFER

The B. J. Pulver Drug Co., Guarantee to Cure Dyspepsia. If They Fail, The Medicine Costs Nothing.

To unquestionably prove to the people of Rochester that indigestion and dyspepsia is curable and that Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets will effect the cure, we will furnish the medicine absolutely free if it fails to give complete satisfaction to anyone giving it a trial.

The remarkable success of Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is largely due to the new and successful method of manufacture, whereby the well-known properties of Bismuth, Subnitrate and Pepsin have been combined with carminatives and their agents

Bismuth Subnitrate and Pepsin are recognized by the entire medical profession as specifics for acute indigestion and dyspepsia.

The Pepsin used in Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets is manufactured by a new process which develops its greatest efficiency. Pepsin supplies to the digestive apparatus one of the most important elements of the digestive fluid, and exerts a tonic influence upon all the glands which supply all the other elements necessary to proper assimilation and digestion.

The carminatives add properties which promptly relieve the disturbances and pain caused by undigested food.

The perfect combination of these ingredients make a remedy absolutely incomparable and invaluable for the complete cure of indigestion and dyspepsia.

We are so positively certain of this that we sell Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets on our own personal guarantee that they will either cure you or cost you nothing. —The B. J. Pulver Drug Co.

SECRETARY WILSON'S REPORT.

All Former Records are Eclipsed by Report of 1908.

Secretary Wilson has just completed a report, containing a review of the agricultural conditions in the country, the volume and value of different crops, the development of new ideas in farming and much other valuable information on various subjects that come within the jurisdiction of that branch of the government.

This year the report seems to surpass all previous records, the farm products of 1908 having reached the value of $7,778,000,000, the most extraordinary amount in the history of the world. It is about 4 times the value of the products of the mines of the United States, including coal and petroleum. The greatest crop of all is the Indian corn, which amounted to 2,643,000,000 bushels. Cotton stands second this year, and hay standing next to the cotton crop. The wheat crop of 660,000 000 bushels has never been exceeded. The oat crop was but 789,000,000 bushels, and rye but 167,000,000.

The value of the dairy product for the last year was nearly 800,000,000 and the Secretary says that eggs and poultry produced on the farm this year are worth as much as the cotton or the hay or wheat.

Secured a big show.

Manager Marks has just closed arrangements with the management of Franz Molnar's wonderful play "The Devil" to appear at the Bradley opera house on Monday, Dec. 21st, with an excellent cast. The story of this peculiar play is in the Detroit News every night.

If physicians did not magnify the little ills of their patients they would lose about half of their practice.

Large Oysters.

There are two kinds of large oysters: those which have grown large and those that are bloated to an unnatural size with fresh water.

Large oysters sold from the White Porcelain Case bearing the Blue "Sealshipt" Trade Mark are wholesome and delicious because they are naturally large, having attained their size in their native environment.

Beware of tub-shipped big oysters: water is packed with them—they are "swelled" and have lost their natural color and flavor.

"Sealshipt" Oysters, the daintiest, firmest in the world, have not had water in contact with them at all. They are just the natural size and color as they were when shucked into the airtight, galvanized steel container that carries them direct from the beds to our store.

We sell "Sealshipt" Oysters only. People go out of their way to come here for them.

Cream Separator Facts

For the past 60 days we have been investigating all of the leading Separators on the market, wishing to sell the best made for 1909. Several firms sent their samples and sales men, all offering special bargains, as they knew our business was desirable having sold over 60 Separators in the past two years.

After investigating them all, we decided the

was the most desireable of all, quality and merits considered, while this machine cost us from $5.00 to $10.00 more than any other kind, our prices and terms are as reasonable as in the past.

You will find this new machine is the EASIEST RUNNING, SIMPLEST, has the LOWEST TANK, the HIGHEST CRANK and is the CLOSEST SKIMMER of any machine you ever saw or heard of.

We have purchased a few of the 1908 Remodeled Dairymaid which have some of the new features, thus making them the cheapest machine sold for the price yet doing as good work as any on the market. Call and look over both styles.

ADRIAN PRESS SUSPENDED

Democratic Paper of Adrian Has Decided to Quit.

AFTER BEING IN EXISTENCE SINCE 1873.

The Adrian Press founded in 1873, as an independent paper, and published since 1877 as a Democratic paper, has concluded to quit the business. Its suspension was due to the foreclosure of a chattel mortgage amounting to about $1,000 and held by E. S. White of the job printing firm of Dingley and White.

Mr. White will sell the property at public auction and satisfy his claim, as there are many other outstanding obligations, and he forecloses as a matter of protection.

The foreclosure would have been brought about some time ago, had it not been out of consideration for Mr Grimes, who was in declining health and whose death occurred a short time ago.

PROF. C. H. VANTYNE

Gave an Address at Bay City Friday Night.

Explains why Michigan has no show against Pennsylvania.

Prof. C. H. VanTyne in an address at the banquet of the University of Michigan Alumni association Friday night at Bay City, made some tart comments on the effects of football upon the student body and success of the university. He said that not one of the Pennsylvania players had been in a class this year up to the time the game was played, while the U. of M. players were required to have a certain standing in their studies to play on the team, and therefore had little time for practice.

Prof. VanTyne also said that Pres. Angell would surely resign, and that it might be only a matter of a few months.

Presbyterian Fair

A very enjoyable evening was spent at Witherell Hall last Thursday evening when the ladies of the Presbyterian church gave the largest and most successful church fair, ever given in Tecumseh.

The receipts from the sale of fancy articles for christmas presents, such as dolls and aprons, and miscellaneous articles, and home made candies and the supper, amounted to about $315.00, which adds a neat sum to their treasury.

The supper, served from 5 until 7, at the small tables, was in three courses, and over 275 were served many being turned away. The supper was served by sixteen of the young ladies of the church. In the evening, a program consisting of songs and recitations was enjoyed.

Michigan Physicians Declare War Against the Emmanuel Movement.

At the annual banquet of the Academy of Medicine at Kalamazoo last Friday, the doctors spoke of the Emmanuel movement and are bitterly opposed to the mental healing. It was declared that the clergy is qualified to look after the spiritual body, but that it knows nothing of the physical body and its needs. Dr. Henry Hulst of Grand Rapids says: "Let the church attend to its business and we can attend to ours and get along nicely." They claim the movement will add to undue nervousness of our generation and will be most unfavorable in its effects.

Eastern Visitors Praise Tombstone's Climate.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Belcher, who have been visiting in Tombstone for a few days past from Tecumseh, Michigan, left yesterday for an extensive visit to the Gila Valley. While here they were the guests of Mr. Ned Cutting of this city, who was an old schoolday chum of Mrs. Belcher. During their brief stay in the Garden City, they paid the usual compliment to Tombstone a unsurpassed climate as do all visitors, and regretted their departure from the historic old camp of the Southwest.—Tombstone News.

It Pays To Advertise

PEOPLE OF TECUMSEH

Here is What a Resident Says in Praise of Mi-o-na, the Mightly Cure

"For about two years I had a severe time from stomach trouble. The malady got me nervous, and I could not sleep. Hearing Mi-o-na highly spoken of, I procured a treatment, and after a short time, the trouble left me. I can, and have recommended the use of Mi-o-na, which is surely a wonderful remedy." Walter R Eberly, Oneida st., Tecumseh, Mich., October 16, 1908.

Mi-o-na cures dyspepsia. There isn't any doubt about it. Thousands of just such testimonials as the above from every city and town in American prove it. Mi-o-na does not digest the food in your stomach, but in a few days it tones up the walls of the stomach and makes it strong enough to digest its own food. Digesters never cured dyspepsia, and never will; they may help a tired stomach do its work, temporarily, but that is all. Mi-o-na tablets are sold by C. A. Wright & Son's drug store for 50 cents a large box.

And remember, that Mi-o-na is guaranteed by C. A. Wright & Son, to cure dyspepsia, sea or car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and all stomach ills, or money back.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Tecumseh Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Tecumseh proof.

J. H. Welch, living on Union st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved beneficial to me. Years ago I strained myself and injured one of my kidneys, began treatment at once but was not helped. At night my rest was disturbed by the frequent action of the kidney secretions, thus causing me to arise in the morning tired and unrefreshed. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Son's drug store, and now feel better than for several years. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a number of friends who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

MAGIC GLASS.

A Curious Mirror That May Be Made Transparent.

One of the most curious inventions of this age is what is called platinized glass. A piece of glass is coated with an exceedingly thin layer of a liquid charged with platinum and then raised to a red heat. The platinum becomes united to the glass in such a way as to form an odd kind of mirror.

The glass has not really lost its transparency, and yet if one places it against a wall and looks at it he sees his image as in an ordinary looking glass. But when light is allowed to come through the glass from the other side, as when it is placed in a window, it appears perfectly transparent, like ordinary glass.

By constructing a window of platinized glass one could stand close behind the panes in an unilluminated room and behold clearly everything going on outside, while passersby looking at the window would behold only a fine mirror or set of mirrors in which their own figures would be reflected, while the person inside remained invisible.

In France various tricks have been contrived with the aid of this glass. In one a person, seeing what appears to be an ordinary mirror, approaches it to gaze upon himself. A sudden change in the mechanism sends light through the glass from the back, whereupon it instantly becomes transparent, and the startled spectator finds himself confronted by some grotesque figure that had been hidden behind the magic glass.—New York Tribune.

SPEED LAWS OF 1816.

Coaches Going Nine Miles an Hour Frightened the English.

The outcry daily growing louder in England against the excessive speed of motor cars lends interest to the following passage from the Annual Register for 1816:

A new coach was started in the spring to run to Brighton, a distance of fifty-two miles, in six hours. * * * This, however, became alarming, particularly in the populous neighborhood of Newington, through which it passed, and the parish officers there caused information to be laid against the drivers for driving furiously on the public road so as to endanger the lives of his majesty's subjects.

The result of this is to be read in Mansard's "Parliamentary Reports," June 10, 1816.

The attorney general moved for leave to bring in a bill the object of which was the protection of the lives and limbs of his majesty's subjects by correcting the enormous abuses of stagecoach drivers. Within these few days it would be hardly credible what a number of applications he had received on this subject.

Some accounts were enough to freeze one with horror. A gentleman of veracity had informed him that on Tuesday, May 21, at 5:30, the Trafalgar and Regulator coaches set off from Manchester and got to Liverpool at 8:20, doing this journay in two hours fifty minutes, at the rate of twelve miles an hour.—New York Sun.

Fiji Islanders' Sugar Cane Dance.

A very curious and exceedingly clever dance may be witnessed in Fiji called by the natives "the sugar cane meke," or sugar cane dance. It represents the growth of the sugar cane. In the first figure the dancers squat low on the ground, shake their heads, shut their eyes and murmur slowly and softly an unintelligible sentence. Gradually they all stand up together, growing taller and taller, and as they "grow" they wave their arms and tremble all over from ankle to head, like the tall, tasseled cane waving in the wind, and still they keep on chanting louder and louder. The last figure represents a series of combats meant to symbolize the exactions of the chiefs, who compel the "kaisi," willing and unwilling, to come and cut their crops.—London Standard.

Surgeon—Well, what have you done? Bearer—Dressed the wound, sir, and gave him a little whisky and water. Surgeon—Whisky and water! How did you expect an insensible man to swallow that? Bearer—He axed for't, sir.—London Illustrated Bits.

TORTOISE SHELL.

The Way the Plates Are Removed From the Animal.

The comb of tortoise shell has a very pale and translucent yellow, the only really valuable kind of shell.

"Many people think this pale, unmottled shell the cheaper kind," the dealer said. "Do you know why? Because the imitations are all made like this.

"That is one vulgar error about shell. Another is that the tortoise is killed to get its shell casing. That is as absurd an error as it would be to say a sheep was killed to get its wool.

"What is done is this: The fishermen, having caught a tortoise, tie him and then cover his back with dry grass and leaves. They set fire to this stuff, it burns slowly, and the heat causes the thirteen plates of the shell to loosen at the joints. With a knife the plates are pried off, and afterward the tortoise is set free. The base, or root, of his shell is intact and will grow again. If tortoises were killed to get their shell they would long since have become extinct.

"No, no. Every tortoise is, as it were, a farm—a shell farm. Fishermen catch him regularly and with heat and a knife gently remove his shell."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

COLORS IN THE OCEAN.

Various Causes For the Different Tints of the Water.

Sky and cloud colors are often reflected in the sea, but just as the air has its sunset glory so water has its changing tints quite apart from mere reflection.

Olive and brown lines in the waves off the coast come from the muddy sediment washed from the shore, as blues arise chiefly from reflected sky. But there are many other colors in the ocean. On almost every long voyage at sea spots of reddish brown color are noticed at one time or another. When a few drops of the discolored water are examined under a microscope myriads of minute cylinder shaped algae are seen, some separate, some joined together in scores. It is this organism—sometimes called "sea sawdust"—which has given the name to the Red sea, although it also abounds in other waters. Sometimes the water far from land will be seen to be of a chocolate hue for an extent of several miles, and this is caused by millions upon millions of minute one celled animals which lash themselves along, each on his erratic individual course, by means of the finest of hair-like threads of chlo.—Pearson's.

How to Cure Indigestion

Well Known Family Physician Gives Good Advice

"When a person cannot eat ordinary food without discomfort afterward, when he has heartburn, sick headache, gas on the stomach, water brash, belches up sour food, and this condition has continued for a week or more, it certainly is time to do something and do it quickly." That's what a popular physician recently said to the writer. "First thing you know you'll have dyspepsia if you don't," said he.

The quickest and best way to regain your normal condition is to step into the drug store and buy a 50c bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It gives natural, daily movements to the bowels, and that is usually where more than half the trouble lies. Then it aids digestion, sweetens the stomach, acts on the liver and is a general system tonic.

Postmaster Ridgill, of Bruceville, Tex., had such a severe attack of dyspepsia that his stomach, liver and bowels seemed almost paralyzed, but a few doses of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin relieved him and today he is well as ever. Maude Hall, Alpena, Mich., says that one bottle cured her of a very severe case of indigestion. A. L. Espich, Chief of Police, New Philadelphia, Ohio, says: "I find Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin the best remedy for indigestion I ever used. I would not be without it." Rev. A. J. Fletcher, Rutherford, Tenn., is now 89, and yet it cured him of stomach trouble of 60 years' standing. Mrs. Mattie Crouch, Tiptonville, Tenn., cured her five months' old baby of indigestion with it, so you see that while it is so effective it will cure cases of long standing of dyspepsia and constipation in old people, it is perfectly safe for babies, and it is pleasant to take, and does not pain or gripe.

All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle. Pepsin Syrup Co., 307 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill., are glad to send a free sample to any one who has not used it and will give it a fair trial.

WHAT IS A GAS?

Well, Here is Lord Kelvin's Quaintly Eccentric Definition.

One of the late Lord Kelvin's students at the University of Glasgow writes of some of the old scientist's peculiarities: "To those who attended the natural philosophy class at Glasgow university Lord Kelvin, or, rather, Sir Billy (for to that length our irreverent love of the genial old man would go), is a cherished memory—a memory of a great man who gave 'articulate shape to the thoughts that wander through eternity.' His appeal to our humorous faculties was due partly to some personal peculiarities, partly to the sublimely unconscious use of very familiar objects and extremely colloquial phrases to illustrate his great thoughts on great things. Never blessed with powers of clear enunciation, he had a way of wrestling with certain words and giving them a prolonged rolling intonation that added point to those unintentionally humorous observations which he was ever making and for which, thoughtless yet not wholly unlovable crew that we were, we were ever looking. Let me cite some examples. Lecturing on the nature of a gas one day, Lord Kelvin thus delivered himself: 'Imagine a thousand million students rushing with incredible velocity in one direction and a thousand million students rushing with the same velocity in the opposite direction and meeting. That is a gas.' Doubtless, but the homely simile compelled laughter and at the same time left us both mystified and enlightened.

"But his greatest feat was the playing of a simple tune on a huge trombone. Conceive, if you can, a learned professor of silvered locks and beard, dressed in the black robes of his office and surrounded by scientific instruments, slowly squeezing from a giant trombone some familiar air and you will understand why I have said that Lord Kelvin often made too strong appeal to our sense of the humorous. For himself he was sublimely unconscious of the humorous picture which he presented. He was too intent upon his scientific triumph for the laughter—and it was laughter that literally held both its sides—to reach his ears.

"Lord Kelvin was once in his usual delightfully inconsequent way rambling along and letting his great mind slowly unfold its great thoughts. One of the many subjects on which he touched was the transmission of light from distant worlds. 'Here,' he said, 'I have a calf's foot jelly made by Lady Thomson. Observe the wabbly motion of the jelly [here suiting the word by action]. Gentlemen, for aught we know to the contrary, interstellar space may be one vast calf's foot jelly.'

"He was, as I have said, singularly simple in many of his ways. To successive generations of students he illustrated 'uniform motion in a straight line' in a singularly characteristic fashion. Lame in one leg, he always walked with a most marked limp, yet he illustrated 'uniform motion in a straight line' by hobbling round his rostrum in a circle. I do not believe that he ever knew why his pathetically humorous way of illustrating a simple fact in kinetics made his successive classes 'smile confoundedly loud.'"—Chicago News.

Didn't Seem Fair.

Having finished her afternoon's philanthropic work in the east side tenements, the voluntary helper started for home. Before she had proceeded far, however, she discovered that her purse was gone. So, surmising she had either carelessly mislaid or been robbed of it, she retraced her steps to the tenements. Her search availing nothing, she was about to turn again toward home when a tear stained youth accosted her.

"Say, missus," he sniveled, pointing across the street, where another boy crouched in a hallway to examine something, "if y' 're lookin' fer y' pocketbook, dat kid over dere's got it!"

Acting on this declaration, the lady hurried over and cornered the lad before he was aware of her propinquity. Seeing no chance of escape with the purse and its contents, the boy complied with the lady's demand and handed over.

"Now, my honest lad," she then said, turning to the first boy, who had followed her across, "there's a dollar for pointing out the thief!"

As this boy ran off clutching his reward the second lad squinted hard at the lady.

"Say, missus," he said, "don't I get nothin'?"

"Not a penny!"

"Gee!" he rejoined, in a kind of perplexity. "An' I stole de pocketbook from him!"—Buffalo Times.

FOGELSANG STILL MISSING.

Officers Fail to Locate Cashier of Springport Bank.

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 14.—Henry P. Fogelsang, cashier of the Springport bank, who disappeared after an investigation into his accounts had been hinted at by stockholders in the institution, is still a fugitive from justice. No trace of the missing man has been found, despite the face that the officers have notified the police of many cities where he was believed to have gone.

Sheriff Bean and Allan Crawford, Jr., the latter one of the directors of the banking institution, received a tip that Fogelsang was at Baton Rouge, Miss., but a search of that place failed to locate him.

Banking Commissioner Zimmerman states that it would probably be a week or ten days before the bank would be reopened, if then.

SLASHES HER THROAT.

Minister's Wife Attempts Suicide While He is Preaching.

Duplain, Mich., Dec. 14.—While her husband was conducting services at the M. E. church at this place, Mrs. Rev. Robert Atchinson, sixty years old, slashed her throat with a razor and may die as a result.

Mrs. Atchinson has been ill from nervous prostration for several months, and before her husband left for church she asked him for his razor. Mr. Atchinson thought nothing of the request and gave her the instrument. A short time later Miss Jennie Wilcox, who has been living at the Atchinson home since the woman's illness, entered the room where Mrs. Atchinson was, to find blood streaming from her throat. A bloody razor was clutched in her hand.

It was four hours before a physician could be summoned.

Plan Chain Furniture Stores.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—A retail furniture combination, looking to the establishment of a chain of stores in every large city in the United States, is being formed at the Stratford hotel today. The combination is to be known as the United States Furniture company. The company is said to be backed by a score of big furniture manufacturers in various parts of the country.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 14.—Word has reached here of a proposed combine of furniture manufacturers, which would mean the establishment of a chain of retail stores, but every effort to verify such a movement among local men has been fruitless.

FLEET AT COLOMBO TODAY.

Great Reception For Our Sailors by the Cyclonese.

Colombo, Ceylon, Dec. 14.—The report that the homeward bound American battleship fleet had been sighted today off this port caused a stir in official and social circles, in which great preparations have been made to give the visitors a good time during their stay.

The colonial secretary has been instructed by the secretary of state to do all he can to extend such hospitality as King Edward would wish shown to the United States. The legislative council has voted an appropriation for entertainments. Special trains will take the men on daily excursions into the interior of Ceylon. SAILORS COULDN'T SING.

Their Attempts to Render "Star Spangled Banner" Were Fruitless.

Washington, Dec. 14.—Letters which have reached Washington from officers on the battleship fleet indicate a woeful lack of knowledge of anything approaching a national anthem.

In most places where the fleet was received with so much cordiality the natives were prompt and vigorous in the delivery of an appropriate air, and such an incident was usually followed by an attempt to render the "Star Spangled Banner," with the result, as one correspondent has described it, that the singers were rarely able to proceed with the song for more than three lines.

The repeated failures finally led to some combined effort to rehearse for the rendition of the American anthem, but without much success.

Bishop Spalding Says Farewell.

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 14.—Bishop John Lancaster Spalding has issued a farewell letter to the priests and members of the Roman Catholic diocese of Peoria, announcing officially that his resignation as bishop of Peoria has been accepted by Pope Pius X, and that Rev. H. J. O'Reilley, former auxiliary to the bishop of Peoria, had been appointed diocesan administrator pending the selection of a new bishop.

King Returns to London.

Brighton, Eng., Dec. 14.—King Edward, who has been sojourning here for a few days, returned to London today to resume his social engagements. The king was not in the best of health when he came to Brighton, but he seems now entirely to have recovered.

Employment For Many Men.

Pittsburg, Dec. 14.—The American Steel & Wire company has sent out orders that will give employment to 500 idle men today and to 1,000 others within a week or two. The orders are for the immediate fitting up of two blast furnaces and six open hearth furnaces at the company's plant at Donora, along the Monongahela river, about thirty miles south of here.

TAFT LOYAL TO PLATFORM.

Pledges His Adherence to Articles Framed in Chicago.

NOTABLE DINNER IN NEW YORK

President Elect Guest of Honor—Declares, With Great Earnestness, That Tariff Revision Should Be Thorough and Honest—Many Prominent Men Present.

New York, Dec. 17.—Bringing his stay in New York to a close, President Elect William H. Taft was the guest of honor at one of the most notable banquets ever held in this city. It was the twenty-third annual dinner of the Ohio Society of New York, but around the 100 tables placed in the grand ball room in Astor gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria hotel were men gathered from every section of the country and leaders in many walks of life.

Mr. Taft took advantage of the occasion, in a speech filled with more earnestness than any he has delivered since his election, to pledge his administration and his party, so far as he can control it, to a loyal adherence to the Chicago platform. He dwelt almost wholly upon the revision of the tariff, which he singled out as the most important declaration made at the last national convention, and, after having previously referred to the veto power of the chief executive, said, with all the emphasis of which he was capable:

"Better no revision at all, better that the now bill should fail, unless we have an honest and thorough revision on the basis laid down and the principle outlined in the party platform."

Mr. Taft also referred again to the Sherman anti-trust law and declared for its enforcement as one of the Roosevelt policies that the party had pledged itself to carry forward.

Among the noted men present were: Vice President Elect Sherman, Governor Hughes, Henry W. Taft, Charles P. Taft, President Hadley of Yale, J. Pierpont Morgan, Paul Morton, Secretary Straus, Frank H. Hitchcock, General H. C. Corbin, E. H. Harriman, James J. Hill, John D. Rockefeller, William Rockefeller and P. A. Rockefeller, John D. Archbold, Frank B. Kellogg, William Nelson Cromwell and others. There were 900 diners.

Jiroch's Assault Justified.

Muskegon, Mich., Dec. 17.—Lathrop Kingsbury, the man whose brain was examined with an X-ray machine, and who sued former Mayor Francis Jiroch, was defeated in the case when the jury returned a verdict of "no cause for action." Kingsbury sued for $10,000, charging assault and battery, but the verdict justified Jiroch's assault.

Stricken Dead in Restaurant.

Bay City, Mich., Dec. 17.—William Lawe, eighty-one years old, is dead from heart failure. He was stricken while seated in a restaurant awaiting supper. With his son, Mr. Lawe had driven into the city from his home in Tuscola county and was apparently in good health before the attack came.

Man, In Fit, Falls Into Hole.

Hillsdale, Mich., Dec. 17.—George Porter suffered an epileptic fit while working over a sewer and fell into a hole twelve feet deep, with the result that he was injured so badly that he may die.

ROOSEVELT'S AFRICAN HUNT.

Entire Collection Will Go to Smithsonian Institute.

PAYS HIS OWN EXPENSES.

Also Those of His Son—Institute Will Send Along Professional Field Taxidermists or Naturalists—Chief Executive's Letter Containing Offer Given Out.

Washington, Dec. 17.—The agreement between President Roosevelt and the Smithsonian institution as to the president's hunting trip in Africa has been made public. The regents received this letter from the president:

"About the first of April, next, I intend to start for Africa. My plans are, of course, indefinite, but at present I hope they will be something on the following order:

"By May 1st I shall land at Mombasa and send the next few months hunting and traveling in British and German East Africa; probably going thence to or toward Uganda, with the expectation of striking the Nile about the beginning of the new year, and then working down it, with side trips after animals and birds, so as to come out at tidewater, say about March 1st. This would give me ten months in Africa.

"As you know, I am not in the least a game butcher. My real and main interest is the interest of a faunal naturalist. Now, it seems to me that this opens the best chance for the national museum to get a fine collection, not only of the big game beasts but of the smaller mammals and birds of Africa; and, looking at it dispassionately, I believe that the chance ought not be neglected.

Looks For Valuable Collection.

"I will make arrangements to pay for the expenses of myself and my son. But what I would like to do would be to get one or two professional field taxidermists, field naturalists, to go with me, who should prepare and send back the specimens we collect. The collection which would thus go to the national museum would be of unique value.

"I have not the means that would enabel me to pay for the field naturalists or taxidermists and their kit. Now, can you, in view of getting these specimens for the national museum, arrange for the services of the field taxidermists, and for the care and transportation of the specimens? As ex-president I should feel that the national museum is the museum to which my collection should go."

The regents adopted resolutions accepting the president's offer.

Where Are the McDonalds?

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 17.—The police are looking for a couple giving their names as Mr. and Mrs. McDonald, who came here, rented rooms of Mrs. Lucy A. Shaw. He claimed to be promoting a big stock concern at St. Louis, Mich., and, under pretext of giving Mrs. Shaw an important position in the head offices at St. Louis, secured from her $500 for stock in the concern. The pair have disappeared.

Jury Frees Godfrey Addison.

Adrian, Mich., Dec. 17.—Godfrey Addison, on trial for killing John Suiffet, a Pole, was found not guilty by a jury in the circuit court here. Addison threw a rock at Suiffet while working in a beet field near here. Addison's defense was that he hit Suiffet to save himself.

FATHER KEPT OUT OFFICERS.

Would Not Let Them See His Sick Daughter.

GIRL IS SLOWLY DYING.

Disease Is Said to Have Been Contracted Through Carbolic Acid Poisoning—Parent Explains Absence of Doctor by Saying He Knew Nature of Child's Illness.

Port Huron, Mich., Dec. 17.—Just what the outcome of the investigation which is being made in the case of Grace, the sixteen-year-old daughter of Van E. Crane, one of this city's capitalists, will be is yet a matter of conjecture. For some weeks the girl has been slowly dying from a disease said to have been contracted through carbolic acid poisoning. Prosecutor Moore received word that the ailment is not that, and that the father of the child has not called a physician to attend the girl. A sensation was caused in police circles immediately, and when the news spread the child's name was on everyone's tongue.

For hours officers tried to gain entrance to the Crane home, but they met with failure. The prosecutor had a subpena requiring the parent to appear before him and explain the nature of the child's illness.

Crane called on Prosecutor Moore and explained in this manner:

"My girl has been sick, and I have been attending her. I am thoroughly acquainted with the disease and did not feel like entrusting her with the doctors. She is in bad shape, but I am doing all I can for her."

Crane consented to permit Prosecutor Moore to enter his home and have a physician examine the child. This will be done.

If the shocking stories now in circulation are found true, arrests will likely follow.

PLAYED WITH STOVE.

Fifteen-Month-Old Saginaw Child Fatally Burned.

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 17.—George, the fifteen-month-old son of Mr. and Mrs. William Shepard, is dead, the result of burns.

Mrs. Shepard had gone for a pail of water and left only a little sister with the boy in the house. The child's clothes, while playing with the coal stove, caught fire. His mother, upon her return, found him lying unconscious on the floor. He was beyond assistance when a physician arrived.

Student Opera a Success.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 17.—"Culture," the second comic opera produced by the Michigan Union, a student organization, was enthusiastically received by a crowded house at the Whitney theater. The production was good, and most of the songs were very catchy. The opera was a satire on local affairs, and there were good take-offs on everybody. It was produced entirely by students, Roy Welch composing the music and Donald Haines writing the book.

Wright Made Remarkable Flight.

Lemans, France, Dec. 17.—Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, has made a most remarkable flight in his aeroplane here. Instead of rising gradually, the machine shot up like a rocket to a height of 240 feet.

The aeronaut then permitted it to drop about fifty feet, at which altitude he stopped the engine. The machine glided down smoothly and gracefully.

REFORMERS MEET TODAY.

Sessions of the Civil Service League Begin in Pittsburg.

Pittsburg, Dec. 17.—Reformers from all parts of the United States are assembled here today to attend the twenty-eighth annual meeting of the National Civil Service Reform league. The sessions of the league will take two days, during which time many topics of importance to those interested in national, state and municipal government will be discussed.

Among the addresses to be delivered at the meeting of the league will be the following:

"Civil Service Reform In the National Service," Hon. Charles J. Bonaparte, attorney general of the United States; "The Workings of the Civil Service Law In Pittsburg," Hon. George R. Wallace of the civil service commission, Pittsburg; "Progress of Civil Service Reform In New Jersey," Hon. Willis Fletcher Johnson, president of the New Jersey state civil service commission.

CASTRO NOT IN LEAST DISTURBED.

Does Not Believe Reports of Venezuela's Revolt.

Berlin, Dec. 17.—President Castro of Venezuela maintains his composure in the face of alarming reports which have been published here regarding the disturbances in Venezuela.

When dispatches were shown to him that the people of Caracas had risen against him, burned the pictures and statutes of the president in the public gardens and had made an attack upon a number of buildings, including the stores of several of his warmest adherents, and that several persons had been killed, Castro said quietly:

PRESIDENT CASTRO.

"I don't believe it. I had dispatches from Caracas this morning, but they mentioned nothing of the kind."

Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 17.—Castro regime in Venezuela is ending in scenes of wild disorder and mob violence. President Castro has reached the end of his rope. The president is personally safe in Germany, and it is believed he has sufficient money to make the remainder of his life pass easily in Europe.

Four Children Cremated.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 14.—Near Hawthorne, eight miles from Ottawa, the four children of William J. Scharff, a farmer, were burned to death in their beds.

Fraulein

By FRANK H. SWEET.

Copyright, 1908, by Frank H. Sweet.

"WHEN the two so fond lovers were made quick into fairies' land by the beautifool white swan," concluded the tale told the children by the little German governess.

"It's a pretty story," said Della, "but not as nice as the one about the little wooden shoes, is it, Joe?"

"Yes," disagreed Joe, "better. The wooden shoe one chops off in the middle and doesn't end."

"But it might end some time, mightn't it, fraulein?" Della questioned earnestly.

"Ach, no—not until floats back the one shoe that was not more seen by the boy and girl playmates."

Fraulein Wilma Kraft was not lackadaisical. Her eyes were a cheerful blue and looked philosophically upon life as she found it; her face was like a round, pinkly ripened peach, and her wholesome mouth had no pathetic tendencies; her waist was plump enough to discredit any suggestion of pining, yet it seemed as if the buckle of the belt, fitting so trimly around it, creaked faintly—about as much as the extra strain of a sigh might occasion.

"Ach, no."

"I wish I had been the girl to go paddling barefoot in the rushes in the edge of the lake." Della looked with discontented eyes upon the fine kid that held in her rebellious toes. "What do you think became of the shoe that floated away, fraulein?"

"Ah, who could say that?"

"Well, I wish I could see a wooden shoe—I never did," Della mourned, with a dismally defrauded expression that turned fraulein's heart to wax.

"Tomorrow iss the Saturday's holiday," she reminded. "Come you up to mein brutter's house once—ask the mutterkin—there haf I the one little shoe that the girl safed yet."

"Goody!" rejoiced Della. "Mommy won't care. How did you get the shoe, fraulein?"

"Ask me not some questions and I tell you not some fips," said fraulein, laughing and springing suddenly up. "I must now absent me."

Going down the granite walk of the Stanhope grounds, Fraulein Wilma passed Miss Aurelia's new music teacher in the shadow of the winged griffin that snarled above the gateway. He was large, the professor, and ruddy cheeked; his hair, the color of a fresh pine shaving, hung straight to his ears and then curled under; his eyes shone amiably down under big round glasses.

"Gute efening."

Kindly Professor Yost could scarcely pass by a cow in unfriendly silence, much less a little rosy fraulein in the employ of his own patrons. A respectful "Gute efening" in broad, mellow German tones reached her sociable soul.

"Gute efening," she responded, with a quaintly distant courtesy, and went her way, dreaming absently of red clover patches and strong, shapely trees and tranquilly flowing water brooks, all because of the ruddy German with his mellow greeting.

Frau Lena Kraft scolded loudly about the prospective invasion of the Stanhope children on the next day.

"Schilderen cooming on the Saturday alretty," she protested shrilly. "They will the cleaning hinter and some mud on the clean floors make!"

Each Saturday it was the good frau's practice to so scrub and scour and splash and sluice the cottage that it was surprising there was a sliver of woodwork left about it. And Wilma was not excused from sharing the household tasks in the face of the fact that she paid her board to her brother and his wife. Lena was a thrifty soul and a driving one.

"Vat you make, Lena?"

"She pay fife tollar efery week? That make no different," would Lena asseverate. "She will scour the tin ant the coffee kuchen bake ant make the socks mended."

So Wilma's opportunity for retrospect or day dream was narrowed to the darning hour, and even that Lena's sharp tongue oftentimes rendered stormy.

Herman, the slow, tranquil husband and brother, smoked his long stemmed pipe in unconcerned silence through Lena's brawlings, but occasionally he opened his mouth briefly and quenched her.

"Vat you maké, Lena? Let the schildren coom," he said comfortably on this occasion.

And Lena submitted, though with much wasplike scolding and buzzing, to which Herman paid as little attention as to the rattling of a dry bean pod.

The birds among the trees in the quaint old Dutch yard of the Krafts opened their Saturday morning rehearsals unusually early in response to the sound of Frau Kraft's swishing, splashing, brooming and mopping begun in the rosy gray dawn, and the fraulein's faithfully burnished tinware flashed broken javelins to the rising sun. The good frau was still searching for undrenched corners and Wilma busy frying big round apple butter doughnuts when the young Stanhopes raced up the freshly reddened brick walk edged with blue flag clumps and a fringe of lad's love.

A dark presage of tracks, together with Wilma's desertion of the doughnuts to show the children the wooden shoe, set Lena buzzing like a red wasp. When the fat little sabot, with its odd, curved toe and wide, flat heel, had been returned to the inner circle of Wilma's trunk and Joe and Della were hovering dangerously close to the pink knots of the sacred oleander, Lena fell upon fraulein.

The wooden shoe.

"Ach, himmel!" she scolded. "The house we must to the schildren gif yet—yess. Some tracks they make ant the blumen break—vat you care? Now, yust make on your ponnet once ant make dose schildren home—yess."

Fraulein found no hardship in compliance. Better the smell of dew wet earth than that of boiling lard; more congenial a crisp morning walk between strips of spangled grass than the monotonous forming of knobby fried cakes and the tireless refrain of Lena's pungent tongue.

The children skipped happily beside their little plump governess along the sleepy bystreet which ran suddenly out into the wide avenue where rose the griffin guarded gate. From the opposite side came Professor Yost, beaming rosily, his sleek, pine shaving hued hair gleaming with the vigor of its recent brushing.

"Guten morgen," he greeted as the four reached the shadow of the griffin.

"Guten morgen," fraulein responded sedately, retreating gently. "Guteby, schildren. I must absent me."

The professor's eyes beamed commendingly after the fresh, starchy blue calico of fraulein's disappearing house wrapper.

"Vas ist the little fraulein's name yet?" he asked the children, who went hopping before him like robins.

"Wilma Kraft," Della replied. "She's"—

"Vas?" The professor was standing stock still on the stone walk with his mouth open. "Vere lif she at, hey?"

"In the peaky little house down the next street that looks like mamma's Swiss music box. It's got little bits of window panes, with big red oleanders standing in front. And there's candlesticks and large plates in a long row on the shelf, and fraulein has a wooden shoe in her trunk"—

"Wooten shoe?" the professor repeated.

"Yes, a stumpy little Dutch wooden shoe," Della babbled on. "She told us a story about it. A German boy and a German girl used to play together beside a lake and sail the girl's wooden shoes for boats, and once one shoe floated away, and they couldn't tell where it went. They paddled and paddled in the edge of the water in their bare feet and sailed out on a raft to find it, and they could not. The girl cried because she was afraid her papa would not buy her any more shoes, and she kept the one shoe to remind her what a nice time she had playing with the boy, for her papa and mamma moved away, and she never saw him again, but she never forgot him. Why, professor, where are you running off to? Weren't you going to give Reelie her music-lesson?"

The visit of the young Stanhopes and the delayed frying of the doughnuts soured Lena for the day. She scolded Wilma roundly for both happenings and made a clean job while she was about it by berating her for all the

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.

Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional.

The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments.

The "Night Cure", as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well

When You Buy Oysters Don't Pay For Water

Why should you pay a pint of water with every quart of Oysters? Water is cheap—bloats and bleaches the oyster—spoils its natural flavor.

You have never known how good oysters can be unless you have had

"Sealshipt" Oysters

They are shucked into air-tight steel cans and shipped direct from the beds—packed with ice around the container, not in contact with the oysters. You get all solid meats. And how fresh, wholesome, appetizing and deliciously different they are!

Ask for "Sealshipt Sense," a booklet containing new and attractive ways of preparing oysters.

If your dealer doesn't sell "Sealshipt," here are some who do:

It Pays To Advertise

At least Charlie Blood finds this to be true. Mr. Blood has been advertising his 49 acre farm southeast of this village in the Herald for a few weeks and last Saturday sold it to John Murphy who resides on Richard Gillespie's place for $89 50 per acre.

Helping Him On.

The somewhat elderly but still handsome and well preserved bachelor had long been an admirer of the young lady, but never had dared to tell her so. At last, however, he mustered courage to say:

"Miss Jessie, I wish I were twenty years younger."

"Why so?" she asked.

"Because then I should be bold enough perhaps to ask you to marry me."

With a charming smile she shook her head.

"I should have to tell you no, Mr. Baxter," she said. "If you were twenty years younger you would be—er—a great deal too young for me."

He took the hint—and a little while later the young lady too.

THE DEVIL.

He is Coming to Tecumseh, Monday, December 21st.

The dramatic event of the season will be next Monday, when the much talked of play, "The Devil," will be presented at the Bradley opera house. This play needs but little introduction to the reading people of this country, as the story of this peculiar play is being run in the Detroit News, and the book of the same title had the biggest sale of any book ever published.

"The Devil" is from the pen of that daring dramatist, Franz Molnar. This Devil of Molnar's is an unusual character. He is not like the Mephisto in Faust, or the evil one of cloven hoofs and horns, but rather he is a polished gentleman, cynical, cruel, epigrammatic and filled with the philosophy that takes in every phase of modern society. He is brutal and harsh at times, but withal he has an ingratiating presence that is subtle, and at times even depicts human passion.

Such especially depends on a worthy impersonation of the central role, that of Dr. Miller, who typifies the mystic influence that pervades the piece. This queer creature was left by the management to the young romantic actor, E. Sutherland Ross. Mr. Ross is an able young star, having been connected with the late Richard Mansfield in his Shakesperean productions.

Secure your seats early for this great play. Prices 75, 50, 35 and 25 cents.

Questions of Economy.

A quart of tub oysters costs you 40c. It is half water. You pay 20c for a pint of water, or 80c for a quart of oysters. Rather expensive whichever way you figure.

Isn't it more sensible to pay nearly as much for a pint of "Sealshipt" Oysters—solid meats—as you pay for a quart of watered oysters? "Sealshipt" are firm, fresh, clean—no watered—no melted ice—no possible contamination. And the pint of "Sealshipt" will go as far as a quart of watered oysters—to say nothing of the fine, snappy sea-flavor.

"Sealshipt" come packed in a steel container with ice around the container—not in the oysters. We sell "Sealshipt" only, and guarantee them.

JAMES LOWRY & SON,
C. M. GILBERT.

Secured a big show.

Manager Marks has just closed arrangements with the management of Franz Molnar's wonderful play "The Devil" to appear at the Bradley opera house on Monday, Dec. 21st, with an excellent cast. The story of this peculiar play is in the Detroit News every night.

A Modern Fable

Once upon a time there were two men, Mr. Optimistic and Mr. Pessimistic who made up their mind to go fishing. They expended a large amount for first class tackle and bait and met on the shore of the lake.

Mr. Pessimistic said, "It smells like rain. It sems to me I can see a cloud in the sky, I am not going out until things look more favorable. The boat might tip over and I would lose my bait and expensive tackle, even if the boat didn't tip over I might get wet and catch cold and die, so I am not going to go out until things look more favorable."

Mr. Optimistic said, "Well you can stay here, count your worms and eat your frogs, I am going out. I have got some good fresh bait and a little cloud does not scare me a particle. Suppose we do have a shower, the sun will soon come out, besides I want some fish and am going to have them."

All day long Mr. Pessimistic sat on the shore and waited for the storm that never came His worms dried up, his frogs died and at night when Mr. Optimistic came in with a big string of fish, he cursed his luck and said everything was against him and teased Mr. Optimistic to divide his fish with him.

MORAL:--Just because there is a quarantine on the state. Don't give up and say everything is all wrong. The sun will soon shine bright, make your plans for the coming year as it is going to be a "BANNER YEAR" for us all.

We are out every day after business and getting it. We have the lines you want and the price and the terms. Come in and talk it over.

LETTER FROM A FORTY-NINER

COULD NOT OBTAIN RELIEF FROM CATARRH UNTIL HE HAD USED HYOMEI

Here is a simple, interesting and sincere letter from a rugged pioneer of '49, who braved the dangers and hardships of the overland trail to California. Surely the sincerity of this letter should strongly appeal to those who desire to escape the bondage in which they are now held by that ruthless and most powerful wrecker of health and happiness: Catarrh.

Santa Rosa, Cal., May 5, 1908.

Booth's Hyomei Co, Buffalo, N. Y.

Dear Sirs:—Some years ago I was afflicted with catarrh, and tried a number of remedies, but received no relief. I was told by a friend who had been using your Hyomei, and thought I would receive a great benefit and perhaps a cure. I purchased an outfit, and before I had used the bottle I noted a marked relief

I used it for a month or so, and thought I was cured, and stopped using it for a year or so. Thought I was getting catarrh again, and started using it again, and I keep it in the house and use it every morning once a day, and keep myself clear of catarrh I consider it the best catarrh medicine that is used. I have often recommended it to my friends. I am 81 years old. I came to California in 1849, and of course am not as vigorous as I was 58 years ago, My address is 811 4th St. Yours truly, W. Mock

Hyomei (pronounced High o me) is guaranteed by C A, Wright & Son's drug store not only for catarrh, but for grip, coughs, colds, bronchitis, croup of infants, asthma, and all diseases of the nose, throat and lungs. A complete outfit, including inhaler, costs only $1.00; extra bottles of Hyomei if afterwards needed cost but 50 cents. Ask C W. Wright & Son about it.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days; and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Thanksgiving is a good thing; thanksliving is better.

Every case of backache, weak back, bladder inflammation and rheumatic pains is dangerous if neglected, for such troubles are nearly always due to weak kidneys. Take DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. They are antiseptic and soothe pain quickly. Insist upon DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills. Regular size 50c. Sold here by all druggists.

One can not judge of a man's importance by the number of badges on his coat.

More people are taking Foley's Kidney Remedy every year. It is considered to be the most effective remedy for kidney and bladder troubles that medical science can devise. Foley's Kidney Remedy corrects irregularities, builds up worn out tissues and restores lost vitality. It will make you feel well and look well. Sold by all druggists.

Every farmer should take part in politics, but it is better to get the corn husked first.

DeWitt's Carbolized Witch Hazel Salve has many imitators. There is one original, and the name DeWitt is on every box. Best salve for burns, scratches and hurts. It is especially good for piles. Sold by all druggists.

The man who is continually waiting for something to turn up is usually turned down.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—48 Prevents—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

If it is true, as some wise men argue, that we are what we eat, what is the man who feeds exclusively upon pork?

Stops itching instantly. Cures piles, eczema, salt rheum, tetter, itch, hives, herpes, scabies—Doan's Ointment. At any drug store.

In painting don't use small dabs and strokes. Make long, even, careful sweeps; and there will be no mare's tails and clouds in your work.

A PERSONAL APPEAL

If we could take to you personally about the great merit of Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, you never could be induced to experiment with unknown preparations that may contain some harmful drugs. Foley's Honey and Tar costs you no more and has a record of forty years of cures. Sold by all druggists.

When you need a helping hand, and one is offered you, grasp it with all the vigor and vim at your command. Do not be a cad and pretend you do not need it.

Foley's Orino Laxative cures chronic constipation and stimulates the liver. Orino regulates the bowels so they will act naturally and you do not have to take purgatives continuously. Sold by all druggists.

When a man's wife is away from home he feels free to act as he did when he was a bachelor—but he seldom does it.—Ex.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Tecumseh Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Tecumseh proof.

J. H. Welch, living on Union st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved beneficial to me. Years ago I strained myself and injured one of my kidneys, began treatment at once but was not helped. At night my rest was disturbed by the frequent action of the kidney secretions, thus causing me to arise in the morning tired and unrefreshed. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Son's drug store, and now feel better than for several years. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a number of friends who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole Agents for the United States.

TRAGEDY IN MINIATURE.

Iron Men and Model Boat Used in Hains Trial.

Flushing, N. Y., Dec. 17.—The story of the slaying of William E. Annis, the publisher, in his catboat, has been made part of the record in the trial of Thornton J. Hains.

Tracing the movements of the principals in the Bayside Yacht club tragedy with the aid of miniature iron figures and models of the float and the catboat, Edwin Andrews, a yacht club member, showed under examination how Captain Hains, standing on the float's edge, shot the publisher.

John Tonning, a Swedish boatman, who saw the tragedy and is a most important witness, cannot be located.

BANK IS CLOSED.

Cashier of New Hampshire Institution Confesses Defalcation.

Somersworth, N. H., Dec. 17.—The First National bank here is closed following the discovery of a shortage placed at $85,000. Fred H. Varney, the cashier, has been arrested. According to W. S. Tebbets, president, Varney confessed that he had taken a large sum from the bank which had been lost in speculation, and that he alone was responsible for the defalcation.

Examiner Bean, who found the alleged shortage, said that, in his opinion, the bank was solvent.

TURFMEN ARRESTED.

Only One Horse Race Run, But Bookmakers Posted Odds.

New Orleans, Dec. 17.—In order, to test the Locke anti-racing law, one horse race was run at City Park race track, and several turfmen were arested, while affidavits were made against others.

Placide Frigerio and R. M. Sheffield, bookmakers, were arrested at the track, together with W. W. Lyle, acting manager of the meet. Affidavits were made against Colonel Samuel F. Heaslip, president of the New Orleans Jockey club, and Edward Corrigan, a turfman, charging them with aiding and abetting the meet, which, it is charged, was started with the avowed purpose of violating the Locke act.

Mr. Corrigan is not in New Orleans, but the police say that he was the instigator of the meet and assert that they can hold him responsible.

While only one race was run, a crowd gathered around the bookmakers' booth when the odds were posted in the regulation manner. There were four horses in the race, which was at a quarter of a mile.

Hard to Secure Jury.

Union City, Tenn., Dec. 17.—After an entire day devoted to an attempt to get a jury to try eight alleged "Night Riders" on a charge of murdering Captain Quentin Rankin, court adjourned last night with only two men in the jury box. Fifty-three talesmen were examined.

The defense exhausted twenty-six of its 192 peremptory challenges, and the state used one of its forty-eight challenges. The court excused twenty-six other for cause. It is probable that a week will be consumed in procuring a jury.

MOTORMAN SHOT.

Two Robbers Hold Up Toledo Street Car Crew.

Toledo, O., Dec. 17.—In a daring street hold-up at the end of the Oak street line, East Toledo, Motorman Thomas Regan was shot and seriously wounded, and Conductor Bert Highley was robbed, after a hand-to-hand struggle with two bandits.

The conductor ran the car into the city and summoned a physician and notified the police, who are scouring the city for the men.

Will Fight Car Robbers.

Toledo, O., Dec. 17.—Toledo officials of all the railroads in this territory are taking concerted action to protect their lines from the depredations of freight car thieves, the magnitude and boldness of whose crimes are said to be without parallel. Scarcely a night has passed since Nov. 1 that from one to a dozen freight cars in the Toledo yards have not been broken into and robbed of merchandise. It is believed that these robbers belong to a large gang which has members in other cities.

Caught After Long Search.

Princeton, Ind., Dec. 17.—Henry F. Agar, formerly secretary and treasurer of the Princeton Milling company, charged with forgery and embezzlement approximating $100,000, has been arrested in Harlingen, Tex., after a two years' search.

Noted Indian Chief Dies.

Pine Ridge, S. D., Dec. 17.—Chief American Horse, seventy-six years old, a noted Ogalalla Sioux chief, is dead on Pine Ridge reservation. He had rendered valuable services to the government in subduing the Sioux and other hostile tribes.

Blizzard in New Foundland.

St. Johns, N. F., Dec. 17.—The worst blizzard for many years has been raging, and heavy damage has been done to fishing vessels, a number of which have been blown ashore. It is feared that several schooners have been blown to sea or sunk.

AFTER THE GRIPPE

Vinol Restored This Man's Strength

"Several years ago I was attacked by a severe case of grippe, which left me with a hacking cough, soreness in my chest, and bronchitis. I took nearly every kind of cough syrup sold on the market, besides medicine given me by physicians.

I received no permanent relief until my druggist asked me to try Vinol, and after taking three bottles I was entirely cured.

I believe Vinol to be the greatest blessing ever offered to the public, as it does what is claimed for it." R. E. R. Hicks, Maplesville, Ala.

The reason Vinol cures chronic coughs, colds and pulmonary troubles is because it contains tonic iron and all the healing and body building elements of cod liver oil but no oil.

Vinol is also unexcelled as a strength builder for old people, delicate children, weak and run-down persons, and after sickness.

VINOL is sold in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, Druggists.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of Scott's Emulsion. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

OFFER IS WITHDRAWN.

No Cabinet Portfolio For Congressman Burton.

New York, Dec. 17.—The offer of a cabinet position to Congressman Theodore E. Burton of Cleveland has been withdrawn by Mr. Taft and will not be renewed.

Mr. Burton had been mentioned as the probable secretary of the treasury.

The statement followed a conference of Mr. Taft with several Republican leaders from Ohio.

Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati was present, and, when he was asked as to what bearing, if any, the conference may have upon his candidacy for the senate to succeed Senator Joseph B. Foraker, he replied:

"I am going to win; everything is favorable."

Fulton's Power of Thought.

Robert Fulton possessed to a remarkable degree the power of concentrated thought. He studied French, Italian and German and acquired a proficiency in the three languages. Higher mathematics, physics, chemistry and perspective also demanded his attention as he progressed in scientific research.—Century.

"DOWN AND OUT."

Cameron Currie Says He Has Lost All His Possessions.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 17.—That Cameron Currie of the refunct brokerage firm is "down and out" is evidenced by his testimony in the bankruptcy proceedings before Referee Davock. He said:

"I have absolutely nothing at all. My only income is a small one earned by looking up advertising contracts for the Michigan Street Car Advertising company. I have only the clothes on my back. My securities, my land investments, my mining interests, my personal property—all have gone into the hands of the receiver. I have no horses, no jewelry, no automobiles."

Pausing in the examination of Louis Case, one of the partners of Currie, Attorney F. W. Stevens announced that so far as he was concerned he was through, as he believed there was nothing further to be gained by examining the partners as to the individual accounts. He asked that adjournment be taken until the first of January, Referee Davock therefore adjourned the case until that date.

WILL NOT GO FOGELSANG'S BAIL.

Widow of Founder of Springport Bank Loses Faith.

Eaton Rapids, Mich., Dec. 17.—Mrs. Teena Roberts, widow of the founder of the closed Springport State Savings bank, and who has always treated Henry P. Fogelsang, the arrested cashier, as though he were her own son, declares that she positively will not go on Fogelsang's bail bonds, and it looks as though Fogelsang will have to stay in jail in Jackson.

"I repeatedly warned Henry against being mixed up in any business deals with this hay dealer, Young," said she. "According to his own statement, he disregarded my advice. Now he must take the consequences."

Mrs. Roberts has always had the greatest confidence in Fogelsang, who was a protege of her late husband. Even after the bank closed she still expressed the belief that he would be able to explain things satisfactorily. Fogelsang's statement that he engaged in business dealings with Young, however, seems to have destroyed the aged woman's confidence.

CASE NOLLE PROSSED.

Murder Charge No Longer Rests Against Joseph Duffy.

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 17.—In the circuit court, on motion of Prosecuting Attorney Miles J. Purcell, the murder charge against Joseph Duffy was nolle prossed.

This action was the result of the turning over to the prosecution by the defense of a number of letters written by the state's leading witness, Miss Myrtle Lennon, contradicting the testimony given on the stand.

The complaint was the outgrowth of the finding in the river last August of the body of an infant child. No further prosecutions are likely.

Will Erect Hospital Building.

Hastings, Mich., Dec. 17.—Dr. F. Sheffield plans the building of a hospital on his premises in this city, which will supply a long-felt want in Barry county. It will be a modern hospital in every way. The hospital will be a public one.

Arrest Young Man For Robbery.

Manistique, Mich., Dec. 17.—John Hollan, a young man of this city, has been arrested and jailed for breaking into stores. Frank Peterson's meat market was entered and some $16 stolen. About that sum was found in one of Hollan's socks when arrested.

Booth Buys Muskegon Papers.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 17.—Ralph H. Booth, the Detroit publisher, has purchased a controlling interest in both the Muskegon Chronicle and the Muskegon Morning News. Both papers will be improved.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

Mrs. David Gibson, wife of a baker of Port Huron, made her fifth attempt to kill herself by swallowing a quantity of laudanum. Physicians succeeded in saving her life.

Harry Lamphere, who escaped from the Grand Rapids jail some weeks ago, was arrested at Traverse City. He had been ill with typhoid fever and was being cared for by the county.

Charles W. Hurd, aged eighty-four, of Grand Rapids, is dead. He had lived in Kent county seventy years. A few years ago he donated eighty acres of land in Paris township to Albion college.

Mrs. Jerry Hoffman, a widow woman of Manceloda, has complained to the officers that forty turkeys, which she was holding to sell so that she would have some Christmas money, were stolen from her hen coop.

The anti-saloon element in Branch county have secured 2,700 names to their petitions, asking for the adoption of local option. This is 700 more signatures than necessary to put the matter before the electors in the spring.

Still Working For Jury.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 17.—The opposing attorneys in the trial of ex-State Treasurer Glazier, charged with using state money to further his own enterprises, are still unwilling to announce themselves satisfied with the jury, and examination of veniremen was resumed today. Prosecution and defense have, however, but one peremptory challenge apiece left, and it is expected that the jury will be completed today.

TRAGIC AFFAIR IN RESORT.

Woman Was Instantly Killed—Husband Dying in Hospital—Inmates of Place Held by Police Pending Investigation—Dying Assailant Known to Officers As Gambler.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 23.—In a fit of frenzied jealousy, aggrevated by finding another man with his wife, Frank Kowalski, alias Smith, shot and killed his wife, Nora Dean, alias Mary Kaniasty, proprietress of a resort at 65 Champlain street. Kowalski then fired two shots at Thomas Lattimore, the man he discovered in the woman's room. He afterwards shot himself in the right temple and sank back on the bed. He is dying at St. Mary's hospital.

Kowalski, according to Mildred La Blanch, one of the inmates of the place, when he came to the house was followed by a short, stout man, who the police have thus far been unable to locate.

Kowalski passed up the rear stairway and to the woman's room, in the front of the house. Lattimore was talking to the woman. Without saying a word, Kowalski drew a revolver and fired at the woman. The bullet struck her in the back of the head.

Lattimore attempted to escape from the room, and, as he did so, Kowalski fired two shots after him, neither taking effect. He then placed the gun to his head and fired.

The inmates of the house rushed to the room and found the Dean woman lying on the floor. Police headquarters was notified, and Detectives Downey and Fox hurried to the scene. Later Captain McDonnell and other members of the detective bureau arrived. Lattimore was found in another portion of the house.

Kowalski was removed to St. Mary's hospital. The physicians hold out little hope for his recovery. Coroner Bennett was notified and ordered the woman's body removed to the county morgue. Lattimore, with several inmates of the place, were taken to police headquarters and questioned by the police.

Nora Dean was twenty-seven years old. She was married to Kowalski when she was seventeen. The couple have quarreled several times in the past.

He is known to the police as a professional gambler.

REPORTS CURRENT IN CHICAGO

Understood Inquisitorial Body Would Investigate Charges of Rebating. District Attorney Refuses to Admit or Deny Rumors — Sims Made Recent Trip to Washington.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The issuance of 100 subpoenas, twenty-five of which were served on employes in the traffic department of Morris & Co., packers, summoning them before the federal grand jury, started reports that the inquisitorial body would investigate charges of rebating among the big packing firms at the stockyards.

District Attorney Sims refused to admit or deny any of the rumors afloat, but M. W. Bordens, attorney for Morris & Co., admitted that twenty-five writs had been served on employes of the firm. A flying visit to Washington by District Attorney Sims, who just returned and who was in conference there with F. B. Kellogg, the special government attorney, as well as the attorney general, is supposed to have been in connection with the move made now.

TAFT GOING TO TEXAS.

Will Make the Visit After His Inauguration.

Augusta, Ga., Dec. 23.—President Elect William H. Taft has decided to visit Texas at some convenient time after his inauguration, preferably at the end of the special session of congress to revise the tariff. While his itinerary has not been arranged, he will make the city of Dallas one of the principal points of the trip.

Thirty cities and towns of the Lone Star state united in a request for his presence at any time he should choose to come. The invitation expressed a keen desire on the part of the commercial bodies of the places in question to make the personal acquaintance of Mr. Taft and promised him a cordial welcome. It also dwelt on the advantage which would result, both to the state and to himself, through such a visit.

The acceptance of the invitation is in accordance with Judge Taft's well defined plan to impress upon the south the necessity of becoming practical in its politics.

Judge to Show Cause.

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 23.—The supreme court has issued a writ of certiorari directing Judge Parkinson of the circuit court to show cause why he should not be permanently enjoined from punishing John Allison, the Richmond bank robber, now in prison here, for contempt of court. Allison refused to testify against Attorney Talbot of South Bend, Ind.

Cow Causes Farmer's Death.

Morenci, Mich., Dec. 23.—Myron Harcourt, a well known farmer living three miles southwest of Morenci, fell down in his stable and was stepped on by a cow, causing five of his ribs to be crushed in, one puncturing his lung, resulting in his death.

Barry Pioneer Is Dead.

Hastings, Mich., Dec. 23.—Mrs. S. A. Robertson, one of the oldest pioneers of Barry county, is dead at the home of her grandson, Charles A Robertson of Middleville, aged eighty-nine years.

CAN BOOK BE USED?

Important Question Comes Up In Glazier Case.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 23.—Whether the stock book of the Chelsea bank, containing a record of stockholders of that institution, can be admitted as evidence in the trial of ex-State Treasurer Glazier is a knotty questiono n which Judge Wiest has asked attorneys of both sides to present further light.

After a day devoted almost entirely to introducing documentary evidence and books from which the prosecution expects to later trace the Glazier deals with the state treasury and the Chelsea bank, the court cited a number of cases for counsel to examine, stating that while he had admitted the stock book he was not clear as to its admissability. The judge said the book was secondary evidence, and if it were possible to require Glazier to make a showing as to whether he owned bank stock the books could not be used for that purpose. "A bank," said the court, "is an institution, somewhat public in nature, regulated by law, both as to its organization and method of doing business. If it is a public corporation then this book falls within the rule of public records. If it is a private corporation the book cannot be used."

Ultimate decision of the point is not only most important in this case, as through the book only can Glazier's connection with the bank be shown, but as precedent in future cases.

TWO MET DERTH UNDER CAR WHEELS.

Lansing Boy Killed--Ann Arbor Man Dead.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 23.—Allan Petit, nineteen years old, was run down by a Michigan Central switch engine in the yards and instantly killed. His chum, Clyde Bushley, aged twenty, was hurled several feet, into the arms of a brakeman, and was saved from meeting a like fate.

Petit and Bushley were on their way to a skating pond.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Dec. 23.—William Baumgartner, fifty-five years old, was instantly killed by a Detroit United railway interurban car on the Ann Arbor-Jackson division while crossing the tracks near this place. One of the horses which he was driving was also killed.

He apparently did not hear the approaching car. He leaves a wife and family.

Convict Smashed Prison Machines.

Jackson, Mich., Dec. 23.—Jerry Britton became angry while working in the tailor shop at the prison, and, seizing a large hammer, he wrecked four sewing machines before he could be stopped. Assistant Prosecutor Reese will be asked for a warrant for Britton, charging malicious destruction of property. Britton was sentenced here on April 27, 1906, from Berrien county, for six months to five years for arson.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

The supreme court has affirmed the Potter will case, holding valid the bequests of Mrs. Ella J. Potter of Alpena to certain charities of the Congregational church. Two-thirds of the estate goes to the husband's heirs.

For the death of his son, Charles, aged eleven, who was killed a year ago while catching a ride on a Grand Trunk freight car, a jury awarded William Seeley, a laborer of Port Huron, $700. He sued for $10,000.

NEARLY LOST HER LIFE.

Anna Peck, the Mountain Climber, Tells of Harrowing Experience.

New York, Dec. 23.—Miss Anna Peck, the mountain climber, has arrived home from South America. In speaking of her perilous trip up the precipitous slope of Mount Huascaran, Miss Peck ascribed much of her success to the two Swiss guides who accompanied her. "It was thanks to the experience of these two men," said Miss Peck, "that I succeeded in reaching the 24,000 feet altitude which marks the summit of Huascaran. This height, I believe, surpasses that reached by any one before me.

"We reached the summit on Sept. 2, and the following night, as we were making our way down, Taugwalder, who was leading, slipped and carried me with him over the edge of a fissure. The other guide, Gabriel zum Taugwald, fortunately for us, had seen the mis-step and had braced himself with his alpenstoc.., so that when the rope that bound us all together yanked taunt he retained sufficient purchase in the ice not to be carried off his feet by our combined weight. He called down to us instructions to dig ourselves footholds that would lighten the strain both on the rope and himself, and he gradually pulled up both back to him. It was the closest call I ever had."

Miss Peck is nearly fifty years of age.

GOVERNOR HOCH PARDONS HIM

Man Serving Time For Murder to Get Liberty.

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 23.—Governor Hoch has pardoned John Collins, now serving a life sentence in the Kansas state penitentiary for the murder of his father, J. S. Collins, a well-to-do real estate and insurance man of this city, in May, 1898. Collins will be free Christmas day.

The Collins case was one of the most remarkable criminal cases in this part of the west. Young Collins was a student at Kansas university at the time of his father's death. He was convicted upon the testimony of three negroes, all of it being circumstantial in character.

At the trial the state set up the plea that Collins was in love with Miss Francis Babcock, a young society woman of Lawrence, Kas., and that Collins planned the killing of his father that he might obtain the life insurance which the senior Collins carried on his life.

One of the negroes upon whose testimony Collins was convicted has since written a book asserting that the testimony of the three negroes at the trial was a part of a plan by enemies of young Collins to ruin him.

The Choice of Captain Ebenezer.

By CLARISSA MACKIE.

Copyright 1898, by Clarissa Mackie.

CAPTAIN EBENEZER HOBSON washed and dried his dishes with amazing severity. In a trice they stood in shining rows on the trim dresser, and the gaunt form of the captain was bent over his little cook stove, while his great brown hands were plying the blacking brush diligently. When the stove shone like a mirror and the teakettle fairly sparkled with cleanliness, the captain swept out the kitchen and hung the broom upon its accustomed hook, with a sigh of relief. He lighted an old pipe and sat down on the doorstep with his back against the lintel and his keen blue eyes fixed across the bay to where the Ledge light shone like a large red star.

It was after sunset, and the pale pink and primrose of the afterglow were fading from the western sky.

Captain Ebenezer was lost in reverie. His blackened pipe went out all unnoticed and hung from his fingers listlessly, while the old sailor whistled softly to himself. Suddenly he slapped his knee and burst into a hearty laugh.

"Ho, ho!" he chuckled. "I guess that will fetch one or t'other of 'em! Let me see. Now, the Widder Banks says, says she, 'It ain't no good for man to live alone, Capt'n Ebenezer, and, moreover, 'taint always good for wimmen, either.' Now, I wonder if Widder Banks meant I should ask Miss Phoebe to change her name?" Again the captain shook with laughter as he contemplated upon the rather complex state of his love affairs, for bluff, hearty Captain Ebenezer had tired of his long, lonesome years of widowhood and had determined to seek another companion to share his snug cottage on the beach and the proceeds of his fishing smack, the Saucy Liz.

"Now," mused the captain, "there's Miss Phoebe, as trim a little craft as ever sailed the seas. She's good natured and a good cook, and I guess she ain't afeared of the water. A sailor's wife ought to be able to sail across the bay without gettin' yaller about the gills. I don't know, though, whether she'd move down to my cabin. If Miss Phoebe won't have me, I'll have to ask the widder. There ain't another woman with marryin' within twenty miles; but, Lor', the widder's tongue 'll make things lively, I suppose!"

Captain Ebenezer had sighed after Miss Phoebe Lummis for many months. That little lady's utter indifference to his society had chilled his ardent sailor heart, and he had changed his matrimonial course in the direction of the Widow Banks' brown house on the high hill overlooking the bay. Captain Ebenezer had made up his mind to marry, and marry he would, one or the other of the two objects of his choice—whichever one would have him.

BURST INTO A HEARTY LAUGH.

That night the wind changed and blew restlessly from the southward. The pale sun rose on a gray-green bay whipped with white foam and on long green waves that broke on the beach with a sullen roar that was music to Captain Ebenezer's ears.

"It's pretty roughish," he muttered between the teeth clinched on his pipe, "but the Saucy Liz is as safe as a rockin' chair, and if either of them two wimmen is scared to go out in her she won't do for me!" He spat reflectively at one great roller and stepped back as it broke with a hissing roar over his feet.

"Pretty near got me that time, gol darn yer!" he chuckled, pulling his sou'wester snugly over his ears and turning up the shore road toward the little village which nestled between two high, protecting bluffs.

"Good mornin', Mrs. Banks," he called cheerily as the widow opened wide her hospitable door in answer to his resounding summons. "I'm goin' out to Bar island for a mess of blues. Thought mebbe you'd enjoy the sail!"

Mrs. Banks cast a startled glance over the captain's burly shoulder toward the tossing, tumbling, whitecapped bay.

"You ain't afraid, be you?" asked the captain hopefully, edging his way toward the steps and unconsciously glancing toward a small white house half hidden among the oaks across the road.

"Of course I ain't a mite afraid, Captain Ebenezer," said Myra Banks at last. "It ain't the kind of a day I'd choose to go out for pleasure, but I'm a sailor's widder, and it ain't for me to balk before a sou'west storm. Many's the storm I've rid out with poor Jim before he had his last sickness and"—

"Yes, yes, ma'am," interrupted Captain Ebenezer hastily. "I'll be ready to cast off in about an hour, when the tide turns, although it don't make much difference on a day like this whether we wait for tide or not."

"I'll be ready, captain," returned Myra Banks decisively. "I guess I'll take a basket and get some beach plums over to the island. I heard they was a-plenty there."

"So they be; so they be. I thought mebbe I'd ask Miss Phoebe to go along, too, as company for you, ma'am."

"So do; so do," agreed Mrs. Banks ironically as she watched the captain's stalwart form proceeding down the path. "I believe I see Phoebe Lummis trustin' herself to the Saucy Liz or any other craft on a day like this. I guess victuals for two will be a-plenty this day!" She closed the door and went within, where she busied herself over her preparations with more trepidation than Captain Ebenezer would have believed she could display.

In the meantime the captain had rolled up the trim path bordered with snowy clam shells which outlined rows of richly colored dahlias and gay, many hued asters.

"Terribly neat, Miss Phoebe," he muttered dubiously as he tiptoed across the freshly painted porch and rang the bell.

Miss Phoebe Lummis, small, exquisitely neat in person and delicately neat in form and feature, as Captain Ebenezer mentally inventoried her, smiled pleasantly upon the good looking sailor man.

"Come right in, captain," she said cheerfully, throwing open the door of her sunny parlor, where the honeysuckle vines cast dancing shadows on the walls. "Do sit down while I take my cookies out of the oven. I'll be back in a minute."

Captain Ebenezer looked around the room approvingly. There were a gayly figured brussels carpet, a whatnot containing strange seashells and curiosities from foreign lands, great ragged branches of coral flanking the fireplace and comfortable old fashioned chairs. There were geraniums in the front windows and a canary singing in an adjoining room. Many a long winter evening had the captain played cribbage with Miss Phoebe, and many a drink of sweet cider had be quaffed to wash down the deliciously crisp cookies and light doughnuts that she offered for his refreshment. In spite of this entertainment the captain stood in wholesome fear of Miss Phoebe, who spoke what she thought in brief terms, and it was the fear of getting the right about from Miss Phoebe that deterred the captain from uttering the words of affection that so often trembled on his lips.

"It's a dreadful day on the water," began Miss Phoebe when she had returned and seated herself opposite the captain. "I don't know who'd want to be out on a day like this!"

"I'm goin' out myself," ventured the latter, twirling his sou'wester in his horny hands, "and I came in to say that I'd like to have you go out with me in the Saucy Liz. There's a good fresh wind, and it won't hurt you none."

"Never!" returned Miss Lummis decidedly. "I'd be seasick the minute I got aboard. I ain't no sailor, Captain Ebenezer, so you'll sail without me this time!" She smiled pleasantly upon the discomfited sailor.

"The Widder Banks is goin' along to get beach plums on the island, and I thought mebbe you'd be company for one another. You ain't a good sailor, then, ma'am?" Captain Ebenezer's voice expressed poignant anxiety as he ventured this question.

"Not a bit. I like a sail on a smooth sea, but no sou'westers for me, captain. You ask me some time when it isn't rough and I'll go with you gladly."

"You wouldn't—you wouldn't—oh—easy there!" Captain Ebenezer thrust a hand inside the collar of his flannel shirt and jerked it fretfully. With sudden exasperation he jumped to his feet and extended one hand pleadingly. "You wouldn't marry me, Miss Phoebe, would you?" he shouted desperately.

Miss Phoebe's tinkling laugh died away as a pink flush rose to her delicate cheeks. "I might if you asked me, captain," she said demurely.

"I thought mebbe you wouldn't want to leave this pretty house of yours, Phoebe," said the captain tenderly as later he occupied a place on the sofa beside his fiancee.

"I figured," began Miss Phoebe dreamily, and then she stopped, with a sudden shocked expression in her mild eyes—"I mean," she went on hastily, "I should think we could move this house right down the bluff and fasten it on to your cabin, you know."

"Surest way, my hearty!" sang Captain Ebenezer blithely. "And now"—

"You better be going along, captain," interrupted Miss Phoebe briskly. "I see the widder going down the road, and you don't want to keep her waiting."

Captain Ebenezer stared aghast. He had forgotten the Widow Banks and the proposed trip to Bar island.

"I'm an engaged man now, Phoebe," he said, mopping his forehead and looking at her out of troubled eyes.

"Oh, go along, Ebenezer, do!" she said, with playful impatience. "I ain't a mite jealous. You wasn't engaged when you asked her to go. Bring me a mess of blues, and you can come to tea and eat 'em."

Captain Ebenezer's blissful smile faded from his face as he proceeded down the road to the beach, where he could see the red knitted jacket of Myra Banks moving toward the landing where the Saucy Liz dragged at her anchor. What the Widow Banks might expect from him as a result of this marked attention he could not, dared not, imagine. If he had only gone to Miss Phoebe's first! He tried to recall if he had ever uttered a remark to the keen witted widow which might have committed him in any way to an avowal of love. There was none that he could remember. He had been wary indeed.

"Here I be a-waitin' for you," began Myra Banks playfully as she deposited a heavy basket on the landing. "I expect we'll have to eat up all the victuals so's I can put the plums in the basket. Where's Phoebe?"

"Phoebe, she—Miss Phoebe ain't a-comin'. She thinks it's too rough for her," exclaimed Captain Ebenezer, reddening under the keen gaze of the widow. "Now, Mrs. Banks, jest step into the dory, your foot right in the middle—that's it—easy now—umph—so!" With surprising agility the big captain took his place in the rocking boat and with a few quick, long strokes brought them to the side of the Saucy Liz.

It is needless to record this voyage over the careening seas, for neither one of the occupants of the sloop cared to remember the unpleasantness of that day. To the widow it was one long, nauseous period of terror. To Captain Ebenezer it was a dark and gloomy passage. The successful outcome of his wooing was counterbalanced by the fear of what the widow might expect from his marked attentions in the past. He trailed his lines and pulled in myriads of shining, steely bluefish ere they grounded on the pebbly beach of the quiet cove.

The widow tottered ashore on Captain Ebenezer's arm, and they sat down, and while Myra Banks languidly discussed the contents of the lunch basket, which the captain attacked with a right good will, the widow seemed to be revolving some weighty matter within her mind, a matter that might excuse her want of appetite after the bracing voyage.

"I'll help you get your plums, Mrs. Banks," said the captain, looking kindly upon the pallid face and disheveled hair of his guest.

Myra Banks turned a gloomy eye upon her host and then looked back over the tossing sea of green water and shuddered.

"I guess it was a little too rough," ventured Captain Ebenezer uneasily. The continued silence of the Widow Banks was disconcerting and somewhat alarming.

Suddenly the pent up wrath of Myra Banks found vent, and she shook quivering fingers in the air before the astonished visage of the captain.

"Rough, indeed! And what do you mean by a-askin' frail wimmen off on a voyage like this, a-temptin' them with"—

"Sho—sho—Mrs. Banks," expostulated the captain indignantly. "Whatever do you mean? I didn't hold out no temptations when I asked you to go. I jes' asked you to go—that was all!"

"I want to go home," retorted Mrs. Banks bitterly in reply to the captain's last remarks, and home they went, beating before the wind, mounting green heights of water and diving into valleys flecked with foam. While the captain was dropping his anchor Myra Banks looked fiercely about the harbor at the flying smacks, the high wooded bluffs and around the deck of the Saucy Liz, and yet she said never a word.

Silently she accompanied Captain Ebenezer ashore, and sullenly she parted from him, and then, just as he turned away from her, dangling a string of fish in his hand, she called him.

"Captain Ebenezer Hobson!"

"Yes," he shouted back cheerily.

"I wouldn't marry a seafarin' man for anything, so there ain't no need for you to come a-callin' any more!" She faced about and plodded up the road toward home.

"Thank the Lord!" murmured Captain Ebenezer piously as he turned into the clam shell bordered path between the dahlias.

This is what the boy wrote about the dachshund:

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures of prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good! Hence forth for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

HON. LAFS. D. McCORD, 1825 G St., Washington, D. C., Ex-Adjutant General State of Tennessee, and State's Attorney at Nashville, is an ardent friend of Peruna. He does not hesitate to give public endorsement to this very excellent remedy.

As a tonic Peruna has no superior. But it is as a catarrh remedy it has achieved its world-wide notoriety and success.

Any catarrh remedy to become permanently effectual in the cure of catarrh must contain tonic and invigorating qualities with its anti-catarrhal qualities. Catarrh is always an expression of nerve weakness, either local or general. It is, therefore, important that a catarrh remedy should possess reliable invigorating qualities in order to thoroughly rid the system of catarrh.

"I have used Peruna and can recommend your remedy as a very effective cure for colds and catarrhal complaints."—R. S. Ryan.

You are cordially invited to attend and participate in any or all of these services.

The program for the praise service at our church Sunday evening was of exceptional merit and interest throughout. The occasion was an especially glad one, as it was our first service with our hand some new set of "Church Harmonies" (hymn and service books), the gift of our Y. P. C. U. In a neat comprehensive little speech, Mrs. Mathias, as president of the Christian Union, told the story of the evening of the books, making grateful acknowledgment of the assistance of many friends outside the Union. "Especially that generous giver of good gifts, Mr. Lilley"; and presented the books to the church, as she said, "trusting that the congregation would enjoy using, as much as the Unionets had enjoyed earning them.

Mr. Henry Sweet in his usual apt and able manner accepted the books on behalf of the church society, and the pastor dedicated them to the worship of God and the inspiration and help of all who worship them.

The little talk by the pastor on "The Ministry of Song" was replete with practical ideas and suggestions on the use and the abuse of song—the good and bad effects of song on body, mind and soul—that will not soon be forgotten. The music by the choir was of an exceedingly high order, especially a duet by Miss Metta McKinney and Mr. Tansley and a solo, "The Birthday of the King," by Miss Gaston.

The special Christmas music Sunday was certainly a treat.

The entertainment at the church last night was a sure success (barring the effect of the red lights) and all who attended felt glad they had come: each one did their part nicely and Santa Claus certainly gave pleasure to the little ones when at the close of the exercises, he distributed, with the help of the brownies, presents to the S S. children. One feature of the entertainment was a book presented to every child in the congregation, a souvenir from Partridge and Blackwell of Detroit.

A Valuable Food.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are particularly rich in food values—nutritious but light and easily digested. One can eat heartily of them without discomfort. They can be prepared in scores of different ways, all equally tempting. They are acceptable as a single course or as an entire meat. Eaten for lunch, dinner or supper, they are always appetizing and delicious.

To appreciate the real flavor and piquancy of the oyster it must be fresh. That is one reason for "Sealshipt" superiority. "Sealshipt" Oysters must be fresh because they are packed in sealed, airtight containers with ice around the containers. No water taste, the oysters. You get the natural oyster, whole and perfect

NO HITCHING POSTS.

Reason Given by Adrian Farmer's Wife as to Why Adrian is Losing Trade.

An article in the Adrian Telegram Tuesday stated a farmer's wife's reasons why Adrian is losing trade to smaller towns. A paragraph of this article was particularly interesting to Tecumseh merchants, as it was but two or three years ago that the question of removing the hitching posts from the business section of our thriving little city was brought before the council and turned down.

In part the article reads:

I live five miles from Adrian. I leave home as soon as I can after dinner and take my son five-years-old with me, reach the city about 2 o'clock.

I drive down South Main street and as a general thing cannot find a hitching post. I drive up one street and down another, and the result is I have to put my hore in a shed and pay ten cents for the privilege. Now I think a farmer ought not to patronize a merchant that does not provide a hitching post for their accomodation.

We go into their stores and pay cash. We take what we purchase with us, saving them the expense of delivering it, and after I have a few packages, what am I to do with them? My buggy is in a shed; I take my packages pick up my skirts, take my son and go through a dirty alley to get to my buggy, a place unfit for a woman. If not I leave my packages in a store, go after my horse and hitch if I find a place where I can, and then take my packages and my son, p[illegible] them in the buggy.

Mrs. Laney Margaret Bly

Laney Margaret Dean, was born in Trumansburg, N. Y. in 1831. She was married to George Odell also Trumansburg in 1851, and to them were born five children, three of whom survher: Mrs Everett Estes of Kansas, Ellsworth Odell of Adrian, and Mrs. Robert Hasting of this place, and one brother Abraham Dean of York State. Mr. and Mrs Odell came to Michigan and settled on a farm in Macon and later moved to Raisin, where he died April 19, 1878. A few years passed, and she was married in 1881 to George Bly who still survives her.

About two months ago, she went to the home of Mr. Bly's daughter where she died. She was a patient sufferer, and after a decline of months, death came quite unexpectedly, and her spirit was set free from the worn out body Dec 18, 1898. We can but commend the sorrowing family to him, who is the God of comfort, and pray that they may receive the sweet consolation of Gods spirit

Dear Mother thou hast left us
And our loss we deeply feel,
But to God who has bereft us,
He can all our sorrows heal.

Yet again we hope to meet thee
When the day of life is fled,
When in heaven with joy to greet thee
Where no farewell tear is shed.

They Sat Down.

One night at a theater some scenery took fire, and a very perceptible odor of burning alarmed the spectators. A panic seemed to be imminent when an actor appeared on the stage.

"Ladies and gentlemen," he said, "compose yourselves. There is no danger."

"Ladies and gentlemen," continued the comedian, rising to the necessity of the occasion—"confound it all—do you think if there was any danger I'd be here?"

The panic collapsed.

Second Miss Gunn—Bonnie Brown.
Solomon, the fiddler—Lynn Rogers.

Miss Jim was an anomaly in the community, being by theory a spinster, and by practice a double grass-widow, runs one of the descriptions in the January "Century" chapters of Alice Hegan Rice's "Mr. Opp." Capable and self-supporting, she attracted the ne'er-do-wells as a magnet attracts needles, but having been twice induced to forego her freedom and accept the bonds of wedlock, she had twice escaped and reverted to her original type and name. Miss Jim was evidently a victim of one of nature's most economical moods; she was spare and angular, with a long, wrinkled face surmounted by a scant fluff of pale, frizzled hair. Her mouth slanted up-ward at one corner, giving her an expression unjustly attributed to coquetry, when in reality it was due to an innocent and pardonable pride in an all gold eye-tooth.

CURE IT IN ONE DAY

Coughs and Colds Disappear Like Magic When Hyomei is Used.

If the thousands of people who suffer from hacking coughs and agonizing colds would arouse themselves sufficiently to follow this advice, they would cease to complain within 24 hours.

Here is the advice, if you take it and you are afterwards sorry that you did, it won't cost you a penny:

Go to C. A. Wright & Son, the druggist, and purchase from him a Hyomei (pronounced High-o-me) outfit. It will only cost you $1 00. Take it home; use it according to directions, and if it does not cure your cough or cold, take it back and C. A. Wright will refund the purchase price.

When you use Hyomei you don't swallow nauseating drugs. You simply breathe in the soothing, pleasant and antiseptic Hyomei air through the little pocket inhaler that comes with each outfit. As this medicated air passes over the inflamed parts, relief comes almost at once, and cure follows.

Mary E Bennett, Peru, Ind., writes: "I cannot speak too much in praise of your Hyomei treatment for catarrh. I have been using your remedy for about two weeks, and I have found more relief in that than anything that I have ever tried. I have spent dollar after dollar getting medicine of the doctor for a troublesome cough which I had, and have tried all kinds of cough syrups and cough tablets, and Hyomei is the only remedy that reached the spot I had given up in despair, but I feel so much better now that I feel as though I have a new lease on my life."

Hyomei is also guaranteed by C. A. Wright to cure catarrh, croup, grip and asthma, and all diseases of the nose and throat.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Thanksgiving is a good thing; thanksliving is better.

The man who is continually waiting for something to turn up is usually turned down.

Preventics, the new Candy Cold Cure Tablets, are said by druggists to have four special specific advantages over all other remedies for a cold. First—They contain no Quinine, nothing harsh or sickening. Second—They give almost instant relief. Third—pleasant to the taste, like candy. Fourth—A large box—48 Prevents—at 25 cents. Also fine for feverish children. Sold by all dealers.

A PERSONAL APPEAL

If we could take to you personally about the great merit of Foley's Honey and Tar, for coughs, colds and lung trouble, you never could be induced to experiment with unknown preparations that may contain some harmful drugs. Foley's Honey and Tar costs you no more and has a record of forty years of cures. Sold by all druggists.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Tecumseh Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Tecumseh proof.

J. H. Welch, living on Union st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved beneficial to me. Years ago I strained myself and injured one of my kidneys, began treatment at once but was not helped. At night my rest was disturbed by the frequent action of the kidney secretions, thus causing me to arise in the morning tired and unrefreshed. Finally I begun using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Son's drug store, and now feel better than for several years. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a number of friends who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

For Sale by all Dealers. Price 50c. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sole Agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

CHEAPER CABLEGRAM RATES.

Canadian Postmaster General Says They Are Near at Hand.

New York, Dec. 23.—That not only cheaper, but very much cheaper, rates for cablegrams across the Atlantic are near at hand, is the assertion of Rodolphe Lemieux, the postmaster general in the Canadian cabinet, who spent a day in this city following his arrival from Europe.

"The reform has been accomplished on the Pacific," declared Mr. Lemieux, "and it will soon come about on the Atlantic."

Mr. Lemieux said the movement had recommended itself to influential interests in the United States also, but he declined to be questioned as to whether or not this government had been, or would be, approached by Canada or Great Britain in the matter.

IN NO HURRY.

Defense Will Take Week on Its Side of Hains Case.

Flushing, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Testimony of a character designed to corroborate the stories of the killing of William E. Annis which have been told in the trial of Thornton J. Hains was developed Tuesday from several of the prosecution's witnesses. District Attorney Darrin told Justice Crane when court adjourned that the state would probably take a week to complete its case.

John C. Stephens, another fellow club member of Annis, caused a sensation when he testified that he heard the defendant say after the shooting that "I came to protest my brother and would have shot anybody who interfered."

Lawyer McIntyre endeavored to shatter the testimony of Mr. Stephens, but his evidence remained unchanged when he left the stand.

JURY IS DELIBERATING.

Hazel Boy's Case Given to Them Today.

Toledo, O., Dec. 23.—The case of Harvey Hazel, the seventeen-year-old boy on trial here charged with the murder of his mother on Jan. 11, last, went to the jury this morning, and a verdict is expected before night.

TWO GREAT EVILS.

President Eliot Explains What They Are In Unionism.

Cambridge, Mass., Dec. 23.—President Charles W. Eliot, for the second time in the forty years which he has been head of Harvard, as just delivered a regular lecture in a class room. He took te place of Professor Taussig before the class in economics. His topic was, "The Strife Between Employers and Trade Unions."

Two of the greatest evils brought about by the unions, said President Eliot, were the limitation of output and the limitation of apprentices. The former course was entered upon by the unions with the altruistic purpose of giving more employment to workers, but this was pronounced by the speaker as "unwholesome doctrine."

"Altruism," he declared, "cannot be mixed with economics."

Two Doctors Go to Jail.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 23.—Dr. Eliza Landau of 184 Howard street and Dr. W. W. Turner of 596 Sixth street, who were arrested on warrants charging them with illegal use of the mails, were arraigned before United States Circuit Court Commissioner Harsha. Next Tuesday was set for the woman's examination. Turver will be examined on Wednesday. After the arraignment both were taken to the county jail.

Gardner Wouldn't Sign It.

Marshall, Mich., Dec. 23.—A sensation has been caused here by the discovery that Washington Gardner, congressman from Michigan, former soldier and Methodist preacher, had positively declined to sign the local option petition circulated in this country. It is reported that he said if the question of local option was to be surely submitted to the people he would get in line.

G. E. Ryder, aged sixty, of Coldwater, formerly a wealthy merchant, whose wife and children left him years ago, was found by a committee of prominent men living in a miserable shack, surrounded by filth. He was removed to a hospital.

The remains of a Scotch coolie that had belonged to the Tonner family, two of whose children were burned to death at Interlochen, was found in the ruins of the house. The dog was outside when the house was burning, but entered, apparently, to save the two babies.

In the ruins of a barn belonging to John Mayer, proprietor of the Munith hotel, which burned was found an empty mail bag, wrapped in a black cutaway coat. It is thought by some that the barn was set on fire to detract attention while the contents of the mail bag was being examined.

Alleged Prisoners Were Mistreated.

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 23.—Governor Hoch has appointed a commission to join with a committee from Oklahoma to investigate the Kansas penitentiary and the charges of inhuman treatment, poor food and unsanitary surroundings. The charges were made Miss Kate Barnard, commissioner of charities and corrections of Oklahoma. Oklahoma prisoners are kept in the Kansas institution.

PORTLAND, MAINE, CHILD

Ill, Weak and Emaciated, Restored to Health by Vinol

"Our little daughter, six years of age, after a severe attack of the measles, which developed into pneumonia, was left pitifully thin, weak and emaciated. She had no appetite, and her stomach was so weak it could not retain food. She lay in this condition for weeks, and nothing the doctor prescribed did a bit of good, and we were beginning to think she would never recover.

"At this time we commenced to give her Vinol, and the effect was marvelous. The doctor was amazed at her progress, and when we told him we were giving her Vinol, he replied, 'It is a fine remedy, keep it up.' We did so, and she recovered her health and strength months before the doctor thought she could." J. W. Flagg, Portland, Me.

Vinol cures conditions like this because in a natural manner it increases the appetite, tones up the digestive organs, makes rich, red blood, and strengthens every organ in the body.

VINOL is sold in Tecumseh by C. A. Wright & Son, Druggists.

One System That Won.

"He who breaks the bank today will be broken by the bank tomorrow," was a favorite saying of M. Blanc, founder of the casino at Monte Carlo. There have been many systems that were called infallible invented for the purpose of breaking the bank from the D'Alembert to the Rossiyn and Labouchere, but only one of them all has ever given the keepers of the bank a moment's real anxiety. This was the discovery of a keen eyed old lady who observed that if the croupier spun with certain numbers opposite him certain other numbers inevitably won. As a matter of fact, it was all very simple. The roulette wheel had become warped and was not quite round and thus invariably stuck at easily ascertainable figures. This little discovery put 300,000 francs into the pockets of the old lady and her accomplices before M. Blanc bought the secret for 70,000 francs.—Westminster Gazette.

Some German Composers.

In answer to a correspondent "Menestrel" gives a list showing the "creativeness" of some German composers. Franz Abt, according to the figures published, "created 2,610 compositions, of which 1,079 were choruses, 106 duets and 1,134 songs. Johann Sebastian Bach is credited with 1,102 compositions, of which 225 were for the organ and 611 were choruses. Beethoven's compositions are placed at 439; Brahms, 538; Handel, 397; Haydn, 575; Liszt, 905; Mozart, when he was thirty-five years old, had written 626 compositions; Raff, 610; Rubinstein, 550; Schubert, thirty-one years old, 791; Schumann, forty-six years old, 671. When we except Czerny and Diabelli, who wrote for pedagogical purposes, Mozart and Schubert rank highest for prolific work. The statistician did not consider in his list the compositions intended for the stage.

Perils of Our Dwelling Houses.

The scholars in one of the Fuchow Chinese schools were recently desired to write an essay in English on the subject of "Which Are the Healthier, Chinese or Foreign Dwelling Houses?" One young man "spook" about the matter with his "friends," and they said that the "Chinese building is much better than foreigners." This, he adds, was the "senses of their debate:"

"The foreign building is too heigh and coverless and always built on the top of the hill. In the summer time it receives the most heat from the sun. The people who living in it is the same as putting in the stove, but in winter it is fully filled by the sharp air which cut the faces of whom living in it. So that the foreigner is compeled to put themselves on fire. The fire would do our bodies harm. As we were prepared our dinner; we put the beef on the fire by and by the beef dry in that case the of course man would dry too."—London Telegraph.

Walt Whitman's Pride.

Whitman's grandmother was a Quaker, and the bard had been all his life used, Quaker fashion, to sitting in the house with his sombrero on if it suited him to do so. One day, with a friend, he entered the gloomy and half empty precincts of Trinity church, New York, and took a back seat in the obscurity and for a moment forgot to remove his hat or was probably just about to do so when an officious verger stepped up and requested him to take it off. Walt, a man of immense pride, not seeing fit to do so instantaneously or being very slow in his mental processes, was taking the matter into consideration for a second when the verger knocked the offending hat off his head. Walt picked up the huge felt and, doubling it together, smote the fellow vigorously twice or thrice with it on the head and slowly left the church, the red faced sexton following and threatening him with the law.

Mozart's Skull.

"If we were all constituted like Hamlet and could handle a skull as philosophically as he," writes a sentimentalist in a Hamburg paper, "we could visit the Mozart museum at Salsburg, enjoy the sights it offers and leave there without finding any fault. Unfortunately, however, we are not so cold, and therefore the protest which I make. Among the Mozart souvenirs which are pointed out to the visitor, in the same line with the old piano, letters, manuscript music, portraits, etc., is the skull of the great master. It matters little whether the skull is really that of the composer or one used for show purposes. The fact remains that in the Mozart town, in Salsburg, there seems to be no one who can make the city fathers believe that the exhibition demonstrates a lack of reverence which shocks many people."

Afloat on Hot Air.

Members of the house of representatives are fond of poking fun at the florid style of speech affected by a certain congressman, who invariably contributes much "hot air" to any debate in which he may participate.

On one occasion the politician in question ventured to air his views touching a financial act under consideration, when he drew the following ribald observation from an opponent:

"Our able and adventurous friend has undertaken to present his views upon this question. In this he reminds me of a beautiful swan breasting the sea with arched neck and wings outspread to catch the glint of the sea, moving along in serene and stately splendor, but blissfully unconscious of the unfathomable depths below."

He Explained.

At a school one day a teacher, having asked most of his pupils the difference between an island and a peninsula without receiving a satisfactory answer, came to the last boy.

"I can explain it, sir," said the bright youth. "First get two glasses. Fill one with water and the other with milk. Then catch a fly and place it in the glass of water. That fly is an island, because it is entirely surrounded by water. But now place the fly in the glass of milk, and it will be a peninsula, because it is nearly surrounded by water."

The boy went to the top of the class.

CASTRO WOULD KILL GOMEZ

Late Venezuelan President Is Charged With Conspiracy.

WILL NEVER DARE RETURN.

New Administration Already Shows Signs of Desire to Settle Disputes With Other Governments—Castro, in Berlin, Unaware of His Downfall, Probably Has Kidney Disease.

Caracas, Venezuela, Dec. 23.—The end of the rule in Venezuela of Cipriano Castro has come. The dictator who has governed the republic with a rod of iron ever since he took forcible possession of the Yellow House in Caracas, in 1899, is now openly charged with conspiracy to compass the assassination of a man he left at the head of the republic when he sailed away on Nov. 23 from La Guaira, nominally to secure skilled medical aid in Berlin for a malady of long standing, and is today thoroughly discredited.

No one in Caracas believes he will ever dare return to the capital.

The attempt upon the life of Gomez and several of the ministers was frustrated by the cool nerve and courageous daring of the acting president himself. Alone, and unsupported, he arrested the ringleaders of the conspiracy with his own hands, in the presence of their armed adherents; and, after this action, he issued a proclamation saying that not only had he saved his own life, but he had maintained the highest ideals of the chief magistracy of the republic.

Already the new administration shows signs of a desire and intention to settle the disputes between Venezuela and certain foreign powers that have kept the republic in a light of unenviable notoriety for several years past.

A prominent lawyer has filed an accusation in the high federal court, charging President Castro with complicity in the plot to assassinate and proposing his impeachment.

Berlin, Dec. 23.—Castro apparently is unaware of his downfall or the gravity of the occurrences in Venezuela. Members of his suite inform all inquirers that he sends and receives no dispatches of any kind. The opinion is steadily gaining ground here that Castro's power is completely broken, the inference being drawn from the alleged non-communication of events by the government or his agents that Castro does not possess any further influence in Venezuela.

One of the most prominent members of his suite, who did not wish his name to be made public, said:

"No one has informed President Castro concerning the reports of what is going on, as the president would refuse to believe the dispatches. I cannot ask the president's opinion on these things because he is on a sick bed."

Dr. Israel has twice examined Castro today. He has not as yet reached a definite opinion as to the disease, but he is inclined to believe the patient is suffering from severe ulcerations of the kidneys, which can be treated without operation.

The Hague, Dec. 23.—A yellow book which has just been issued on Venezuelan affairs states that all the powers with which the Netherlands government has been in communication, without exception, have notified the government of their agreement with its line of action. The Dutch government has not asked for any active assistance, being convinced of its own ability to bring about a settlement of the difficulty with Venezuela, relying entirely upon its own forces. Nevertheless, it has received the moral support of all the powers, particularly the United States.

Snow Storm in Washington.

Washington, Dec. 23.—In a heavy snow storm which began Tuesday forenoon and continued steadily during the day, covering the ground to a depth of about four inches, President Roosevelt in the afternoon went for a long walk, accompanied by two secret service guards. It was after dark when he returned to the White House from his hard tramp over the snowy roads of the suburbs.

BALL FOR MISS ROOSEVELT.

President's Daughter Makes Her Debut Tonight.

SHE IS ONLY SEVENTEEN.

Desire to Give Miss Ethel a Season in the White House Hastens Her Formal Entry Into Society—All of Washington's Sets to Be Represented at Affair.

Washington, Dec. 28.—There is an air of bustle, excitement, of waiting and of preparation about the White House today. Casual visitors to the capital and Washingtonians whose business brings them to the vicinity of the executive mansion see wagon after wagon drive to the side entrance, discharge its contents and drive away as rapidly as the leisurely habits of Washington drivers will permit. Within the walls, as a peep through the windows discloses, there is a hurry and scurry of servants, who are adding a touch here and there to the decorations which tell in terms of greenery and drapery that tonight the daughter of the president, Miss Ethel Carow Roosevelt, will make her formal first appearance in society.

Tonight will be the night of nights to which younger Washington has been looking forward. While invitations to the ball have not, of course, been scattered broadcast, the affair will not be at all "exclusive" in some senses of that much vexed word. Several hundreds of cards have been sent out, reaching in their flight members of the diplomatic, the army, the navy, the official, the social and all of the other numerous sets into which Washington society is divided. The great east room of the White House, in which the dancing will take place to strains of music discoursed by the Marine band, will be thronged with the young people who have the entree to the White House and their happy mammas and papas.

The Debutante.

The center of tonight's festivities will, of course, be the debutante. She is young to be the "observed of all observers" at a large society function, being only a few months past her seventeenth birthday. It is commonly believed here that it was not the original intention of Mrs. Roosevelt to bring out so soon her only daughter. The desire to give miss Ethel a season in the White House before her father's term expired is the reason for tonight's ball.

Of course Miss Roosevelt is by no means a stranger to the social world. For the last two years she has been present at many of the state receptions in the White House, and she was conspicuous as one of the attractive young girls at the wedding of her older half sister, Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth. Yet the contrast between Miss Ethel and Mrs. Longworth is most striking even to the cursory observer. The former is modest and retiring to the verge of bashfulness, of the simplest tastes and enjoying keenly the most innocent pastimes—a really old fashioned girl in the good sense. Like all young women, though, who are to experience the first delights and conquests of their initial season, she has anticipated with pleasurable excitement tonight's event at the White House.

Lumber Business Falls Off.

Saginaw, Mich., Dec. 28.—The lumber business of the Saginaw valley continues to show a falling off, the decline last year being especially heavy, owing to the bankers' panic, which for several months demoralized the trade. During the season just closed 34,002,912 feet of lumber was brought into Saginaw from Canada and 3,545,169 feet from domestic points, making a total of 37,547,481 feet for the year. The total in 1907 was 45,071,132 feet.

Fishing Tug Broken In Twain at Frankfort.

FOUR MEN ARE DROWNED.

Entire Crew of Little Craft Rhine Perish—Cabin's Clock Indicates Accident Happened at 7 O'clock in the Evening—Villagers Knew Nothing of It For Hours.

Frankfort, Mich., Dec. 28.—Trying to make harbor in the face of a strong southwest gale, the fifteen ton fish tug Rhine of this place was dashed against the corner of the pier, broken in twain and the entire crew of four men drowned. The dead are: Henry Hanrath, captain; Julius Dorr, Charlie Kirby and Gus Straubel.

The tug crew had been out on the lake lifting nets. News of the catastrophe did not spread over the town until many hours later, when the cabin of the tub was found on the beach. The cabin clock had stopped at 7 o'clock, and it is presumed that the accident occurred about that time in the evening.

None of the bodies have yet been recovered. The beach has been lined for miles with watchers, waiting for the waves to give up their dead. Hanrath, the owner of the tug, was the only unmarried man of the crew, the other three leaving wives and families.

MET SINGULAR DEATH.

Killed by Piece of Metal From Exploding Gun of Companion.

Vermontville, Mich., Dec. 28.—Leo Bosworth, thirty years old and married, a farmer who lived about six miles northeast of here, was killed in a peculiar manner while hunting rabbits.

With him were Gideon Bale and Arthur Pratt, neighboring farmers. A rabbit was started, and Pratt shot at it. The barrel of his shotgun exploded, and a piece of the metal struck Bosworth in the neck, severing his jugular vein.

The wounded man was carried to the farm house of Bert Lowe, nearby, where Bosworth was given first aid, but he died.

Bosworth leaves a widow and three children. Neither Pratt nor Bale were injured.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE.

Canada and Mexico May Aid in Resource Conservation.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Announcement has been made at the White House of a proposed plan for a conference looking toward the conservation of the natural resources of North America to be held at the White House Feb. 18, next.

Letters suggesting the plan have been addressed by President Roosevelt to the governor general and to the premier of Canada and to President Diaz of Mexico, and will be delivered to them by Gifford Pinchot, chairman of the national conservation commission, and chief forester of the United States.

Mr. Pinchot left for Canada today.

The proposed conference is the outgrowth of the two conservation conferences held in Washington

TWAIN USES THE STAMP.

Even Puts Red Cross Stickers on Bills He Postpones Paying.

New York, Dec. 28.—Announcement has been made by the Red Cross Christmas stamp committee here that its stamp sale had been so successful that it would be continued until the first of the year.

Among the encouraging letters received was one from Samuel L. Clemens (Mark Twain). The writer said:

"Ladies—In paying New Year bills, and also in postponing them, I will stick on a Red Cross stamp. If you will suggest in print that the whole country do the same, the Red Cross will prosper to your content. I know this, for I know that all America is warm at the heart and generous at this time of the year, and will thank you for your suggestion and follow it.

"Respectfully yours,
"MARK TWAIN."

Stevens afterwards confessed that he had robbed Mrs. Swarthout and took the officers to the Fulton street cemetery, where he had thrown away the pocketbook.

PEACE CARNIVAL IS PROPOSED.

England Will Be Asked to Participate in Great Event.

ANNIVERSARY PERRY'S VICTORY

'Tis Proposed to Have Exhibition on Island of Put-in-Bay, in Lake Erie, in 1913—Ohio and Her Governor Promoting the Plans—Canada Will Be Asked to Join.

Cleveland, Dec. 28.—In the interest of peace and tranquillity between two great world powers—Great Britain and America—plans are being perfected to invite the English government to participate in the commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the defeat of the English in one of the notable conflicts of the war of 1812—the victory of Perry on Lake Erie.

Arrangements are being made by the state of Ohio to promote a grand peace carnival and joint industrial exhibition to be held on the island of Put-in-Bay in 1913. A commission has been appointed by the governor to formulate a program, and this winter the state legislature will be asked to make an appropriation which will put the matter in concrete form.

The proposed exposition will run for several weeks during the latter part of the summer of 1913 and will be known as the "International Peace Centennial." The site is appropriate and adequate. Put-in-Bay island was the center of Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry's activities on Lake Erie that resulted in the epoch making victory Sept. 10, 1813. The island possesses many points of historical interest in connection with Perry's campaign, including the famous cave where, it is said, the naval hero hid his marines when defeat was imminent.

It now is proposed to have Canada, through England, share equally in the plans, with a view to creating a further tie of friendship between the two countries and with the hope for everlasting peace, which began when Perry exclaimed, "I have met the enemy, and they are ours."

Ohio proposes that the latter part of Perry's message should read not only that "they are ours," but that "they are ours and we are theirs; one people with a common ideal—peace, harmony and progress, divided, not in mind, but only by the invisible lines of statehood."

MEET JOHNSON.

Winner of Kaufman-Barry Fight Will Do So.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 28.—The forty-five round prize fight scheduled to be held before the Jeffries Athletic club at Vernon next Wednesday night, between Al Kaufman of San Francisco and Jim Barry of Chicago, is one of the most important heavyweight fistic contests to be fought in recent months, because of the likelihood that the winner will meet Jack Johnson, negro conqueror of Tommy Burns, for the championship of the world.

A conclusion of final arrangements awaits the time of Johnson's return to this country.

It is possible that the winner of the Kaufman and Barry fight may meet another fighter before meeting Johnson. A challenge has been received from Dr. B. F. Roller of Seattle, a practicing surgeon and wrestler, who has announced that he desires to meet either Kaufman or Barry.

Snowballs Saved Farm Barns.

Bay City, Mich., Dec. 28.—A farmers' snowball brigade saved the barns on the farm of Fred Whipple, near here, from destruction. Whipple and his family were away. Farmhands on an adjoining farm saw smoke issuing from the henroop. They hurriedly formed a fire company, and by steadily applying snow to the blaze kept it in control until others could put it out with water.

Hillsdale on "Dry" List.

Hillsdale, Mich., Dec. 28.—Affidavits are being made out before County Clerk F. O. Hancock, and local option petitions are being filed. Hillsdale is slated for a dry county. Names numbering 3,628 have been placed upon the petitions circulated throughout the county. This number is 1,200 in excess of the number required to secure a vote upon the question at the spring election.

John Stormer, a blacksmith of Johnstown, Pa., shot his wife, her brother and the latter's wife, Mr. and Mrs. William Kurtz of McKeesport, Pa., and then blew out his own brains in plain view of a crowd of horrified bystanders in the street. Domestic trouble is assigned as the cause.

EARTH STUDENTS GATHER.

Meeting Today of the Geological Society of America in Washington.

Washington, Dec. 28.—Men whose business it is to learn the exact age of the earth and to delve into the processes of its formation and growth assembled here today to attend the twenty-first annual meeting of the Geological Society of America.

Among the matters to be discussed at the sessions of the society are the recent discovery in Europe of the so called "oldest man" and the interesting finds in Iowa. In the western part of that state many traces of prehistoric horses, elephants, mammoths and other beasts of antiquity have been discovered. So interesting are these finds to geologists that the president of the society, Professor Samuel Calvin of Iowa, devoted a large part of his opening addresses to them.

MEN OF LEARNING MEET THIS WEEK.

Science Association's Sessions Begin Today.

Baltimore, Dec. 28.—Men of light and leading in all branches of scientific thought, members of the American Association For the Advancement of Science, began here today their annual session, which will extend over several days.

The meetings, which will be held at Johns Hopkins university and will be open to the public, will be filled with popular instruction as well as of scientific value, since a program of interest to the nonscientific visitor as well as to the savant has been prepared. Receptions, dinners, smokers and other gatherings have been arranged in addition to the stated program.

EVACUATE JAN. 1.

Transports Will Then Begin Taking Troops and Marines From Cuba.

Havana, Dec. 28.—New Year's day will witness the beginning of the evacuation of Cuba by the army of pacification, which has been in possession of the island since the beginning of the provisional government, October, 1906.

The first provisional regiment of marines, numbering about 900, which will be among the first troops to leave, are now concentrating from various posts at Camp Columbia.

Companies of infantry will embark on the transport Sumner at Matanzas on Dec. 31. From there the transport will proceed to Havana and embark other companies.

From Jan. 1 on the transports Sumner and McClellan will be employed in the embarkation at intervals of the remainder of the army.

WINTER GOLF SEASON.

Opens Today With Holiday Tournament at Pinehurst, N. C.

Pinehurst, N. C., Dec. 28.—With the holiday golf tournament begun here today, the winter season for golf in the south may be said to be fairly started. This week's tournament is, however, not the most important event of the season here. That distinction is reserved for the annual midwinter tournament at medal and match play which will begin Jan. 11.

Reports from all parts of the southern states declare that a long and very successful golf season is expected. Most of the southern clubs have engaged experts from the north or from abroad to keep their links in good shape, and many tournaments and interclub games have been planned.

BRIEF DISPATCHES.

One of the Paris newspapers states that Wilbur Wright, the American aeroplanist, will shortly go to Rome to give instructions to three Italian pilots in the working of his aeroplane.

Said by himself to be heir to half a million dollars and entitled to a position in Baltimore society, William Jefferson Powell, in Los Angeles, was sentenced to serve 180 days in the workhouse on a vagrancy charge.

Fire, which for a time threatened the whole business section of Oneonta, N. Y., destroyed the Arlington hotel and seven other buildings in the heart of the city, causing a loss of $100,000.

One of the periodic expulsions of Hebrews is now going on in Finland. Thirty families of this denomination, some of whom have resided in this country for a considerable period, have been ordered to emigrate at once.

Orders were issued to a number of natives at Tungen, twenty miles north of Amoy, China, to cease planting opium poppies. They declined to acquiesce, and a riot followed in which one officer and ten civilians were killed. The populace is up in arms.

MRS. McRANEY'S EXPERIENCE

Mrs. M. McRcRaney, Prentiss, Miss., writes: "I was confined to my bed for three months with kidney and bladder trouble, and was treated by two physicians but failed to get relief. Marrying for position generally gets you into a very uncomfortable one.

Eat all the good food you like. Quit dieting. You don't have to diet to cure dyspepsia. In fact you can not cure dyspepsia or indigestion that way, but rather you must add strength to the weak stomach by taking something that will digest the food which the stomach cannot digest. Kodol is the only thing known today that will do this, for Kodol is made of natural digestive juices found in a healthy stomach, and it digests all food completely. Kodol is pleasant to take, and is guaranteed to give relief in any case of stomach trouble. Sold by all druggists.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Dec 19, 1908.

Congress has adjourned its short but tumultuous ante holiday session. The President's message, in which Congress was severly taken to task for circumscribing the activities of the dectective bureau, aroused the legislative body on the second day of the session. Since that time the President has been sending a continuous stream of messages to the Capitol. A caricaturist in one of the daily papers had a half page picture, giving a birdseye view of Pennsylvania Avenue filled with wagons at full speed bulging with enormous messages from the White House to the legislative branch of the government and there was no more exaggeration in the picture than in most caricatures. The final days of the Roosevelt administration will surely sustain the reputation for strenuousness and there will be no political or social rest until after the fourth of March.

The last message of the President is one recommending a change of Government for the District of Columbia. As is pretty well known, the elective franchise is unknown in the District. The government here is by three commissioners appointed by the President. This three headed concern has proved very unsatisfactory to many substantial burghers doing business or living here. They do not want representative government with an unrestricted ballot to every male resident of twenty-one years of age. That would let in the colored population of ninety thousand (the largest colored population, by the way, of any city in the world). Negro suffrage was tried here more than thirty years ago when the District had a governor, a legislature and a representative in Congress. But all the same Washington is not satisfied with its triumvirate government. The President knows it and he has recommended to Congress a change in the form of government for the District of Columbia and should his recommendation be adopted, Washington will have a single governor.

The President first calls attention to the rapid increase of population in the National Capital, which he says has recently greatly altered social conditions necessitating changes in the machinery of its administration. He suggests that a single executive head would increase efficiency, fix responsibility and eliminate delays and uncertainties such as exist under the present system. Whether Congress will pay any closer attention to the President's recommendations with reference to the District of Columbia than it has to his many other recent recommendations, is a problematical question.

The President-elect made a hasty and unexpected visit to the Capital one day this week, but left the same evening for his temporary southern home at Augusta, Ga. It is said that he came in answer to a request of President Roosevelt, who wished to consult him particularly with reference to his proposed trip to the Isthmus of Panama for purposes of canal inpection. At the White House it was decided that the trip should be made in two cruisers of the Navy and that Mr. Taft will set sail from Charleston on January the 25th. It will be remembered that when President Roosevelt went to the Panama Canal, another ship convoyed the one which bore him and the same precautions for the safety of the President-elect will be taken. It has been found that there is no provision in law for a successor to a President-elect should he die before his inauguration. The distinguished civil engineers Alfred Nobel of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Frederick P. Stearns of Boston, will accompany Judge Taft, and consult and advise with him with reference to the condition of the canal especially as relates to the foundations of the Gatun dam.

It is known this morning that Senator Knox of Pennsylvania has been offered the premiership of the Taft cabinet and has signified his willingness to accept. Mr. Knox, it will be remembered, was Attorney General during President McKinley's Administration and also for a short time under President Roosevelt. He has been for four years Senator from Pennsylvania. He is looked upon as a great lawyer—not brilliant, but well read—and safe. He is a man of considerable wealth, supposed to be in the millionaire class, and owns one of the finest residences in Washington adjoining the home of Senator Hale of Maine, on "K" street near the corner of Sixteenth. The house was built by Mrs. George Washington Childs and be ought by Senator Knox four or five years ago.

An executive order has been signed by the President prescribing a physical test for the officers and men of the Marine Corps. They will be required to walk fifty miles in three days or in twenty hours actual marching time and they must do this at least once in two years.

A feature of the walk is that during one of the marching periods the officers will be required to double quick at intervals as follows: two hundred yards with a half minute's rest; then three hundred yards with one minute's rest; and then complete the test in a two hundred yards dash, making in all seven hundred yards on the double quick with one and one-half minutes rest. This is what comes of having a President who can out-walk, out-run, out-box, out-ride and do many other physical things that fat and phlegmatic officers, whether in the naval, military, or marine services, have long ceased to do.

It's just as easy for a woman to tell her husband what to do as it is for him not to do it.

Medicine That Is Medicine.

"I have suffered a good deal with malaria and stomach complaints, but I have now found a remedy that keeps me well, and that remedy is Electric Bitters; a medicine that is medicine for stomach and liver troubles, and for run down conditions," says W. C. Kiesller of Halliday, Ark. Electric Bitters purify and enrich the blood, tone up the nerves, and impart vigor and energy to the weak. Your money will be refunded if it fails to help you. 50c at C. Long Beach, Calif., Dec. 18, 1908.

I suppose there are many of the Herald readers who know all about our Southern Calif., winters and will not be interested in anything I can write concerning them but hoping to interest some, especially among the young, I offer this letter to the Herald.

While Tecumseh children are enjoying, or will soon enjoy the sports that snow and ice bring to them, children here are enjoying all the out door sports of the summer season. About all the winter clothing that children have put on consists of their shoes and stockings of course we must all have thicker under clothing, but such heavy cloaks, overcoats, furs as you all wear are the exception and not the rule. I still have in pretty good condition a winter suit that I brought with me from Michigan 14 years ago. I find them comfortable in this climate only a few days and nights during this season of the year.

Last night, the night of the 16th we had the hardest frost known in this section for a number of years and yet the ground was not frozen and in this vicinity the tender flowers and plants were uninjured neither were the vegetables in the gardens. I do not remember when I have seen a pair of boots worn, except rubber boots for rainy weather. Women and girls go bareheaded in the streets day and evening here in Beach, as in many other places in Southern Calif. Our children are deprived of ice skating with the danger of drowning or getting a cold water ducking but they have the sport of roller skating to their hearts content at all seasons wet or dry, hot or cold.

Long Beach is an ideal place for that sport. We have many miles of cement walk and asphalt paved streets and alleys as smooth as a floor over which they can skate at any speed they choose.

The boys and girls go of errands, to school, and almost everywhere but to church, on their "rollers."

One little girl about 18 years old while skating around her home fell and broke her wrist. Knowing that none of her folks were at home, away she went on her skates down town to the nearest doctor's office to have it set. Of course she was crying "I have broken my arm I have broken my arm." When asked, "where are you going?" She conswered, "to the doctor to have it set." "What doctor do you want?" "The first one I come to" was her reply. Her father was soon informed of her injury, and rang up the doctor's office until he located her and had her brought home where her wrist was set, she bearing the pain like a little heroine.

Of course our young folk cannot coast on runners but they have fine sport on wheel coasters, espically up in the fort hills where many long gradual grades in the streets. Here in Long Beach several streets slope toward the ocean and afford fine coasting.

The holiday displays in our store windows are very much the same as in Tecumseh with a few exceptions. Here we see no sleds, ice skates, but in their stead roller skates, wheel coasters, express wagons and other wheel "vehicles" for use on our streets and walks.

Many young people, 14, 15 and even older who have never felt of snow and have seen it only on the distant mountain top. In the 14 years we have lived here we have felt of snow but once and that was on the top of Mt. Lowe. 6000 feet above the sea.

Dec. 18, last night we had another hard frost the hardest for some years, yet near the ocean no serious damage is done, and the weather delightful. Some of the late arrivals from the east are a little disappointed at such a "cold snap." We tell them that it all comes from so many of them rushing in here all at once from the cold and frozen east, like a company coming into a warm room from out doors on a cold frosty day.

W. P. STOCKING.

Leon Benedict came home Wednesday to spend Christmas with his parents, Mr. and Mrs Chas. Benedict. He left Sunday night for Ohio where he is traveling for Edson Moore & Co., making his headquarters in Columbus.

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don's blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but it is said by be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there. You can always be on the safe side by demanding

"ALL DEALERS"

YOUR Kind of Oysters.

"First catch your rabbit" is the way an old English recipe begins.

The modern version, applied to oysters, is "First buy "Sealshipt."

"Sealshipt" Oysters have that distinctive, salt, oyster flavor. The reason is they are packed in galvanized steel containers, sealed, airtight, with ice around the containers, but not in the oysters. No water is used. "Sealshipt" Oysters cannot bloat, nor collect dirt, nor germs.

"Sealshipt" Oysters are guaranteed. The white porcelain case bearing the blue "Sealshipt" trade-mark, fresh which you buy "Sealshipt" Oysters, is your protection. You can depend on their wholesomeness, purity, freshness. You can be just as particular about your oysters as about any other food—"Sealshipt" Oysters are for particular people.

We sell "Sealshipt" only—wouldn't sell any other kind.

A man's anxiety to marry begins to shrink when he discovers that the woman of his choice is willing.

"If you are planning to have a new winter gown after the holidays," writes Grace Margaret Gould in Woman's Home Companion for January, "there are one or two things I want to call your attention to in regard to materials and trimmings. All of the new fabrics have a sheen effect, whether they are wool or silk. Fine cashmere, which has such a wonderful luster, is a reliable and a fashionable material. The chiffon broadcloths are still the vogue, and wool satin and Henrietta cloth are desirable materials. It is unwise to select even for a winter gown, too heavy a material. The new style of dress demands light-weight fabrics. Much plain tucked net matching the material of the gown in color is used, and the moline nets braided are newer than the filets. For a gown which you wish to wear in the evening or for informal social affairs there is nothing better than the lovely new crepes, which are so soft and shimmery. Messaline and satin are still being much worn.

A Merry Christmas Dinner at the Home of Mrs. M. A. Vincent.

Mrs. Mary A. Vincent of South Union street was given a pleasant and happy suprise on Christmas day when all of her children, grand children and great grand children, with the exception of one daughter and a grandson, entered her home loaded with the necessary supplies for a sumptuous Christmas dinner.

The dinning room and kitchen soon presented a throng of happy busy people and in a short time the long holly-decked, heavily laden family board was surrounded by a merry party with mother Vincent, a smiling happy hostess at the head.

A four course dinner was served after which at the earnest solicitation of the clan, Roy Collins favored the company with the poem on "The Shop" given at a recent banquet.

After a short season of friendly intercourse, interspersed with pleasant reminiscences of other days the company dispersed, leaving behind them a thankful satisfied little mother.

Those present were Mr. Albert Collins, Mr. and Mrs. Allen Collins and daughter Nina, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Collins and sons Everett and Ellsworth of Macon. Mr. and Mrs. Burt Osborne and children Elton and Erma of Saline, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Collins and son Carl of Tecumseh, and Rev and Mrs W C. Burns and daughter Mildred of Monroe.

MISERABLE DYSPEPTICS

Not so Many in Tecumseh as There Were Before C. A. Wright & Son Guaranteed Mi-o-na.

"Mi-o-na was used by me for a stomach difficulty of long standing, and a cure obtained before I had used the remedy two weeks. I had hard, dull pains and cramps in my stomach, and this organ became sore, tender and weak. The trouble made me nervous and miserable. Mi-o na put me on my feet in good shape, and entirely dispelled the stomach trouble; for this reason, it has my recommendation and hearty endorsement." William Lanning, Adrian St., Tecumseh, Mich., Oct 15, 1908.

If you have dyspepsia or any distressing ailment of the stomach, Mi-o-na tablets will give you relief in a few hours. In nearly every case Mi-o na will effect a permanent cure in two weeks.

Not by digesting the food artificially, mind you, for that method never did and never will cure dyspepsia, but by building up and putting strength and energy into the flabby, overworked walls of the stomach so that it can easily digest its own food.

Mi o na is the greatest of all stomach tonics. Take it two weeks and you will feel better, healthier, happier; your skin will be clearer; your eyes brighter.

C A. Wright & Son sell Mi-o na at 50 cents a large box, under a guarantee from the makers to cure dyspepsia, sea or car sickness, vomiting of pregnancy, and effects of the night before, or money back.

The old fashioned way of dosing a weak stomach, or stimulating the Heart or Kidneys is all wrong. Dr. Shoop first pointed out this error. This is why his prescription—Dr. Shoop's Restorative—is directed entirely to the cause of these ailments—the weak inside or controlling nerves. It isn't so difficult, says Dr. Shoop, to strengthen a weak Stomach, Heart, or Kidneys, if one goes at it correctly. Each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely falter. These vital truths are leading druggists everywhere to dispense and recommend Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days, and see! Improvement will promptly and surely follow. Sold by all dealers.

Thanksgiving is a good thing; thanksliving is better.

HIDDEN DANGERS.

Nature Gives Timely Warnings That No Tecumseh Citizen Can Afford to Ignore.

Danger Signal No. 1 comes from the kidney secretions. They will warn you when the kidneys are sick. Well kidneys excrete a clear, amber fluid. Sick kidneys send out a thin, pale and foamy, or a thick, red, ill-smelling urine, full of sediment and irregular of passage.

Danger Signal No. 2 comes from the back. Back pains, dull and heavy, or sharp and acute, tell you of sick kidneys and warn you of the approach of dropsy, diabetes and Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and cure them permanently. Here's Tecumseh proof.

J. H. Welch, living on Union st., Tecumseh, Mich., says: "I can heartily recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they proved beneficial to me. Years ago I strained myself and injured one of my kidneys, began treatment at once but was not helped. At night my rest was disturbed by the frequent action of the kidney secretions, thus causing me to arise in the morning tired and unrefreshed. Finally I began using Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Wright & Son's drug store, and now feel better than for several years. I have recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to a number of friends who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

THE CAUSE OF COLDS

Good Advice Reading The Prevention of Coughs and Colds.

If people would only properly fortify and strengthen their system, about 98 per cent of coughs, colds and pneumonia might be avoided. These troubles are simply the result of weakness, which produces a catarrhal condition of the mucous membrane, which is an internal skin of the body. When this skin is weakened, it becomes infected with germs which are carried through the system by the blood. These parasites attack and break these delicate tissues and set up a soreness which produces what is in reality an external scrofula.

The only thing that will cure coughs and colds and prevent pneumonia is a medication which is absorbed and carried by the blood so that the diseased membrance is disinfected, cleaned, soothed and healed.

We have a remedy which we honestly believe infallable and unsurpassable for the prevention and cure of coughs, colds and all catarrhal conditions. It is the prescription of a famous physician, who has an enviable reputation of 30 years of cures gained through the use of this medicine. We promise to either effect a cure in every case or make no charge for the medicine. We urge everybody in Rochester who has need of such a medicine to try Rexall Mucu-Tone.

It stands to reason that we could not afford to make such statements and give our own personal guarantee to this remedd if we were not absolutely positive that we could substantiate our claim in every particular, and we see no reason why anyone should hesitate to accept our offer and try it. We have two sizes of Rexall Mucu-Tone. Prices 50c. and $1.00. Sometimes a 50c. bottle is sufficient for a cure. As a general thing, the most chronic case is cured with an average of three large bottles. Remember, the medicine will cost you nothing if you are not satisfied in every particular. B J. Pulver, the druggist.

MYSTERIOUS FIRE

Sheriff Carroll Loses His Barn and Fodder.

Grand Rapids, Mich., Dec. 28.—The barn on the farm of Sheriff A. A. Carroll, two miles from this city, has been totally destroyed by a mysterious fire. The loss is $4,000.

The owner was eating his noonday meal when he noticed smoke coming from the building. He rushed out, but the flames had already spread throughout the barn. Three hundred bushels of oats, thirty-five tons of hay and all the farm implements were destroyed.

OFF TO LOOK AT CANAL.

Congressional Investigators Sailed Today From Charleston, S. C.

Charleston, S. C., Dec. 28.—The fourteen members of the house committee on interstate and foreign commerce, who are going to Panama to investigate the canal work, sailed from here today on the Panama line steamer Alliance.

They will reach Colon on Jan. 1 and will spend four or five days on the isthmus. The arrangements for their return have not been made, but they will leave in time to be back in Washington on Jan. 14.

Had Been Anticipated.

A London composer was one summer engaged on the score of an opera, and as the weather was very hot he worked with the windows of his study open. This fact was taken advantage of by his neighbor, a lady, an accomplished musician, with a very quick and retentive ear, to play upon him a harmless practical joke.

One morning he completed and tried over a new march, and the lady on the same afternoon seated herself at her grand piano, opened her windows and rolled forth the air fortissimo. The composer rushed distractedly into his garden to his wife and, tearing his hair in anguish, cried out:

"My dear, I give it up! I thought I had composed an original tune, but it must be a delusion, for my grand march—my chef d'oeuvre, as I thought it—is only a reminiscence and is already the property of some music publisher!"

Any man may make a mistake. None but a fool will stick to it. Second thoughts are best, as the proverb says.—Cicero.

SNOW BLINDNESS.

The Way This Terrible Affliction Affects Its Victims.

Snow blindness is an affliction little known through description, though not very difficult to describe, for here the strongest adjectives need few qualifications. The pain does not follow immediately upon the straining which seems to be its cause. After a long day of haze the traveler finds when he gets into camp that his eyes are a little itchy and that they water if he comes too near a fire or any source of heat. Later they feel as if there were a trace of smoke in the tent, then as if a grain or two of sand had got under the eyelids and finally as if the eye sockets were lined with sandpaper. Every movement of the eye causes pain, and then the pains begin to come without a provoking roll of the eyeball. At first there is a dull ache, growing gradually sharper until toward morning of a sleepless night it throbs through the eyes every few seconds, with twinges comparable to, but not equaled by, the shooting pains of toothache. It is the only affliction with the pain of which the ordinary Eskimo cries out. The severity of the attack diminishes toward the end of the first twenty-four hours. For the larger part of that time the sufferer usually keeps his tent, moaning and occasionally crying out sharply, lying on his face, with both hands covering his closed eyes to keep out the faintest possible light. On the second or perhaps third day he is able to travel, but is very nearsighted and sees everything double. In a week or so, if the weather is hazy or he has no goggles, the same individual may have another attack, but the first attack of the year is the most severe apparently. Every attack weakens the eyes and predisposes to further attacks, which—so at least the Eskimos believe—finally lead to total blindness, an affliction rather common among the Eskimos.

Keeping the eyes from strain and, if possible, focusing them continually on some dark object, such as a black dog in one's team, is believed by the natives to be the chief safeguard. The same view is held by many of the royal northwest mounted police, whose duties within the arctic and on the plains of the northwest frequently expose them to snow blindness. Nothing perhaps could more clearly bring out the trying nature of the affliction than the fact that one or more suicides among the policemen on spring duty in the northwest are attributed to inability to bear the pain of snow blindness. Occasionally the police employ the amusing but apparently rather effective device of painting the nose black and trying to focus the eyes upon it. The type of nose may have something to do with the effectiveness of this scheme. —V. Stefansson in Harper's Magazine.

Why We Sleep.

The well known explanation that the stuffiness of the atmosphere in a church is the cause of sleepiness in members of the congregation is, according to the Revue Scientifique (Paris), "insufficient." If this hypothesis were tenable, argues our authority, it is manifest that the congregation, or those members of it who react readily to a soporific agent, would go to sleep before the sermon began. Now, it is notorious that the sleeping is done during the sermon. The true explanation is that the auditor unconsciously hypnotizes himself or herself by concentrating the gaze for a long period on a single object, whether the countenance of the preacher or the pulpit or what not. The more desperate the effort to heed the sermon the surer this effect of self hypnotization. Those who sleep during the sermon are consequently the very members of a congregation who are entitled to the highest praise for their conscientious effort to follow the words of the preacher.—Current Literature.

Examining Wedding Gifts.

"Women viewing another woman's wedding presents say things which are likely to be misinterpreted," said the bachelor who declares he hates weddings, but always goes when invited, according to the Washington Post, "and other things which no favorable interpretation would make complimentary to the bride or to the givers. It's the way of the sex, I suppose. Now, why is it that the most common remark of the women who are inspecting the layout of silver and cut glass and other gifts more or less useful is, 'What a lot of presents she got?' They don't mean anything unkind, but the inference an uninitiated eavesdropper would draw is that they wonder why she got so many, as if by rights she shouldn't have had half so many. Of course they vary the remark, 'What a lucky girl' says one, as if she would like to add, 'Some persons have too much luck.' And another says, 'I wonder where they all came from,' implying almost as if the bride couldn't have enough friends to make so many gifts and must have sent some of them to herself just to making a showing."

is, by no means, the dreadful disease it is thought to be—in the beginning.

It can always be stopped—in the beginning. The trouble is: you don't know you've got it; you don't believe it; you won't believe it—till you are forced to. Then it is dangerous.

Keep Your Bowels Open

A Safe Certain Home Remedy that is Sold By All Druggists

A fact any doctor will verify is that constipated people suffer most from disease. Regular bowel action is absolutely necessary to health. People who are constipated either part or all of the time must use something to make their bowels move. This should not be a violent purgative or a cathartic that merely tears its way through the bowels emptying them of waste matter for the time but leaving them in a weakened state that prolongs the constipated condition. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is an easy, pleasant, natural laxative that removes the waste matter and establishes regular, daily movements without pain or gripe.

Children and delicate women should never be given strong physic for it not only weakens the bowels but the entire system. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin serves as a tonic and an aid to digestion as well as a laxative that is certain in its effect upon the most obstinate old cases and yet safe and pleasant for a baby. With the first few doses the ill effects of constipation, such as dyspepsia, indigestion, liver trouble, biliousness, flatulency, sour stomach, sick headache, bloated stomach, etc., quickly disappear. It is a remedy that should be in every home for every member of the family at some time has need of a safe, sure laxative.

Mrs. J. C. Cooper, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I use Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for myself and family. I keep it on hand constantly, as I find it to be a most pleasant laxative and is all you claim for it."

Sarah J. Houser, Eureka Springs, Ark., says: "I would have been dead had it not been for Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is the best medicine I ever used for constipation, indigestion and biliousness."

M. R. Zerkel, Troy, Ohio, considers it the best known laxative for children.

We are glad to send a free sample to any one who has not used it and will give it a fair trial. Write today to Pepsin Syrup Co., 305 Caldwell Bldg., Monticello, Ill. All druggists sell it at 50c and $1.00 per bottle.

He Was Very Charitable.

Among the features of a charity bazaar held in London was a refreshment stall, to which charitable donors contributed supplies, thus enabling all the takings to represent clear profits. The lady in charge requested a gift for this purpose from a well known and wealthy gentleman in the city, but one not famous for "parting." To her surprise she received next day a note to the effect that he was sending her a sirloin of beef and two ox tongues.

The same morning the lady happened to go to her butcher (who was also the butcher of Mr. X.), and, after giving him a large order for her stall, asked him if he would like himself to give anything.

"I should very much, ma'am," replied the worthy tradesman, "but I yesterday gave to Mr. X., at his request for this purpose, a sirloin of beef and three ox tongues."

Net gain to Mr. X.: One ox tongue and a cheap reputation for charity!—London Standard.

St. Augustine and His Flower.

St. Augustine of Hippo, the great doctor of the church, whose festival falls on Aug. 28, is a sadly neglected saint among modern ritualists and even occasionally confused with his namesake, who insulted the British bishops. Yet he is pronounced by Hooker "without any equal" and regarded by Harnack as "the first modern man." He has been better honored in the floral world, for to him is dedicated the goldenrod, or woundwort (Solidago virga-aurea). "Old Gerard," with whom this was a favorite remedy, tells us that goldenrod fetched a high price as a foreign herb until discovered growing near London, when the plant was neglected. He adds the caustic comment, "This verifieth our English proverb, 'Far fetcht and dear boughte is best for ladies,' or for fantastical physitions." Before tobacco the goldenrod also furnished snuff for our mediaeval forefathers.—Westminister Gazette.

It Did Not Work.

Mr. Seabury and his wife were on the point of moving to another flat. Both of them were anxious that the transfer should be made at the least possible expense, and the nearness of the new home promised materially to further this aim.

"I can carry loads of little things over in my brown bag," announced Mrs. Seabury, "and you can take books and so on in your big satchel."

In discussing further the matter of transportation Mrs. Seabury remarked that notwithstanding the heat she could wear her winter coat over, leave it and return for her spring coat. The idea charmed her impractical husband.

"Why, I can do the same thing!" he said. "I'll wear over one suit and then come back for another!"—Youth's Companion.

Hard on the Messenger.

Tommy had been spanked by Miss Manners, his first grade teacher, but his next teacher had not reached the point where she felt she could do justice to him in spite of all his naughtiness.

"Send him to me when you want him spanked," said Miss Manners one morning after her colleague had related his many misdemeanors.

About 11 o'clock Tommy appeared at Miss Manners' door. She dropped her book, grasped him firmly by the hand, led him to the dressing room, turned him over her knee and administered punishment.

When she had finished she said, "Now, Tommy, what have you to say?"

"Please, miss, my teacher wants the scissors," was the unexpected reply.—Success Magazine.

What the Duke Meant.

His grace the Duke of Argyll was addressing a select company in a London drawing room on the present state of things in South Africa. "I look forward to the time," he said, "when the Englishman will marry the Boer girl and have an English wife as well!" Respectable dowagers looked their surprise, and the men began to smile. Then the duke carefully explained that he meant, of course, that the Boer girl should become an Englishwoman to all intents and purposes.—Reynolds' Newspaper.

A Source of Joy.

"What seems to be the matter with Mrs. Brown that she's ailing so?"

"Why, poor thing, she's got one of those newfangled diseases."

"She has? My, how fortunate she is, to be sure. Here I've had nothing more stylish than lumbago, and I'm three years older than she is."—Detroit Free Press.

BOYS SAVED THEM.

Young Man and Boy Companion Fell Through Ice.

Bay City, Mich., Dec. 28.—Roman Dellow, twenty years old, owes his escape from death by drowning to three small lads, Charles Allee, John LaFere and Willie Cody. A boy, eleven years old, can also thank his three playmates that he is alive today.

The boys were skating on the river, when Dellow came along and started for a skate. The eleven-year-old boy grabbed hold of his hand; they glided down the river at a merry clip. Suddenly the ice gave way, and Dellow and his boy companion went down to the bottom. The other three lads, who had followed them closely, hurried and got some planks and, placing them across the hole in the ice, managed to pull Dellow and the other boy out.

ELEVATOR FELL SIXTEEN FEET.

Six Persons Hurt in Bamlet Building in Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 28.—Six persons were injured, though not seriously, with the dropping of an elevator car in the Bamlet building, Grand River Avenue and Griswold street. The car fell from a point half way between the first and second floors to the basement, a distance of sixteen feet, and landed heavily on the safeties below. The latter failed to give the protection generally afforded.

There were eleven occupants of the car.

The car was running to the fourth floor, where services of the Church of the Soul, Spiritualist, were to be held. George Santee, the elevator boy, had just started the car upward when the cables either broke or slipped from their pulleys, and the car descended to the basement with a rush.

The passengers were thrown in a heap. Women and children screamed shrilly. It was with considerable difficulty that they were extricated. The injured were carried up the stairway to the first floor and over to the Griswold House. The East End, Harper and Detroit ambulances were summoned and the injured quickly taken to hospitals.

Mildred Caely, aged ten, and Mrs. W. B. Regan of Bay City, who is visiting her sister, Mrs. Allen Caely, were the more seriously injured.

F. H. Bamlet, proprietor of the building, says that the elevator was inspected less than thirty days ago.

REPORT NEARLY COMPLETED.

Cashier Fogelsang's Shortage May Be Greater Than Anticipated.

Eaton Rapids, Mich., Dec. 28.—It is announced that the work of going over the affairs of the Springport bank will be completed within the next two days and that the official report of Banking Commissioner Zimmerman and those who have been endeavoring to straighten out the tangled affairs of the institution will be made public some day this week.

It is said that the shortage caused by the dealings of Cashier Henry I. Fogelsang will be greater than has been previously anticipated since the bank's trouble began and that it will be shown that the principal amount of this occurred while the bank was a private institution, that being previous to last July.

Ore Production of 1908.

Iron Mountain, Mich., Dec. 28.—The ore production for the year approximates 26,000,000 tons, both lake and all-rail shipments included, which compares with an output of 42,165,000 tons the preceding year.

MICHIGAN BRIEFS.

J. J. Dutton, a Grand Trunk brakeman, fell off a bridge at Smith's creek and sustained serious injury.

The largest carload of dressed poultry to ever leave Eaton Rapids for the eastern markets was shipped last week. It had a total value of a little more than $4,000 and consisted almost exclusively of turkeys.

John Corrigan, who landed in Saginaw and stated that his wife had decamped, taking with her $6,000 in cash, found the lost one, but she is now married to one Levi Clark. The woman says she is not Corrigan's wife.

Quite a surprise was entertained by the many friends and acquaintances of Mrs. Frederika Brinkerhoff and Myron W. Cook, two well known residents of Marshall, when it was announced that they had been quietly married.

William Halsted, aged nineteen, of Lansing grieved so much over the death of his mother, which occurred eight years ago, that he tried to put an end to his own existence. He took an ounce of chloroform, but was revived.

People residing in Marshall have been warned to be on the lookout for one E. S. Caylor, who works under several aliases. His scheme is to get one interested in the building business. After getting his victim "warm," he asks for a deposit, saying he will the make them an "agent."

A "Place of Learning."

Sydney Smith, once asked why a certain college was called a place of learning, replied that, although a great many had been there to get learning, no one had ever taken learning away; hence it was appropriately named.

Officeholders.

"Well, there's one thing to be said for public servants."

"What's that?"

"When you hire one you never have any trouble keeping him."—Cleveland Leader.
